MICHIGAN BROADCASTING CO. ET AL.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of Michigan Broadcasting Company (WBCK), Battle Creek, Michigan, et al., Docket Nos. 13222, 13223, 13224, 13225, 13226, 13227, 13228, 13229, 13230, 13231, 13232, 13233, 13235, 13237, 13239, 13241, 13242, 13243, 13245, 13246, 13247, 13248, 13249, 13250, 13251; File No. BP-11439; Muskingum Broadcasting Company, Zanesville, Ohio, Requests: 940 kc, 1 kw, DA, Day, Docket No. 13654, File No. BP-13157; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of July 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that by an Order adopted October 21, 1959, and released October 28, 1959, the Commission designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, the above-captioned applications of Michigan Broadcasting Company, Docket Nos. 13222, et al.; that on December 16, 1959, the Commission granted the request of the Muskingum Broadcasting Company that its above-described application for a new standard broadcast station in Zanesville, Ohio, be reinstated as of May 15, 1959, he day on which it was originally tendered for filing; that the Muskingum proposal is therefore timely filed and involves objectionable interference with the proposals of BP-12812, BP-12779, BP-12319, BP-11736, BP-12640, BP-13088, BP-12496, and BP-12352 in the above-captioned proceeding, and that therefore its application should be designated for hearing in said consolidated proceeding; and

It further appearing that except as indicated by the issues specified below, the Muskingum Broadcasting Company is legally, technically, financially and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing, that pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated April 14, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicant, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of its application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that said application would be designated for hearing in the consolidated proceeding with other applications in the Michigan Broadcasting Company proceeding; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the said applicant filed a timely reply to the aforementioned letter, which reply has not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of said application and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that in the 309(b) letter of April 14, 1960, to the Muskingum Broadcasting Company, questions were raised concerning the applicant's financial qualifications; that, however, in its reply of May 4, 1960, the applicant furnished signed subscription agreements from the stockholders, statements with respect to the amount, the terms of payment and security for the loans, and the terms of repayment and security for the bank loan; that we have determined from this showing that the applicant has sufficient funds available to meet the expenses of the construction and early operation of the station; and that, therefore, the applicant is financially qualified; and

It further appearing, that in response to the letter the Muskingum Broadcasting Company submitted an amendment which, inter alia, proposes changes in the directional antenna system; that the amendment was accepted on May 16, 1960, pursuant to the provisions of § 1.354(h) of the Commission rules, as amended, effective April 1, 1960, which permits certain types of engineering amendments without the assignment of a new file number; and that, however, under the provisions of the rule in effect between May 15, 1959, the date other conflicting applications were "cut-off" and October 21, 1959, the date they were designated for hearing, an engineering amendment of this type would require the assignment of a new file number; and

It further appearing that on May 24, 1960, the Citizens Broadcasting Company, an applicant in the above proceeding (940kc, 250w, DA-D, Lima, Ohio), filed a petition requesting the assignment of a new file number to the Muskingum application, or, in the alternative, that action on the amendment be withheld until after the Muskingum application is consolidated in hearing; that Citizens alleges that Muskingum is trying to "jockey" itself into a preferred 307(b) position since its engineering proposal would, pursuant to the amendment, now be compatible with certain proposals in the hearing to the disadvantage of other competing applications; and, that basic fairness to all other conflicting applications in the proceeding who were precluded by the former provisions of § 1.354(h) of the rules from filing a different engineering proposal prior to designation for hearing without the assignment of a new file number supports its request; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the request of Citizens, other similar requests from other applicants in the proceeding,[1] and our Report and Order of March 24, 1960, wherein we stated our reasons for the relaxation of the rule concerning acceptance of engineering amendments without assigning a new file number, the Commission is of the view that orderly procedure and basic fairness to all the applicants in this involved proceeding requires that Muskingum Broadcasting Company should not be permitted to amend its engineering proposal prior to designation of its application for hearing since it would otherwise be able to improve substantially its position in the hearing; that accordingly, on our own motion,[2] we reconsider our action of accepting the Muskingum amendment of May 4, 1960; that the engineering part of said amendment will be dismissed; and that said application will be consolidated in hearing on its original engineering proposal, as reinstated on December 16, 1959;[3] and [1] Other pleadings filed in this matter are: A "Joinder in Petition For Assignment of New File Number or other Relief," filed on June 1, 1960, by Continental Broadcasting Company; and a "Petition to Review Acceptance of Amendment and Retention of File Number," filed on June 2, 1960, by Charles H. Chamberlain. Continental (940 kc, 5 kw, DA-D, Cincinnati, Ohio) and Chamberlain (940 kc, 1 kw, Day, Urbanna, Ohio) are both applicants for new stations whose applications were among the 31 designated for hearing on October 21, 1959. They support Citizens' basic request. An Opposition to these two pleadings was filed by Muskingum on June 16, 1960. Additionally, a "Motion to Strike" the greater portion of the Chamberlain petition, was filed on June 10, 1960 by Citizens.

[2] Since Citizens' petition is one for reconsideration (pursuant to sec. 302(a) of the rules), the 30 day limitation for acting on our own motion (sec. 1.116) is tolled. Albertson v. FCC, 87 U.S. App. D.C. 30; 6 Pike and Fischer RR 2019.

[3] We note that the Hearing Examiner has denied the requests of several applicants in the proceeding to have their engineering proposals amended. The Examiner stated in denying the request of Shelby Broadcasting Company for leave to amend:

"The rudimentary aspects of fair play prohibit an applicant from waiting until it has had an opportunity to analyze the evidentiary proposals of its adversaries and then to shore up its own proposals to the disadvantage of other applicants who have a right to expect to have been apprised of what they are to meet in the hearing." (FCC 60M-501, April 5, 1960.)

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicant's reply, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the Muskingum Broadcasting Company application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that its application must be designated for hearing as indicated above, on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Muskingum Broadcasting Company application, File No. BP–13157, is designated for hearing on its engineering proposal, as specified in its application reinstated on December 16, 1959, in the consolidated proceeding in Michigan Broadcasting Company, Docket No. 13222, et al., at a time and place to be specified by a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive new primary service from each of the instant proposals for a broadcast station, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from each of the instant proposals for a change in the facilities of an existing broadcast station and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations involved in the interference between the proposals.

4. To determine whether the interference received from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within the normally protected primary service area of any one of the instant proposals in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

5. To determine whether the following proposals would involve objectionable interference with the operations indicated below, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations:

(BP–11742), and Muskingum Broadcasting Company (BP–13157) would constitute a hazard to air navigation.

16. To determine, if (a) Lima and Delphos are determined not to be separate communities, or (b) if they are separate communities and if it is determined that Citizens Broadcasting Company and Western Ohio Broadcasting Company would provide service to the community determined to have the greater need for a new facility, which of the proposals of Citizens Broadcasting Company and Western Ohio Broadcasting Company would better serve the public interest in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues and the record made with respect to significant differences between the applicants as to:

It further appearing that on the basis of the information now before us, each of the instant applicants in BP–12806, BP–12934, BP–12880, BP–13014, BP–13146, BP–13161, and BMP–8307 is legally, technically, financially, and

[1] Since this order supersedes previous orders with respect to issues, the Issues 6, 7, and 10 of the original designation order have been deleted as those issues pertained solely to applications which have been dismissed. otherwise qualified, except as indicated by the issues specified below, to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing that pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in letters dated November 13, 1959 and March 21, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications in BP-12351, BP-12806, BP-12834, BP-12880, BP-13014, BP-13146, BP-13161, and BMP-8307 would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity; and that the said applications should be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on Mid-America; and that BP-11417, BP-12320 and BP-12662 should be consolidated in the Mid-America Broadcasting System, Inc., et al., Docket No. 13010 et al., hearing proceeding; and that copies of the aforementioned letters are available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the said applicants in BP-12351, BP-12806, BP-12834, BP-12880, BP-13014, BP-13146, BP-13161, and BMP-8307 filed timely replies to the aforementioned letters, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that in the above-referenced letter of November 13, 1959, Booth Broadcasting Company (WJLB), Southern Michigan Broadcasting Corporation (WELL), and Knorr Broadcasting Corporation (WSAM) were informed that, because each licensee has several standard broadcast stations grouped in proximity, substantial questions obtain as to whether grants of their respective requests herein for increased power, would be in contravention of § 3.35(b) of the Commission rules on concentration of control of standard broadcast stations; that in reply to the said letter, each of the said applicants states that it does not believe its proposal is in contravention of § 3.35(b) of the Commission's rules in light of the Commission's action In re: Booth Radio Stations, Inc., 4 Pike and Fischer RR 616 (1948); and In re: Knorr Broadcasting Corporation, 14 Pike and Fischer RR 935, 941 (1958), holding that their respective interests at that time did not constitute a concentration of control in violation of § 3.35(b); but that we believe in view of the instant requests for increase in power, that all the pertinent facts should be developed in the hearing proceeding and that, therefore, an issue concerning concentration of control is included with respect to each of the said applicants; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications in BP-12351, BP-12806, BP-12834, BP-12880, BP-13014, BP-13146, BP-13161, and BMP-8307 would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the above-captioned applications must be designated for hearing as indicated above on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That BP-11417, BP-12320 and BP-12662 are consolidated in the Mid-America Broadcasting System, Inc. et al., Docket No. 13010 et al. hearing proceeding and that pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, BP-12351, BP-12806, BP-12834, BP-12880, BP-13014, BP-13146, BP-13161 and BMP-8307 are designated for hearing in the consolidated proceeding in Mid-America, et al., Docket No. 13010 et al., at a time and place to be specified by a subsequent Order upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from each of the instant proposals for a new standard broadcast station, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from each of the instant proposals for a change in facilities of an existing standard broadcast station, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

4. To determine whether the interference received from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within the normally protected primary service area of any one of the instant proposals in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

5. To determine whether the following proposals would involve objectionable interference with the existing standard broadcast stations indicated, or any other standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

7. To determine whether Mid-America Broadcasting System, Inc. (BP-11689) has a reasonable expectation of securing the transmitter site specified in its instant proposal and, if not, whether said proposal is on a site-to-be-determined basis in contravention of § 3.33 of the Commission rules and, therefore, should be dismissed.

8. To determine whether overlap of the 2 mv/m and 25 mv/m contours would occur between the instant proposal of Seaway Broadcasting Co., Inc. (BP-11872) and the existing and proposed operations of WHFC, Cicero, Illinois, and between the proposals BP-12318, BP-11689 and BP-12778, and if so, whether circumstances exist which warrant a waiver of said rule.

9. To determine whether the transmitter specified by Batavia Broadcasting Corporation (BP-12235) is acceptable for 250 watts power.

10. To determine whether the transmitter site proposed by Paducah Broadcasting Company, Incorporated (BP-12662), is satisfactory with particular regard to any conditions that may exist in the vicinity of the antenna system which would distort the proposed antenna radiation pattern.

11. To determine whether BP-12662, taken in conjunction with BP-11417, herein, are inconsistent applications, in contravention of § 1.308 of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether they should be dismissed.

12. To determine whether the antennas specified by Village Broadcasting Company (BP-12303) and WGAL, Inc. (BP-12344) are in contravention of the provisions of § 3.188(d) of the Commission rules concerning roof-top installations and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

13. To determine whether a grant of the instant proposal of Booth Broadcasting Company (BP-12349) would be in contravention of § 3.35(b) of the Commission rules with respect to concentration of control.

14. To determine whether the instant proposals of Charles B. Axton (BP-12763) and WPFA Radio, Inc. (BP-13161) are in compliance with § 3.24(g) of the Commission rules concerning population within the 1000 mv/m contour, and, if not, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

15. To determine whether Charles B. Axton (BP-12763) and Town and Country Broadcasting Co., Inc. (BP-13104) are financially qualified to construct and operate their stations as proposed.

16. To determine the type and character of program service which would be broadcast by Town and Country Broadcasting Co., Inc. (BP-13104) and whether the program service would be in the public interest.

17. To determine whether the site coordinates specified by Civic Broadcasting Corporation (BP-12200) properly reflect the transmitter location.

18. To determine whether the transmitter site proposed by each of the following proposals is satisfactory with particular regard to any conditions that may exist in the vicinity of the antenna system which would distort the proposed antenna radiation pattern, and, if so, to determine what means will be used to insure satisfactory operation in the manner proposed:

Batavia Broadcasting Corporation (BP-12235).
WGAL, Inc. (BP-12344).
United Broadcasting Company of Western Maryland, Inc. (BP-12395).

20. To determine whether the proposal of BP-12806 (WELL) is in contravention of § 3.188(d) of the rules and if so, whether circumstances warrant waiver of the rules.

21. To determine whether a grant of the proposals of BP-12351 (WJLB), BP-12806 (WELL) or BP-12834 (WSAM) would be in contravention of § 3.35(b) of the Commission rules with respect to concentration of control.

22. To determine whether overlap of the 2 mv/m and 25 mv/m contours would occur between the instant proposal of BP-13161 (WCVS) and WMBD, Peoria, Illinois, in contravention of § 3.37 of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

23. To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the instant proposals would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

24. NATIONAL AMBULANCE AND OXYGEN SERVICE, INC.

Order Continuing Hearing

In the matter of National Ambulance and Oxygen Service, Inc., Rochester, New York, Docket No. 13513; order to show cause why the license for special emergency radio station KED–379 should not be revoked, or, in the alternative, why a cease and desist order should not be issued.

The Hearing Examiner having under consideration the stipulation between the parties to the above-entitled proceeding entered into upon the record during a further prehearing conference held on July 12, 1960, at the request of the Commission's Safety and Special Radio Services Bureau, at the Commission's offices, Washington, D.C.; and a motion by the Bureau made on the record for a continuance of the hearing without date pending resolution of a petition for review to be filed with the Commission by the respondent;

It appearing that the referenced stipulation, if the Commission should approve, would enable the Commission to dispose of this proceeding without an evidentiary hearing thereby saving the government as well as the respondent considerable time and expense;

It appearing further that as part of the stipulation the respondent has agreed to file a petition with the Commission seeking a review of the issuance of the show cause order instituting this proceeding, conceding certain facts in issue, and consenting to the issuance of an order to cease and desist, not later than July 29, 1960, failing which it was agreed that the Bureau would itself file an appropriate petition:

It appearing further that all parties consented on the record to the requested continuance and that "good cause" for favorable action on the relief requested has been shown, as indicated above;

It is ordered, This 12th day of July 1960, that the hearing presently scheduled to commence on July 20, 1960, at Rochester, New York is hereby continued without date;

It is ordered further, That the transcript of the further prehearing conference held July 12, 1960 shall be deemed to be part hereof to the extent pertinent with the same force and effect as if it were set forth herein verbatim.

It further appearing that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from each of the instant proposals for a new broadcast station and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Stations KVON and KSAN and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

4. To determine whether the following proposals would involve objectionable interference with the existing standard broadcast stations indicated, or any other standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

Proposals and existing stations

BP–12031	KMYC, Marysville, Calif. KSTN, Stockton, Calif. KVON, Napa, Calif.

5. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28 (c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

6. To determine whether the instant proposal of Station KSAN would provide the coverage of the city sought to be served, as required by § 3.188(d) of the Commission rules.

7. To determine whether overlap of the 2 mv/m and 25 mv/m contours would occur between the instant proposal of BP–12023 and the existing operation of Station KSAN, San Francisco, California in contravention of § 3.37 of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

8. To determine whether overlap of the 2 mv/m and 25 mv/m contours would occur between the instant proposal of BP–12938 and Station KMYC, Marysville, California in contravention of § 3.37 of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

9. To determine whether overlap of the 2 mv/m and 25 mv/m contours would occur between the instant proposal of Station KSAN and the proposal of BP–12023, Palo Alto, California in contravention of § 3.37 of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

10. To determine in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the instant proposals would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

11. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which, if any, of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, each of the instant applicants and parties respondent, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

YORK COUNTY BROADCASTING CO. (WRHI)

Memorandum Opinion and Order Continuing Hearing

In re applications of James S. Beaty, Jr., William C. Beaty and Harper S. Gault, d/b as York County Broadcasting Company (WRHI), Rock Hill, South Carolina, et al., Docket Nos. 13397-13407, File No. BP-12178; for construction permits.

1. Clearwater Radio, Inc., licensee of Station WTAN, Clearwater, Florida, and an applicant in this proceeding (Docket No. 13407) filed a request for extension of scheduled dates for the applicants in Group A on June 28, 1960. The first date which the petitioner sought to have extended was July 8, the date previously set for exchange of engineering exhibits and section 307(b) data. It was impossible for the Hearing Examiner to act upon the petition prior to July 8 and still preserve the time allowed by the Rules for the filing of oppositions. No opposition has been filed and the grounds recited by the petitioner appear to justify a continuance. Under the circumstances, however, the parties may have been reasonably in doubt as to whether the July 8 date would remain or not and it would be inequitable to penalize any party if it failed to exchange exhibits on that date. As a consequence the new date for exchange of engineering exhibits will be set at August 8, 1960.

2. The new schedule to be followed for the applicants in Group A of this proceeding will be as follows:

(a) August 8, 1960, for exchange of engineering exhibits and 307(b) data;

(b) August 22, 1960, notification as to witnesses desired for cross-examination;

(c) September 19, 1960, commencement of hearing upon all issues.

Therefore, it is ordered, This 11th day of July 1960, that the request of Clearwater Radio, Inc. for extension of scheduled dates for applicants in Group A of this proceeding is granted and the new schedule shall be as set forth above; and

It is further ordered, That the hearing on Group A is continued from July 28 to September 19, 1960.

Released: July 12, 1960.

RENNER CO.

Notice of Application To Withdraw From Listing and Registration and of Opportunity for Hearing

JULY 12, 1960.

In the matter of the Renner Company, Common Stock; File No. 1-1634.

The above named issuer has filed an application with the Securities and Exchange Commission pursuant to section 12(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 12d2-1(b) promulgated thereunder, to withdraw the specified security from listing and registration on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

The reasons alleged in the application for withdrawing this security from listing and registration include the following: About 75 percent of the stock is closely held. It is selling for less than $1 per share. Delisting will save expenses and may tend to create local interest.

Such request should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person requesting the hearing and the position he proposes to take at the hearing with respect to imposition of terms. In addition, any interested person may submit his views or any additional facts bearing on this application by means of a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. If no one requests a hearing on this matter, this application will be determined by order of the Commission on the basis of the facts stated in the application and other information contained in the official file of the Commission pertaining to the matter.

BICYCLES

Notice of Investigation

Having received advice from the Treasury Department on July 11, 1960 that bicycles from Czechoslovakia are being, or are likely to be, sold in the United States at less than fair value, the United States Tariff Commission has instituted an investigation under section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)), to determine whether an industry in the United States is being or is likely to be injured, or is prevented from being established, by reason of the importation of such merchandise into the United States.

No hearing in connection with this investigation has been ordered. If a hearing is ordered, due notice of the time and place thereof will be given. In this connection, interested parties are referred to § 208.4 of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (19 CFR 208.4) which provides that interested parties may, within 15 days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, request that a public hearing be held, stating reasons for the request.

Any interested party may submit to the Commission a written statement of information pertinent to the subject matter of this investigation. Fifteen clear copies of such statement should be submitted. Information which an interested party desires to submit in confidence should be submitted on separate pages, each clearly marked "Submitted in Confidence". Written statements should be filed not later than August 12, 1960.

Issued: July 13, 1960.

By order of the Commission.

[SEAL] DONN N. BENT,
Secretary.

Title 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Plum Order 22]

PART 936—FRESH BARTLETT PEARS, PLUMS, AND ELBERTA PEACHES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

§ 936.659 Plum Order 22.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 36, as amended (7 CFR Part 936), regulating the handling of fresh Bartlett pears, plums, and Elberta peaches grown in the State of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Plum Commodity Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of plums of the variety hereinafter set forth, and in the manner herein provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than the date hereinafter specified. A reasonable determination as to the supply of, and the demand for, such plums must await the development of the crop thereof, and adequate information thereon was not available to the Plum Commodity Committee until the date hereinafter set forth on which an open meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof, to consider the need for, and the extent of, regulation of shipments of such plums. Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; shipments of the current crop of such plums are expected to begin on or about the effective date hereof; this section should be applicable to all such shipments in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act; the provisions of this section are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee; and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such plums and compliance with the provisions of this section will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof. Such committee meeting was held on July 12, 1960.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., July 24, 1960, and ending at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., November 1, 1960, no shipper shall ship any package or container of Giant plums, unless:

(i) Such plums are of a size that, when packed in a standard basket, they will pack at least a 5 x 5 standard pack and will have a net weight of not less than twenty-seven (27) pounds: Provided, That, not to exceed ten (10) percent, by count, of the packages or containers in any lot may fail to meet such net weight requirements; and

(ii) The diameters of the smallest and largest plums in such package or container do not vary more than one-fourth (¼) inch: Provided, That, a total of not more than five (5) percent, by count, of the plums in the package or container may fail to meet this requirement.

(2) When used in this section, "standard pack" shall have the same meaning as set forth in the revised United States Standards for Plums and Prunes (Fresh) §§ 51.1520 to 51.1537 of this title); "standard basket" shall mean the standard basket set forth in paragraph 1 of section 828.1 of the Agricultural Code of California; "diameter" shall mean the distance through the widest portion of the cross section of a plum at right angles to a line running from the stem to the blossom end; and, except as otherwise specified, all other terms shall have the same meaning as when used in the amended marketing agreement and order.

(3) Section 936.143 sets forth the requirements with respect to the inspection and certification of shipments of fruit covered by this section. Such section also prescribes the conditions which must be met if any shipment is to be made without prior inspection and certification. Notwithstanding that shipments may be made without inspection and certification, each shipper shall comply with all grade and size regulations applicable to the respective shipment.

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

Limitation of Handling

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953), regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such lemons as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restriction on the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b)(1)(ii) of § 953.961 (Lemon Reg. 854; 25 F.R. 6459) are hereby amended to read as follows:

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Agency

[Reg. Docket 326; Amdt. 40–27]

PART 40—SCHEDULED INTERSTATE AIR CARRIER CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES

Installation of Flight Recorders on Turbine-Powered Airplanes

The Federal Aviation Agency published a notice of proposed rule making in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 2734) stating that it had under consideration certain amendments to Parts 40, 41, and 42 of the Civil Air Regulations to require the installation and use of flight recorders on all large (more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight) turbine-powered airplanes after September 1, 1960. The proposal was circulated to the aviation industry as Draft Release 60–6, dated March 28, 1960, and comments were requested on or before May 3, 1960.

The Air Transport Association, on behalf of the scheduled air carriers, raised specific objections to the proposed effective date of September 1, 1960. The airlines stated that the date prescribed could only be met by removing airplanes from service to complete the required installations. This, they affirmed, would impose unreasonable interruptions of schedules and add undue burdens of additional expense. Further, it was stated that some air carriers may desire to equip their airplanes with a more sophisticated type of recorder capable of recording additional parameters of information which would be of value to their operations and maintenance, as well as for incident and accident investigation purposes. The currently required parameters are time, heading, airspeed, altitude and vertical acceleration.

The FAA recognizes that flight recorders capable of recording additional operations and maintenance parameters would make available information which would be most useful for incident and accident investigation and for accident prevention purposes. Furthermore, it appears that such recorded information would be used by the air carriers in developing more efficient maintenance and operations procedures and in developing new methods of establishing maintenance schedules for engine, accessory, and component overhauls.

Comments received from certain of the manufacturers of flight recorders indicated that the September 1, 1960, date would not provide them with a sufficient period of time to manufacture and deliver equipment ordered for installation on those turbine-powered airplanes now in operation which previously have not been required to be so equipped. In addition, certain manufacturers stated that more recently developed recorders capable of recording additional parameters can be supplied by late 1960, and early 1961, and confirmed that some air carriers had indicated a very definite interest in these newer types of recorders.

After consideration of all the comments received and upon further investigation thereof, the Agency has concluded that a longer period of time should be authorized for compliance with this regulation as it applies to turbine-propeller powered airplanes. Turbojet airplanes, since they are certificated for operation above 25,000 feet, are currently required to be equipped with flight recorders. The FAA recognizes that difficulties may be encountered by the air carriers in accomplishing an orderly procurement and installation program and that a brief period of relief may be granted with respect to turbine-propeller powered airplanes without adversely affecting safety in air carrier operations. Accordingly, a compliance date of November 1, 1960, has been adopted in this final rule. Also, provision has been made in the regulation for the Director, Bureau of Flight Standards, to further extend the November 1, 1960, date for any air carrier who, prior to September 1, 1960, submits to the FAA, in writing, a request for such an extension, together with substantiating data, which shows to the satisfaction of the Director:

1. That the air carrier will be unable to comply with the November 1, 1960, date due to flight recorder procurement or installation problems and;

2. The action the air carrier has undertaken to insure that a progressive installation of the required flight recorder equipment will be completed at the earliest practicable date following November 1, 1960. In no event will the November 1, 1960, date be extended beyond May 1, 1961. This relaxation of the original proposal will provide the air carriers further opportunities to investigate the various types of recorders available and to proceed with the orderly procurement and installation of the required equipment at the earliest practicable time following the effective date of this rule.

It will be noted that neither the November 1, 1960, compliance date nor the provision for extension thereof applies to the large turbojet-powered airplanes or large nonturbine-powered airplanes certificated for operations above 25,000 feet altitude, since they are required by currently effective regulations to be equipped with flight recorders.

Certain air carriers requested that the Fairchild F–27 airplanes be specifically exempted from the requirements of this rule in view of the geographic areas in which they are operated or in consideration of the varied local service or low altitude types of operations in which they are engaged. The FAA, in its notice of proposed rule making, explained that it was proposing this regulation specifically to encompass all of the newer types of high-speed turbine-powered airplanes, whether certificated to operate above or below 25,000 feet, since they are frequently subjected to similar atmospheric forces. The F–27 is a modern turbine-powered transport type airplane and is capable of operating at high speeds. For these reasons, the Agency is convinced that all large turbine-powered airplanes should be equipped with flight recorders. Accordingly, the rules adopted herein make no exception for the F–27 airplane.

This amendment also clarifies the Agency's intent to require continuous operation of the flight recorder from the instant the aircraft starts its takeoff roll until it has completed its landing roll at an airport. Operation of the recorder is not required during taxi operations to or from the runway.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, § 40.208 of Part 40 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 40 as amended) is hereby amended as follows to become effective August 18, 1960, except as otherwise specified:

§ 40.208 Flight recorders.

(a) An approved flight recorder which records at least time, altitude, airspeed, vertical acceleration, and heading shall be installed in accordance with the following requirements:

(1) On all airplanes of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight which are certificated for operations above 25,000 feet altitude; and

(2) On and after November 1, 1960, on all turbine-powered airplanes of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight: Provided, That the Director, Bureau of Flight Standards, or his authorized representative, may extend the November 1, 1960, compliance date for any air carrier who, prior to September 1, 1960, submits to the Federal Aviation Agency, in writing, a request for approval for such an extension, together with substantiating data, which shows to the satisfaction of the Director, or his authorized representative:

(i) That the air carrier will be unable to comply with the November 1, 1960, date due to flight recorder procurement or installation problems, and;

(ii) That the action the air carrier has undertaken to insure that a progressive installation of the required flight recorder equipment will be completed at the earliest practicable date following November 1, 1960. In no event will the November 1, 1960, compliance date be extended beyond May 1, 1961.

(b) When a flight recorder is installed it shall be operated continuously from the instant the airplane commences the takeoff roll until it has completed the landing roll at an airport.

(c) Recorded information shall be retained by the air carrier for a period of at least 60 days. For a particular flight or series of flights, the information shall be retained for a longer period if requested by an authorized representative of the Administrator or the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 12, 1960.

PART 41—CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES FOR SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS OUTSIDE THE CONTINENTAL LIMITS OF THE UNITED STATES

Installation of Flight Recorders on Turbine-Powered Airplanes

The Federal Aviation Agency published a notice of proposed rule making in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 2734) stating that it had under consideration certain amendments to Parts 40, 41, and 42 of the Civil Air Regulations to require the installation and use of flight recorders on all large (more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight) turbine-powered airplanes after September 1, 1960. PART 42—IRREGULAR AIR CARRIER AND OFF-ROUTE RULES

Installation of Flight Recorders on Turbine-Powered Airplanes

The Federal Aviation Agency published a notice of proposed rule making in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 2734) stating that it had under consideration certain amendments to Parts 40, 41, and 42 of the Civil Air Regulations to require the installation and use of flight recorders on all large (more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight) turbine-powered airplanes after September 1, 1960. The proposal was circulated to the aviation industry as Draft Release 60-6, dated March 28, 1960, and comments were requested on or before May 3, 1960.

Comments received from certain of the manufacturers of flight recorders indicated that the September 1, 1960, date would not provide them with a sufficient period of time to manufacture and deliver equipment ordered for installation on those turbine-powered airplanes now in operation which previously have not been required to be so equipped. In addition, certain manufacturers stated that more recently developed flight recorders capable of recording additional parameters can be supplied by late 1960, and early 1961, and confirmed that some air carriers had indicated a very definite interest in these newer types of recorders.

The FAA recognized that flight recorders capable of recording additional operations and maintenance parameters would make available information which would be most useful for incident and accident investigations and for accident prevention purposes. Furthermore, it appears that such recorded information would be used by the air carriers in developing more efficient maintenance and operations procedures and in developing new methods of establishing maintenance schedules for engine, accessory, and component overhauls.

After consideration of all the comments received and upon further investigation thereof, FAA concluded that a longer period of time should be authorized for compliance with this regulation as it applies to turbine-propeller powered airplanes, exclusive of the turbojet airplanes which are currently required to be equipped with flight recorders. The FAA recognizes that difficulties may be encountered by the air carriers in accomplishing an orderly procurement and installation program and that a brief period of relief may be granted with respect to turbine-powered airplanes other than the turbo-jets without adversely affecting safety in air carrier operations. Accordingly, a compliance data of November 1, 1960, has been adopted in this final rule. Also, provision has been made in the regulation for the Director, Bureau of Flight Standards, to further extend the November 1, 1960, date for any air carrier who, prior to September 1, 1960, submits to the Federal Aviation Agency, in writing, a request for such an extension, together with substantiating data, which shows to the satisfaction of the Director:

(1) That the air carrier will be unable to comply with the November 1, 1960, date due to flight recorder procurement or installation problems and;

(2) The action the air carrier has undertaken to insure that a progressive installation of the required flight recorder equipment will be completed at the earliest practicable date following November 1, 1960. In no event will the November 1, 1960, date be extended beyond May 1, 1961.

This relaxation of the original proposal will provide the air carriers further opportunities to investigate the various types of recorders available and to proceed with the orderly procurement and installation of the required equipment at the earliest practicable time following the effective date of this rule.

It will be noted that neither the November 1, 1960, compliance date nor the provision for extension thereof applies to the large turbojet airplanes or large nonturbine-powered airplanes certificated for operations above 25,000 feet altitude, since they are required by currently effective regulations to be equipped with flight recorders.

One comment received requested that consideration be given to exempting turbine-powered airplanes under 35,000 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight from the requirements of this rule. The FAA classifies all airplanes of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight as large airplanes. The newer turbine-powered airplanes are capable of operating at high speeds and at high altitudes. The FAA, in its notice of proposed rule making, explained that it was proposing this regulation specifically to encompass all of the newer types of high-speed turbine-powered airplanes, whether certificated to operate above or below 25,000 feet, since they are frequently subjected to similar atmospheric forces. The Agency remains convinced that all large turbine-powered airplanes should be equipped with flight recorders. Accordingly, the rules adopted herein make no exception for any turbine-powered airplane of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight.

This amendment also clarifies the FAA's intent to require continuous operation of the flight recorder from the instant the airplane starts its takeoff roll until it has completed its landing roll at an airport. Operation of the recorder is not required during taxi operations to or from the runway. Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 42 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 42) is hereby amended effective August 18, 1960, except as otherwise specified: (1) By deleting paragraph (c) of § 42.22, (2) by redesignating § 42.22a as § 42.22b, and (3) by adding a new § 42.22a to read as follows:

§ 42.22a Flight recorders.

(a) An approved flight recorder which records at least time, altitude, airspeed, vertical acceleration, and heading shall be installed in accordance with the following requirements:

(1) On all airplanes of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight which are certificated for operations above 25,000 feet altitude; and

(2) On and after November 1, 1960, on all turbine-powered airplanes of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated takeoff weight; Provided, That, the Director, Bureau of Flight Standards, or his authorized representative, may extend the November 1, 1960, compliance date for any air carrier who, prior to September 1, 1960, submits to the Federal Aviation Agency in writing a request for approval for such an extension, together with substantiating data, which shows to the satisfaction of the Director or his authorized representative:

(i) That the air carrier will be unable to comply with the November 1, 1960, date due to flight recorder procurement or installation problems, and;

(ii) The action the air carrier has undertaken to insure that a progressive installation of the required flight recorder equipment will be completed at the earliest practicable date following November 1, 1960. In no event will the November 1, 1960, compliance date be extended beyond May 1, 1961.

(b) When a flight recorder is installed it shall be operated continuously from the instant the airplane commences the takeoff roll until it has completed the landing roll at an airport.

(c) Recorded information shall be retained by the air carrier for a period of at least 60 days. For a particular flight or series of flights, the information shall be retained for a longer period if requested by an authorized representative of the Administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 59-WA-96]

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

Modification; Change of Effective Date

On April 29, 1960, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 3755) an amendment to § 600.6001 of the regulations of the Administrator. This amendment, to be effective October 20, 1960, modified VOR Federal airway No. 1 between Salisbury, Md., and Coyle, N.J., concurrently with the commissioning of a new VOR near Waterloo, Del.

The commissioning date of the Waterloo VOR has been rescheduled. Therefore, it is necessary to postpone the effective date of the above-mentioned amendment until November 17, 1960.

Since this action does not impose a burden on the public, compliance with the notice, public procedure and effective date requirements of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530), effective immediately, Airspace Docket No. 59-WA-96 is hereby modified as follows: "effective 0001 e.s.t. October 20, 1960." is deleted and "effective 0001 e.s.t. November 17, 1960." is substituted therefor.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 12, 1960.

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Modification of Federal Airways and Associated Control Areas

On March 5, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 1965) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering amendments to §§ 600.6278 and 601.6278 of the regulations of the Administrator which would modify VOR Federal airway No. 278 and its associated control areas by designating a south alternate from Columbus, Miss., to Birmingham, Ala.

As stated in the notice, the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to designate Victor 278 S from the Columbus VOR via the Millport, Ala., Intersection (intersection of the Columbus VOR 062° True and the Tuscaloosa, Ala., VOR 204° True radials), the Tuscaloosa VOR, to the Birmingham VOR.

The Air Transport Association of America objected to the segment of the proposed route between Columbus and Tuscaloosa because of the indirect routing and increased route mileage. In lieu thereof, ATA recommended a direct route from Columbus to Tuscaloosa, thus decreasing the proposed route distance by approximately 5 miles. In conjunction with the above, ATA further recommended Victor 278 S be designated via the intersection of the Birmingham VOR 248° True radial and the direct route radial between Columbus and Tuscaloosa which would decrease the route distance by approximately 10 miles.

From an air traffic management standpoint, it is undesirable to establish a direct route beween Columbus and Tuscaloosa due to conflictions with both penetration and departure routes established for Columbus Air Force Base. The indirect routing of the segment of Victor 278 S between Columbus and Tuscaloosa was designed to avoid this area.

No other adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, the following actions are taken:

1. In the text of § 600.6278 (24 F.R. 10525, 9929), "to the Birmingham, Ala., VOR." is deleted and "to the Birmingham, Ala., VORTAC, including a south alternate from the Columbus VOR to the Birmingham VORTAC via the INT of the Columbus VOR 062° True and the Tuscaloosa, Ala., VOR 204° True radials, and the Tuscaloosa VOR." is substituted therefor.

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Modification of Control Area Extension

On December 23, 1959, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (24 F.R. 10458) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering an amendment to § 601.1360 of the regulations of the Administrator which would modify the Abilene, Tex., control area extension.

As stated in the notice, the Abilene control area extension presently includes the airspace within a 35-mile radius of the Abilene VOR including the airspace southwest of Abilene bounded on the northwest by VOR Federal airway No. 69; on the southwest by VOR Federal airway No. 76 north alternate and the San Angelo control area extension; on the south by VOR Federal airway No. 76 and on the east by a line extending through points at latitude 31°59'45" N., longitude 99°42'15" W., and latitude 31°15'45" N., longitude 99°52'00" W.; and including the airspace north of Abilene lying within 5 miles either side of the Abilene VOR 011° True and the Guthrie, Okla., VOR 136° True radials, extending from the Abilene VOR to the Guthrie VOR. The Federal Aviation Agency is extending the control area southeast of Abilene bounded on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 94; on the east by VOR Federal airway No. 163; on the south by Victor 76 north alternate, and the San Angelo control area extension; on the northwest by Victor 66; and that airspace north of Abilene bounded on the southeast by VOR Federal airway No. 77, on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 278 between the Guthrie VOR and the Bridgeport, Tex., VORTAC and VOR Federal airway No. 102, between the Guthrie VOR and the Lubbock, Tex., VORTAC, and on the southwest by VOR Federal airway No. 62. Concurrent with this action, the Brownwood, Tex., control area extension will be revoked as an assignment of airspace since this control area will be encompassed by the modified Abilene control area extension and would be an unnecessary duplication of control area designation. The designation of this additional airspace as control area will provide air traffic control service for radar vectoring of arrival and departure procedures from Dyess AFB, Abilene, Tex., and the Abilene Municipal Airport that are now outside of controlled airspace. Moreover, additional radar departure and arrival routes will be developed north and southeast of Abilene, below the continental control area, when this control area extension is designated.

The Aerospace Industries Association and the Senior Test Pilot of Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., Dallas, Tex., objected to the control area extension to the southeast of Abilene because it will overlie the same airspace as a portion of an approved flight test area for Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc. Their comments also stated that until facilities were available to properly segregate the various airspace users, promiscuous use and classification of control areas creates additional hazards to airspace users. The Chance Vought Aircraft approved flight test area is an area of approximately 19,150 square nautical miles located roughly in the area just south of Dallas, Tex., bounded on the west by longitude 99°50'' W., on the east by longitude 94°45'' W., and on the south by latitude 31°15'' N. This area was approved by the Administrator, April 12, 1959, for a two-year period for use 7 days a week, 24 hours per day from 3,000 feet to above 50,000 feet. The control area extension in question will overlap approximately 4,225 square nautical miles of the approved flight test area.

Flight test areas are approved by the Administrator in accordance with existing Civil Air Regulations for the purpose of limiting the areas within which aircraft may be tested. The approval of such areas does not constitute an assignment of airspace for that purpose to the exclusion of other air traffic. If the Administrator attempted to avoid approved flight test areas when designating control area extensions and airways, it would be virtually impossible to control the volume of air traffic now flying over the United States. Such a policy would necessitate the severe reduction of areas now utilized for flight tests in order to permit the necessary expansion of the airways/control area structure, which is for all users of the airspace. Test flights must adhere to at least the same rules and weather minimum as all other flights in the same airspace.

The Federal Aviation Agency is of the opinion that the modification to the Abilene control area extensions as proposed is justified by the volume of IFR operations in this area and management of this traffic should not be subordinated to the VFR and flight test activities. Therefore, the Federal Aviation Agency is modifying the Abilene control area as proposed in the Notice.

The Department of the Air Force concurred in the proposal and the Air Transport Association stated they had no objections to the proposal. No other adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530), Part 601 (24 F.R. 10530) and § 601.1360 (24 F.R. 10565) are amended as follows:

§ 601.1104 [Revocation]

1. Section 601.1104 Control area extension (Brownwood, Tex.), is revoked.

2. Section 601.1360 is amended to read:

§ 601.1360 Control area extension (Abilene, Tex.).

Within a 35-mile radius of the Abilene VOR including the airspace SE of Abilene bounded on the N by VOR Federal airway No. 94, on the E by VOR Federal airway No. 163, on the S by VOR Federal airway No. 76–N and the San Angelo, Tex., control area extension (§ 601.1195), and on the NW by VOR Federal airway No. 66; and that airspace N of Abilene bounded on the SE by VOR Federal airway No. 77, on the SW by VOR Federal airway No. 62, and on the N by VOR Federal airway No. 278 between the Guthrie, Tex., VOR and the Bridgeport, Tex., VORTAC and VOR Federal airway No. 102 between the Guthrie, Tex., VOR and the Lubbock, Tex., VORTAC.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. August 25, 1960.

[Airspace Docket No. 59–WA–345]

PART 602—ESTABLISHMENT OF CODED JET ROUTES AND NAVIGATIONAL AIDS IN THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA

Modification of Coded Jet Route

On January 6, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 86) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering an amendment to § 602.582 of the regulations of the Administrator which would modify VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 82 between Albany, N.Y., and Boston, Mass.

As stated in the notice, J–82–V presently extends, in part, from Albany to Boston. The Federal Aviation Agency proposed modifying this segment of J–82–V by realigning it via the intersection of the Albany VORTAC 084°True and the Boston VORTAC 307° True radials. This modification would reduce the overall mileage and flying time on this route segment and would improve navigational guidance by establishing a more suitable navigational change-over point near its midpoint. Moreover, this proposed realignment of J–82–V would improve air traffic management by permitting this route segment's eastern half to coincide with the southern portion of a new VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 97 from Boston to Plattsburg, N.Y., via the Boston VORTAC 307° and the Plattsburg VOR 161°True radials, which was proposed in Airspace Docket No. 59–WA–431 and published as a notice of proposed rule making in the FEDERAL REGISTER (24 F.R. 10986) on December 30, 1959. This alignment of the new J–97–V was proposed so as to avoid the existing Burlington, Vt., Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor (R–540).

Subsequent to the publication of Airspace Docket No. 59–WA–431 as a notice, information was received from the Department of the Air Force that the Burlington Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor (R–540) would not be required by the Air Force after May 30, 1960, and it was revoked in Airspace Docket No. 59–WA–230 (25 F.R. 4377). This action permitted the establishment of the new J–97–V from Boston direct to Plattsburgh, which was accomplished in Airspace Docket No. 59–WA–431 (25 F.R. 5693). Therefore, in order to have the eastern portion of the Albany to Boston segment of J–82–V coincide with the southern portion of the Boston to Plattsburgh segment of J–97–V, the Federal Aviation Agency is redesignating the Albany to Boston segment of J–82–V via the Boston VORTAC 325° True radial instead of its 307° True radial. This action will result in the alignment of J–82–V from Albany to Boston via the intersection of the Albany VORTAC 084° and the Boston VORTAC 325° True radials which, while not as direct as the alignment proposed in the notice, nevertheless, will provide a reduction in the over-all mileage and flying time on the route and will improve air traffic management in the area.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) § 602.582 (24 F.R. 2650) is amended to read:

§ 602.582 VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 82 (Chicago, Ill., to Boston, Mass.).

From the Joliet, Ill., VORTAC via the Cleveland, Ohio, VORTAC; Erie, Pa., VORTAC; Albany, N.Y., VORTAC; INT of the Albany VORTAC 084° True and the Boston, Mass., VORTAC 325° True radials; to the Boston VORTAC.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. September 22, 1960.

These proceedings were heard by hearing examiners on complaints of the Commission charging manufacturers and distributors of phonograph records in various cities with paying concealed "payola" to television and radio disc jockeys as inducement to have their records broadcast.

Accepting consent orders, the hearing examiners made their initial decisions and orders to cease and desist which became in due course the decisions of the Commission.

OVERTIME AND EXTRA-PAY SHIFTS

Except as otherwise provided in this contract and in this clause, Contractor shall not be reimbursed by the Government directly or indirectly for overtime premiums or shift premiums paid in the performance of this contract unless the overtime or extra-pay shifts shall have been approved by the Contracting Officer. Approval is not required for overtime or extra-pay shifts which result in lower over-all cost to the Government nor for work necessary to cope with emergencies such as those resulting from accidents, natural disasters or breakdowns of production equipment or occasional production bottlenecks of a sporadic nature; nor to work performed by indirect labor employees such as those performing duties in connection with administration, protection, transportation, maintenance, standby plant protection, operation of utilities or accounting; nor in the performance of tests, industrial processes, laboratory procedures, loading or unloading of transportation media, and operations in flight or afloat, which are continuous in nature, and cannot reasonably be interrupted or otherwise completed.

The authority for Hq ARDC, AMC centers, AMAs, and AF depots is limited to contracts for which they have procurement responsibility at the time of approval.

(c) Contractors performing overtime and extra-pay shift work prior to receipt of the approval do so at their own risk since retroactive approval will be considered only for cases of extreme urgency for which retroactive action can be fully justified.

(d) The Director of Procurement, Hq ARDC, commanders AMC centers, commanders (AMA's (ConUS), and the Commanders of Dayton and Memphis Air Force Depots will furnish to AMC (MCPM), information in letter form on a monthly basis (first through last day) as to their overtime and extra-pay shift approvals. No locally designed forms will be established for this report. The following information will be furnished for each approval: (1) Contractor, (2) program or item, (3) overtime and extra-pay shift hours requested and approved. Where an approval encompasses both overtime and extra-pay shift hours, they will be reported as separate entries; (4) premium dollars requested and approved. Where an approval encompasses both overtime and extra-pay shift premiums, they will be reported as separate entries; (5) period of overtime or extra-pay shift performance; (6) date of the approval; and (7) appropriate comment indicating specific reasons for the action. In the administration of this blanket authorization, the ACO will, in accordance with other APD/AFPRO activities, review from time to time (at least once every 60 days) the criteria under which the overtime and/or extra pay shift hours are being worked to insure that the reasons supporting the original authorization therefor remain valid. If the Contracting Officer finds that the reasons for the original authorization are no longer valid he may, as provided in the clause, reduce the authorized hours on a prospective basis. The ACO does not however, have the authority to increase the number of hours authorized herein.

Subpart D—Labor Standards in Construction Contracts

1. Sections 1012.404, 1012.404–6, and 1012.404–7 are revised to read as follows:

§ 1012.404 Administration and enforcement.

An agreement has been reached between the Department of Air Force and Department of Labor placing into effect the decentralized Labor Law enforcement on AF contracts. The detailed procedures are contained in §§ 1012.404–7 to 1012.404–10. For the purpose of brevity and ready identification in these instructions, the AF liaison officer will be referred to as AFLO and the Department of Labor Regional Attorney as RADL. See § 1012.404–51 for locations and areas of jurisdiction.

§ 1012.404–6 Payrolls and statements.

See § 12.404–6 of this title.

§ 1012.404–7 Investigations.

The contracting officer administering the contract is responsible for accomplishment of the investigations set forth below. For contracts being administered by AMC contracting officers, the routine checks, paragraph (a) of this section, will be accomplished by the contracting officer or his representative. For contracts being administered by the base procurement contracting officers, the routine checks and field checks, paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, will be accomplished by the contracting officer or his representative.

(a) Routine checking for compliance. Routine checks for compliance with the labor standards provisions set forth in this part will be made, particularly as to: (1) Whether practice with respect to additional classifications and rates conforms to § 1012.404–3, (2) whether apprenticeship registration certificates are retained for each employee who is classified as an apprentice, and (3) whether required payrolls and statements are received from all subcontractors on all tiers as well as from all prime contractors. Routine checking for compliance requires examination of payroll records. Payrolls will be initialed and dated by the person making the check to indicate compliance with the labor laws. Routine checks would also ascertain whether or not:

(i) Required payrolls and statements have been filed.

(ii) Hourly wage rates shown on the payrolls are not less than the minimum wage rates prescribed in the contract.

(iii) Any time worked in excess of 8 hours in any one day is being paid for at the rate of one and one-half times the hourly rate.

(iv) All classifications listed on the payrolls conform to the classifications listed in the wage determination, or to additional classifications authorized by the contracting officer. If the payrolls show a disproportionate number of laborers or apprentices employed in relation to journeymen, a specific check will be made at the site of the work to determine that such classifications are not being used to perform journeymen's work. A proportionate number of laborers or apprentices will be determined by the prevailing practice in the area. In the case of apprentices, the ratio is specified in the Apprenticeship Agreement which is registered with the State Apprenticeship Council; or if no such council exists, with the Bureau of Apprenticeship, U.S. Department of Labor. The work to be performed by journeymen will also be governed by general practice in the area. It may be advisable in some cases to consult with employers, employer organizations, unions, State or Federal apprentice officers, and others in the area for helpful information as to the permissible ratios and work classifications.

(v) Records contain a certificate of registration, or a certificate from the contractor, showing that the apprentices listed on the payrolls are registered in an approved apprenticeship program, and that the number of persons employed in the classification of apprentice does not exceed the ratio approved for the program.

(vi) The work being performed is being accomplished by properly classified workers.

(vii) If irregularities or violations are indicated, a field check as discussed in paragraph (b) of this section, is necessary and should be made.

(b) Field checking. Field checks are conducted at the site(s) of the work. AFPI Form 7, "Labor Law Compliance Check Sheet, Air Force Construction Contract" (see § 1016.451–3 of this chapter) will be used in accomplishing field checks. The first field check should be conducted within 14 days after work begins. The frequency of subsequent field checks should be determined by the degree of contractor and subcontractors compliance which is anticipated on the basis of the first field check and the preconstruction conference or in the light of experience with the contractors or subcontractors. Field checks on AMC facility contracts will be made by the appropriate industrial manpower office. AMC contracting officers will furnish to the appropriate industrial manpower office lists of all construction prime contractors and subcontractors on facility contracts subject to the labor standards provisions of this subpart, indicating name, address, amount of prime contract and subcontracts, nature of work involved, and estimated length of the contract. Lists will be kept current, particularly as to construction subcontracts. The industrial manpower office representative will make a written report to the AMC ACO 15 days after completion of the field check, unless special investigation is required. Field checks on base procurement construction contracts will be made by the base contracting officer or his duly authorized representative. The base contracting officer administering the contract will include the completed AFPI Form 7 in the contract file, unless special investigation is required. If violations are discovered a special investigation, as discussed in paragraph (c) of this section, is necessary and will be conducted

(c) Special investigations. Special investigations of suspended criminal or other violations of applicable labor laws must be full scale investigations to determine all pertinent facts, not merely inquiries as to the truth of allegations.

(1) Special investigations will be made when the contracting officer learns of a possible violation of labor laws. Such knowledge may be in the form of complaints, violations disclosed by routine or field checks, paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, reports of violations referred by the AFLO or higher headquarters, or any other interested source providing sufficient information to indicate need for investigation.

(2) Special investigations at AMC installations, and reports of same in writing, will be made by the appropriate industrial manpower office involved upon request of ACO's, Hq USAF, or other appropriate sources, or if special investigation is required under § 1012.404–7(a)(7). Hq USAF will forward such requests for investigation to the AFLO through Hq AMC (MCPP). The AFLO will forward the requests to the appropriate contracting officer or, in the case of AMC contracts, to the appropriate industrial manpower office. Special investigations at all major commands in the United States, except AMC installations, will be made by a disinterested person designated by the base commander. If routine or field checks, complaints of violations, or the existence of actual or incipient work stoppages indicates that assistance is needed, a request for assistance may be sent to the nearest industrial manpower office having geographic jurisdiction.

(3) Special investigations will be conducted according to procedures prescribed below; however, such procedures are only to be considered as minimum requirements as there can be no substitute for good judgment on the part of the field investigator. The investigations must be sufficiently thorough that the established facts accurately support the determinations and conclusions.

(4) Reports of investigation will be made according to the requirements of § 1012.404–8. Direct communication between the AFLO and Hq USAF (AFMPP–PR) on matters of labor law enforcement in AF contracts is authorized. Additional guide lines and requirements are discussed in §§ 1012.404–9 and 1012.404–10.

(d) Conduct of investigation. (1) Preliminary steps: To the extent that information is available within the Air Force, the investigator should gather as much of the information indicated in subparagraphs (3) to (7) of this paragraph as practicable prior to the initial employer interview.

(2) Initial employer interview or conference: (i) Credentials: Upon arriving at the project site, the investigator should present his credentials to the contractors, subcontractors, or their representatives. (Credentials should also be presented to employees when being interviewed.) Initial conference should be held with the prime contractor or his representative, additional conferences will be held with subcontractors, as necessary.

(ii) The contracting officer will insure that the prime contractor and the subcontractor allegedly in violation are informed that the investigator is a representative of the Air Force authorized to inspect the employment records of the contractor and interview employees on the job pursuant to the Payroll Records and Payroll clause (see § 12.403–1(4)). The investigator will:

(a) Inform the employer that the purpose of his visit is to investigate compliance with the pertinent labor statutes and regulations; describe the allegations of noncompliance which gave rise to the investigation; and outline in general terms the scope of the investigation, including examination of pertinent records, employee interview, and physical inspection of the project.

(b) Obtain the exact legal name of the corporation or firm and any trade names, the full address, full names of owners and addresses of subcontractors, and such similar information as may be necessary to the investigation.

(3) Examination of the payrolls: (i) An examination of the contractor's and subcontractor's payrolls should be made for accuracy, completeness, and true representation of the facts. The examination should cover the current or most recent payrolls as well as those for selected periods which reflect the practice of the contractor or subcontractor during the life of the contract.

(ii) Check for completeness and accuracy of payrolls as to names, addresses, job classifications, hourly wage rates, daily and weekly hours worked during the payroll period, gross weekly wages earned, deductions made from wages, and net weekly wages paid.

(iii) Check the wage rates shown in the payroll against the applicable wage determination.

(iv) Check the number of employees in each job classification to determine whether there is a disproportionate employment of laborers, helpers, or apprentices. By the way of illustration, existence of any of the following circumstances may indicate a disproportionate employment, depending upon the status and type of project.

(a) Several laborers and only one journeyman electrician on a payroll submitted by an electrical subcontractor would normally indicate that laborers are performing electrical work.

(b) A greater number of helpers or apprentices than mechanics may indicate that the ratio of apprentices to mechanics is being disregarded, apprentices or helpers are performing the work of mechanics, and all of the apprentices are not properly registered in an approved program or the contractor or subcontractor is not conforming to approved apprenticeship standards.

(v) Progress reports: If a progress report has been received, it should be carefully checked for information as to the kind of work performed during a certain period, which may be compared with the classification listed on the payrolls for corresponding periods. Thus, for example, if sheetmetal work was done during a particular month and the payroll for that month fails to show any sheetmetal workers, the contractor may be in violation of the labor standards provisions.

(vi) Eight-hour laws: If the Eight-Hour Laws are applicable and the daily hours worked by an employee exceeded 8, determine whether time and a half the employee's basic rate was paid him for such excess hours.

(4) Examination of basic time and work records: (i) A sufficient number of checks of the basic time cards, foreman's work records, time books, sheets, or other work or personnel records of a representative number of employees on each classification should be made against the payroll record to disclose any possible discrepancies, or to give reasonable assurance that none exist. Pertinent excerpts, or copies of such records should be included in the case file.

(ii) The records of particular employees should be included in the check whenever there appears to be any doubt or question with respect to such employees.

(5) Check on conformity with apprenticeship requirements: (i) Apprentices may not be employed on the project unless they are registered under a bona fide apprenticeship program registered with a State Apprenticeship Council which is recognized by the Federal Committee on Apprenticeship, U.S. Department of Labor, or if no such recognized Council exists in a State, under a program registered with the Bureau of Apprenticeship, U.S. Department of Labor.

(ii) If it is found that so-called "apprentices" are being employed who are not registered under a bona fide program, ascertain their correct names, addresses, type of work each is performing, their classification, age, and rates of pay each is receiving. Also, it may be advisable in some cases to consult with employer or employee organizations, State or Federal apprenticeship offices, and others in the area for helpful information as to wage rates and the permissible ratio of journeymen to apprentices, etc. Permissible ratios of apprentices to mechanics may be found in the set of standards contained in the program to which the contractor has subscribed.

(iii) In the case of employment of apprentices in excess of the approved ratio, or erroneous classification of mechanics as apprentices, the investigator should ascertain from interviews and available data all pertinent information such as work experience in the trade or related trades, age, type of work performed, rate of pay each is receiving, supervision received, and any previous classifications of such employees as apprentices.

(6) Classifications not listed in the wage determination: Determine whether the contractor has been employing any laborers or mechanics whose classification is not listed in the wage determination. If so, describe the work they are performing, the tools used, and report the wage rates they are being paid and whether or not, as the case may be, they have been reclassified or a request made for a supplemental determination according to § 12.404–3 of this title and § 1012.404–3 of this chapter. The investigator should make recommendations as to proper classification.

(7) Transcribing payrolls: Transcriptions should be made of payroll information for those employees selected for interview, thus enabling the investigator to clarify questionable matters and permit the investigator to discuss the situation, with respect to each employee, in a logical and factual manner.

(8) Employee interviews: (i) Objectives of employee interviews: Employee interviews should be sufficient in number to establish the degree of adequacy and accuracy of the records and the nature and extent of any violations, and should be representative of all classifications of employees on the project. The investigator should prepare for the interview in such a manner that the pertinent facts will be elicited clearly and accurately. Transcripts of records of employees selected for interview should be coordinated with the employees, so as to enable each employee to discuss the situation more adequately and to enable the investigator to tie up the interview with the transcripts and clarify matters about which there may be doubt or question. Each employee to be interviewed should be informed that he is not required to make a statement, that it is voluntary, that the information, if given, is confidential, and that his identity will not be disclosed to the employer without the employee's written permission.

(ii) Place of interview: Employees currently employed may be interviewed during working hours on the job, according to § 12.403–1(4)(a) of this title, if such an interview can be conducted properly and privately. In some cases it may be preferable to conduct the interview elsewhere, such as the employer's home, at the investigator's office, or other suitable place.

(iii) Mail interviews: Employees formerly employed on the job may be interviewed at their home, at the investigator's office, or by mail. Ordinarily, an interview should be made by mail only if a personal interview is impracticable. Mail interviews may also be used for employees not on duty at the time of the investigation, but the use of the mail interview should be kept to a minimum.

(iv) Privacy of interviews: Employees should not be interviewed in the presence of the employer, another employee, or any other person, unless the employee requests the presence of another person. In the latter event, questions and answers thereto, may be influenced and it may be necessary to re-interview the employee at his home or at some other place away from the site of work so that additional information may be obtained.

(v) Interview time: If the interview is conducted on the job site, it should be arranged to cause the least inconvenience to the employer and employee. If conducted elsewhere, effort should be made to make it at the convenience of the employee and it will be held outside the employee's working hours.

(vi) Oral interview statements: An employee interview need not be recorded in a signed statement if it serves merely to confirm what the records reveal, or if the employee is unwilling to reduce his statement to writing. A record of such oral interviews should be made, however, for the case file, showing date, name, classification, and digest of the employee's remarks.

(vii) Signed interview statements: A signed employee statement should not be recorded on the same sheet of paper as another signed employee statement. The principal situations which require the preparation of a signed statement arise when the interview:

(a) Involves information as to hours, wages, classification, or other essential facts which are in question or missing from the records.

(b) Bears on the question of falsification of records or other criteria of willfulness.

(c) Indicates that the employee was intimidated or forced to "kick back" any part of his compensation.

(d) Yields factual evidence pertinent to any actual or possible controversy with the employer as to whether a particular violation has occurred.

(viii) Preparation of interview statements; general principles: When a written statement is taken, it should be recorded as stated by the employee as nearly as possible in his own language, should be read by him, and should contain a statement that it has been read and that it is correct. The investigator may restate or summarize the employee's remarks, but when he does so the statement should indicate this fact. The statement should be signed by the employee and the signature, except in mail interviews, should be witnessed by the investigator. When the statement is not signed, the investigator should give, either in the statement or in his report, the employee's reason for not signing. Any changes in a signed employee statement should be initialed by the employee. Each interview statement should contain identifying information as follows:

(a) Place and date of interview, and that statements made by employee are voluntary.

(b) Name of employer (firm).

(c) Name and permanent address of employee being interviewed.

(d) Employment status (whether present or former employee).

(e) If an apprentice, the age, date of birth, and information concerning his status.

(f) Job classification and exact work performed, place and where performed, period of employment, hour for starting and stopping work, daily and weekly hours worked, rate of pay, wages received, manner in which time and work are recorded.

The interview should cover all the allegations of violations with respect to which the employees could be expected to be in a position to furnish information. The employee should be questioned as to whether he has ever been intimidated, threatened with dismissal, or forced to give up any part of his compensation by either his employer or any other group or agency. The interview should also cover any other details necessary to indicate accuracy of the employer's records, statements, or certifications to determine whether there has been compliance.

(ix) Employee interviews where records are inadequate or inaccurate: When records are inadequate or inaccurate, the employee interviews should contain as much information as possible regarding the inadequacies or inaccuracies and hours of work. The workday, workweek, and the periods covered by the active and less active periods should be established in order that a formula or pattern can be formulated for the computation of any back wages that may be due. Holiday weeks, if any, should be identified.

(x) Complainant interviews: All complaint investigations must include, except under extraordinary circumstances, an interview with the complainant. When the complaint was made in person, the complaint itself may constitute an interview and further interview or notice by letter may be postponed until the complainant can be informed that the investigation has been made and of the results insofar as the complainant is concerned. When a complainant interview is impracticable or impossible, the omission of the interview should be justified in the report of the investigation.

(9) Disclosure of information to employees: During an investigation, the investigator may receive oral inquiries from employees as to the provisions of pertinent statutes, compliance with those provisions by the employer, and whether the employees may expect to receive back wages as a result of the investigation. An inquiring employee has a right to be informed of the provisions of such statutes and of his rights. He should, however, be given no information by the investigator which was obtained from an examination of the employer's records, except that the investigator may check with the employee on transcripts from the employer's records of pertinent matters. Under no circumstances may the employee be given, or allowed to make, copies of data obtained from the employer's records. The investigator will not give his opinion as to whether any back wages are due an employee because of the violations by the employer, but he may instruct the employee as to how his wages or overtime pay, if applicable, should be computed. The investigator may advise inquirers that his sole function as an investigator is to ascertain and to report all of the facts concerning the employer's compliance with the provisions of the statutes, that the investigation is not completed until Hq USAF has received an acted upon the facts.

(10) Computations: When violations are disclosed computations of all back wages due will be made by the investigator. Also representative transcriptions of payrolls, time sheets or other records should be made in sufficient number and detail to support the findings and computations against possible dispute by the contractor. If there are indications that legal proceedings may be instituted, additional transcripts may be necessary, for example, to support and help prove that the certified payrolls have been falsified by the contractor. In such cases the transcriptions should be exact copies. Whenever possible they should be prepared on the forms used by the employer and will be free of notes, comments, or other extraneous matter. Comments or explanations will be placed on separate memorandums or in the narrative report.

(i) Salaried employees and employees paid on a "piece" or "incentive" rate present situations different from the normal hourly paid employee. Frequently, no accurate records of hours worked are maintained for these employees. It therefore becomes necessary to determine the actual hours worked by such employees, or reconstruct them based on reasonable evidence. Once the actual hours worked are determined for each work week, the actual wage rate is determined as follows:

(a) Salaried employees: Divide the regular weekly salary by total actual hours worked in each work week. The result will be the actual wage rate for this week. Any variation in hours worked and salary paid, week by week, will naturally cause a variation in actual wage rate.

(b) "Piece" or "Incentive" rate employees: Divide total piece rate earnings by total hours actually worked on piece rate in each week. The result will be the actual wage rate for such piece rate work in each week. Variations in hours and earnings will cause variations in actual wage rate.

(ii) Situations will arise where records of hours or actual earnings of various employees are not accurately shown (this would include hourly paid employees as well as salaried and piece rate employees). Similar actions (as discussed under salaried and piece rate employees) would be necessary to determine the actual wage rate of employees so concerned; i.e., actual regular earnings divided by actual hours worked, to determine actual wage rate. Regular earnings are those earnings excluding any overtime premium such as the one-half time premium payment required by the Eight-Hour Laws.

(11) Concluding employer interview or conference: When the investigator has completed the investigation and obtained all the facts necessary to determine the extent of the employer's compliance or noncompliance, he will confer with the prime contractor as follows:

(i) Inform him generally of the investigative findings, and indicate that these findings are based solely on the facts and information disclosed by the investigation.

(ii) Summarize the investigation to date, including all pertinent facts, and an indication of what the investigative findings and recommendations would be at this point.

(iii) Reinform him of the contractual requirements regarding labor laws and the manner in which compliance with these requirements can be attained.

(12) Investigating officer report of investigation: After completing all aspects of the investigation, the case file, in quintuplicate, containing documents, employee statements, computations, and other material will be referred to the contracting officer administering the contract with an appropriate written report in narrative style covering the following details:

(i) Contract number, brief description of the work, name and address of the contractor and subcontractors involved, and identifying data from the applicable wage determination.

(ii) Initial conference: Report the date of conference, including names and titles of those present and a summary of the conference details.

(iii) Violations: Summarize the major details of the violations, total restitution involved, and causative factors pertinent to each major class or type of violation.

(iv) Final conference: Report the date of conference, including names and titles of those present and a summary of the conference details. Any admissions by the employers as to violations or explanations therefor should be carefully reported. Be specific as to instructions provided the employers for their future compliance.

(v) Findings and recommendations: Discuss elements of willfulness (if any), names of persons involved in willful acts and details leading to such conclusion. Make recommendations as to disposition or further handling of the case. When appropriate, the report will include recommendations as to the assessment or nonassessment of penalties (see § 1012.404–9(e)) whether or not the contractor should be placed on the List of Debarred, Ineligible and Suspended Bidders (see Subpart F, Part 1001 of this chapter), and whether the file should be referred for consideration of possible criminal prosecution. The recommendations will be supported by full information in the file, appropriately referenced.

2. Sections 1012.404–9 and 1012.404–10 are deleted and the following substituted therefor:

§ 1012.404–9 Suspensions and deductions of contract payments.

(a) Regarding any alleged failure or refusal to pay wages due workers under the labor standards provisions of this subpart, the contracting officer will inform the prime contractor of such allegation and, upon mutual agreement that the allegations are correct, request that the contractor provide for restitution according to § 1012.404–10. If restitution is not made, and violation of the Davis-Bacon Act is alleged, action will be taken to withhold sufficient money to cover the alleged unpaid wages. If the violation involves a subcontractor, he should, if possible, be included in conferences with the prime contractor regarding particular violations in which he is involved.

(b) If it is finally determined that restitution is due any worker because of violation of the Davis-Bacon Act and the contractor refuses to make restitution or is unable to locate any of the workers involved, the withheld funds will be transmitted to the General Accounting Office. Notice should be given to any workers whose address is known to file claim with the General Accounting Office. Employee applications for payment may be forwarded with the forms required by § 12.404–9 of this title; such applications should include the employee's name, address, and classification, the name of the employer, and a statement identifying the contract involved. Withholding must be accomplished even though an employee cannot be located to complete restitution. Where underpayments have been determined under the Eight Hour Laws, the pertinent contract clause provides for withholding of such amounts. However, unlike the Davis-Bacon Act, the Eight Hour Laws do not provide for payment of such sums by the United States Government.

(c) Regarding alleged violations involving liability for penalties under the Eight-Hour Laws, the contracting officer should withhold from payments due to the contractor a sum sufficient to cover the estimated penalties possibly due the United States. Such an amount should continue to be withheld until action as set forth in paragraph (d) of this section is taken, or the contractor voluntarily pays the full amount of the penalties allegedly due, or the contracting officer is informed through channels that the Department of Labor has concurred in the nonassessment of penalties.

(d) When investigation discloses that penalties are due the United States, the contracting officer will forward to the disbursing officer who normally makes disbursement to the contractor, a voucher indicating the amount due the contractor, the amount to be paid to the United States as penalties, and sufficient information to explain the withholding. The voucher should be separate from that used to withhold any restitution that may be due the contractor's employees. The contracting officer should retain complete information concerning the penalties, including justification therefor and method of calculation, to be furnished the disbursing officer, if requested.

(e) In appropriate cases where an employer acting in good faith has inadvertently failed to pay the daily overtime compensation required by the Eight-Hour Laws and subsequently makes delayed payment of the extra amount due his employees, a recommendation for nonassessment of penalties may be made, on the basis of the restitution constituting delayed compliance. In this connection, if any employees due daily overtime restitution cannot be located for direct payment by the contractor, the contracting officer may transmit to the General Accounting Office these moneys together with a statement of contractor acquiescence to the payment for deposit and proper disbursement to the unlocated workers as described under § 1012.404–10(c). Recommendations, together with the report of investigation (§ 1012.404–8(a)(2)) will be sent to the AFLO for further processing. Factual justification for the recommendations will be included.

(f) If the contractor does not make voluntary restitution or if any of the underpaid employees cannot be located, the funds withheld for payments due employees under the Davis-Bacon Act will be transferred to the General Accounting Office, Washington 25, D.C., on Standard Form 1093, "Schedule of Withholdings under the Davis-Bacon Act." If the Standard Form 1093 is transmitted to the GAO on a case in which a labor standards investigative report is forwarded to the AFLO, a note will be included on the Standard Form 1093 stating, "Investigative Report is being forwarded to the Department of Labor pursuant to 29 CFR Subchapter A, Part 5." In those cases not requiring report to AFLO, a notation will be made on the back of the Standard Form 1093 indicating the number of employees underpaid by the contractor, the number of employees paid with the amounts paid each; and the number of employees who could not be located for payment and the amounts due each. Each such statement should include a recommendation against imposition of ineligibility sanctions together with a brief explanation of such recommendations.

§ 1012.404–10 Restitution.

(a) Regarding labor standards violations determined to have involved underpayment of wages, the contracting officer will make demand on the contractor for prompt restitution. Computation of restitution as claimed by the contractor shall be fully considered by the contracting officer. Upon completion of computation, a summary sheet listing names, addresses, and the unpaid amounts payable to the employees involved should be prepared by the contractor, a copy of which will be furnished to the contracting officer for his approval. The contracting officer will advise the contractor of the procedure which will satisfy him conclusively that proper restitution has been made, such as the witnessing of cash payments, the furnishing of canceled checks or a certified copy of a supplemental payroll. In apparently serious cases of aggravated, or willful violation or possible criminal action, if the contracting officer has any question that the consequences of such payments of restitution may prejudice the case, he shall refer the matter to the AFLO with recommendations for appropriate action.

(b) When a contractor wishes to make voluntary restitution but the workers involved cannot be located, the contracting officer will effect collection and send the collected money to the disbursing officer on Standard Form 1093. This form should reflect the nature of the violations, the names and last known home addresses of the workers.

(c) There has been established in the General Accounting Office the Account No. 05X6022 into which collections for wage underpayments are deposited. A check drawn on the Treasurer of the United States together with Standard Form 1093 (Revised) is the method by which these collections are deposited to the Account. GAO will make appropriate disbursements to the underpaid employees to whom restitution is due, upon proper request. Inquiries from underpaid employees and/or their applications for payment should be referred to the Claims Division, General Accounting Office, Washington 25, D.C.

Sections 1012.602–1 and 1012.602–2 are deleted.

Subpart H—Nondiscrimination in Employment

Section 1012.806–2 is revised as follows:

§ 1012.806–2 Educational responsibility.

ACO's will at the earliest practical time acquaint the contractor with his responsibilities under the Nondiscrimination clause. To assure that the contractor is aware of his responsibilities under this provision, the contracting officer will submit a letter with the initial contract or purchase order over $2,500 and at periodic intervals thereafter (but not less frequently than every 6 months), submit letters to the contractors with copies of such letters maintained at the office of administration setting forth statements that:

(a) In connection with the performance of work under the contract, award of the contract entails a contractual obligation not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color or national origin.

(b) Encourage and persuade compliance by the contractor with the spirit as well as the letter of the Nondiscrimination clause in his contract.

(c) Included in the review of the contractor's performance will be a review of his compliance with the provisions of the Nondiscrimination clause.

(d) Special reviews may be conducted to measure progress in the Nondiscrimination Program as well as to furnish educational data in connection with the program.

(e) Where applicable, incorporation of the Nondiscrimination clause of his first-tier subcontracts entails his furnishing such subcontractors with copies of the notice for posting, as required in §§ 12.802 and 12.803 of this title.

(f) Where applicable, his requests for copies of the notice will be directed to the ACO, and that the contractor has the responsibility of furnishing such notices to his subcontractors.

PART 1013—GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

Subpart A—General

1. Section 1013.102–3 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1013.102–3 Facilities.

(a) It is AF policy that contractors provide their own facilities rather than rely on the initial or continued provision of Government-owned facilities. For effectiveness, it is essential that this policy be observed and adhered to during the early stages of AF planning, development of sources, and programming for procurement requirements. Only in cases where it is clearly in the Government's interest to provide industrial facilities to contractors for performance on AF contracts, will the requests for such provisioning be processed for approval (§§ 1013.401 and 1013.2402). The procuring activity will support this policy by exhaustive search for open capacity before placing supplies and services contracts, including those for research and development, which require Government provided facilities. Such contracts will not be placed until open capacity and the maximum degree of subcontracting, consistent with economy and product control, have been considered. Consistent with the policy that contractors will not be given competitive advantage through use of Government provided facilities, the willingness of a contractor to provide and use his own facilities in lieu of Government provided facilities will be a major factor of consideration during the negotiation process. The procuring activity will determine, when considering this factor, whether the provision of facilities will be in the Government's best interests. In reviewing the requirements for provision of industrial facilities the following policies will be observed:

(i) The industrial base; utilization of existing facilities: Existing industrial facilities, which compose the Air Force Industrial Base, will be screened for use in the following order (in preference to Government financed facilities expansions):

(i) Privately owned facilities and production equipment.

NOTE: Contractors will be encouraged to provide all required facilities and production equipment on the most economical basis.

(ii) Privately owned facilities and associated Government owned production equipment not available in the civilian economy.

(iii) Government-owned facilities and production equipment.

NOTE: Government-owned facilities and equipment will be included in the industrial base for the sole purpose of remedying known deficiencies in privately owned capacity, when such action is in the best interest of national security.

The screening of existing facilities will include any standby installations of the Military Departments and other Government agencies and also the existing subcontracting sources to insure that maximum use will be made of available resources. Privately owned industrial facilities will not be dropped from the industrial base to justify retention of Government-owned facilities. The preference for privately owned facilities, and production equipment indicated in subdivision (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph will not apply to those Government-owned overhaul, repair and production facilities, which, because of their integrated support, are considered organic to the military or must be under military command in an emergency, e.g., service or work of a specialized nature or mission pertaining to special weapons or defense systems.

(2) Capacity of the industrial base: The industrial base will not exceed that needed to support, on the most efficient and economical basis, the combat readiness of the Air Force, its phased expansion, and the production rates that will satisfy AF combat replacement or consumption requirements, as provided in guidance approved or issued by the Secretary of Defense. No Government-owned industrial facilities will be retained which are excess to the fulfillment of these requirements. In general when Government financed facilities are required, they will be provided: (i) Only to the extent necessary to meet current procurement (supply, service, research and development) contract requirements, or (ii) to provide limited facilities augmentation for selected items noted in AFL 78–16. Normally, facility expansions will be based on a two-shift, 5-day work week.

(3) Exceptions: Request for exceptions to the policies stated in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph may be made through channels to the Secretary of Defense. These requests will contain a full justification of the basis upon which the exception is requested. When disposition of facilities might significantly affect national, regional, or local economies, the Secretary of Defense will be fully advised in advance of specific action. Reports Exemption Symbol DD–S&L (EXR) 76 is assigned to the information required by this paragraph.

(4) Reduction of industrial vulnerability: Factors pertinent to industrial vulnerability are contained in paragraph 15, AFR 78–4.

(5) Financing: In general, the Department of Defense will not undertake financing of industrial facility expansions unless it can be demonstrated that it is necessary for the Government itself to perform or support the required production or service.

(6) Test facilities at privately owned plants: No Government financed test facilities will be constructed at a privately owned plant if such facilities duplicate available Government-owned test facilities. Exceptions to the above include: (i) When it can be established that existing Government-owned facilities, regardless of service control, are being used to full capacity, or (ii) that existing Government-owned facilities are inadequate from the standpoints of technical characteristics, workload capabilities, or excessive distance from the development or production source of the weapon or equipment, and (iii) it would be impractical to locate additional capacity at another Government-owned facility.

(7) Cooperative use of Government facilities: The heavy cost and the large land areas frequently required for test and development facilities make it imperative that maximum utilization be made of each facility owned by the Government. Therefore, the following rules will be observed:

(i) Each facility will be acquired in a manner and under circumstances in which the Government's interest is complete and exclusive.

(ii) Each facility will be operated according to a periodically established test program; wherever two or more military departments are engaged in programs involving a particular facility, the test program will be arranged by mutual agreement between the interested departments.

(iii) Under regulations established by the Secretary of the cognizant military department, the technical findings resulting from operation of Government-owned facilities will be the property of the Government and will be made available for such dissemination and use as may, from time to time, be found to be in the interest of the Government.

(8) Prior determinations for common use type facilities: The procuring activity will make the following determination, prior to submitting requests for authority to acquire major common-use type facilities such as airfields, liquid oxygen plants, acceptance test stands, large environmental facilities, nuclear test facilities:

(i) The suitability of other like Government-owned facilities under the control of the Department of Defense, regardless of present occupancy, that are located within a reasonable distance of the proposed site, and the possibility of joint usage.

(ii) The location of the proposed facility is the most suitable for the immediate requirement and the estimated present and future requirement of other contractors, and/or components of the Armed Forces.

(iii) Where a future demand appears probable, provisions have been made in the facility design to allow for suitable expansion if necessary.

(iv) Dispersal criteria or applicability, see subparagraph (4) of this paragraph.

(9) Nonseverable industrial facilities: The construction or installation by the Government of nonseverable structures or industrial facilities on privately owned land is discouraged. Whenever such construction is so located, the Government's investment should be protected according to § 1013.406.

(10) Restricted items: The following items are subject to special restrictions, as follows:

(i) Office and cafeteria equipment: Allowable items of furniture, office equipment, and cafeteria equipment will be provided AF prime contractors operating Government-owned or leased AF plants as required, and may be provided to other contractors operating privately owned or scrambled plants (part Government-owned) only in that quantity which is in excess of the contractor's normal peacetime requirements resulting from his construction, leasing, or otherwise acquiring additional productive floor space. Cafeteria equipment such as tableware, trays, and kitchen utensils are considered expendable and will not be provided under facilities contract. Capital equipment such as stoves, dishwashers, steam tables, and chairs may be provided, as above.

(ii) Vehicles: Provisioning of vehicles will be according to Subpart GG, Part 1015 of this title.

(iii) Nonstandard equipment: Nonstandard equipment such as dollies, racks, trays, platforms, stools, and special tables used for handling, storing, and transporting materials and production components and usually scrapped at the end of supply contracts are not considered capital facilities and are not provided under facilities contracts or leases.

(iv) Special tooling: Special tooling and special inspection gages will not be provided under facilities contracts. Special tooling will include tooling equipment and inspection gages designed for and limited to use in production of the particular production contracted for. Examples are templates, jigs, patterns, fixtures, and punching, forming and drawing dies and tools.

(v) Standard inspection equipment: Standard inspection equipment and hand gages will not be provided under facilities contracts when items or sets are usable in the contractor's regular nonmilitary commercial manufacture.

(vi) Personal equipment: Personal equipment such as flight clothing, parachutes, life vests, uniforms, shoes, helmets, goggles, and microphones will not be provided under facilities contracts.

(vii) Plant equipment with an acquisition cost of $500 or less: Personal property of a capital nature with a unit cost of $500 or less will not be provided under the terms of any facilities, supplies, or services contract; except in those cases where it is clearly demonstrated that (a) Acquisition at a contractor's expense is uneconomical under the particular circumstances, or (b) it is otherwise determined in the Government's best interest to provide such items. Exceptions under the foregoing criteria will be approved by the Director of Production, AMC Aeronautical Systems Center (LMB), or the Chief, Resource Office, AMC Ballistic Missiles Center (LBEB); or for ARDC contracts the Chief Industrial Resources Office (RDMK–4), as appropriate. The above limitation does not apply to: (1) Research and development contracts with educational or other nonprofit organizations, or (2) supplies or services contracts which provide for the acquisition of special tooling requiring component items which if utilized for general plant purposes would be treated as plant equipment.

(viii) General purpose production equipment: Neither general purpose production equipment nor funds to procure them will be provided to contractors by the Air Force except when determination is made that such action is clearly in the best interest of the Government. Such determination may be made if the contractor's proposal is supported by a "Make or Buy" evaluation for each general operation involved, together with supporting justification in the form of acceptable reasons why the contractor is unwilling or financially incapable of providing general purpose machinery and equipment, and is in other respects fully documented. Determination of exceptions will be by Chief, Industrial Facilities Division AMCASC or Director of Resources, AMCBMC, as appropriate. All determinations of exceptions will be fully documented and reported according to AFR 78–16 under reports control symbol AF–E55 as amended. Report submitted will contain the following information:

(a) Number of contracts on which exceptions to policy stated above were authorized.

(b) Number and dollar acquisition cost of new general purpose items procured as a result of such exceptions.

(c) Number and dollar acquisition cost of Department of Defense owned general purpose items provided as a result of such exceptions.

The information necessary to prepare and submit the required report will be furnished by the Commander, AMCASC and AMCBMC to the Commander, WRAMA, who will submit the report according to AFR 78–16.

(11) Rearrangement and reconversion: Cost of rearrangement or relocations of facilities within any plant will not be allowed as a facilities cost but will be considered as a preproduction cost or as normal overhead. Cost of reconverting contractors' facilities to peacetime production including rehabilitation of buildings will not be paid for under facilities contracts.

(12) Diversion: If program changes or availability of equipment in AF equipment reserves necessitates diversion of machinery and equipment on hand, or on order, to another contractor, work up to the point of actual installation by the receiving contractor, will be accomplished, and allowable costs therefor will be reimbursed, under the terms of the losing contractor's facilities contract, and existing purchase orders thereunder, unless authority is granted to supersede the existing purchase order by one issued by the requiring contractor.

(13) Bailment: Facilities will not be furnished under bailment contracts.

(14) Replacement of contractor equipment: No Government-owned machinery or equipment will be used to replace any privately owned machinery or equipment that is currently used on defense production or research and development contract, if the privately owned machinery or equipment is in suitable condition to perform satisfactorily the operations allotted it. Such privately owned facilities are to be kept on regularly scheduled production or research and development contracts.

(15) Government bills of lading: Facilities acquired under facilities contracts will be shipped on Government bills of lading where the Government takes title at the point of origin of shipment. Such facilities, to which the Government has taken title, will not be shipped on commercial bills of lading collect, or otherwise for conversion, unless specifically authorized by the transportation officer-in-charge, commercial traffic officer air procurement district.

(16) Facilities cognizance and responsibility: In plants assigned to the Air Force for procurement responsibility, the Air Force will be responsible for administration, accounting, and any expansion of production facilities. In those plants assigned to other departments which require expansion due to AF production requirements, the Air Force will make funds available to the other department upon request for the AF proportionate share of each facility contract and vice versa in AF assigned plants expanded for requirements of other departments. In plants where procurement responsibility and mobilization and production planning responsibilities are not assigned, expansion will be financed and administered under a facilities contract or lease with the requiring department, unless the contractor has an existing facilities contract or lease with another department, in which case the facilities will be provided and administered thereunder by the other department. Each department will provide, administer, and account for facilities used solely in connection with its research, development, experimental, and overhaul contracts which it issues and fully administers. Exceptions to the above will be made only by agreement between the departments concerned.

(17) Who may issue facilities contracts: Facilities contracts covering AF industrial facilities expansions within the Continental United States will be issued only by LMBI or LBB.

(b) Each procurement contract, facilities contract, lease or other agreement which provides Government-owned facilities, will contain clauses or provisions stating whether the facilities may be used on a charge or no-charge basis (see §§ 1007.2703–12, 1007.2905–5, and 1007.4052 of this chapter, and §§ 1013.402 and 1013.407 of this part). A facilities contract, lease, or agreement under which facilities are held by a contractor will require the periodic payment of a use-charge unless such use-charge is not required according to terms of prime procurement contracts and subcontracts. Where facilities are used without charge, the contract file of the facilities contract, lease, or agreement under which facilities are provided will be documented, by the administering office, to indicate the procurement contracts, subcontracts, or other basis that authorize no-charge use of Government facilities.

2. In § 1013.102–50, the text of paragraph (a) preceding subparagraph (1) is revised as follows:

§ 1013.102–50 Bailments.

(a) Bailment agreements and amendments thereto, issued under the terms and conditions of master bailment agreements will be used to accomplish such bailments except as follows:

§ 1013.2100 Scope of subpart.

This subpart sets forth procedures to be followed whenever discrepancies occur in connection with the shipment of Government-owned property and outlines the responsibilities of Government personnel and contractors to report, adjust, or settle such discrepancies in the Government's interests.

§ 1013.2101 Definition.

"Discrepancies incident to shipment" include all deficiencies incident to the shipment of Government property to or from a contractor's facility whereby differences exist between the property purported to have been shipped and the property actually received. Such deficiencies include, but are not limited to loss, damage, destruction, improper status and condition coding, error in identity or classification, and improper consignment. Deficiencies in preservation, packaging, packing, and dunnage will be reported. When the deficiency is in quality or specifications of product and is sufficient to warrant initiation of an Unsatisfactory Report, the prescribed procedures will be used.

(a) Government property shipped to a contractor for use in the performance of a contract may be subject to loss, damage, or destruction while in transit from a military installation or another contractor's facility, or may be found upon receipt to differ from that property indicated to have been shipped. Since a contractor is responsible and accountable for only that property delivered to his control or custody, procedures are hereinafter set forth to explain and record the circumstances surrounding a discrepancy and to resolve questions of responsibility including determinations of liability where applicable.

(b) A contractor's approved material receiving and inspection procedures provide for verifying the condition and count or weight of property received and for prompt processing of reports, claims, or adjustments required by discrepancies discovered.

(1) The contractor is responsible for processing the claims and/or adjustments in connection with contractor-acquired property when the shipment has been made via commercial bill of lading not for conversion to Government bill of lading and the discrepancy incident to shipment is determined to be carrier responsibility or when the discrepancy is determined to be the vendor's responsibility.

(2) Government personnel are responsible, as set forth herein, for processing claims and effecting adjustments in all instances of discrepancy incident to shipment of Government-furnished property and in those instances of discrepancy incident to shipment of contractor-acquired property moving on Government bill of lading, or for conversion thereto when the discrepancy is determined to be carrier responsibility.

(3) Under either subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph, Government personnel are responsible for assuring: (i) Protection of the Government's interests in connection with any shortage, incorrect representation, damage, or destruction of Government property, (ii) correction of practices which contribute to or result in general conditions of discrepancy, and (iii) adjustment of related problems or conditions resulting from a discrepancy between consignee, consignor, and/or carrier.

(c) A deficiency incident to shipment of Government-furnished property not exceeding $10 in value, or a damage which does not impair the usefulness of the property or render it unsuitable for use and therefore no repairs are effected, may be determined to be inconsequential by the property administrator and need not be reported under the procedures of this general section.

(d) When the quantity or description of property received by a contractor differs from the quantity or description denoted as shipped on the shipping document, and after inspection of the shipment has established the disagreement to be a fact, only that quantity, or property, received will be recorded on the official property records of the contractor.

(e) The method of adjusting discrepancies incident to shipment will vary according to circumstances surrounding a particular case, as determined by Government personnel involved. The procedures in this subpart will be used in reporting and adjusting discrepancies as appropriate to the nature of each deficiency.

§ 1013.2103 Discrepancies which do not involve carrier liability.

(a) When carload or truckload lots which are shippers load and count arrive with the original seals intact or where packages and/or boxes arrive which are determined to have been packed by the shipping activity with no external evidence of tampering or repacking in transit, any discrepancies disclosed upon receipt are obviously the responsibility of the shipper, provided there are no other circumstances to which the discrepancy may be attributed. When the responsibility for adjustment is with Government personnel as described in § 1013.2102(b)(2), the consignor will be advised of the discrepancy through processing AF Form 672, "Report of Discrepancy," or DD Form 6, "Report of Damaged or Improper Shipment," whichever is appropriate to the nature of discrepancy involved.

(b) AF Form 672 is designed for expeditious economic reporting of discrepancies in a manner permitting prompt correction of conditions at the source of the shipment. A report will not be initiated solely for the correction of obvious and minor typographical errors when it is plain that such errors do not constitute a misrepresentation of the property being shipped. If the nature of the discrepancy is such that proper adjustment involves both the shipping and receiving activities, a request for reply will be stated in the report pursuant to instructions set forth in § 1013.2103–4.

§ 1013.2103–1 Preparation of AF Form 672.

When AF Form 672 is prepared, a separate AF Form 672 will be prepared for each shipping document which involves line items under the following conditions:

(a) When the value of the shortage or overage on an individual shipping document exceeds $10.

(b) When the condition or status of an item is determined to be other than that indicated on the shipping document and/or pertinent tags.

NOTE: The standards for status or condition coding are not so precise that a minimum area of personal judgment is entirely precluded. In some cases a slight variance will be possible due to the normal and logical difference of opinion exercised in the shipping as opposed to the receiving inspections. The report will not be initiated unless it is plain that the incorrect status or condition coding results from obvious error in, or failure to perform, the shipping inspection.

(c) When the identity or property classification of any item is found to be other than that indicated on the shipping document and/or pertinent tags.

(1) When a difference in identity or classification is clearly the result of a newly revised catalog, technical order, or other published instructions, the discrepancy will not be reported unless the following two conditions are present:

(i) The shipment is from another AF activity or is the end item from the contract of a shipping contractor.

(ii) The following periods of time have elapsed since the introduction of the revision so that the shipping activity could have incorporated the change in its records: (a) 30 days for an AF activity and (b) 60 days for a contractor's activity.

(d) When it is found that the shipment, or any part thereof, is erroneously consigned.

(e) Where the unit price is omitted from the shipping document.

§ 1013.2103–2 Distribution of AF Form 672.

Distribution of AF Form 672 will be as follows:

(a) When a discrepant shipment is received from an AF activity or another Government agency:

(1) The original and duplicate will be forwarded to the consignor.

(2) The triplicate copy will be attached to and filed with appropriate receiving document in the official contract records.

(b) Reports covering shipments from the contractor will be distributed as outlined in paragraph (a) of this section, except that the original and duplicate copy will be forwarded to the ACO for the shipper's contract.

§ 1013.2103–3 Responsibilities.

(a) At the consignee's activity. (1) The property administrator at the consignee's activity will assure that the action prescribed herein, with respect to the adjustment of discrepancies incident to shipment, is accomplished. He will collaborate with the AF quality control representative and responsible contractor personnel in the preparation and distribution of AF Form 672. Although this latter action is a collective effort, the preparation and distribution of AF Form 672 is the responsibility of the AF quality control representative or of the activity designated by the chief, air procurement district, or AF plant representative.

NOTE: If the Air Force does not have quality control cognizance for the consignee activity, or for various reasons an AF quality control representative has not been assigned, this responsibility will automatically revert to the AF property administrator.

(2) If conditions require, and request has been made for, reply to AF Form 672, AF personnel responsible for the preparation and distribution of the report (see subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) will take followup action when reply has not been received within 30 days from the date of distribution.

(3) The property administrator and the quality control representative at the consignee's facility will collaborate to assure that actions found necessary as result of reply from the consignor activity are accomplished. Since the reply may require one or more actions of varied nature, it is not possible to specify responsibility herein other than requiring joint review and determination of action, and determination, at that time, as to personnel responsible for the closure action on the basis of type of action required.

(b) At the consignor's activity. (1) The AF representative will require conformance with the procedures of this general section towards the prompt adjustment of any discrepancies in shipment reported against a contractor under his cognizance.

(2) The ACO will have the responsibilities described in Part 1064 of this chapter for the adjustment of discrepancies reported against a contract assigned to him for administration. The responsibility for replying to the activity initiating the AF Form 672, and requesting reply, will be with the ACO.

(i) If proper adjustment of the discrepancy reported requires investigation, or other action, on the part of other AF personnel (such as the property administrator, the quality control representative, or the production specialist), the report will be referred to that person for investigation, action, and report to the ACO.

(ii) The ACO's finding of fact will be recorded on the retained copy of AF Form 672, or as an attachment, after necessary investigation of the circumstances and conditions surrounding the discrepancy has been accomplished. The details as to method of adjustment of the discrepancy (correction of shipping documents, shipment of articles to overcome shortage, credit for an overage, etc.) will be noted and properly referenced in the findings.

(iii) When a discrepancy is reported in connection with the identity or property classification of any end items on a contract (see § 1013.2103–1(c)) and investigation discloses that shipment was correctly made according to the contract, the original copy of the report will be noted, "Shipping documents correctly describe articles as per contract." The original copy will then be forwarded to the prime depot for the property class involved. The duplicate copy will be noted, "Shipping documents correctly described articles as per contract. Prime depot notified." The duplicate copy will then be returned to the activity that initiated the report.

(3) The property administrator is responsible for the adequacy and completeness of the contractor's property control system, and for property transactions occurring under contracts to which he has been specifically assigned. AF Form 672 reporting discrepancies that are the result of failures or inadequacies in the property control system will normally be referred to the property administrator for investigation to confirm or refute the condition reported. When an AF Form 672 has been referred to a property administrator for investigation, the quality control representative will collaborate in the investigation and development of findings and recommendations to the extent necessary for establishment of the complete facts and advice to the ACO as to the contractor's responsibility.

(i) When the results of the investigation disclose questionable practices on the part of contractor's employees, or weakness in the contractor's property control system, appropriate action will be taken to correct the unsatisfactory condition.

(ii) When the investigation indicates a possible contractor liability or discloses a question of contract performance, the facts developed will be assembled and submitted, together with recommendations, to the ACO for appropriate action.

(4) The quality control representative is responsible for the adequacy and completeness of the contractor's quality control system, including his shipping practices. AF Form 672 reporting discrepancies that are the result of failures or inadequacies in the quality control system (such as status and condition coding, identification or classification of property, etc.) will normally be referred to the quality control representative for investigation. When an AF Form 672 has been referred to a quality control representative for investigation, the property administrator will collaborate in the investigation and development of findings and recommendations to the extent necessary for establishment of the complete facts and advice to the ACO contractor's responsibility.

§ 1013.2103–4 Reply to AF Form 672.

(a) As indicated in § 1013.2103(b), requests for reply to an AF Form 672 will be confined to those required for the proper adjustment of matters which involve both the shipping and receiving activities.

(1) Normally, no request for reply will be made for discrepancies disclosed in shipments originating with AF activities.

(i) Overages in shipments from AF activities will be retained by the receiving activity, if further requirement for such overages exist, unless return is directed by the AF activity upon receipt of AF Form 672. If there is no known requirement for the overage or retention thereof results in quantities in excess of contractual authorization, such excesses will be automatically returned to the shipping activity.

(ii) No action will be taken by the AF shipping activity to supply items reported as short. If such items are still required, requisitions will be submitted through normal channels.

(iii) Wrong and/or unsatisfactory articles will be considered as simultaneous overages and shortages and processed in the manner prescribed in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph.

(2) When an AF Form 672 is prepared in connection with shipments originating at other than AF activities, a request for reply will be required under the following conditions:

(i) When an overage in shipment creates question as to whether the quantity excess to that purported to have been shipped should properly be retained by the receiving activity or whether the overage should be returned to the shipper.

(ii) Where a shortage in a shipment creates an unsatisfactory condition at the receiving activity wherein anticipated requirements cannot be met with stock on hand. Such condition establishes necessity for determination as to whether the shortage will be adjusted by subsequent shipment, or whether an additional quantity must be requisitioned or procured.

(iii) Receipt of wrong or unsatisfactory articles creates the necessity for information as to method of replacement of the articles, and disposition desired of the wrong or unsatisfactory articles.

(3) Request for reply will be stated in all instances where the AF Form 672 is prepared pursuant to § 1013.2103–1(e).

(b) When after investigation of the discrepancy reported on AF Form 672, the ACO determines that the discrepant shipment, or any part thereof, should be returned to the contractor for repair, rework, modification or replacement, the reply to the reporting activity will be made on the reverse of the AF Form 672 and will be prepared according to the following:

(1) The reply will be specific as to the quantity and description of property being approved for return to the contractor.

(2) Complete instructions will be furnished as to the method of return shipment and the name and address to which the shipment is to be consigned.

(3) The industrial property account identification and control number to which the shipment is to be made will be indicated.

(4) It will be instructed that the following notation be placed on the return shipping document:

Shipped for ---------- (Repair, rework, modification, replacement, etc.) ---------- at no cost to the Government. Rejection No. AF 33(600)–12345–R1.

The rejection number will consist of the contract number followed by a suffix indicating the sequence number of the discrepancy transaction.

(c) Concurrent with the reply action described in the foregoing, a copy of the reply will be furnished to the property administrator assigned to the contract under which the original discrepancy was made, or if no property administrator has been assigned, to the chief of the industrial property division at the AFPRO or APD having cognizance of the contractor, for assignment of a property administrator.

(d) Upon receipt of the notification indicating that the return shipment of rejected property has been approved, the property administrator will establish a control file identified to the Rejection Control Number.

§ 1013.2104 Carrier liability under Government bill of lading or commercial bill of lading to be converted.

§ 1013.2104–1 Appropriate action for treating the discrepancy.

When a commercial carrier fails to deliver all the packages of property listed on a bill of lading or when the property is not delivered in the same condition as when accepted by the carrier, the responsibility is obviously that of the carrier. Under such circumstances, the discrepancy will be adjusted by accomplishing DD Form 46, "Report of Survey (Discrepancies Incident to Shipment of Materiel)." This instrument will be processed as described herein, to determine liability, if any, of the carrier and to effect an equitable adjustment in transportation charges, where appropriate.

(a) Discrepancies can occur in connection with shipments moving via parcel post, Government truck, or other types of Government transportation. Such discrepancies will not require adjustment by Report of Survey action unless in the opinion of the receiving officer there is evidence of fraudulent or illegal disposition of the property. In the event such an unusual discrepancy occurs, a DD Forma 200, "Report of Survey," will be prepared. Although the DD Form 200 differs from the DD Form 46, in format, the same procedures of case investigation and development will be inserted in the appropriate spaces of the DD Form 200. Four copies of DD Form 200 will be prepared. The original and two copies will be furnished to the cognizant AMA and one copy will be retained by the property administrator as a suspense document.

(b) When a discrepancy occurs in connection with a shipment made on a commercial B/L indicated for conversion to Government B/L at destination: (1) The conversion will be made, (2) the notation of discrepancy will be placed on the Government B/L, and (3) the Report of Survey will then be prepared.

(c) If the carrier accepts full responsibility for the damage and agrees to bear full costs of repair of the property, the procedures of § 1013.2105 may be used in lieu of initiating a Report of Survey.

(d) When a shortage in a shipment or damage to Government property received creates a problem in connection with the contract for which the property was requisitioned or procured, the AF representative will determine an appropriate course of action to be taken to preclude any production delay or stoppage. Such actions will be considered as separate and without effect upon the course of settlement under the Report of Survey proceedings, or any determination of liability of the carrier resulting therefrom.

§ 1013.2104–2 Responsibilities.

(a) The accumulation of all facts and evidence necessary to support the Report of Survey will be a collective effort on the part of the property administrator, quality control representative, and interested contractor personnel. It will be the responsibility of the property administrator to insure proper preparation and distribution of DD Form 46.

(b) The AF representative is responsible for the examination of all DD Forms 46 and 200 originating at an activity under his administrative jurisdiction, to assure completeness, accuracy, and compliance with these instructions. Where discrepancies in shipment involving carrier liability are in excess of $500, the AF representative will appoint an individual to serve as surveying officer for the purpose of conducting an impartial investigation of the facts and circumstances pertinent to the case. Otherwise, a surveying officer will be appointed only if evidence in a DD Form 46 or DD Form 200 is conflicting or not sufficiently complete to afford a clear understanding of the data presented, or the AF representative determines such action necessary. The AF representative will exercise due care in selecting a surveying officer, who may be either a commissioned officer or civilian employee, and he will insure that the individual appointed is competent to conduct investigations required.

(c) In accomplishing the administrative review, the AF representative will insure that there are no uninitialed changes, erasures, or interlineations to cause doubt as to the authenticity of any statement in the report. All Reports of Survey will be entered on AF Form 453, "Reports of Survey Register," and the number assigned to the report will be entered in the lower right hand corner on the face of the DD Form 46. The AF representative may return a DD Form 46 or DD Form 200 to the individual who initialed the report, or to the surveying officer, when appointed, for correction, further investigation, or more detailed evidence.

(d) The surveying officer is responsible for making such impartial investigation considered necessary by him to establish the facts in connection with a discrepancy in shipment or according to specific instructions of the AF representative. Individuals who act as surveying officers should thoroughly acquaint themselves with recognized industrial receiving and shipping practices to determine more readily the facts of a particular case. The performance of an investigation will depend upon individual circumstances and the judgment of the surveying officer. Surveying officers will consider carefully the extent of their investigations and refrain from compiling voluminous reports, affidavits, certificates, etc., which do not have a direct bearing on placing responsibility for the discrepancy. They are similarly responsible in assuring that their findings are sufficient in coverage to provide higher headquarters a complete understanding of the facts in the case and specify those factors on which he based his recommendation.

§ 1013.2104–3 Preparation of DD Form 46.

(a) DD Form 46, "Report of Survey (Discrepancies Incident to Shipment of Materiel)," has been designed for use in reporting loss, damage, or destruction of Government property while in the custody or control of a carrier and such shipment is accomplished under a Government bill of lading (GB/L) or a commercial bill of lading for conversion at destination. In the demonstration and control of industrial property, it is used in determining the liability of the carrier and to effect equitable adjustment in transportation charges. Normally, the DD Form 46 will be prepared in quadruplicate. Where the shipment involves reimbursement between the Air Force and another Government agency, an additional copy will be prepared for the information of the office responsible for billing or certifying payment to the agency concerned.

(b) Normally, DD Form 46 will be prepared and processed within 30 days from the date the bill of lading, bearing a discrepancy notation, is released to the carrier. In this connection, the following subparagraphs apply:

(1) Report of Survey covering loss by reason of nondelivery of a portion of a shipment will be prepared and forwarded immediately upon accomplishment of the GBL. However, it is permissible to withhold accomplishment of the GBL for a period of 30 days after receipt to give the carrier opportunity to complete delivery. When no part of a shipment made on a GBL is received within 30 days, a Report of Survey will be initiated for the entire shipment.

(2) Reports of Survey covering damages will be initiated as soon as possible after inspection and accomplishment of the GBL, regardless of whether repair or disposition has been completed. Unless repairs are made immediately, the Report of Survey should be processed on the basis of estimated repair costs, subject to amendment after actual valuation of the transit damage. In such cases, a statement will accompany the report giving the approximate date actual amounts will be available. When estimated costs are used such estimates should be furnished in the same breakdown formula as prescribed for actual costs in paragraph (e) (5) of this section.

(3) If no repair action is contemplated, complete details will be furnished explaining why it is in the best interests of the Government not to accomplish the repairs. Qualified AF personnel, those persons basically responsible for the item involved, with the agreement of the freight claim agent of the destination carrier will estimate the transit damage when: industrial machinery or equipment (which is moved to or from a contractor's plant or to a Government storage facility) is damaged in transit if the Air Force determined that the equipment is to be disposed of by plant clearance, scrapped, or cannibalized, for reasons other than the transit damage and if there is no valid reason for the material or equipment to be repaired and then scrapped. The foregoing will be considered a joint agreement of the amount of transit damages involved and not necessarily an admission of liability.

(4) The manner by which the Government's damages will be measured is determined by principles of law. The measure of the damages suffered by the Government and ascertaining the amount of damages sustained are matters of fact which must be supported by evidence and so proved. The Report of Survey submitted as the basis of a claim for damages to public property resulting from negligence must establish both the fact of the injury and the negligence of the person or persons concerned. In addition, evidence must be submitted to establish the amount of the claim for damages according to the following criteria:

(i) Lost or destroyed property: Amount to be charged for property, lost or destroyed, is the market value of the property immediately before the loss.

(ii) Irreparably damaged property: Amount to be charged for property irreparably damaged, is the market value of the property immediately before the injury, less any salvage value.

(iii) Reparable property: Where property is damaged and can be repaired, the measure of the damages is the difference in the market value of the item immediately before the injury and the market value of the damaged property immediately after the injury, together with reasonable expense incurred by the Government to preserve the property or minimize the damage. The difference in value is generally the standard of measure of the Government's loss and such difference in values can be evidenced by the cost of repairs necessary to restore damaged property to the condition that existed immediately prior to the injury. However, the Government is not entitled to the full value of repairs, where such repairs make the property more valuable than before the injury. Hence, the reasonable cost of repairs used to evidence the degree of transit damage should exclude any costs which cover rebuilding, overhaul, or modernization of the property or any other cost factors which in any way increase the value of the property over the value that existed before the injury.

(iv) Market value: Where property is not instantly salable upon an exchange at a standard price, the market value to be established is the estimate of what a willing buyer would have paid a willing seller for the same property in the same condition. The market value of property may be proved by opinion evidence of those who are familiar with the selling prices of property at the particular time and place, or by price lists and market reports proved to be generally relied upon in the trade. In cases of transit damage or shortage, the market value will be that which prevails at the time and place of delivery. In the absence of market value at the place of delivery or injury, the nearest available market may be utilized.

(v) Property having no market value: When the property lost, damaged, or destroyed has no market value, the value of such property may be shown by the cost of reproducing or replacing it, less depreciation and salvage value, if any.

(5) If extenuating circumstances preclude submission of a Report of Survey within 30 days after the bill of lading was accomplished with a notation of the shortage or damage, a notice of delay (letter) will be sent to the Settlements Division, Air Force Accounting and Finance Center (AFAFC), 3800 York Street, Denver, Colorado, furnishing information regarding the delay and the date it is expected the report will be forwarded through channels. If the submission of the report is delayed beyond the expected date furnished, a second notice will be submitted to AFAFC. The above responsibility devolves upon each echelon of organization and command involved in the survey action.

(c) Where a bill of lading bearing a discrepancy notation has been released and the property administrator or quality control representative determines that the responsibility is other than that of the carrier, AF Form 672 or DD Form 6, whichever is appropriate, will be prepared in lieu of DD Form 46. The property administrator will advise the AFAFC, by letter reading as follows:

Reference is made to Government bill of lading No. ------ dated ---------- covering (describe property). After appropriate investigation of all the facts and circumstances surrounding the noted discrepancy, it has been determined that no responsibility rests with the carrier. Therefore, no Report of Survey action is necessary and adjustment is being effected through completion of AF Form 672 or DD Form 6 (whichever is appropriate).

(d) DD Form 46 (July 1, 1956) is arranged to require a minimum of detailed instructions. Items requiring further clarification are as follows:

(1) Item 4. Insert shipping point.

(2) Item 5. Insert date DD Form 46 initiated.

(3) Item 6. Insert address of office administering the contract from which shipment is made, if applicable.

(4) Item 7. Insert contract number and/or purchase order number under which shipment is procured, if any.

(5) Column A. Standard nomenclature will be used including the manufacturer's serial number, if applicable. In event of damage the major unit will be described including AF serial number where applicable and not the damaged components. A separate list of damaged components normally will be included in the exhibit pertaining to the cost of repair statement.

(6) Column B. Include both quantity and unit of measure.

(7) Column C. Include original total cost obtained by multiplying the unit cost (not entered on form) of each listed item by quantity. In determining cost to be entered in this column, no allowance will be made for depreciation. Any computation for the amount of damage will be shown in the report of the surveying officer, when appointed, or the property administrator on the reverse of the form or in a detailed analysis sheet filed as an exhibit. After the price, specific reference will be made to the source. Information on the price to be charged will normally be obtained from the pertinent shipping document, supply catalogs, contractor's records, or trade journals. If such price is not available, a reasonable estimate will be used in which the abbreviation "est" will be entered after the price.

(8) Column D. Enter the weight of each short or damaged item. The total of the column should correspond to the weight as shown in the discrepancy notations on the bill of lading. With regard to damaged and reparable items, weight discrepancies will normally include only the weight of the parts or components required to be repaired or replaced.

(9) Column F. Enter the serial number of the boxes, bales, etc., short or damaged.

(10) Item 9. Include the letters prefix and the serial number of the bill of lading.

(11) Item 13. Complete according to data shown in item 12.

(12) Item 28 through 36. Enter all information called for when shipment comprises or was accepted by the carrier as a truckload moving under seal, a carload shipment, or when exclusive use was made of the car at request of the shipper or at the carrier's convenience. Otherwise, enter the letters "LCL" (less than carload lot) or "LTL" (less truckload) as conclusive evidence that this section has been considered. If no seal number, check in item 28, "flat or open car."

(13) Item 37. Do not use—reserve for office taking final action on report.

(14) Items 40, 41, and 42. Do not leave blank. Always include the requested information.

(15) Items 43 and 44. If no surveying officer is appointed, the AF representative will indicate his action in Action A or Action B, whichever is appropriate. If the AF representative desires to expand his remarks, they may be continued in item 46 below.

(16) Item 45. The appointment of a surveying officer will be indicated under Action C, by inserting the name and designation of the individual appointed. The disposition of the damaged property will likewise be indicated. When the property is a total loss, indicate "disposition to be obtained from (insert activity and office code)," "shipping instruction No. _____," or "turned over to carrier." Further, when damaged property is a total loss and action is taken under item 43 or item 44 above, the appropriate notation of disposition will be shown under the pertinent item.

(17) Item 46. The AF representative will complete this item when the loss or damage is less than $500 and a surveying officer is not appointed. However, if it is desired, the AF representative may appoint a surveying officer in any case under $500. Only a brief summary is required and should include a positive statement of the basis for conclusion of the carrier's liability. (See § 1013.2104–2 (d).) Exhibits submitted will be listed alphabetically giving the title of each. Include the name of the carrier responsible for the discrepancy and the address of the home claim office.

(18) Item 47. Date and approval of the AF representative. The AF representative may approve Reports of Survey as submitted to him without comment other than the word "approved", which will be a concurrence of the surveying officer's findings. If he does not approve the recommendations of the surveying officer or wishes to add a new recommendation, the AF representative may do so in any available space on the back of the form, provided the reason for such action is stated. His signature and designation will be shown immediately below the entry.

(e) Exhibits to DD Form 46 should be provided only to the extent necessary to effect settlement of a particular case. Normally, one affidavit or disposition will be sufficient to establish a fact or refute an allegation. Originals of substantiating documents will be submitted in support of the original DD Form 46, except where copies are authorized below. Only copies produced by photographic or other permanent method of reproduction are acceptable. The GB/L number involved will be conveniently and legibly inserted on the face of each exhibit. Exhibits attached to the original DD Form 46 will include the following:

(1) Two true copies of the Government bill of lading, including discrepancy notation on reverse side.

(2) Certified true copies of the freight bill or delivery receipt showing any discrepancy notation and signature.

(3) A signed statement of the carrier's local agent (carrier's inspection report) admitting existence of the shortage or damage. It will be noted that this is not an admission of liability. If within 2 weeks after it is requested, the statement is not received from the carrier, a tracer letter will be sent. If at the time the Report of Survey and all other exhibits are ready for submission to higher echelon and answer is still not forthcoming, the pertinent exhibit copies of correspondence will be so noted. The processing of a Report of Survey will not be delayed because of nonreceipt of this statement from the carrier.

(4) A signed statement of the receiving checker containing:

(i) Bill of lading number.

(ii) Number of packages, etc., received.

(iii) Condition of packages, etc.

(iv) Statement as to cause of damage, if known. Otherwise, a reliable opinion based on circumstantial evidence.

(v) Complete description of shipment.

(vi) Identity of car or vehicle from which shipment was checked.

(vii) Date car or vehicle was placed for unloading.

(viii) Record of seals on car or vehicle at origin and destination and whether applied by shipper and/or carrier. If shipment moved as "LCL" or on an "open" or "flat" car, so indicate.

(ix) Date and time unloading was commenced and completed.

(x) General condition of car or vehicle.

(xi) Adequacy of blocking and bracing.

(xii) Circumstances involving discovery of damage.

(xiii) In event of shortage, information as to method of checking used, i.e.: whether by stroke, tally, box number, etc.; where checking was accomplished; and whether the car or vehicle was left unguarded and unlocked while being loaded.

(xiv) Copy of any DD Form 6, "Report of Damaged or Improper Shipment," prepared in connection with the shipment.

(xv) In damage cases involving loading, bracing, or blocking defects, a statement should be obtained from the shipper describing: (a) Conditions under which loading, bracing, blocking, and inspection took place, (b) whether the carrier or shipper performed such functions, (c) whether the property that was subsequently damaged was open to ordinary observation at the time of inspection, and (d) whether the packing, loading, bracing, and blocking was according to the terms of a contract, rules of American Association of Railroads, American Truckers Association, or Interstate Commerce Commission. The shipper should be requested to furnish all information other than self-serving statements to assist in determining liability.

(5) Two copies of detailed cost breakdown of actual cost of repairs. "Actual cost of repairs" is that cost applicable to the transit damage only. In this connection the following information is required:

(i) Labor hours and rate per hour.

(ii) Cost of material and parts used with unit costs.

(iii) Credits allowed for salvage and replaced parts.

(iv) Overhead unless this is included in the labor rate.

(v) Transportation to and from a repair activity. (Obtain copy of waybills.)

(vi) Other costs. (Packaging, etc.)

(6) Evidence of local or carriers salvage when an item is damaged beyond economical repair. (Classified property will not be turned over to a carrier. Salvage or destruction of such property will be carried out according to §§ 805.1 to 805.17 of this chapter.)

(7) Copy of the shipping document together with packaging data substantiating any property shortage. The shipping officer's voucher number should be inserted in item 17, DD Form 46.

(8) In event of delay in processing DD Form 46, copy of letter submitted to the Settlements Division, AFAFC, as required under paragraph (b) of this section.

(f) Concealed loss and/or damage: (1) When shortages in, or damages to, a shipment are not revealed at time of delivery but are subsequently disclosed as carrier responsibility prior to surrendering the bill of lading, the carrier will be notified at once and requested to inspect the physical evidence of loss or damage. Immediate action will be effected to obtain the following in support of the DD Form 46:

(i) Copy of the carrier's inspection report.

(ii) Accomplish carrier's concealed loss and damage form.

(2) If loss or damage is discovered after the bill of lading has been accomplished and surrendered to the carrier, procedure will be as in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, but the notice will be in writing referencing the bill of lading number involved and itemizing the lost or damaged property, including complete information of weights and value.

(g) Disposition of property damaged beyond economical repair: When the damage reported is determined of such extent that the property is beyond economical repair and disposal action is appropriate, the property administrator at the receiving activity will obtain a signed statement from the staff judge advocate servicing that activity, indicating the Report of Survey Case is legally sufficient to support any litigation and that the physical presence of the damaged property is no longer required as evidence. This statement will be retained with the file pertaining to the Report of Survey. In the case of industrial reserve equipment, the statement will be processed pursuant to existing regulations.

(h) Accounting classification: It is required that DD Form 46 cite the accounting classification to be credited prior to submission of the Report of Survey to the AF Accounting and Finance Center, MSAF, Denver, Colorado. This citation is the responsibility of the PIC office having fiscal administration of the contract(s) involved.

§ 1013.2104–4 Distribution of DD Form 46.

Upon completion of the DD Form 46, all copies will be submitted to the AF representative for his action or the appointment of a surveying officer, if appropriate. Where a surveying officer is appointed, all copies of the DD Form 46 will be forwarded to him by the AF representative. Upon completion of action by the surveying officer, all copies will be returned to the AF representative for completion (see § 1013.2104–3(d)(19)) and distribution as follows:

(a) Original and triplicate. Submit through the appropriate PIC office for accounting classification to the Settlements Division, Air Force Accounting and Finance Center, Denver, Colorado. After final action has been accomplished by the Settlements Division, AFAFC, the triplicate copy will be returned to the initiating activity for the official contract records, after which the duplicate may be removed and destroyed.

(b) Duplicate. Normally this copy will be attached to and filed with the pertinent shipping document.

(c) Quadruplicate. Retained in the office of the AF representative with permanent files of DD Form 46 processed by that activity.

§ 1013.2105 Settlement under Government bill of lading as result of carrier's acceptance of responsibility and agreement to repair.

Procedures set forth in this section may be followed in lieu of action by Report of Survey, when the authorized agent of the delivering carrier accepts liability for damage to Government property and agrees to restore same at no cost to the Government. Caution: Truck drivers, freight agents, etc., may not be authorized agents and acceptance of liability from such persons can be considered as not binding upon the carrier and may be later disclaimed. The procedure in this section will not be used in connection with classified articles referred to in §§ 805.1 to 805.17 of this chapter.

(a) Repair, or arrangement for repair, by carrier. When the authorized agent of the delivering carrier admits liabilities, in writing, for damage to Government property and states a willingness to repair, or to arrange for the repair of the property, the property administrator will determine through consultation with the contracting officer whether such an arrangement is feasible. If it is determined that repair by the carrier is in the best interests of the Government, the property administrator will notify the carrier that the Government has no objections to such a course of settlement. In such transactions, the following controls will be applied:

(1) The bill of lading will be indorsed with a notation that the damaged item was retained by the carrier pending delivery in good order. Such notation will be made even though shipment is physically delivered.

(2) If the carrier removes the property from the consignee's possession to transfer to another place of repair, a receipt in duplicate, completely describing the article being moved, will be obtained by the property administrator, regardless of whether or not the bill of lading has been relinquished. Where the nature of property, or the extent of damage will require the use of specialized repair contractors to accomplish repairs in acceptable manner and according to exact specifications, the carrier will be advised of such requirements and recommend approved sources. Recommendation of source does not waive the Government's right to inspection and acceptance.

(3) If arrangements for repair are made between the carrier and the consignee (contractor), AF personnel will not enter into such negotiations but the property administrator will obtain from the contractor a written statement indicating that full reimbursement for the repairs will be made by the carrier to the contractor, and that no costs, direct, or indirect, will revert to the Government.

(4) A suspense account will be established by the property administrator to insure documentation of the transaction and followup to obtain return of the repaired property within agreed time limits. Since responsibility for the property rests with the carrier (under the delivery contract, B/L) pending satisfactory delivery, no contractual authority other than reference to the bill of lading will be required.

(5) Upon completion of the repairs, acceptance of the property will be subject to the acceptance procedures of the Government.

(6) Upon satisfactory delivery and acceptance, the property administrator will furnish detailed advice to the Settlements Division, Air Force Accounting and Finance Center, 3800 York Street, Denver, Colorado, indicating: (i) That repairs were satisfactorily made and (ii) that the Government bore no costs thereof, thereby clearing the indorsement of exception previously placed on the bill of lading.

(7) If the carrier cannot arrange for the necessary repairs, or does not desire to do so, a Report of Survey will be initiated.

§ 1013.2106 Carrier liability under commercial bill of lading not to be converted.

(a) General. When the provisions of § 1007.4004 of this chapter are in a shipper's contract, Government property (up to prescribed weight limitations) may be shipped on a prepaid commercial bill of lading. Such bills of lading are not intended for conversion and the processing of claims for loss or damage is the responsibility of the consigning contractor.

(b) Responsibilities of Governmental personnel. (1) After collaboration with quality control and contractor personnel, the property administrator at the consignee's activity will send all facts and evidence necessary to the support of a claim, to the consigning contractor through the office of the administrative contractor officer for the consignor.

(2) In the case of shipments consigned to the AF activities, the transportation officer at the receiving station will send all facts and evidence necessary to the support of a claim, to the consigning contractor through the office of the administrative contracting officer for the consignor.

(3) The administrative contracting officer for the consignor's contract will maintain followup necessary to insure that the claim is satisfactorily processed and concluded, and that proper credit or adjustment is made in the Government's interest.

Subpart X—Facility Expansion Procedure

1. Section 1013.2401 is revised as follows:

§ 1013.2401 General.

Facility expansion projects fall into two general classes—facilities leases and facilities contracts. Facilities leases normally are used where only existing industrial facilities are to be furnished to a contractor or supplier. Facilities leases are not authorized when the contractor is to be reimbursed for facilities costs unless approved by the Secretary. Facilities contracts are used whenever the contractor is to be reimbursed for facilities costs.

2. In § 1013.2401–1, that part of paragraph (a) preceding subparagraph (1), and paragraph (c), are revised as follows:

§ 1013.2401–1 Delegation of authority.

(a) The Commander, AMC, has been authorized to exercise those approvals of projects for expansion (acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, major repairs) of industrial production facilities, where the estimated cost will not exceed $500,000. The Commander, AMC, has redelegated this authority to the Director of Procurement and Production, Hq AMC, and the Commander, AMC Aeronautical Systems Center, without power of further redelegation. The exercise of this authority as well as any other action with regard to the expansion of industrial facilities will be subject to the following conditions and limitations:

* * * * *

(c) Previous delegations pertaining to the ICBM and IRBM No. 1 Programs will not be affected by the provisions contained herein; nor will any subsequent delegation specifically pertaining to those programs be governed by the provisions contained herein.

§ 1013.2402 [Amendment]

3. In § 1013.2402(d), subparagraph (3) is deleted.

§ 1013.2403–2 [Amendment]

4. In § 1013.2403–2:

a. The material in 32 CFR, 1958, Supp., page 694, published as (o) (4) to (8) should be (p) (4) to (8) as in 23 F.R. 1481, March 1, 1958.

b. Paragraph (r) is revised and a new paragraph (s) is added, as follows:

(r) Facilities clause: Where applicable, quote the facilities clause in the procurement (end item) contract which refers to the facilities to be provided. Also give procurement contract number and date effected or anticipated date of procurement contract coverage.

(s) Royalties charge data: Applications for facilities which contemplate an expenditure estimated to be in excess of $10,000 and the payment of a royalty charge in excess of $250 will contain the information required by § 1003.101–

§ 9(f)(1) of this chapter. All facilities applications of an estimated cost in excess of $10,000 for which royalties are estimated at less than $250 will contain a statement of that fact. In applying this provision only royalties to be reimbursed under the facilities contract or other contract under which the facilities are to be provided will be considered.

Subpart CC—Limited Power of Attorney for Procurement From GSA or FSS Contractors by AF Contractors

1. The title of Subpart CC is revised as shown above.

2. Section 1013.2903 is revised to read as follows:

When office furniture and equipment must be supplied under a facilities contract or a facilities clause of a supply or service contract and cannot be furnished from excess, it must be purchased under the Limited Power of Attorney set forth herein. Compliance with 40 U.S.C. 483(b) will be made by purchase from GSA or by securing a release from that agency prior to purchase. Such release, to purchase from sources other than GSA, will be in writing and will be retained in the contract files of the ACO authorizing the purchase.

(a) Limited power of attorney. AF contractors designated by the Facilities Contracting Officer, LMBI, LBB, or RDSKR, to make procurements under the provisions of this subpart will be given a limited power of attorney (see § 1013.2903–1 for form) by the contracting officer authorizing the contractor to (1) issue purchase orders for the procurement of mandatory items and office furniture or equipment from GSA or from an FSS contractor; (2) issue tax exemption certificates in lieu of payment of certain state and other taxes.

(b) Supply schedules and catalogs. AF contractors given this limited power of attorney by the contracting officer should secure a copy of the required Federal Supply Schedules and Catalogs from the nearest GSA regional office to enable them to properly utilize the property sources made available to them.

(c) Purchase order forms. In submitting purchase orders to the GSA or FSS contractors, the AF contractor will use his regular purchase order form and place the order in the name of the U.S. Government (Department of the Air Force) by the contractor as agent. For example:

U.S. GOVERNMENT (DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE)

By: Richard Doe and Company
(Signature) ----------
(Title) ----------

The following statement will be included on purchase orders submitted to GSA or FSS contractors:

This order is placed by Richard Doe and Company as agent for and on behalf of the U.S. Government (Department of the Air Force) under Contract No. ------ for furnishing the above property or equipment.

Purchase orders issued according to this subpart will bear instructions to bill and forward the invoices to the purchasing AF contractor. The AF contractor will make payment and request reimbursement in the usual manner.

(d) Typewriters. Before submitting purchase orders for manually operated typewriters to FSS contractors, the AF contractor will obtain a certificate of unavailability from the nearest GSA regional office. Upon issuance thereof by GSA, the AF contractor will add the following statement to that required by paragraph (c) of this section on the purchase orders.

This order is covered by General Services Administration Certificate of Unavailability No. TC ------

(e) Taxes. All purchases made by the AF contractors under Limited Power of Attorney as provided for herein are to be made exclusive of the same taxes as would be the case if the purchase were made by an AF contracting officer direct. Assistance in tax problems will be provided by the appropriate staff judge advocate's office.

Subpart DD—Leasing of Machinery and Industrial Equipment

Section 1013.3002(c) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1013.3002 Delegation of authority; leases of machine tools and other production equipment.

* * * * *

(c) The authority has been further delegated by the Director of Procurement and Production, Hq AMC, to the following:

(1) The commander and deputy commander of the air materiel areas with power of redelegation to directors of procurement and production only.

(2) The commander and deputy commander of the AMC Ballistic Missiles Center, and the AMC Aeronautical Systems Center with power of redelegation to the Director of Resources.

(3) The commander and deputy commander of the AMC Electronic Systems Center, with power of redelegation to the Director of Procurement and Production or comparable level.

§ 1015.204 Examples of items of allowable costs.

* * * * *

(w) Traveling expenses:

* * * * *

(6) Per diem. Establishment of a schedule of per diem rates is recommended. Schedule should be consistent with contractor's experience, provided this experience is not unreasonable by comparison with contractors in comparable industries or areas, and provided further that rates are not in excess of those specified herein. Consideration should be given to duration of travel time. Where the employee travels to one location and remains for an extended period, per diem allowance should be lower than the per diem allowed for trips of short duration. Expenses of nonexecutive employees should be less than expenses of executives. Present conditions indicate that general range of such daily expenditures varies; in case of chief executives and chief research scientists, from $15 to $18 for all types of trips; in the case of lesser executives, from $14 to $15 for all types of trips; in the case of other employees, from $13 to $14 for brief trips and from $11 to $13 for definite trips (over 30 days). Per diem rate schedules submitted to contracting officers for approval will be consistent with the general ranges. All approvals will be in writing and will specify, either by reference to a written schedule of the contractor or otherwise, the per diem approved as reasonable. General ranges listed above will be reviewed periodically by the Director of Procurement and Production, Hq AMC, and will be subject to upward or downward revisions. In computing per diem for continuous travel of more than 24 hours, the calendar day (midnight to midnight) will be the unit. For fractional parts of a day at start or end of continuous travel, one-fourth of rate for a calendar day will be allowed for each period of 6 hours or fraction thereof. For continuous travel of less than 24 hours, one-fourth of rate for a calendar day will be allowed for each 6-hour period or fraction thereof. However, no per diem will be allowed when departure is after 0800 hours and return on same day is before 1800 hours. No per diem will be paid for periods charged to vacation or sick leave.

FOOD FLAVORINGS; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

Vanilla Extract and Related Products; Notice of Proposed Definitions and Standards of Identity

In the matter of establishing definitions and standards of identity for vanilla extract and related products:

Notice is given that two petitions proposing definitions and standards of identity for vanilla extract and related products have been filed. One petition was filed by McCormick and Company, Baltimore, Maryland, and the other by a group of flavor manufacturers, as follows:

American Food Laboratories, 1000 Stanley Avenue, Brooklyn 8, N.Y.
David Michael and Co., 3643 D Street, Philadelphia 24, Pa.
Food Materials Corp., 3621 West 48th Street, Chicago 32, Ill.
Fred Fear and Co., Foot of Joralemon Street, Brooklyn 2, N.Y.
S. H. Mahoney Extract Co., 3840 West 47th Street, Chicago 32, Ill.
Vanilla Laboratories, P.O. Box 207, Rochester, N.Y.
Virginia Dare Extract Co., 882 Third Avenue, Brooklyn 32, N.Y.

Each petition proposes that there be established definitions and standards of identity for vanilla extract, vanilla flavoring, vanilla powder, concentrated vanilla extract, concentrated vanilla flavoring, vanilla-vanillin extract, vanilla-vanillin flavoring, vanilla-vanillin powder, concentrated vanilla-vanillin extract, and concentrated vanilla-vanillin flavoring. One difference, among others, between the two petitions concerns the moisture content of vanilla beans used. One petition proposes and the other opposes having the standards require that the moisture content of the cured vanilla beans used be taken into account in prescribing the weight of vanilla beans required.

The standards proposed in the petition filed by McCormick and Company are as follows:

§ 22.1 Vanilla extract; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

(a) Vanilla extract is the solution in aqueous ethyl alcohol of the sapid and odorous principles of cured vanilla beans of the varieties Vanilla planifolia Andrews or Vanilla tahitensis Moore, in the quantities specified in this section. Vanilla extract contains in 1 gallon substantially all the soluble matters extractable by a 35 percent solution of ethyl alcohol, from not less than that weight of beans which contains 10 ounces of vanilla bean solids as defined in paragraph (b) of this section, and contains not less than 35 percent by volume (60°–60° F.) of ethyl alcohol. Vanilla extract may contain one or more of the following optional ingredients:

(1) Glycerin.
(2) Propylene glycol.
(3) Sucrose.
(4) Dextrose.

(b) Vanilla bean solids are the entire moisture-free portion of cured vanilla beans calculated by subtracting from the total weight of beans the weight of water contained therein determined by the method described in paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) The determination of the moisture content of vanilla beans shall be by the method prescribed in Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Eighth Edition, 1955, page 367 under "Moisture by Distillation with Toluene," except that:

(1) The sample used shall be taken by sampling methods in accord with good commercial practice to represent accurately the lot being sampled. A "lot" shall be a group of vanilla beans of reasonably uniform characteristics.

(2) The sample, during and after collection, shall be protected by a closed and moisture-impermeable container, against moisture loss or gain.

(3) The sample shall be chopped or comminuted to particles the average major dimensions of which are approximately ¼-inch. This chopping shall be done quickly and in such a manner as to minimize moisture loss or gain.

(4) A mixture of one volume of benzene and four volumes of toluene shall be used in place of the toluene only.

(5) The total distillation time shall be 4 hours.

(d) (1) The name specified for the food is vanilla extract. However, the name may include the appropriate fold number, provided that the fold number, as used, correctly states the multiple of 10 ounces of vanilla bean solids used in the preparation of each gallon of vanilla extract.

(2) When vanilla extract is made wholly or partially by dilution of concentrated vanilla extract, as defined in § 22.4, or concentrated vanilla flavoring, as defined in § 22.5, or vanilla oleoresin, the label shall bear the statement, "made wholly from concentrate" or "made partially from concentrate," whichever is applicable.

(3) Wherever the name "vanilla extract" appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the applicable statement specified in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name, without intervening written, printed, or graphic matter.

§ 22.2 Vanilla flavoring; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

Vanilla flavoring complies with the definition and standard of identity and labeling requirements as to optional ingredients for vanilla extract as defined in § 22.1, except that it contains less than 35 percent ethyl alcohol by volume.

§ 22.3 Vanilla powder, vanilla sugar; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

(a) Vanilla powder is a mixture of ground vanilla beans or the sapid and odorous principles of vanilla beans, or both, in the quantities specified in this section, with one or more of the following ingredients:

(1) Sucrose.
(2) Dextrose.
(3) Lactose.
(4) Food starch.

It may contain a total of 2 percent or less by weight of one or more of the edible, anticaking agents specified in paragraph (b) of this section. Each 8 pounds of vanilla powder contains not less than that weight of beans which contains 10 ounces of vanilla bean solids, or the soluble matters extractable by a 35 percent solution of ethyl alcohol therefrom, or in part vanilla beans and for the remainder, the soluble matters from vanilla beans, provided that if the soluble matters from vanilla beans are used in place of some portion of vanilla bean solids, the soluble matters used must be the soluble matters from that weight of vanilla bean solids which such soluble matters replace.

(b) The edible anticaking agents referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are:

(1) Aluminum calcium silicate.
(2) Calcium silicate.
(3) Calcium stearate.
(4) Magnesium silicate.
(5) Tricalcium phosphate.
(6) Tricalcium silicate.

(c) The name of the product is vanilla powder, provided that, if it is made with the optional ingredients sucrose or dextrose, the name vanilla sugar may be used.

(d) Vanilla powder complies with the labeling requirements for optional ingredients for vanilla extract, except that the name may include the appropriate fold number, provided that the fold number, as used, correctly states the multiple of 10 ounces of vanilla bean solids used in the preparation of each 8 pounds of vanilla powder.

§ 22.4 Concentrated vanilla extract; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

(a) Concentrated vanilla extract complies with the definition and standard of identity for vanilla extract, except that, in its production, there occurs reduction in volume by evaporation of vanilla extract or of vanilla flavoring. It contains not less than 35 percent by volume (60°–60° F.) of ethyl alcohol.

(b) Wherever the name "concentrated vanilla extract" appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the strength, as expressed by the applicable fold number defined in this paragraph, shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name, without intervening written, printed, or graphic matter. The fold number, as used, shall correctly state the multiple of 10 ounces of vanilla bean solids used in the preparation of each gallon.

§ 22.5 Concentrated vanilla flavoring; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

Concentrated vanilla flavoring complies with the definition and standard of identity and labeling requirements as to optional ingredients for concentrated vanilla extract, as defined in § 22.4, except that it contains less than 35 percent by volume of ethyl alcohol.

§ 22.6 Vanilla-vanillin extract; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

(a) Vanilla-vanillin extract complies with the definition and standard of identity for vanilla extract, except that for each 10 ounces of vanilla bean solids it contains additionally not more than 1 ounce of added vanillin.

(b) Vanilla-vanillin extract complies with the labeling requirements as to optional ingredients for vanilla extract, except that:

(1) The label shall bear the statement "contains vanillin, an artificial flavoring" or "vanillin, an artificial flavoring, added."

[Airspace Docket No. 60-WA-181]

CODED JET ROUTES

Modification

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 602.137 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

L/MF Jet Route No. 37 extends in part from the Biloxi, Miss., (Keesler Air Force Base) radio range to the Atlanta, Ga., radio range via Montgomery, Ala., (Maxwell AFB) radio range. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration modification of this jet route by realigning it from Biloxi to Atlanta via the Mt. Meigs, Ala., radio beacon, in lieu of the Maxwell AFB radio range. This would provide a more direct route between Biloxi and Atlanta, thereby facilitating air traffic management and flight planning.

If this action is taken, the segment of L/MF Jet Route No. 37 between Biloxi, Miss., and Atlanta, Ga., would be redesignated from the Biloxi (Keesler Air Force Base) radio range via the Mt. Meigs, Ala., radio beacon to the Atlanta radio range.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 13, 1960.

Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

CODED JET ROUTES

Revocation of Segment

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 602.557 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

VOR/VORTAC Jet Route No. 57 extends in part from Charleston, W. Va., to Appleton, Ohio. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration revocation of this segment of Jet Route No. 57-V. The Federal Aviation Agency IFR peakday airway traffic survey for the period from July 1, 1959, through June 30, 1960, shows four aircraft movements on this segment of Jet Route No. 57-V. On the basis of the survey, it appears that the retention of this segment of coded jet route is unjustified and that the revocation thereof would be in the public interest.

If this action is taken, the segment of VOR/VORTAC Jet Route No. 57 from Charleston, W. Va., to Appleton, Ohio, would be revoked.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. All communications received within thirty days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 13, 1960.

Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

It is further ordered, That all common carriers by water named above are hereby made respondents in this proceeding, which is to be set for hearing before an examiner from the Office of Hearing Examiners, at a time and place to be announced; and

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order be served on each of the respondents and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Pursuant to the above order, notice is hereby given that the hearing herein ordered will be held before an examiner of the Board's Office of Hearing Examiners at a date and place to be determined and announced by the Chief Examiner. The hearing will be conducted in accordance with the Board's Rules of Practice and Procedure, and a recommended decision will be issued by the examiner.

Notice of Proposed Issuance of Construction Permit

Please take notice that, unless within fifteen days after the filing of this notice with the Office of the Federal Register a request for a formal hearing is filed with the United States Atomic Energy Commission by the applicant or an intervener as provided by the Commission's rules of practice (Title 10, Chapter I, Part 2), the Commission proposes to issue to Texas Technological College, Lubbock, Texas, a construction permit substantially as set forth below authorizing construction on the College's campus of a 10 kilowatt (thermal) pool-type nuclear reactor. Petitions for leave to intervene shall be filed by mailing a copy to the Office of the Secretary, Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D.C., or by delivery of a copy in person to the Office of the Secretary, Germantown, Maryland, or the AEC's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D.C.

For further details see (1) the application submitted by Texas Technological College, and (2) a hazards analysis prepared by the Hazards Evaluation Branch of the Division of Licensing and Regulation, both on file at the AEC's Public Document Room. A copy of item (2) above may be obtained at the AEC's Public Document Room or upon request addressed to the Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D.C., Attention: Director, Division of Licensing and Regulation.

Dated at Germantown, Md., this 12th day of July 1960.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

H. L. PRICE,
Director, Division of Licensing and Regulation.

PROPOSED CONSTRUCTION PERMIT

1. By application dated January 27, 1960, (hereinafter referred to as "the application") Texas Technological College requested a Class 104 license, defined in § 50.21 of Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities", Title 10, Chapter I, CFR, authorizing construction and operation on the campus of the College in Lubbock, Texas, of a ten kilowatt pool-type, nuclear reactor (hereinafter referred to as "the facility").

2. The Atomic Energy Commission (hereinafter referred to as "the Commission") finds that:

A. The facility will be a utilization facility as defined in the Commission's regulations contained in Title 10, Chapter I, CFR, Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities".

B. The facility will be used in the conduct of research and development activities of the types specified in section 31 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, (hereinafter referred to as "the Act").

C. Texas Technological College is financially qualified to construct and operate the facility in accordance with the regulations contained in Title 10, Chapter I, CFR.

D. Texas Technological College and its contractor, Convair Division of General Dynamics Corporation, are technically qualified to design and construct the facility.

E. Texas Technological College has submitted sufficient information to provide reasonable assurance that the facility can be constructed and operated at the proposed location without undue risk to the health and safety of the public, and that omitted information necessary to complete the application will be supplied; and

F. The issuance of a construction permit to Texas Technological College will not be inimical to the common defense and security or to the health and safety of the public.

3. Pursuant to the Act and Title 10, CFR, Chapter 1, Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities", the Commission hereby issues a construction permit to Texas Technological College to construct the facility in accordance with the application. This permit shall be deemed to contain and be subject to the conditions specified in §§ 50.54 and 50.55 of said regulations; is subject to all applicable provisions of the Act and rules, regulations and orders of the Commission now or hereafter in effect; and is subject to the additional conditions specified below:

A. The earliest completion date of the facility is December 1, 1962.

The latest completion date of the facility is December 31, 1964.

The term "completion date" as used herein, means the date on which construction of the facility is completed except for the introduction of the fuel material.

B. The facility shall be constructed and located on the Texas Technological College campus in Lubbock, Texas, as specified in the application.

4. A license authorizing operation of the facility will not be issued by the Commission unless Texas Technological College has submitted to the Commission (by amendment to the application) additional data required to complete the hazards evaluation, and the Commission has found that the final design provides reasonable assurance that the health and safety of the public will not be endangered by operation of the facility in accordance with the specified procedures.

5. Upon completion (as defined in paragraph 3.A. above) of the construction of the facility in accordance with the terms and conditions of this permit, upon the filing of the additional information needed to bring the original application up-to-date, and upon finding that the facility authorized has been constructed and will operate in conformity with the application, as amended, and in conformity with the provisions of the Act and of the rules and regulations of the Commission, and in the absence of any good cause being shown to the Commission why the granting of a license would not be in accordance with the provisions of the Act, the Commission will issue a Class 104 license to Texas Technological College pursuant to section 104c of the Act, which license shall expire twenty-five (25) years after the date of this construction permit.

Date of issuance:

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-9065 etc.]

HUNT OIL CO. ET AL.

Order Redesignating Proceeding, Requiring Filing of Undertaking and Further Consolidating Proceedings[1]

JULY 13, 1960.

Hunt Oil Company, Docket Nos. G-9065, G-9568, G-11124, G-11360, G-13157, G-13191, G-13468, G-13504, G-13530, G-14082, G-14408, G-16422, G-16479, G-16639, G-18464, G-18555, G-18668, G-19755, G-19869, G-20531, RI60-202; Hunt Oil Company, Docket No. G-10414; Hunt Oil Company (Operator), et al., Docket Nos. G-16644, G-16937, G-19756, G-20532; Hunt Oil Company and H. L. Hunt, Docket No. G-18092; Hunt Oil Company, Docket No. G-20009.

On January 4, 1960, Hunt Oil Company (Hunt Oil) filed a "Notice of Succession and Adoption of H. L. Hunt's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1"[2] stating therein that Hunt Oil, by assignment dated November 12, 1959, had acquired the interest of H. L. Hunt, and certain others not material to this order, effective as of December 1, 1959. By order issued September 9, 1959, Supplement No. 11 of said rate schedule was made effective as of August 23, 1959, subject to possible refunds as such may be determined in the proceedings in Docket No. G-18092.

H. L. Hunt's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1 has been redesignated as Hunt Oil's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 52. It would appear that the proceeding in Docket No. G-18092 should be redesignated so as to make both assignor and assignee parties to the proceeding and to require a joint undertaking to be filed making H. L. Hunt, in this proceeding, primarily responsible for any refunds found necessary for the period between August 23, 1959, and November 30, 1959, and Hunt Oil, for the period beginning December 1, 1959. It would also appear appropriate that this proceeding should be consolidated with those previously consolidated with the proceedings in Docket No. G-9065, et al.

On October 5, 1959, Hunt Oil tendered Supplement Nos. 4, 5 and 6 to its FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 36. Said supplements, by order issued November 4, 1959, in Docket No. G-20009, were suspended until November 6, 1959, and thereafter until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed in said order and under the conditions therein stated. Since Hunt Oil has not complied with the conditions set out in the aforementioned order issued November 4, 1959, as to the filing of an undertaking, the aforementioned supplements are not effective as of this date. Rate Schedule No. 36 is also included in the proceedings in Docket Nos. G-16479, G-18555, G-20531 and RI60-202, which proceedings have previously been consolidated with G-9065 et al. It would appear appropriate that the proceeding in Docket No. G-20009 should also be consolidated with those previously consolidated with Docket Nos. G-9065, et al.

The Commission finds:

(1) Good cause exists for redesignating the proceeding in Docket No. G-18092 as Hunt Oil Company and H. L. Hunt.

(2) Good cause exists for consolidating the proceedings in Docket Nos. G-18092 and G-20009 with the aforementioned and previously consolidated proceedings.

The Commission orders:

(A) The proceeding in Docket No. G-18092 is hereby redesignated and entitled Hunt Oil Company and H. L. Hunt.

(B) Within 20-days from the issuance of this order, Hunt Oil Company and H. L. Hunt shall file a joint agreement and undertaking consistent with clause (B) of the Commission order issued September 9, 1959, in G-18092 except that H. L. Hunt shall be the party primarily responsible for any refunds found necessary as to sales prior to December 1, 1959, and Hunt Oil as to sales thereafter. The said undertaking shall supersede that heretofore filed by H. L. Hunt.

(C) Pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by the Natural Gas Act, including particularly sections 4, 5, 14, 15, and 16 thereof, and the Commission's rules and regulations (18 CFR, Ch. I), the proceedings in Docket Nos. G-18092 and G-20009 are consolidated with the aforementioned proceedings in the above-designated Docket Nos. G-9065, et al.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

[1] Previous Notice of Consolidation issued herein on April 30, 1959 and Orders of Consolidation issued herein on February 18, 1960 and April 15, 1960.

[2] The rate schedule covers natural gas produced in Southwest Speaks Field, Lavaca County, Texas, and sold to Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation. Lavaca County is located in the Texas Gulf Coast area which is included in Hunt Oil's Rate Area V as such is shown in the exhibits of record in these consolidated proceedings.

[Docket No. E-6953]

COMMONWEALTH EDISON CO.

Notice of Application

JULY 12, 1960.

Take notice that on June 30, 1960, an application was filed with the Federal Power Commission pursuant to section 203 of the Federal Power Act by Commonwealth Edison Company ("Applicant"), seeking an order authorizing the acquisition of not to exceed $20,000,000, principal amount of 4¾ percent promissory notes of Commonwealth Edison Company of Indiana, Inc. (Indiana Company). Applicant having its principal business office at Chicago, Illinois, is incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois. It is a public utility company doing business in Illinois. Indiana Company, which has its principal business office at Chicago, Illinois, is incorporated under the laws of the State of Indiana and is operating as an electric utility company doing business in the State of Indiana. Indiana Company is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Applicant. Applicant proposes to acquire the aforesaid promissory notes from Indiana Company under a proposed agreement to provide for Indiana Company's State Line Unit 4 and other 1960-62 construction projects. Applicant states that the underlying reasons for the proposed agreement are (a) to set up a mutually desirable financial arrangement between Applicant and Indiana Company that will be the least costly and still be equitable to Applicant and Northern Indiana Public Service Company, the two customers of Indiana Company's State Line Station, and (b) to establish a reasonable 5¾ percent rate as a basis for Indiana Company charging interest during construction for its State Line Unit 4 and 1960-62 construction projects and for Indiana Company's compensation for use of funds advanced to it by Applicant. The aforesaid promissory notes will be due on December 31, 1997.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before the 25th day of July, 1960, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., petitions or protests in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). The application is on file and available for public inspection.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 812-1296]

ATLAS CORP. AND TITEFLEX, INC.

Notice of Filing of Application for Order Exempting Certain Transactions Between Affiliates

JULY 7, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Atlas Corporation ("Atlas"), a registered closed-end non-diversified management investment company, and Titeflex, Inc. ("Titeflex"), an affiliate of Atlas, have filed a joint application pursuant to section 17(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order exempting from the provisions of section 17(a) of the Act the proposed purchase by Titeflex from Atlas of certain promissory notes payable by Titeflex in exchange for cumulative preferred stock of Titeflex as described below.

Titeflex, a Massachusetts corporation, engages primarily in the manufacture and sale of flexible metal hose and fittings, together with electrical shielding, electrical components, and other aircraft and industrial products. Atlas is the owner of 1,380,379 shares of common stock, par value $1.00 per share, of Titeflex, constituting approximately 94.79 percent of the 1,456,292 outstanding shares of such stock. In addition, Atlas is the holder of promissory notes payable by Titeflex in the following aggregate principal amounts: 5 percent demand notes amounting to $4,113,531; 6 percent demand notes amounting to $1,210,000; 3½ percent notes due November 30, 1960 amounting to $187,000; and a 5 percent note due November 30, 1960 amounting to $53,000. All of the foregoing notes, aggregating $5,563,531, have been subordinated as to payment of principal under a V-Loan Agreement under which Titeflex has borrowed from a bank the maximum amount of $2,000,000 maturing December 31, 1960. Atlas has agreed with Titeflex to take no action in the absence of bankruptcy or reorganization to enforce the payment of the demand notes prior to November 30, 1960.

Titeflex and Atlas propose to replace such subordinated notes with a new issue of preferred stock of Titeflex, the requisite stockholder approval having been obtained and the Agreement of Association and Articles of Organization having been amended to authorize the issuance of not in excess of 300,000 shares of $1.25 cumulative preferred stock, without par value. Each share will have a liquidation preference of $25.00, a redemption price of $26.25, and will be entitled to one vote on all matters. There will also be an annual sinking fund in an amount equal to 25 percent of net profits after taxes for the preceding year.

Titeflex proposes to issue on or before July 31, 1960, shares of such preferred stock to Atlas in return for the cancellation of the subordinated indebtedness referred to above on the basis of one share for every $25.00 of principal amount of such indebtedness and interest accrued thereon to the date of issuance of such preferred stock. Approximately 233,000 shares of preferred stock will be issued to Atlas on this basis.

Applicants state that the proposed transaction will simplify the capital structure of Titeflex and improve its ability to obtain credit by eliminating numerous outstanding promissory notes and increasing the amount of its capital stock account. Titeflex will be replacing a fixed interest obligation with an obligation to pay dividends which, though cumulative and preferred to the dividend rights of common stockholders, is contingent upon the existence of surplus and declaration by the board of directors. The Titeflex stockholders will be required to share their equity and voting interests in the corporation with a new preferred stock, although this requirement will have little practical effect in view of the fact that Atlas already owns approximately 95 percent of the common stock of Titeflex.

Applicants further state that Atlas will have its equity and voting rights increased, its right to dividends will be unlimited as to time, and the improvement in the balance sheet of Titeflex may reduce the frequency of guaranties and advances made by Atlas to Titeflex and may enable Titeflex to obtain business from customers who have been deterred from dealing with Titeflex because of its heavy debt. Atlas is giving up the rights which it would have as a creditor in the event of liquidation and accepting a right to dividends, as declared, in lieu of fixed interest.

Section 17(a) of the Act, in relevant part, prohibits an affiliated person (Titeflex) of a registered investment company (Atlas) from purchasing from such registered investment company any security not issued by the seller (notes of Titeflex), unless the Commission upon application pursuant to section 17(b) grants an exemption from the provisions of section 17(a), after finding that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned, that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of each registered investment company concerned, as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the Act, and is consistent with the general purposes of the Act.

Notice is hereby given that any interested person may, not later than July 30, 1960 at 12:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

By the Commission.

Notice is hereby given that Boston Fund, Inc. ("Fund"), a registered open-end investment company, has filed an application pursuant to section 6(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 22(d) of the Act the proposed issuance of its shares at net asset value for substantially all of the cash and securities of The Hartford Investment Company ("Hartford").

The Fund offers its shares to the public on a continuous basis at net asset value plus varying sales charges dependent on the amount purchased. As of April 30, 1960, the net assets of the Fund amounted to $220,937,856 and it had outstanding 13,410,691 shares of capital stock.

Hartford, a Connecticut corporation and a personal holding company having no more than 45 shareholders, is excepted from registration under the Act by reason of the provisions of section 3(c)(1) thereof.

Pursuant to an agreement between the Fund and Hartford, substantially all of the cash and securities owned by Hartford having a value of approximately $8,200,000 as of March 31, 1960, will be sold to the Fund in exchange for shares of its capital stock. The number of Fund shares to be delivered to Hartford will be determined by dividing the net asset value per share of the Fund in effect as of the close of business on the last full business day of the New York Stock Exchange before the closing date into the value of the Hartford assets to be exchanged. Prior to the closing date, Hartford will sell those securities held by it, consisting primarily of tax-exempt bonds, which the Fund does not wish to acquire. The Fund and Hartford will each bear its own expenses in carrying out the agreement and Hartford will retain a cash reserve not in excess of $30,000 for payment of its liabilities and expenses of liquidation and dissolution.

The value of the assets of Hartford to be transferred will be determined in the same manner as net asset value is calculated for the purpose of issuing Fund shares. Since the exchange will be tax free for Hartford and its shareholders, the Fund's cost basis for tax purposes on the assets acquired from Hartford will be the same as for Hartford rather than the price actually paid for the assets by the Fund. However, the unrealized appreciation on the Hartford assets is proportionately less than on the Fund's assets, amounting to approximately 10.9 percent and 24.2 percent, respectively, as of March 31, 1960.

The application recites that the agreement was negotiated by the parties at arm's length and that no affiliation exists between them. It further recites that the Fund will hold the securities to be acquired under the agreement for investment and that their acquisition is consistent with the investment policy of the Fund as described in its registration statement.

Section 22(d) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that no registered investment company shall sell any redeemable security issued by it to any person except at a current offering price described in the prospectus, with certain exceptions not applicable here. Under the terms of the agreement the shares of the Fund are to be issued to Hartford at a price other than the public offering price stated in the prospectus.

Section 6(c) of the Act authorizes the Commission by order upon application to exempt, conditionally or unconditionally, any transaction from any provision of the Act or of any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that the Commission finds that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 26, 1960, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule O–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

By the Commission.

§ 443.1638 General statement.

The purchase program provided for in this subpart is a part of the 1960 Cottonseed Price Support Program formulated by Commodity Credit Corporation (hereinafter referred to as "CCC") and the Commodity Stabilization Service (hereinafter referred to as "CSS"). This subpart states the terms and conditions (a) under which ginners, who file Ginner's Notices of Intention to Participate (see § 443.1644(b)) and who otherwise comply with the applicable provisions of this subpart (hereinafter referred to as "participating ginners"), may sell eligible 1960-crop cottonseed, which they have purchased from eligible producers at not less than prescribed minimum prices, to CCC in cases where refusal by oil millers to purchase such seed from participating ginner at prices not less than the f.o.b. gin price to ginners which CCC agrees to pay as provided in §443.1643(b) makes purchases by CCC from such participating ginners necessary, and (b) under which producers may sell directly to CCC 1960-crop cottonseed in cases where nonparticipation by ginners under this subpart makes such purchases necessary. The program will be carried out by CSS under the general supervision and direction of the Executive Vice President, CCC. The requirements with respect to loans to producers are contained in the 1960 CCC Cottonseed Bulletin 1 (§§ 443.1601 to 443.1622).

(a) Operations under the program with respect to the purchase, transportation, handling, and storage of cottonseed prior to delivery of the cottonseed to an oil miller or to a storage facility approved by the New Orleans CSS Commodity Office (such storage facility will hereinafter be referred to as "approved storage facility") will be administered through Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (hereinafter referred to as "ASC") State and county committees (hereinafter referred to as "State" and "county" committees). All contracts in connection with such operations may be executed on behalf of CCC only by authorized CCC contracting officers.

(b) Contracts for the storage and handling of cottonseed subsequent to delivery of the cottonseed to an oil miller or an approved storage facility for the sale, crushing, and processing of cottonseed, and for the transportation, storage, handling, and sale of the products derived therefrom, will be executed by CCC contracting officers in the New Orleans CSS Commodity Office, Wirth Building, 120 Marais Street, New Orleans 16, Louisiana (hereinafter referred to as "the New Orleans office").

(c) ASC county office managers, ASC State and county committees, and the New Orleans office do not have authority to modify or waive any of the provisions of this subpart or any amendments thereto.

§ 443.1640 Availability of program.

(a) Area. The purchase program will be available in all cotton-producing areas of the United States.

(b) Time. Purchases will be made from the date of the issuance of this subpart through February 28, 1961.

(c) Source. (1) Purchases of eligible cottonseed will be made by participating ginners from producers. Purchases (subject to the $50,000 limitation contained in P.L. 86-80) of eligible cottonseed will also be made directly from producers by CCC through county committees in areas where ginners do not participate in the program and the appropriate State committee determines that such direct purchases are necessary in order to make the program effective. Payments to producers for cottonseed purchased by CCC and for any authorized transportation performed by the producers, in accordance with § 443.1643 (a), will be made by ASC county offices by means of sight drafts drawn on CCC.

(2) Purchases of eligible cottonseed will be made by oil mills from participating ginners and others. Purchases of eligible cottonseed will also be made from participating ginners by CCC through ASC county offices in areas where oil millers refuse to pay such ginners at least the f.o.b. price to ginners for their cottonseed which CCC agrees to pay as provided in § 443.1643(b), and the appropriate State Committee determines that such purchases are necessary to make the program effective. Payments to participating ginners for cottonseed purchased by CCC will be made by ASC county offices by means of sight drafts drawn on CCC.

(3) Lists of participating ginners will be maintained in the ASC State and county offices.

§ 443.1641 Eligible producer.

(a) An eligible producer shall be any individual, partnership, corporation, association, trust, estate, or other legal entity, or a State or political subdivision thereof or an agency of such State or political subdivision, producing cottonseed in 1960 in the capacity of landowner, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper.

(b) No person will be eligible to receive more than $50,000 in nonrecourse price support from CCC on 1960-crop cottonseed through direct purchases by and loans by CCC unless he has qualified for an exemption from the $50,000 limitation on nonrecourse price support contained in Pub. Law 86-80 through reduction of his production of cotton. The rules provided in the "Regulations Relating to the $50,000 Limitation of Nonrecourse Price Support for the 1960 Crop of Price Supported Field Crops in Surplus Supply" (25 F.R. 1001), as amended (hereinafter referred to as the "Regulations Relating to the $50,000 Limitation"), shall be applied for the purposes of this subpart to determine whether certain individuals or legal entities are to be treated as one person or as separate persons for the purpose of applying the $50,000 limitation in Pub. Law 86-80 and whether producers come within the exemption from such limitation through reduction of their production. Any person who, on the basis of a reduction of his production, desires to qualify for an exemption from the $50,000 limitation shall file an application with the ASC county committee in accordance with the Regulations Relating to the $50,000 Limitation. Persons who have not qualified for an exemption from the $50,000 limitation on nonrecourse price support may obtain price support from CCC by means of recourse loans on their 1960-crop cottonseed in excess of that which may be tendered to CCC for nonrecourse price support, in accordance with the provisions of 1960 Cottonseed Bulletin 1.

(c) Eligible producers who are members of cooperative marketing associations may act collectively through their associations in selling their cottonseed: Provided, (1) The cottonseed to be sold are delivered to the association by such producers; and (2) the association has been granted by such producer-members the legal right to sell the cottonseed.

§ 443.1642 Eligible cottonseed.

Eligible cottonseed shall be cottonseed which meet the following requirements:

(a) Such cottonseed must have been produced in the United States in 1960 by an eligible producer.

(b) Such cottonseed must have been produced by the person tendering them for purchase, or by the person who delivered the cottonseed to the cooperative association or ginner tendering the cottonseed for purchase, and the beneficial interest in the cottonseed must be in such person at the time he makes such tender or delivery and must always have been in him or in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the cottonseed were harvested. Cottonseed tendered by a cooperative association for purchase must have been produced and delivered to the association by its producer-members. Any person tendering cottonseed for purchase must have the legal right to sell the cottonseed.

(a) Price to producers. (1) Any direct purchases by CCC from producers will be made at gin or other designated point of delivery at the rate of $34.00 per gross ton for basis grade (100) cottonseed, with premiums and discounts for other grades equal to the same percentage of such price as the percentage by which the grade of cottonseed purchased exceeds or is less than basis grade (100). The price per ton thus computed may be rounded to the nearest multiple of ten cents. The grade of eligible cottonseed purchased by CCC directly from producers shall be considered to be the average grade of cottonseed for the area in which the purchase is made (see § 443.1648) as determined on the basis of the latest cottonseed grade report for the area published by CSS or as determined by such other method as the Executive Vice President, CCC, may approve. In areas where both upland and American-Egyptian cotton are grown, the CSS grade report for any such area shall specify the average grade for each such type of cottonseed, and the price to be paid producers in the area shall be determined on the basis of the average grade for the area for the type of cottonseed purchased. The average grade for Sea Island and Sealand cottonseed shall be considered to be that reported for cottonseed in the area in which such cottonseed are produced. Notwithstanding the requirements in this subparagraph, if at any time while direct purchases are being made by CCC, the State ASC administrative officer determines that the average grade for an area, as determined on the basis of the latest cottonseed grade report for the area published by CSS, is higher than the grade of cottonseed being produced in any county in such area where direct purchases are being made, the State ASC administrative officer may reduce the price paid to producers in such county below the price established on the basis of the average grade for the area: Provided, That no producer shall be paid, during the period such reduced prices are effective, less than $34.00 per gross ton basis grade (100) cottonseed with price adjustments computed upon the difference between the average grade of cottonseed produced in the county during such period and basis grade (100). The average grade of cottonseed produced in the county during such period shall be determined on the basis of official chemical analysis covering cottonseed produced in such county or on such other reasonable basis as may be determined by the appropriate State ASC administrative officer.

(2) The grade of any cottonseed purchased before there is sufficient information available to make a determination of the grade of cottonseed for an area shall be considered to be 99.

(3) If authorized by the county office manager, the producer may deliver the seed at an oil mill, approved storage facility, or designated concentration point rather than at the gin or designated point of delivery, and the producer will be paid for the additional transportation at a rate not in excess of the commercial rate for such transportation service.

(b) Price to ginners. (1) (i) Any purchases by CCC from participating ginners will be at the rate of $30.00 per net ton for basis grade (100) cottonseed, f.o.b. conveyance or carrier at the gin, with premiums and discounts for other grades equal to the same percentage of such price as the percentage by which the grade of cottonseed purchased exceeds or is less than basis grade (100). Cottonseed which are "below grade" or "off-quality," as defined in the United States Official Standards for Grades of Cottonseed, will be purchased from participating ginners by CCC at the market value of such cottonseed as determined by CCC. The grades of cottonseed purchased by CCC from such ginners shall be determined in accordance with the United States Official Standards for Grades of Cottonseed by chemical analysis of samples drawn from the cottonseed by federally-licensed cottonseed samplers or such other persons as are approved by CCC, and forwarded to and analyzed by federally-licensed cottonseed chemists. A ginner tendering cottonseed for purchase by CCC must not have paid any producer for cottonseed purchased by the ginner on or after the date of filing notice of his intention to participate in the program less than $34.00 per gross ton basis grade (100), plus or minus a percentage of such price equal to the percentage by which the average grade of cottonseed for the area in which the gin is located (see § 443.1648) exceeded or was less than basis grade (100). Such average grade shall be determined on the basis of the latest CSS grade report for the area at the time of purchase from such producer or by such other method as the Executive Vice President, CCC, may approve. In areas where both upland and American-Egyptian cotton are grown, the CSS grade report for any such area shall report the average grade for each such type of cottonseed, and the price to be paid producers in the area shall be determined on the basis of the average grade for the area for the type of cottonseed purchased. The average grade for Sea Island and Sealand cottonseed shall be considered to be that reported for cottonseed in the area in which such cottonseed are produced. If it is determined by the county office manager and the State ASC administrative officer that any participating ginner paid any producer less than the prices he should have paid under the foregoing provisions of this section, such ginner shall not, without prejudice to any other rights which CCC may have, be eligible to make any further sales to CCC under the 1960 Cottonseed Price Support Program.

(ii) Notwithstanding the preceding requirements as to price, a participating ginner, after first notifying the county office manager for the county where the gin is located of his intention to do so, may reduce the price paid to producers below the price established on the basis of the average grade for the area: Provided, That the ginner shall not pay any producer during the period he is paying such reduced price less than $34.00 per gross ton basis grade (100), with price adjustments computed upon the difference between the average grade of cottonseed produced at the gin during such period and basis grade (100). The average grade of cottonseed produced at the gin during such period shall be determined on the basis of official chemical analysis or oil mill grade reports covering such cottonseed or on such other reasonable basis as may be approved by the county office manager. The ginner shall furnish the county office with certified copies of such chemical analyses, grade reports, or other evidence satisfactory to the county office manager, showing the average grade of cottonseed produced at the gin during such period. If it is determined by the State ASC administrative officer and county office manager that any participating ginner paid producers less than the prices he should have paid in accordance with the preceding three sentences, such ginner shall, without prejudice to any other rights which CCC may have, be ineligible to make any further sales to CCC under the 1960 Cottonseed Price Support Program unless he first pays all of such producers the difference between the price paid to the producers and the price they should have received.

(iii) A ginner may round per ton prices for cottonseed purchased from producers to the nearest multiple of ten cents.

(2) The grade of any cottonseed purchased from a producer before there is sufficient information available to make a determination of the grade of cottonseed for an area shall be considered to be 90.

(3) If the ginner, upon authorization by the county office manager, transports cottonseed from the gin to oil miller, or approved storage facility, or designated concentration point, the ginner will be paid for such transportation at a rate not in excess of the commercial rate for such transportation service.

§ 443.1644 Approved forms.

The approved forms, together with the provisions of this subpart and any supplements and amendments thereto, shall govern the rights and responsibilities of producers and participating ginners. Approved forms may be obtained from ASC county offices. Any fraudulent representation made by a producer or ginner in executing an approved form may render him subject to criminal prosecution under Federal law and liable for any damages resulting from the purchase of the cottonseed involved. Documents executed by an administrator, executor, or trustee will be acceptable only where valid in law. The approved forms consist of the following:

(a) Producers. Producer's voucher (CCC Cottonseed Purchase Form 5) shall be executed by the producer when the cottonseed are purchased from the producer by CCC.

(b) Cotton ginners. (1) Each cotton ginner desiring to sell cottonseed to CCC pursuant to this subpart shall, prior to tender of any cottonseed for sale, file with the county office for the county in which each gin is located a Ginner's Notice of Intention to Participate (CCC Cottonseed Purchase Form 1). The filing of such notice does not obligate the ginner to sell any cottonseed to CCC, but all applicable provisions of this subpart must be complied with by the ginner if any cottonseed are offered by the ginner for sale to CCC under the 1960 Cottonseed Price Support Program. Only cottonseed purchased by a participating ginner from a producer after the filing of the Ginner's Notice of Intention to Participate shall be eligible for purchase by CCC under this subpart.

(2) After the Ginner's Notice of Intention to Participate has been filed, a Ginner's Certificate (CCC Cottonseed Purchase Form 2) shall be completed and executed by the participating ginner to cover all cottonseed purchased by him from producers, and the form shall be submitted by the ginner to the appropriate county office at such times and covering such periods of time as the State ASC administrative officer determines are necessary to make the program effective.

(3) If cottonseed are sold to CCC, the ginner shall prepare and execute a Ginner's Voucher and Certificate (CCC Cottonseed Purchase Form 4) covering the cottonseed and deliver the form to the county office. Each Ginner's Voucher and Certificate submitted by a ginner to the county office shall be supported by weight certificates or warehouse receipts covering the cottonseed purchased which have been issued by an oil miller, or an approved storage facility, or a representative of the county committee at a designated concentration point, and in the absence of warehouse receipts guaranteeing grade, by official chemical analyses certificates covering the cottonseed and identifying such cottonseed by lot numbers and/or receipt numbers and weights.

§ 443.1645 Determination of quantity.

The quantity of cottonseed purchased from the producer by CCC shall be the gross weight actually delivered to CCC as determined by a representative of the county committee, or by an approved storage facility, or by an oil miller. The quantity of cottonseed purchased from a producer by a participating ginner shall be the gross weight of the cottonseed as customarily determined by the ginner in his purchases of cottonseed from producers. The quantity of cottonseed purchased from a ginner by CCC shall be the net weight of the cottonseed at first destination after deduction of the weight of any foreign matter in excess of one percent.

If liens or encumbrances exist on the cottonseed, proper waivers must be obtained.

§ 443.1647 Setoffs.

Where CCC makes direct purchases of cottonseed from producers, setoffs will be made as follows:

(a) If any installment or installments on any loan made available by CCC on farm-storage facilities or mobile drying equipment are payable, under the provisions of the note evidencing such loan, out of any amount due the producer under the program provided for in this subpart, the producer must designate CCC or the lending agency holding such note as payee of such amount to the extent of such installments, but not to exceed that portion of the amount remaining after deduction of service charges and amounts due prior lienholders.

(b) If the producer is indebted to CCC, or if the producer is indebted to any other agency of the United States, and such indebtedness is listed on the county debt record, amounts due the producer under the program provided for in this subpart, after deduction of amounts payable on farm-storage facilities or mobile drying equipment and other amounts provided in paragraph (a) of this section, shall be applied, as provided in the Secretary's Setoff Regulations, 7 CFR Part 13 (23 F.R. 3757), to such indebtedness.

(c) Compliance with the provisions of this section shall not deprive the producer of any right he might otherwise have to contest the justness of the indebtedness involved in the setoff action either by administrative appeal or by legal action.

§ 443.1648 Grade reporting areas.

Areas for grade reporting purposes will be established by the Director, Cotton Division, CSS, and a list of area delineation may be obtained from the applicable ASC State office or the Director of the Cotton Division, CSS, Washington 25, D.C.

Issued this 14th day of July 1960.

AUTHORITY: Secs. 818.1 to 818.11 issued under sec. 403, 61 Stat. 932; 7 U.S.C. 1153. Interpret or apply secs. 101, 408; 61 Stat. 922, as amended, 933, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 1101, P.L. 86-592, approved July 6, 1960.

§ 818.1 Basis and purpose, and persons affected.

(a) The regulations in this part establish, under authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, as amended), and as further amended by Public Law 86-592, approved July 6, 1960, (1) for the calendar year 1960 the amount of non-quota purchase sugar which may be imported into the continental United States (including Alaska) for consumption therein from all foreign countries, and (2) the procedures applicable to importing such sugar. To permit non-quota purchase sugar to be marketed in an orderly manner it is essential that this regulation be made effective immediately. Therefore, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary, impracticable, and contrary to the public interest, and these regulations shall become effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(b) Persons affected by the provisions of this part include importers, mainland refiners, shipping companies engaged in the transportation of sugar to ports in the continental United States, and persons otherwise engaged in the movement of sugar in interstate or foreign commerce.

(k) The term "non-quota purchase sugar" means sugar purchased pursuant to the provisions of sec. 408(b)(2) of the act.

§ 818.3 Non-quota purchases of sugar authorized.

Non-quota purchases of sugar, in accordance with sec. 408(b) of the act, are authorized to be made in accordance with the provisions of this part. Such non-quota purchases must be made after July 6, 1960, from the producer of such sugar or from a citizen, partnership, corporation, or other legal entity, or Government agency, of the country in which the sugar was produced, for shipment to the United States, or after shipment to the United States.

For the calendar year 1960 the amount of non-quota purchase sugar to be imported into the continental United States for consumption therein from foreign countries is as follows:

Country:	Short tons, raw value

Panama	6,258
Costa Rica	6,267
Republic of the Philippines	109,755

The quantities of non-quota purchase sugar that may be imported into the continental United States for consumption therein established in this regulation may be amended from time to time to increase the quantities of sugar that may be imported from the countries named herein and to establish quantities for countries or groups of countries which are not named herein.

§ 818.5 Requirements relating to importing non-quota purchase sugar.

(a) Notwithstanding the provisions of Part 817 of this chapter, non-quota purchase sugar may be imported from the country where produced in accordance with the provisions of this part. The provisions of this part apply only to non-quota purchase sugar.

(b) Non-quota purchase sugar shall be imported only at Customs ports of entry.

(c) A copy of the ship's manifest, bills of lading, or other shipping documents covering all sugar in a shipment must be submitted to the Collector within 72 hours after the beginning of unlading of the sugar.

(d) The Collector shall take custody of such sugar and shall retain custody, at the risk and expense of the consignee or owner, until authorized to permit release thereof in accordance with § 818.7. In taking and retaining custody pursuant to these regulations, the Collector shall be governed by the provisions of §§ 4.37, 4.38, 19.1 through 19.9 and 19.12 of Chapter I, Title 19, Code of Federal Regulations, which are made applicable to such custody by reference as fully as if set forth in full herein.

§ 818.6 Application by importer.

(a) A separate application must be submitted as specified in paragraph (c) of this section on appropriate copies of a form prescribed by the Secretary entitled "Sugar Quota Clearance Record," with the changes hereinafter specified, not more than 10 days prior to the departure date stated thereon, showing the following information regarding the sugar to be delivered to a single refinery or importer from each cargo:

(1) Port and date of arrival. If the port is not known when the application is submitted, this information must be supplied before a Collector will be authorized to release the sugar.

(2) Name of the vessel or other specific identification of the carrier.

(2) Name of the producing area, the port of lading and the date the carrier is expected to depart from such port.

(4) Name and address of the person to whom delivery is to be made from the importing carrier. If not known when an application is submitted to the Sugar Division, this information must be supplied before a Collector will be authorized to release the sugar.

(5) Quantities, in pounds, to be imported as shown on the application; if in bags, identified by marks, quantities should be shown separately for each mark. The designation of separate quantities within the total to be imported which are identified by separate marks shall be shown on the report required pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, if such information cannot be shown at the time the application is submitted.

(6) Name, address and authorized signature of the applicant.

(b) Any application made pursuant to this section constitutes a representation by the applicant that at the time the application is made:

(1) He has control of the quantity of sugar which is subject to shipment as specified;

(2) Firm commitment has been made by the shipping company for shipment as described on the application; and

(3) The date of departure of the vessel or carrier stated on the application is (i) the date specified to the applicant or shipper by the Master, Owner or Agent of such vessel or carrier as the expected departure date, or (ii) the date the shipper expects the vessel to depart based on the date the vessel or carrier will be available for loading as specified by the Master, Owner or Agent of such vessel or carrier plus the normally required loading time.

(c) The application specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be submitted to the Sugar Division for the issuance of an authorization by the Secretary to the appropriate Collector for the release of sugar as provided in § 818.7.

(d) The specific authorization by the Secretary required pursuant to § 818.7 may be issued prior to the receipt of an application on appropriate copies of the "Sugar Quota Clearance Record" provided all of the information required pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (e) of this section is transmitted to the Sugar Division by telegram and such advance authorization is necessary to avoid delay in the delivery of the sugar.

(e) Any application made pursuant to this section shall contain over the signature of the applicant, the following certification:

This application is made under Sugar Regulation 818 for importing non-quota purchase sugar and is subject to all of the provisions of such regulation. The applicant certifies that he is either (1) the producer of the sugar, or (2) a citizen, partnership, corporation, or other legal entity, or government agency, of the country in which the sugar is produced, or (3) has purchased such sugar after July 6, 1960, from ----------, the producer of such sugar, or from ----------, a citizen, partnership, corporation, or other legal entity, or government agency, of the country in which the sugar is produced, for exportation to the United States.

(f) Within 30 days after release of the sugar by the Collector pursuant to § 818.7, the results of weights, samples and tests and the name of the person retaining the reserve portion of each sample as provided for in Part 810 of this subchapter shall be reported to the Sugar Division on the applicable copy of the "Sugar Quota Clearance Record" or a duplicate of such copy, together with information specified in paragraph (a) of this section. The period within which the report required pursuant to this paragraph must be made may be extended for good cause shown with respect to a specified shipment upon request to and approval by the Secretary.

§ 818.7 Release by a Collector.

A Collector of Customs may release sugar imported from any country for any purpose only upon specific authorization by the Secretary pursuant to § 818.8 with respect to each application required under § 818.6.

§ 818.8 Specific authorization for release.

(a) Time of issue and duration of validity. Specific authorizations by the Secretary for release by a Collector will be issued no more than 5 days prior to the stated date of departure of the vessel or other carrier on which the sugar is to be shipped. The authorization shall be valid for the period specified thereon, subject to extension by the Secretary for good cause, and shall be canceled only if mistakenly issued, a misrepresentation was made, the shipment does not depart within 3 days of the date stated on the application, or importation does not occur during the period specified. In case the port of arrival or the name of the receiver is not known when the application becomes eligible pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section, the authorization will not be transmitted to the Collector until all the information required by paragraph (a) of § 818.6 is received in the Sugar Division.

(b) Order of eligibility for authorization. An application on file with the Sugar Division for the release of sugar shall become eligible for authorization at 12:01 a.m., on the fifth calendar day prior to the date stated on the application as the date of departure of the shipment of sugar from the country of origin or at the time of receipt of the application, whichever time occurs later. The Secretary shall authorize the release of sugar by the Collector within the unfilled portion of the amount of non-quota purchase sugar authorized to be imported from a country in the same order in which the applications pertaining to such country become eligible for authorization: Provided, That, if two or more applications pertaining to the same country become eligible for authorization at the same time, such applications shall be authorized in the order of their stated date of departure (earliest first), and in such case if two or more such applications have the same date of departure and the quantity which may be authorized within the unfilled amount of non-quota purchase sugar assigned to such country is less than the sum of the applied-for quantities, the quantity authorized for each application shall be in the same proportion to the quantity which may be authorized within the unfilled portion as the quantity requested on each such application is to the sum of the quantities requested on all such applications.

(c) Extent of authorizations. No authorization shall be issued when the quantity of non-quota purchase sugar released for consumption in the continental United States, together with the quantity covered by valid authorizations issued hereunder but not yet released, equals the amount of non-quota purchase sugar assigned to the country.

(d) Denial of authorizations. Authorizations on applications otherwise eligible may be denied if the applicant has failed to report in the manner and within the time prescribed in this part with respect to shipments previously imported.

§ 818.9 Determination of quantities and time of effect.

(a) Non-quota purchase sugar imported shall be subject to the amount authorized to be imported from the country in which the sugar was produced.

(b) (1) Each quantity authorized for release pursuant to § 818.8 shall be effective for filling the amount of non-quota purchase sugar at the time the applicable authorization is issued. For this purpose the raw value of the authorized quantity shall be estimated by considering the relationship between other authorized quantities for recent shipment from the same country and the raw values thereof determined as provided in Title I of the act on the basis of weights and tests determined pursuant to Part 810 of this subchapter and such other factors as the Secretary deems applicable.

(2) Upon receipt of and on the basis of the report required pursuant to § 818.6 (f) covering an application initially given effect pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the quantity effective for filling the amount of non-quota purchase sugar shall be the quantity of sugar imported pursuant to the authorization to the extent of its raw value, as defined in Title I of the act and as finally computed from the weights and tests determined pursuant to Part 810 of this subchapter.

§ 818.10 Records and reports.

(a) For the purposes of this part, any quantities of sugar imported as crystalline sugar which are subsequently converted into and marketed as liquid sugar shall be reported subsequent to such conversion as the quantities of crystalline sugar so converted and the raw value thereof shall be determined as prescribed in paragraph (1), (2) or (3) of sec. 101 (h) of the act, applicable to the crystalline sugar so converted. Liquid sugar for which the quantities of converted crystalline sugar are unknown shall be reported in terms of the total sugar content and the raw value thereof shall be determined by multiplying the total sugar content by the factor 1.07.

(b) Each person subject to the provisions of this part shall keep and preserve, for a period of two years following the end of the calendar year in which the sugar was imported into the continental United States, an accurate record of the receipt, processing and movement of such sugar and of all tests and weights pertaining thereto. Upon request by any authorized employee of the Department, such records shall be made freely available for examination by such employee during the regular working hours of any business day.

(c) Each person subject to the provisions of this part shall make application for authorizations provided for in this part and shall report information as and when required by the Secretary on forms specified by him and approved by the Bureau of the Budget under the Federal Reports Act of 1942. In addition to the applications, authorizations and reports otherwise specifically referred to in this part, this requirement shall include, but is not necessarily limited to, the information prescribed on Form SU-73 or Form SU-74.

§ 818.11 Delegation of authority.

The Director, or Deputy Director, of the Sugar Division, or the Chief or Acting Chief of the Quota and Allotment Branch thereof, Commodity Stabilization Service of the Department, is hereby authorized to act for and on behalf of the Secretary in administering §§ 818.1 through 818.10.

Acting Secretary.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Valencia Orange Reg. 205, Amdt. 1]

PART 922—VALENCIA ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

Limitation of Handling

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 22, as amended (7 CFR Part 922), regulating the handling of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Valencia Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said marketing agreement and order, as amended, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such Valencia oranges as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restriction on the handling of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of § 922.505 (Valencia Orange Regulation 205, 25 F.R. 6459) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(ii) District 2: 600,000 cartons.

[Milk Order 63]

PART 963—MILK IN THE GREAT BASIN MARKETING AREA

Order Suspending Certain Provision

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Great Basin marketing area (7 CFR Part 963), it is hereby found and determined that:

(a) The following provision of the order no longer tends to effectuate the declared policy of the Act: In § 963.42 (c) (1), the phrase "the City Hall in Salt Lake City,".

(b) Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and 30 days notice of effective date hereof are impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that:

(1) This suspension order does not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date.

(2) This suspension order is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to maintain orderly marketing conditions in the marketing area.

(3) This suspension will allow handlers to transfer cream for manufacturing use greater distances to nonpool plants than at present and permit it to be classified as Class II milk, pending consideration of proposed amendments to the order. Such cream presently is classified as Class I milk if it is transferred to nonpool plants located outside the marketing area 225 miles or more from the City Hall in Salt Lake City, Utah. Substantial quantities of cream for manufacturing are being sold to plants located in excess of 225 miles from Salt Lake City. The urgency of the matter is such that its accommodation should be provided for immediately and not be delayed for the time necessary for analysis of the record evidence and the preparation and issuance of a recommended decision, a final decision, and an order on the proposed amendments being considered.

(4) Suspension action is based on the request of producers' associations representing more than 90 percent of the producers supplying the market and evidence presented by them at a hearing held in South Salt Lake, Utah, May 10–12, 1960. No opposition testimony was offered by handlers.

Therefore, good cause exists for making this order effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

It is therefore ordered, That the aforesaid provision of the order is hereby suspended effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Secs. 1–19, 49 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 18th day of July 1960.

Assistant Secretary.

Title 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter II—Federal Reserve System

SUBCHAPTER A—BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

[Reg. H]

PART 208—MEMBERSHIP OF STATE BANKING INSTITUTIONS IN THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Stock Dividend

§ 208.102 Necessity for Board approval of stock dividend by State member bank.

(a) The opinion of the Board of Governors has been requested as to whether section 5199(b) of the Revised Statutes of the United States, as amended September 8, 1959 (12 U.S.C. 60), requires the Board's approval for the declaration of a stock dividend by a State member bank in an amount which would exceed the total of net profits for the present year combined with the retained net profits of the preceding two years. This statute is made applicable to State member banks by the sixth paragraph of section 9 of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 324).

(b) The purpose of this provision is to prevent the depletion of the capital structure of a bank by the payment of excessive dividends. Since a stock dividend does not result in the distribution of cash or assets, the Board does not consider the term "dividend" in this statute as including stock dividends. Consequently, the Board's approval for the declaration of a stock dividend is not required.

(Sec. 11(1), 38 Stat. 263; 12 U.S.C. 248(1). Interprets sec. 315, 40 Stat. 712, as amended; 12 U.S.C. 60)

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket 60-WA-63]

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Designation of Federal Airway and Associated Control Areas

On April 2, 1960, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 2907) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to designate VOR Federal airway No. 494 and its associated control areas from Sacramento, Calif., to Elko, Nev.

As stated in the Notice, the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to designate Victor 494 from the Sacramento VOR via the intersection of the Sacramento VOR 038° True and the 249° True radial of a VOR to be installed approximately October 1, 1960, near Lake Tahoe, Calif., at latitude 39°10'50" N., longitude 120° 16'07" W.; Lake Tahoe VOR; intersection of the Lake Tahoe VOR 078° True radial and the 244° True radial of a VOR to be installed approximately May 4, 1960, near Fallon, Nev., at latitude 39°30'58" N., longitude 118°59'47" W.; Fallon VOR; via a VOR to be installed approximately June 1, 1960, near Mount Moses, Nev., at latitude 40°11'30" N., longitude 117°24'59" W., to the Elko VOR. The designation of this airway is a part of a plan to establish a dual airway system between the San Francisco/Oakland, Calif., and the Chicago, Ill., terminal areas.

Subsequent to the publication of the Notice, the site of the Mount Moses VOR was corrected to latitude 40°11'42" N., longitude 117°24'38" W. This change is minor in nature since it is less than 1 mile from the original site. Additionally, the commissioning date of the Lake Tahoe and Fallon VORs has been rescheduled to November 1, 1960. The commissioning date of the Mount Moses VOR has been rescheduled to October 31, 1960. Although not mentioned in the Notice, the segment of Victor 494 between Fallon and Mount Moses penetrates the Fallon Restricted Area (R-267). Action is taken herein to exclude the area which coincides with R-267 from the airway's description.

The Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association concurred in the designation of Victor 494. However, AOPA suggested the relocation of the Fallon VOR to a point where it will serve as an approach aid to the Fallon Civil and Naval Airports, and the relocation of the Mount Moses VOR to a point 17 miles south southeast, which would permit alignment of Victor 494 to avoid R-267. The Fallon VOR is so located that it will serve the Fallon Naval Auxiliary Air Station as an instrument approach aid with proposed weather minimums of 1000 foot ceiling and one mile visibility during the day and 1000 foot ceiling and two miles visibility at night. An instrument approach procedure for the Fallon (Civil) Airport is being developed and weather minimums are expected to be 1,500 foot ceiling and one mile visibility. Since the altitude limitation on the Fallon Restricted Area (R-267) is 8,000 feet MSL, which is 3,000 feet below the minimum en route altitude of 11,000 feet proposed for this segment of Victor 494, the Federal Aviation Agency does not consider this to be in confliction with the management of IFR traffic utilizing the airway.

The Department of the Navy requested that a minimum en route altitude of not less than 10,000 feet be established for the segment of Victor 494 between the Lake Tahoe and Mount Moses VORs to enhance air safety in connection with flight activities emanating from the Fallon NAAS, and activities being conducted in the Fallon Restricted Area (R-268). An MEA of not less than 10,000 feet will be established for this route segment.

The Department of the Air Force submitted an objection to the designation of Victor 494 between Lake Tahoe and Fallon VORs due to the confliction of this airspace with the VOR jet penetration procedures for Reno, Nev. The Federal Aviation Agency anticipates no difficulty in the control of air traffic in this area. A suitable by-pass route of the Reno jet penetration area exists and can be utilized during those periods when heavy jet activity so dictates. Any air traffic control problems that may exist between terminal traffic at Reno and en route traffic on the airway will be resolved on a procedural basis by the appropriate air route traffic control center to ensure efficient air traffic management.

No other adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530), Parts 600 (24 F.R. 10487) and 601 (24 F.R. 10530) are amended by adding the following sections:

§ 600.6494 VOR Federal airway No. 494 (Sacramento, Calif., to Elko, Nev.).

From the Sacramento, Calif., VORTAC via the INT of the Sacramento VORTAC 038° True and the Lake Tahoe, Calif., VOR 249° True radials; Lake Tahoe VOR; INT of the Lake Tahoe VOR 078° True and the Fallon, Nev., VOR 244° True radials; Fallon VOR; Mount Moses, Nev., VOR; to the Elko, Nev., VORTAC. The portion of this airway which lies within the geographic limits of, and between the designated altitudes of the Fallon, Nev., Restricted Area (R-267) is excluded during the time of designation of this restricted area.

All of VOR Federal airway No. 494.

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t., January 12, 1961.

(Secs. 307(a), 313(a), 72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 13, 1960.

D. D. THOMAS,
Director, Bureau of Air Traffic Management.

[Airspace Docket 60-WA-110]

PART 602—ESTABLISHMENT OF CODED JET ROUTES AND NAVIGATIONAL AIDS IN THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA

Modification of Coded Jet Route

On April 26, 1960, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 3597) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering an amendment to § 602.543 of the regulations of the Administrator which would extend VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 43 from Dayton, Ohio, to Peck, Mich.

As stated in the Notice, J-43-V presently extends from Key West, Fla., to Dayton, Ohio. The Federal Aviation Agency proposed to extend J-43-V from Dayton to Peck direct station to station to provide a route for high altitude traffic operating between the Atlanta, Ga., and the Detroit, Mich./Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich., terminal areas.

The Department of the Air Force objected to the extension of J-43-V for the reasons that the proposed extension would conflict with the Selfridge AFB Military Climb Corridor, and the route would conflict with the Selfridge AFB TACAN approach procedures and holding pattern.

The Air Force noted that other airspace action has been implemented for the express purpose of by-passing the Detroit/Selfridge high density area. They also stated the Air Force has no operational requirement for such a route and recommended that the proposed route be terminated in the vicinity of Detroit which would eliminate the conditions noted above.

In view of the comments received regarding the proposed extension of J-43-V, the Federal Aviation Agency is extending this route via the direct radial between the Dayton and Peck VORs to the intersection of VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 84. This action will result in the termination of J-43-V south of the Selfridge AFB area, which will eliminate the objections of the Air Force, yet still serve the Detroit terminal area.

No other adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. August 13, 1960.

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 27—CANNED FRUITS AND CANNED FRUIT JUICES; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY; QUALITY; AND FILL OF CONTAINER

Canned Pineapple; Order Amending Standard of Identity

In the matter of amending the definition and standard of identity for canned pineapple:

A notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of March 25, 1960 (25 F.R. 2548), setting forth a proposal by the National Canners Association, 1133 Twentieth Street NW., Washington 36, D.C., to amend the definition and standard of identity for canned pineapple to provide for the optional addition of mint flavoring. The Commissioner of Food and Drugs invited interested persons to submit their views and comments on the proposal and also on the advisability of expanding the proposed amendment to make spice, flavoring (other than artificial flavoring), and vinegar permitted optional ingredients.

Upon consideration of all views and comments submitted and other relevant information, it is concluded that to promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers the definition and standard of identity for canned pineapple should be amended as hereinafter set forth. Therefore, pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 401, 701, 52 Stat. 1046, 1055, as amended 70 Stat. 919, 72 Stat. 948, 21 U.S.C. 341, 371) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (22 F.R. 1045, 23 F.R. 9500): It is ordered, That the definition and standard of identity for canned pineapple (21 CFR 27.50) be amended as follows:

1. Section 27.50(a) is amended by inserting a new sentence reading, "Canned pineapple may be flavored or seasoned with one or more of the optional ingredients specified in paragraph (e) of this section" immediately preceding the last sentence of that paragraph, so that as amended the last two sentences in § 27.50(a) shall read:

(a) * * * Canned pineapple may be flavored or seasoned with one or more of the optional ingredients specified in paragraph (e) of this section. Such food is sealed in containers, and is so processed by heat, either before or after sealing, as to prevent spoilage.

2. Section 27.50 is further amended by inserting therein a new paragraph to provide for the use of the optional ingredients spice, flavoring, and vinegar and a new subparagraph in redesignated paragraph (g) to provide for appropriate labeling. As amended, § 27.50 (e), (f), and (g) read as follows:

(e) The optional ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are as follows:

(1) Spice.

(2) Flavoring, other than artificial flavoring.

(3) A vinegar.

(f) The name of the canned pineapple prepared from each of the optional forms of pineapple ingredient specified in paragraph (a) of this section is as follows:

(1) If the option form is one designated in paragraph (a) (1) to (7), inclusive, of this section, the name is "pineapple," preceded or followed, for each of the indicated optional forms of units, by the words here specified:

(a) (1) "Sliced" or "slices."
(a) (2) "Half sliced" or "half slices."
(a) (3) "Broken sliced" or "broken slices."
(a) (4) "Tidbits."
(a) (5) "Chunks."
(a) (6) "Cubes" or "diced."
(a) (7) "Spears" or "fingers."

(2) If the optional form is one designated in paragraph (a) (8) of this section, the name is "pineapple," preceded or followed by the word "crushed." If the crushed pineapple, when drained by the method specified in § 27.51(b) (1), yields not less than 73 percent but less than 78 percent by weight of drained material, the word "crushed" or the words "crushed pineapple" in the name of the food may be preceded or followed by the words "heavy pack," and if it yields 78 percent or more by weight of drained material the word "crushed" or the words "crushed pineapple" may be preceded or followed by the words "solid pack."

(g) (1) The labels of canned pineapple prepared from the optional forms of pineapple specified in paragraph (a) (1) to (7), inclusive, of this section shall bear the name of the optional packing medium used as specified in paragraph (b) of this section, preceded by "in" or "packed in." Whenever the optional packing medium pineapple juice, as specified in paragraph (b) (2) of this section, is used, the words "pineapple juice" may be preceded by the word "unsweetened." The labels of crushed pineapple canned with the optional packing media specified in paragraph (b) (2) to (6), inclusive, of this section shall bear the statement "in _____" or "packed in _____," the blank being filled in with the name of the optional packing medium used as specified in paragraph (b) of this section, but in lieu of such statement crushed pineapple canned with pineapple juice (paragraph (b) (2) of this section) may be labeled "unsweetened," and crushed pineapple canned with pineapple juice and sugar may be labeled "lightly sweetened" or "heavily sweetened" or "extra heavily sweetened," if the drained liquid conforms to the density ranges specified in paragraph (c) of this section for light sirup, heavy sirup, or extra heavy sirup, respectively.

(2) When any optional ingredient permitted by one of the following specified subparagraphs of paragraph (e) of this section is used, the label shall bear the words set forth below after the number of such subparagraph:

(e) (1) "Spiced" or "spice added" or "with added spice" or, in lieu of the word "spice," the common name of the spice.

(e) (2) "Flavoring added" or "with added flavoring" or, in lieu of the word "flavoring," the common name of the flavoring.

(e) (3) "Seasoned with vinegar" or "seasoned with _____ vinegar," the blank being filled in with the name of the vinegar used.

When two or all of the optional seasoning ingredients specified in paragraph (e) (1), (2), and (3) of this section are used, such words may be combined, as for example, "seasoned with vinegar, cloves, and cinnamon oil."

(3) Wherever the name of the food appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the words and statements herein specified, showing the optional ingredients used, shall conspicuously precede or follow the name, without intervening written, printed, or graphic matter, except that the adjectival designation of the State, Territory, or possession of the United States or of the foreign country in which the pineapples were grown may intervene.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C., written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Effective date. This order shall become effective 90 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, except as to any provisions that may be stayed by the filing of proper objections. Notice of the filing of objections or lack thereof will be announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

As amended, § 120.121 reads as follows:

This action is taken pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408(c), (e), 68 Stat. 511, 516; 21 U.S.C. 346a(c), (e)), and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (21 CFR 120.29(a)).

PART 121—FOOD ADDITIVES

Subpart D—Food Additives Permitted in Food for Human Consumption

DISTILLED ACETYLATED MONOGLYCERIDES

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, having evaluated the data submitted in a petition filed by Distillation Products Industries, Division of Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester 3, New York, and other relevant material, has concluded that the following food additive regulation should issue in conformance with section 409 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, with respect to the food additive distilled acetylated monoglycerides for use in or on food. Therefore, pursuant to the provisions of the act (sec. 409(c)(1), 72 Stat. 1786; 21 U.S.C. 348(c)(1)) and under the authority delegated to the Commissioner by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (23 F.R. 9500, 25 F.R. 5611), Subpart D (21 CFR Part 121) of the food additive regulations is amended by adding thereto the following new section:

§ 121.210 Distilled acetylated monoglycerides.

The food additive distilled acetylated monoglycerides may be safely used in or on food in accordance with the following prescribed conditions:

(a) The additive is manufactured from edible fats by interesterification with triacetin and catalytic agents that are not food additives as so defined, followed by a molecular distillation whereby the finished additive meets all the following specifications:

Monoglycerides: Not to exceed 25 percent.
Reichert-Meissl value: 75–150.
Acid value: Less than 6.

(b) It is used or intended for use as:
(1) A food coating agent.
(2) A food container component.
(3) An equipment lubricant.
(4) An emulsifier in food.

The acetylated monoglycerides from any such uses do not exceed 5 percent of the finished food when calculated from the percent fat in the finished food multiplied by the Reichert-Meissl value of the extracted fat, divided by 112.5.

(c) To insure safe use of the additive, the label of the food additive container shall bear, in addition to the other information required by the act:

(1) The name of the additive, "distilled acetylated monoglycerides" or "acetylated monoglycerides."

(2) Adequate use directions to provide a final product that complies with the limitations prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C. written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing, and such objections must be supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Title 26—INTERNAL REVENUE, 1954

Chapter I—Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury

SUBCHAPTER A—INCOME TAX

[T.D. 6483]

PART 17—TEMPORARY RULES RELATING TO THE DEALER RESERVE INCOME ADJUSTMENT ACT OF 1960

Elections or Other Actions by Taxpayers Under Provisions of Act

The following rules, prescribed under the Dealer Reserve Income Adjustment Act of 1960 (74 Stat. 124), relate to certain elections or other actions by taxpayers under the provisions of such Act.

The rules set forth herein are temporary rules designed to inform taxpayers as to how, when, and where to perform certain acts required or permitted under the Dealer Reserve Income Adjustment Act of 1960. More comprehensive rules with respect to the subject involved will be incorporated in subsequent regulations under the Act. The inclusion in this Treasury decision of rules relating to certain acts is intended to assist taxpayers in the performance of such acts. Rules with respect to other acts required or permitted by other provisions of the Act will be covered in subsequent regulations.

In order to prescribe temporary rules relating to certain elections or other actions by taxpayers under the provisions of the Dealer Reserve Income Adjustment Act of 1960, the following rules are hereby adopted:

§ 17.1–1 Elections under Dealer Reserve Income Adjustment Act of 1960.

(a) In general. The Dealer Reserve Income Adjustment Act of 1960 (74 Stat. 124) contains transitional provisions relating to adjustments to income resulting from a change in the income tax treatment of "dealer reserve income". This Act applies to any person who, for his most recent taxable year ending on or before June 22, 1959, (1) computed, or was required to compute, taxable income under an accrual method of accounting, (2) treated any dealer reserve income, which should have been taken into account (under the accrual method of accounting) for such taxable year, as accruable for a subsequent taxable year, and (3) before September 1, 1960, makes an election under either section 3(a) or 4(a) of the Act. These elections relate to the manner of computing adjustments to income resulting from the change in the treatment of "dealer reserve income". Section 4(b) provides an election in certain cases for the payment in installments of the net increase in tax resulting from the exercise of the election under section 4(a). These elections are applicable only with respect to adjustments resulting from the change in the treatment of dealer reserve income and the increase or decrease in tax resulting therefrom. For a definition of "dealer reserve income", see section 5(a) of the Act.

(b) Elections—(1) Election to have section 481 apply. Section 3(a) provides that if the taxpayer makes an election under that section, the change in the treatment of dealer reserve income shall be treated as a change in method of accounting not initiated by the taxpayer to which section 481 of the Internal Revenue Code applies. The year in which the change is considered to have been made in the earliest of the years described in section 3(b) in which the treatment of dealer reserve income is changed to a method proper under the accrual method of accounting.

(2) Election to have section 481 not apply. Section 4(a) provides that if the taxpayer makes an election under that section, the change in the treatment of dealer reserve income shall be treated as not a change in method of accounting to which section 481 of the Code applies. An election made under section 4(a) shall apply to all taxable years ending on or before June 22, 1959, for which the assessment of any deficiency, or for which refund or credit of any overpayment, was not, on June 21, 1960, prevented by the operation of any law or rule of law. If a valid election is made under section 4(a), whether or not an election under section 4(b) is also made, no interest shall be imposed on any underpayment and no interest shall be paid on any overpayment attributable to such election for the period beginning on the date of the election and ending on the date prescribed for payment of the tax for the taxable year in which the election was made.

(3) Election to pay in installments. Section 4(b) provides that if an election is made under section 4(a), and if the "net increase in tax" as defined in paragraph (2) of section 4(b) exceeds $2,500, then the taxpayer may elect to pay any portion of such increase unpaid on the date of election in 2 or more (but not to exceed 10) equal annual installments. In determining whether the net increase in tax resulting from the election exceeds $2,500, there shall be taken into account interest computed on any increase in tax from the due date for payment of the tax for the taxable year to which the increase relates to the date of election. Similarly, there shall be taken into account interest computed on any decrease in tax from the date of overpayment to the date of election.

(c) By whom election is to be made—(1) In general. Generally, the taxpayer to whom the Act applies will exercise the elections provided therein. In the case of a partnership or a corporation electing under the provisions of Subchapter S, Chapter 1 of the Code, the elections shall be exercised by the persons specified in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph, respectively.

(2) Partnerships. In the case of a partnership, the election under section 3 or 4(a) shall be exercised by the partnership. If an election is made by the partnership under section 4(a), any election under section 4(b) to pay the net increase in tax in installments shall be made by each partner separately. The determination as to whether the net increase in tax resulting from the section 4(a) election exceeds $2,500 shall be made with reference to the increase or decrease in the tax of each partner attributable to the adjustment to his distributive share of the partnership income resulting from the election.

(3) Subchapter S corporations. In the case of an electing small business corporation under Subchapter S, Chapter 1 of the Code, the election under section 3 or 4(a) shall be made by such corporation. An election under section 4(b) to pay the net increase in tax in installments shall, to the extent the net increase in tax resulting from the election is attributable to adjustments to income for taxable years for which the corporation was not an electing small business corporation, be made by the corporation. The determination as to whether the net increase in tax for such taxable years exceeds $2,500 shall be made with reference to the increase or decrease in tax of the corporation. Any election under section 4(b) to pay the net increase in tax in installments shall, to the extent the increase in tax is attributable to years for which the corporation was an electing small business corporation, be made by the shareholders separately. The determination in such a case as to whether the net increase in tax for such taxable years exceeds $2,500 shall be made with reference to the increases or decreases in the tax of each shareholder attributable to the adjustments to taxable income of the electing small business corporation resulting from the election.

(d) Time and manner of making elections—(1) In general. Any election made under the Act shall be made by the person described in paragraph (c) of this section before September 1, 1960, by filing a statement with the district director with whom such person's income tax return for the taxable year in which the election is made is required to be filed. Any election is irrevocable after August 31, 1960. A copy of the statement of election shall be attached to and filed with such person's income tax return for such taxable year.

(2) Election to have section 481 apply. An election under section 3 of the Act shall be made in the form of a statement which shall include the following:

(i) A clear indication that an election is being made under section 3;

(ii) Information sufficient to establish eligibility to make the election; and

(iii) The year of change as defined in section 3(b).

An amended income tax return reflecting the increase or decrease in tax attributable to the election shall be filed for the year of change together with schedules showing how the tax was recomputed under section 481 of the Code. If income tax returns have been filed for any taxable years subsequent to the year of change, amended returns reflecting the proper treatment of dealer reserve income for such years shall also be filed. Any amended return shall be filed with the office of the district director with whom the taxpayer files his income tax return for the taxable year in which the election is made and, if practicable, on the same date the statement of election is filed, but amended returns shall be filed in no event later than November 30, 1960. Whenever the amended returns do not accompany the statement of election, a copy of the statement shall be submitted with the amended returns.

(3) Election not to have section 481 apply. An election under section 4(a) of the Act shall be made in the form of a statement which shall include the following:

(i) A clear indication that an election is being made under section 4(a);

(ii) Information sufficient to establish eligibility to make the election; and

(iii) The taxable years to which the election applies.

Amended income tax returns reflecting the increase or decrease in tax attributable to the election shall be filed for the taxable years to which the election applies. If income tax returns have been filed for any subsequent taxable years, amended returns reflecting the proper treatment of dealer reserve income for such years shall also be filed. Any amended return shall be filed with the office of the district director with whom the taxpayer files his income tax return for the taxable year in which the election is made and, if practicable, on the same date the statement of election is filed, but amended returns shall be filed in no event later than November 30, 1960. Whenever the amended returns do not accompany the statement of election, a copy of the statement shall be submitted with the amended returns.

(4) Election to pay tax in installments. (i) Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, if the person making the election under section 4(a) of the Act also desires to make the election under section 4(b) to pay the increase in tax in installments, then the statement of election prescribed by subparagraph (3) of this paragraph shall include the following additional information:

(a) A clear indication that an election is also being made under section 4(b);

(b) A summary of the total increases and decreases in tax, together with interest thereon, in sufficient detail to establish eligibility to make the election; and

(c) The number of annual installments in which the taxpayer elects to pay the net increase in tax.

(ii) Where a partnership or electing small business corporation under Subchapter S, Chapter 1 of the Code, has made an election under section 4(a), and any partner or shareholder, as the case may be, desires to make an election under section 4(b), a statement of election shall be filed by such partner or shareholder containing the following information:

(a) A clear indication that an election is being made under section 4(b);

(b) A summary of the total increases and decreases in tax, together with interest thereon, of such partner or shareholder in sufficient detail to establish eligibility to make the election;

(c) The number of annual installments in which the partner or shareholder elects to pay the net increase in tax; and

(d) The office of the district director and the date on which the election under section 4(a) was filed by such partnership or corporation.

The statement of election under section 4(b) shall be accompanied by a copy of the statement of election under section 4(a) made by the partnership or by the electing small business corporation under Subchapter S, Chapter 1 of the Code, as the case may be.

Because this Treasury decision merely provides temporary rules designed to inform taxpayers as to how, when, and where to perform certain acts required or permitted under the Dealer Reserve Income Adjustment Act of 1960, it is found unnecessary to issue this Treasury decision with notice and public procedure thereon under section 4(a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, or subject to the effective date limitation of section 4(c) of that Act.

Order Extending Time for Filing Reply Comments

1. The Commission has before it for consideration the petition of the Federal Communications Bar Association to extend the time for reply comments in the above-entitled proceeding to September 19, 1960.

FEDERAL AVIATION AGENCY

[14 CFR Part 601]

[Airspace Docket No. 60-KC-34]

CONTROL AREAS

Modification of Extension

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 601.1119 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The St. Louis, Mo., control area extension is presently designated as all that airspace in the northeast and southeast quadrants of the St. Louis radio range within a 25-mile radius of the radio range station. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration the modification of this control area extension by designating all that area within a 25-mile radius of Lambert Field, St. Louis, Mo., as control area. This modification would provide protection for aircraft arriving and departing the St. Louis terminal area under established arrival and departure procedures. It would also provide protection for aircraft departing and arriving via radar vectors and for aircraft holding in the St. Louis terminal area.

If this action is taken, the St. Louis, Mo., control area extension would be designated within a 25-mile radius of Lambert Field, St. Louis, Mo. (latitude 38° 44'50" N., longitude 90°21'52" W.).

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, 4825 Troost Avenue, Kansas City 10, Mo. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 14, 1960.

Assistant Chief,

CONTROL ZONE

Modification

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Part 601 and § 601.1984 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., control zone is designated within a 5-mile radius of Broward County International Airport. The Federal Aviation Agency is considering modifying the Fort Lauderdale control zone by designating an extension within 2 miles either side of the 135° True bearing from the Fort Lauderdale radio beacon extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the radio beacon. This modification would provide protection for aircraft executing the prescribed instrument approach procedure based on the radio beacon.

If this action is taken, the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., control zone would be designated within a 5-mile radius of Broward County Airport (latitude 26°04'20" N., longitude 80°09'10" W.), within 2 miles either side of a 135° True bearing from the Fort Lauderdale radio beacon extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the radio beacon.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, P.O. Box 1689, Fort Worth 1, Tex. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 14, 1960.

CONTROL ZONE

Modification

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 601.2225 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Mansfield, Ohio, control zone is presently designated within a 5-mile radius of the Mansfield Municipal Airport within 2 miles either side of the 322° and 142° True radials of the Mansfield VOR extending from the 5-mile radius zone to a point 10 miles northwest of the VOR. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration the modification of this control zone as follows:

1. Revoke the northwest extension based on the 322° and 142° True radials of the Mansfield VOR. The prescribed instrument approach procedures based on the VOR have been revised, and the control zone extension based on the 322° and 142° True radials of the VOR is no longer required for the protection of aircraft.

2. Designate a control zone extension within 2 miles either side of the 128° True radial of the VORTAC extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VORTAC. This modification would provide protection for aircraft executing the revised prescribed standard instrument approach procedures.

3. Designate a control zone extension within 2 miles either side of the ILS localizer southeast course extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the ILS outer marker. This modification would provide protection for aircraft conducting ILS approaches to the Mansfield Municipal Airport.

If these actions are taken, the Mansfield, Ohio, control zone would be designated within a 5-mile radius of the Mansfield Municipal Airport (latitude 40°49'15" N., longitude 82°30'45" W.); within 2 miles either side of the 128° True radial of the Mansfield VORTAC extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VORTAC; and within 2 miles either side of the Mansfield Municipal Airport ILS localizer southeast course extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the ILS outer marker compass locator.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 14, 1960.

The Hearing Examiner realizes that the scheduled date is before the expiration of the 20-day period allowed in the order of designation, released July 13, 1960, for filing written appearances, and, moreover, is on fairly short notice. Had the 20-day period been respected, however, the earliest session would have been in September because of the August hiatus. To save as much time as possible, and especially to take advantage of August for preparatory work, if possible, an early prehearing date consistent with the Hearing Examiner's schedule was chosen as soon as the order of designation became available. The Hearing Examiner regrets any inconvenience to the parties or counsel which may be caused by this scheduling.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. CP60-86, CP60-87]

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO. AND CITIES SERVICE GAS CO.

Applications and Date of Hearing

JULY 13, 1960.

Take notice that Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Panhandle), a Delaware corporation, having its principal office at 1221 Baltimore Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri, filed on April 26, 1960, an application (Docket No. CP60-86) and on May 18, 1960, a supplement thereto, under section 7(b) of the Natural Gas Act, for an order permitting and approving the sale and abandonment by Panhandle of certain of its facilities, hereinafter described, which it proposes to sell and transfer to The Gas Service Company (Gas Service) pursuant to an agreement between Panhandle and Gas Service, and for an order permitting and approving the modification of an existing exchange arrangement between Panhandle and Cities Service Gas Company (Cities Service).

Panhandle alleges that under date of February 18, 1947, Panhandle and Cities Service executed a letter agreement, effective February 23, 1947, providing for deliveries of natural gas from each party to the other at points of interconnection on their systems, the deliveries made by each to be an even exchange of gas. Panhandle also alleges that under date of November 21, 1949, it executed an additional letter agreement with Cities Service, effective November 30, 1949, modifying and amending said letter agreement of February 18, 1947. Panhandle states that it gave notice to Cities Service under date of October 22, 1953, terminating said exchange agreement on February 23, 1954. A copy of each of said letter agreements and said notice of termination are attached to and made a part of Panhandle's application. Panhandle alleges further that since the date of such termination, the exchange of gas theretofore performed under said agreement has been continued under the provisions in that respect of section 7(b) of the Natural Gas Act, and has been modified and continued under the order of the Federal Power Commission (Commission) of October 12, 1959 in Docket No. G-2374, et al.

At present volumes of natural gas delivered by Panhandle to Cities Service are delivered at a point in Johnson County, Missouri, known as the Knobnoster connection, where Cities Service's Sedalia-Carrollton lateral crosses Panhandle's main pipeline system. Present deliveries by Cities Service to Panhandle are made at two points. One is in Johnson County, Missouri at a connection on Cities Service's Sedalia lateral, known as the Windsor connection; the other is in Jackson County, Missouri, at a connection on Panhandle's Louisburg lateral, known as the Bannister connection near Kansas City, Missouri.

Panhandle alleges that by the provisions of an agreement between it and Gas Service dated October 8, 1960, Panhandle will sell to Gas Service for $436,000 all of Panhandle's lines and facilities in the Kansas City area other than its transmission line and facilities extending from its main line at Louisburg to a point, generally referred to as Dodson Station, near the south city limits of Kansas City, Missouri.

Panhandle describes the facilities which it has agreed to sell to Gas Service and which it seeks authority to abandon, as follows:

Gas lines; Size (inches)	Number of miles
10	18.691
8	20.361
6	22.941
5	2.436
4	12.387
3	.301
2	1.067
1	.021

Six (6) Regulating Stations.
Twenty-five (25) Measuring and Regulating Stations.
Sixty-six (66) Farm Tap Meters.
Two (2) Scrubbers.
All rights of way, easements and other property interests incident to the facilities listed above.

Panhandle alleges that the proposed sale will enable Gas Service to integrate said facilities into its distribution system and will relieve Panhandle of the local distribution functions. Panhandle now makes deliveries of gas to, or for the account of, Gas Service at more than 750 points of delivery in the Kansas City area. After the proposed sale, Panhandle will make deliveries of gas to Gas Service in said area at two major points of delivery, one near the Dodson Station, at the terminus of the facilities which Panhandle will retain, the other at the terminus of the stub which it will retain on the 8-inch line near Belton, referred to as the Wilkins Station. In addition Panhandle proposes to deliver minor volumes of gas at three other points and will continue to serve 102 farm tap customers, located along its retained facilities, for Gas Service.

Panhandle alleges further that the aggregate winter volume it proposes to supply in the Kansas City area is 16,000 Mcf per day and that this volume, together with the volumes Gas Service will receive under its contract with Cities Service will enable Gas Service to meet its requirements. The facilities to be purchased and operated by Gas Service include the Bannister connection and all lines receiving gas through that connection. Panhandle states that this will enable Gas Service to accept delivery directly from Cities Service of any gas desired at that point.

Panhandle alleges that under date of March 23, 1960, Cities Service and Panhandle entered into an agreement providing for a modification of the existing exchange arrangement, eliminating deliveries to Panhandle at Bannister and initiating deliveries by Cities Service to Panhandle at a point in Franklin County, Kansas, near Ottawa, where Cities Service's Welda-Ottawa line intersects Panhandle's Line No. 100. Offsetting deliveries from Panhandle to Cities Service will be made at Knobnoster, in the same manner as under the existing exchange arrangement. According to said agreement the Ottawa-Knobnoster exchange will be limited in volume in accordance with the following schedule:

Period	Volume mcf per day
Dec. 1, 1960-Feb. 28, 1961	8,000
Dec. 1, 1961-Feb. 28, 1962	6,000
Dec. 1, 1962-Feb. 28, 1963	4,000
Dec. 1, 1963-Feb. 29, 1964	2,000

The Ottawa-Knobnoster exchange would terminate completely at midnight on February 29, 1964.

Under the proposal, deliveries under the existing arrangement by Cities Service to Panhandle at Windsor with offsetting deliveries to Cities Service at Knobnoster will continue until February 29, 1964, when such deliveries will also terminate. Service in accordance with the application is proposed to be commenced on December 1, 1960.

Take further notice that Cities Service Gas Company, a Delaware corporation, having its principal place of business in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, also filed an application (Docket No. CP60-87) on April 26, 1960, under section 7 (b) and (c) of the Natural Gas Act for authority permitting and approving the abandonment by sale to Gas Service of certain facilities, and for authority to construct and to reclaim certain other facilities, as hereinafter described.

The facilities which Cities Service proposes to be abandoned by sale to Gas Service at a total depreciated original cost of $601,071, are described as follows:

Miscellaneous gas pipelines in Jackson County, Missouri. * * * The approximate footage and size of pipe to be transferred is, as follows:

Size (inches)	Footage (feet)
4	16,219
12	40,487
26	23,173

In addition, the sale proposed by Applicant to Gas Service will include approximately 14 meter and regulator stations appurtenant to said pipelines, together with rights of way, easements and title to existing meter and regulator sites.

The proposed sale is pursuant to the terms of an agreement dated April 4, 1960, between Cities Service and Gas Service.

The facilities to be constructed and reclaimed by Cities Service are described as follows:

Reclaim existing Craig Road town border meter located near the Northwest Corner of Northeast Quarter of Section 5, Township 47 North, Range 32 West, Jackson County, Missouri.

Construct a new town border meter station near the Northwest Corner of the Northeast Quarter of the Northwest Quarter of Section 5, Township 46 North, Range 32 West, Cass County, Missouri.

Cities Service also requests the Commission's permission and approval of the modification of the existing exchange agreement between it and Panhandle (Cities Service's Rate Schedule X-4, Original Sheets 15 through 20 of Cities Service's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2, as amended by letter agreement dated November 21, 1949). The superseding tariff sheets setting forth the terms of the modification sought to be approved are attached to the application of Cities Service as Exhibit P.

Cities Service alleges that by transferring said facilities to Gas Service it will avoid the expense of having to construct and operate in the future additional metering facilities and will have its town border delivery facilities outside the city limits of Kansas City. Cities Service states also that the facilities to be acquired by Gas Service can be utilized as a part of its distribution system. In lieu of the ten metering facilities now operated by Cities Service, the proposal here will enable it to deliver gas to Gas Service at only two metering facilities. One will be constructed at the location above described in Cass County, Missouri, the other metering facility will be the existing check meter located in the Southeast corner of the Northeast Quarter of Section 15, Township 13 South, Range 24 East, Johnson County, Kansas.

The application of Cities Service also recites the terms of said exchange agreement between it and Panhandle. It also alleges that the agreement, dated March 23, 1960, between it and Panhandle provides for the modification of the existing exchange agreement by terminating deliveries to Panhandle by Cities Service at Bannister and initiating deliveries by Cities Service to Panhandle at a point in Franklin County, Kansas, near Ottawa, where Cities Service's Welda-Ottawa line intersects Panhandle's Line No. 100. Cities Service also alleges that offsetting deliveries by Panhandle to it will be made at Knobnoster as under the existing exchange agreement. The application further recites the schedule of deliveries as set forth in Panhandle's application, supra.

The estimated cost of the town border metering station is $14,000, which Cities Service will finance with treasury cash. The estimated cost of reclaiming the Craig Road Meter Station is $1,000, and the estimated salvage credit of materials reclaimed is $6,500.

The above described applications are on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

These related matters should be heard upon a consolidated record and disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 15, 1960, at 9:30 a.m., e.d.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, that the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30(c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicants to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C. in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before August 5, 1960. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

JOSEPH H. GUTRIDE,
Secretary.

CERTAIN LANDS WITHDRAWN IN CALIFORNIA

Findings of the Commission and Vacation of Withdrawals

JULY 13, 1960.

The above-described lands, except for those in secs. 8, 17, 20, 21, 22, and 25, T. 7 S., R. 32 E., are located within the Inyo National Forest. The lands are variously withdrawn in Power Site Reserves Nos. 230, 279, and 293 and in Power Site Classifications Nos. 69 and 71 and are also variously withdrawn pursuant to the filing of an application for a preliminary permit for proposed Project No. 320, which application was rejected, and pursuant to the filing of applications for licenses for the following proposed or constructed projects: Project No. 374, now part of Project No. 1394; Project No. 556, which application was withdrawn; Project No. 595, joined with Project No. 607 and now part of Project No. 1394; Project No. 607, joined with Project No. 595 and now part of Project No. 1394; Project No. 1137, license for which has expired; and Projects Nos. 1394, 1395, 1396, and 1398.

The notice of the modification of the land withdrawal for Project No. 1394, which was issued by the Commission on April 25, 1960 (25 F.R. 3825), consolidated all previous withdrawals for Projects Nos. 374, 595, 607, and 1394, as well as those for Projects Nos. 320 and 556.

Withdrawals pertaining to some of the lands under consideration were also effected as a result of the filing of an application for license for proposed Project No. 97, which application was rejected; an application for a preliminary permit for proposed Project No. 330, which application was rejected; and an application for a license for Project No. 1370, which license has expired. Notice of the withdrawal of lands in connection with these three proposed projects was not given.

The land in the E½NE¼ of sec. 19, T. 7 S., R. 32 E., was patented without reservation for power purposes and the lands in the SE¼NW¼ and the E½SW¼ of sec. 15, T. 9 S., R. 31 E., and in the SE¼SE¼ of sec. 8, in the NE¼NE¼ and the SE¼SE¼ of sec. 17, and in the NW¼NE¼ and the NE¼NW¼ of sec. 20, T. 7 S., R. 32 E., were patented prior to their withdrawal for power purposes.

The Bishop Creek Basin covers an area of about 93 square miles. The terrain is rugged, sparsely forested and interspersed with numerous small lakes and ponds. Principal streams in the basin are the main stream, Bishop Creek, and its three forks—North, Middle and South. The greatest flow occurs during the months of May, June, July and August. The natural flow dwindles during the remainder of the year, requiring releases from three artificial reservoirs which have been formed by raising the level of small natural lakes—North Lake on North Fork; Lake Sabrina on Middle Fork; and South Lake, also known as Hillside Reservoir, on South Fork—which are now operated for storage as part of Project No. 1394.

The power potential of the basin has been almost completely developed. The only additional proposed development is power plant No. 1. Construction of this plant is not known to be under active consideration.

The withdrawals pertaining to portions of the lands in secs. 17, 21, 22, and 25, T. 7 S., R. 32 E., for Projects Nos. 1395, 1396, and 1398 were for transmission-line purposes only and the Commission's April 17, 1922 general determination (2d Ann. Rept. FPC, 128) is applicable with respect to said lands.

The power operation formerly conducted under license for minor Project No. 1137—the license for which has expired, and in connection with which the land in the NE¼SW¼ of sec. 2, T. 9 S., R. 31 E., was withdrawn—is being continued under a Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, permit.

Revocation of the power withdrawals pertaining to some of the above-described lands which lie beyond the limits of the constructed Bishop Creek development appears to be appropriate since the power value of the lands is negligible.

The above-mentioned April 25, 1960 notice of modification of withdrawal for Project No. 1394—superseding previous constructed and proposed projects for the development of power along Bishop Creek—fully preserves and protects the power value of the lands in the basin needed for water-power generation within the foreseeable future.

The Commission finds:

(1) The following-described lands are not subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act, but in any event the existing power withdrawals of record pertaining to said lands serve no useful purpose. Therefore, the Commission has no objection to the revocation by the Secretary of the Interior of Power Site Reserves Nos. 230, 279, and 293 insofar as such withdrawals of record pertain to said lands:

Sec. 17: NE¼NE¼ and SE¼SE¼;
Sec. 19: E½NE¼;
Sec. 20: NW¼NE¼ and NE¼NW¼.

(2) Inasmuch as the following-described land is now being used for power development under Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, permit, succeeding the expired license for minor Project No. 1137, the power withdrawal pertaining to said land should remain in effect:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN, CALIFORNIA

T. 9 S., R. 31 E.,
Sec. 2, NE¼SW¼.

(3) The following-described lands have negligible or no value for purposes of power development and, therefore, it has no objection to the revocation by the Secretary of the Interior of Power Site Classifications Nos. 69 and 71 and of Power Site Reserves Nos. 230 and 293 insofar as such withdrawals pertain to said lands:

(4) Inasmuch as the power value of the following-described lands is fully preserved and protected by reservation of the lands in connection with Projects Nos. 1394, 1395, 1396, and 1398, it has no objection to the revocation by the Secretary of the Interior of Power Site Classifications Nos. 69 and 71 and of Power Site Reserves Nos. 230, 279, and 293 insofar as such withdrawals pertain to said lands:

Sec. 21: N½NE¼;

(5) Inasmuch as the power value of the following-described lands is fully preserved and protected by reservation of the lands for the use and benefit of Project No. 1394, the existing power withdrawals pertaining to said lands under section 24 of the Federal Water Power Act, pursuant to the filing of the application for a preliminary permit for proposed Project No. 320 and the filing of the application for a license for proposed Project No. 556 serve no useful purpose and vacation of the withdrawals is in the public interest:

(6) Inasmuch as the original and only withdrawal pertaining to the following-described lands—in connection with Project No. 1394—has in effect been vacated by the omission of said lands in the April 25, 1960 modified withdrawal for Project No. 1394, further Commission action with respect to said withdrawal is neither necessary nor appropriate:

The Commission orders:

(A) The existing power withdrawals pertaining to the lands described in finding (5) herein under section 24 of the Federal Water Power Act pursuant to the filing of the application for a preliminary permit for proposed Project No. 320 and the filing of the application for a license for proposed Project No. 556 are vacated.

(B) The existing power withdrawals referred to in finding (8) herein pertaining to lands under section 24 of the Federal Water Power Act pursuant to the filing of the application for a license for proposed Project No. 97 and the filing of the application for a preliminary permit for proposed Project No. 330 and pertaining to the lands under section 24 of the Federal Power Act pursuant to the filing of the application for a license for proposed Project No. 1370 are vacated.

LOUISIANA NEVADA TRANSIT CO.

Order for Hearing, Suspending Proposed Changes in Rates and Service Agreement and Allowing Such Changes in Rates and Service Agreement To Become Effective Upon Filing of Motion and Undertaking and Agreement to Assure Refund of Excess Charges

JULY 13, 1960.

Louisiana Nevada Transit Company (Louisiana Nevada) on June 13, 1960, tendered to filing First Revised Sheets Nos. 3-A and 15-A, Second Revised Sheets Nos. 8, 13, 14 and 15 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1 and a superseding service agreement providing for an annual increase in its rates and charges of approximately $19,324 or 15.5 percent to its only jurisdictional customer, the City of DeQueen, Arkansas.

The proposed effective date designated by Louisiana Nevada is June 23, 1960; however, the effective date for such proposed changes is July 14, 1960, which is thirty days after expiration of the required statutory notice.

In support of the proposed increased rates, Louisiana Nevada, among other things, submitted a cost of service for the twelve months period ended March 31, 1960, including a rate of return of 7 percent, adjusted for increased purchased gas expense based on the rates of the Cotton Valley Operator's Committee permitted to become effective subject to refund on March 21, 1960, in Docket No. RI60-195, and states that, despite increases in costs experienced throughout the natural gas industry, it has not increased its rates for sales to the City of DeQueen for ten years. In further support, Louisiana Nevada presents the city-gate rates of other pipeline companies providing service in the North Louisiana-Arkansas area where each of such rates is higher than its proposed rate, also states that it will experience higher purchased gas expense because its Cotton Valley contract provides for a one cent periodic price increase effective January 1, 1961, and concludes by saying that its proposal to establish a stabilized rate for a five-year period through a rate fixed by contract (the superseding service agreement) is unique in the pipeline industry.

The City of DeQueen has requested that the proposed increase be made effective without suspension.

The proposed increased rates and charges contained in the aforementioned revised tariff sheets and the superseding service agreement tendered by Louisiana Nevada on June 13, 1960, may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds:

(1) It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed changes, and that the above-designated revised tariff sheets and the superseding service agreement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

(2) It is necessary and proper in the public interest in carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that Louisiana Nevada's proposed increased rates and its superseding service agreement be made effective as hereinafter provided and that Louisiana Nevada be required to file an undertaking as hereinafter ordered and conditioned.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rates and charges contained in the above-designated revised tariffs sheets and superseding service agreement.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said First Revised Sheets Nos. 3-A and 15-A, Second Revised Sheets Nos. 8, 13, 14 and 15, to Louisiana Nevada's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1 and its superseding service agreement with the City of DeQueen are hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until July 15, 1960, and thereafter until such further time as they are made effective in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

(C) The rates, charges, classifications, services and service agreements set forth in the above-designated filings shall be effective as of July 15, 1960: Provided, however, That, within 20 days from the date of this order, Louisiana Nevada shall file a motion to place its rates in effect, as required by section 4(e) of the Natural Gas Act, and shall concurrently execute and file with the Secretary of the Commission the agreement and undertaking described in paragraph (E) below.

(D) Louisiana Nevada shall refund at such times and in such amounts to persons entitled thereto, and in such manner as may be required by final order of the Commission, the portion of the increased rates and charges found by the Commission in this proceeding not justified, together with interest thereon at the rate of 7 percent per annum from the date of payment to Louisiana Nevada until refunded; shall bear all costs of any such refunding, shall keep accurate accounts in detail of all amounts received by reason of the increased rates or charges effective as of the date specified, for each billing period, specifying by whom and in whose behalf such amounts were paid; and shall report (original and one copy), in writing and under oath, to the Commission monthly, for each billing period and for each purchaser, the billing determinants of natural gas sales to such purchasers and the revenues resulting therefrom as computed under the rates in effect immediately prior to the date upon which the increased rates allowed by this order become effective, and under the rates and charges allowed by this order to become effective, together with the differences in the revenues so computed.

(E) As a condition of this order, within 20 days from the date of issuance hereof, Louisiana Nevada shall concurrently execute and file (original and three (3) copies) with the Secretary of the Commission its motion to make rates effective and its written agreement and undertaking to comply with the terms of paragraph (D) hereof, signed by a responsible officer of the corporation, evidenced by proper authority from the Board of Directors, and accompanied by a certificate showing service of copies thereof upon all purchasers under the rate schedule involved, as follows:

Agreement and Undertaking of Louisiana Nevada Transit Company To Comply With The Terms And Conditions of Paragraph (D) of Federal Power Commission's Order for Hearing, Suspending Proposed Changes in Rates and Allowing Such Rate Changes To become Effective Upon Filing of Motion and Undertaking To Assure Refund of Excess Charges

In conformity with the requirements of the order issued (Date), in Docket No. RI60-3, Louisiana Nevada Transit Company hereby agrees and undertakes to comply with the terms and conditions of paragraph (D) of said order, and has caused this agreement and undertaking to be executed and sealed in its name by its officers, thereupon duly authorized in accordance with the terms of the resolution of its Board of Directors, a certified copy of which is appended hereto this ------ day of ----------, 1960.

SUBCHAPTER B—SUGAR REQUIREMENTS AND QUOTAS

[Sugar Reg. 811; Amdt. 3]

PART 811—CONTINENTAL SUGAR REQUIREMENTS AND AREA QUOTAS

Requirements and Quotas for 1960

Basis and purpose. The purpose of Sugar Regulation 811 is to determine, pursuant to section 201 of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, and as further amended by Public Law 86–592, approved July 6, 1960 (hereafter called the act), the amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States for the calendar year 1960 and to establish sugar quotas for the supplying areas except Cuba in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value. By Proclamation No. 3355, effective July 8, 1960 (25 F.R. 6414), the President of the United States, acting pursuant to the provisions of section 408(b) of the act, determined that the sugar quota for Cuba for the balance of the calendar year 1960 should be 39,752 short tons, raw value, plus the sugar certified prior to July 3, 1960, for entry but not then entered or withdrawn from warehouse. This regulation establishes quotas for 1960 for domestic areas and for foreign countries other than Cuba pursuant to the provisions of section 202 of the act and also establishes for domestic areas and foreign countries other than Cuba the amounts of certain quotas that may be filled by direct-consumption sugar pursuant to section 207 of the act.

The act requires that the Secretary shall revise the determination of sugar requirements at such times during the calendar year as may be necessary. It now appears that an increase in the estimate of requirements for the calendar year 1960 is necessary.

The purpose of this amendment is to (1) make such determination conform to the requirements of consumers as indicated on the basis of factors specified in section 201 of the act, as amended, (2) establish sugar quotas for the supplying areas, except Cuba, in terms of short tons, raw value, and (3) determine and prorate deficits in the quotas for Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands for sugar to be marketed in the continental United States in 1960, as established in § 811.2 as amended herein, in accordance with Sec. 204(a).

Section 204(a) of the act provides that the Secretary shall from time to time determine whether any area will be unable to market its quota. By Proclamation No. 3355 for President of the United States delegated to the Secretary of Agriculture the authority vested in the President by sections 408(b)(2) and 408(b)(3) of the act, such authority to be exercised with the concurrence of the Secretary of State. By virtue of such delegation of authority, and pursuant to sections 204(a) and 408(b)(2) of the act, deficits were determined in Amendment 2 of Sugar Regulation 811 based upon the expectation that the supply of sugar available for marketing in the continental United States will not exceed 940,444 tons from Hawaii, 893,620 tons from Puerto Rico and 8,618 tons from the Virgin Islands.

The increases in the quotas for these three areas made effective herein by virtue of the 400,000-ton increase in the determination of the United States sugar requirements amount to 49,966 tons for Hawaii, 52,245 for Puerto Rico and 712 tons for the Virgin Islands. On the basis of the expected supply of sugar available for marketing in the continental United States from these three areas, it is hereby found that these areas will be unable to market the additional quantities provided by the increased quotas established herein.

It is further found that the maximum quantities of sugar expected to be available for marketing by the Domestic Beet Sugar Area and the Mainland Cane Sugar Area will not exceed 2,514,945 short tons, raw value, and 773,873 short tons, raw value, respectively, the quantities established by Amendment 2 to this regulation as their adjusted quotas.

The quotas and prorations established herein differ from those in effect under Sugar Regulation 811 (24 F.R. 10425; 25 F.R. 6617, 6741); To permit areas for which larger quotas or prorations are hereby established to plan marketings and to market in an orderly manner the larger quantity of sugar, it is essential that this amendment be made effective immediately. Therefore, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary, impracticable and contrary to the public interest and the amendment herein shall become effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, as amended), and the Proclamation of the President of the United States No. 3355 (25 F.R. 6414) §§ 811.1, 811.2, 811.3 and 811.4 are hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 811.1 Sugar requirements, 1960.

The amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States for the calendar year 1960 is hereby determined to be 10,000,000 short tons, raw value.

§ 811.2 Quotas for domestic areas.

(a) For the calendar year 1960 quotas for sugar to be brought into or marketed for consumption in the continental United States from domestic areas are established in column (1) and the amounts of such quotas for offshore areas that may be filled by direct-consumption sugar are established in column (2) as follows:

[Short tons, raw value]

Area	Quotas (1)	Direct-consumption limits (2)
Domestic beet sugar	2,177,773	(1)
Mainland cane sugar	670,128	(1)
Hawaii	1,215,419	34,216
Puerto Rico	1,270,865	142,396
Virgin Islands	17,330	0

[1] No limit.

(b) Of the quantity established in paragraph (a) of this section for Puerto Rico which may be filled by direct-consumption sugar, 126,033 short tons, raw value, may be filled only by sugar principally of crystalline structure.

§ 811.3 Quotas for foreign countries other than Cuba.

For the calendar year 1960 quotas for sugar to be imported into the continental United States for consumption therein from foreign countries are established in column (1) and the amount of each such quota that may be filled by direct-consumption sugar is established in column (2), as follows:

[Short tons, raw value]

Country	Quotas (1)	Direct-consumption limits (2)
Republic of the Philippines	980,000	39,220
Peru	121,397	10,895

United Kingdom	516	516
Belgium	182	182
British Guiana	84	84
Hong Kong	3	3
All other countries	0	0

§ 811.4 Determination and proration of area deficits and adjusted quotas.

(a) Deficit in quotas established in § 811.9. It is hereby determined pursuant to section 204(a) of the act, that for the calendar year 1960, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will be unable by 274,966, 377,245 and 8,712 short tons, raw value of sugar, respectively, to market the quotas established for such areas in § 811.2.

(b) Proration of deficits and quotas in effect. The total of the deficits in the quotas determined in paragraph (a) of this section amounts to 660,923 short tons, raw value, of which 440,923 short tons, raw value, are hereby prorated pursuant to section 204(a) of the act to the other domestic areas as shown below. The balance of the deficits, amounting to 220,000 short tons, raw value, is not herein allocated to Cuba because of the President's Proclamation 3355 effective July 8, 1960 (25 F.R. 6414). The quotas for the domestic areas shall be those established in § 811.2 plus the quantities prorated herein, as follows:

[Short tons, raw value]

Area	Prorated herein (1)	Quotas including prorations herein (2)
Domestic beet sugar	337,172	2,514,945
Mainland cane sugar	103,751	773,873
Hawaii	0	1,215,410
Puerto Rico	0	1,270,865
Virgin Islands	0	17,330

STATEMENT OF BASES AND CONSIDERATIONS

Section 201 of the act directs the Secretary to determine for each calendar year the amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States and to revise such determination during the calendar year whenever he deems it necessary. The section sets forth criteria to guide the Secretary in his determinations and states that such determinations shall be made so as to protect the welfare of consumers and of those engaged in the domestic sugar industry by providing such supply of sugar as will be consumed at prices which will not be excessive to consumers and which will fairly and equitably maintain and protect the welfare of the domestic sugar industry.

Accordingly, it is essential to obtain a steady flow of raw sugar supplies to achieve the statutory objectives. Cuba has been our principal source of raw sugar supplies. Total importations permissible from this source under the President's Proclamation 3355 have now been authorized. Supplies not obtained from Cuba must be obtained from many other areas. Inevitably there must be a shift and diversification of sources of supply. Existing inventories, although substantial, are not considered adequate to compensate for the supply problems inherent in such shifts. Taking into consideration the statutory criteria, a sugar requirements determination of 10,000,000 tons is necessary to provide such supply of sugar as will be consumed at prices which will not be excessive to consumers and which will fairly and equitably maintain and protect the welfare of the domestic sugar industry.

The increase in total sugar requirements of 400,000 tons will enlarge the quotas of full-duty countries approximately 60,000 tons. The increase in requirements plus the determination of domestic deficits made herein would, except for the Presidential Proclamation 3355, have increased Cuba's quota by approximately 340,000 tons. Authority exists under Pub. Law 86-592 to provide for the purchase of such quantity from other countries.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1030.0 to 1030.71 issued under secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674.

§ 1030.0 Findings and determinations.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (Secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, effective thereunder (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Fruitland, Idaho, on March 9-10, 1960, upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed marketing order regulating the handling of fresh prunes grown in designated counties in the State of Idaho and in Malheur County, Oregon. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing, and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) This order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) This order regulates the handling of prunes grown in the production area in same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of commercial or industrial activity specified in, a proposed marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held;

(3) This order is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act, and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of the production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) There are no differences in the production and marketing of prunes grown in the production area which make necessary different terms and provisions applicable to different parts of such area; and

(5) All handling of prunes grown in the production area as defined in the order is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

(b) Additional findings. It is hereby found on the basis hereinafter indicated that good cause exists for making the provisions of this order effective not later than the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and that it would be contrary to the public interest to postpone such effective date until 30 days after publication (60 Stat. 237; 5 U.S.C. 1001-1011). As soon as practical after such effective time it will be necessary to establish the Idaho-Malheur County, Oregon, Fresh Prune Marketing Committee, the agency charged with administration of the program. Subsequently, and prior to imposition of regulations, it will be necessary for the committee and the Secretary to initiate, and complete, various actions of both organizational and regulatory natures, including the formulation and promulgation of rules and regulations to govern operations under the program. The shipments of prunes begin about the middle of August, and for all practical purposes the entire crop is shipped by mid-October. Hence, for the program to be of maximum benefit during the 1960-61 shipping season the order should be made effective as soon as practicable. The provisions of the order are well known to handlers of fresh prunes since the public hearing in connection with the order was completed March 10, 1960, and the recommended decision and the final decision were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 21, 1960 (25 F.R. 4184), and June 15, 1960 (25 F.R. 5342), respectively. Copies of the regulatory provisions of this order were made available to all known interested parties; such provisions do not place any restrictions on handlers until regulations are issued thereunder and shipment of fresh prunes takes place; and, therefore, compliance with such provisions will not require advance preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed prior to the effective date of regulation pursuant hereto.

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) A marketing agreement regulating the handling of fresh prunes grown in designated counties in Idaho and in Melheur County, Oregon, upon which the aforesaid public hearing was held, has been signed by handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who were not engaged in processing, distributing, or shipping the fresh prunes covered by this order) who, during the period beginning June 1, 1959, and ending May 31, 1960, both dates inclusive, handled not less than 50 percent of the volume of fresh prunes covered by this order; and

(2) The issuance of this order is favored or approved by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of its approval and who, during the determined representative period (June 1, 1959, through May 31, 1960) were engaged, within the production area specified in this order, in the production of fresh prunes for market, such producers having also produced for market at least two-thirds of the volume of fresh prunes represented in such referendum.

It is therefore ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of prunes grown in the said production area shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of this order; and such terms and conditions are as follows:

An alternate member of the committee, during the absence or at the request of the member for whom he is an alternate, shall act in the place and stead of such member and perform such other duties as assigned. In the event of the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of a member, his alternate shall act for him until a successor for such member is selected and has qualified. In the event both a grower member of the committee and his alternate are unable to attend a committee meeting, the member or the committee may designate the other grower alternate member from the same district to serve in such member's place and stead. In the event both a handler member of the committee and his alternate are unable to attend a committee meeting, the member or the committee may designate any other handler alternate member who is not acting as a member to serve in such member's place and stead.

§ 1030.30 Powers.

The committee shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the provisions of this part in accordance with its terms;

(c) To make and adopt rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions of this part; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this part.

§ 1030.31 Duties.

The committee shall have, among others, the following duties:

(a) To select a chairman and such other officers as may be necessary, and to define the duties of such officers;

(b) To appoint such employees, agents, and representatives as it may deem necessary, and to determine the compensation and to define the duties of each;

(c) To submit to the Secretary as soon as practicable after the beginning of each fiscal period a budget for such fiscal period, including a report in explanation of the items appearing therein and a recommendation as to the rate of assessment for such period;

(d) To keep minutes, books, and records which will reflect all of the acts and transactions of the committee and which shall be subject to examination by the Secretary;

(e) To prepare periodic statements of the financial operations of the committee and to make copies of each such statement available to growers and handlers for examination at the office of the committee;

(f) To cause its books to be audited by a competent accountant at least once each fiscal year and at such times as the Secretary may request;

(g) To act as intermediary between the Secretary and any grower or handler;

(h) To investigate and assemble data on the growing, handling, and marketing conditions with respect to prunes;

(i) To submit to the Secretary such available information as he may request;

(j) To notify producers and handlers of all meetings of the committee to consider recommendations for regulations;

(k) To give the Secretary the same notice of meetings of the committee as is given to its members;

(l) To investigate compliance with the provisions of this part;

(m) With the approval of the Secretary, to redefine the districts into which the production area is divided, and to reapportion the representation of any district on the committee: Provided, That any such changes shall reflect, insofar as practicable, shifts in prune production within the districts and the production area.

§ 1030.32 Procedure.

(a) Seven members of the committee, including alternates acting for members, shall constitute a quorum; and any action of the committee shall require the concurring vote of at least seven members.

(b) The committee may vote by telegraph, telephone, or other means of communication, and any votes so cast shall be confirmed promptly in writing: Provided, That if an assembled meeting is held, all votes shall be cast in person.

§ 1030.33 Expenses and compensation.

The members of the committee, and alternates when acting as members, may be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred by them in the performance of their duties under this part and may also receive compensation, as determined by the committee, which shall not exceed $10 per day or portion thereof spent in performing such duties: Provided, That at its discretion the committee may request the attendance of one or more alternates at any or all meetings, notwithstanding the expected or actual presence of the respective members, and may pay expenses and compensation, as aforesaid.

§ 1030.34 Annual report.

The committee shall, prior to the last day of each fiscal period, prepare and mail an annual report to the Secretary and make a copy available to each handler and grower who requests a copy of the report. This annual report shall contain at least: (a) A complete review of the regulatory operations during the fiscal period; (b) an appraisal of the effect of such regulatory operations upon the prune industry; and (c) any recommendations for changes in the program.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 1030.40 Expenses.

The committee is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary finds are reasonable and likely to be incurred by the committee for its maintenance and functioning and to enable it to exercise its powers and perform its duties in accordance with the provisions of this part during each fiscal period. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by the levying of assessments as prescribed in § 1030.41.

§ 1030.41 Assessments.

(a) Each person who first handles prunes shall, with respect to the prunes so handled by him, pay to the committee upon demand such person's pro rata share of the expenses which the Secretary finds will be incurred by the committee during each fiscal period. Each such person's share of such expenses shall be equal to the ratio between the total quantity of prunes handled by him as the first handler thereof during the applicable fiscal period and the total quantity of prunes so handled by all persons during the same fiscal period. The payment of assessments for the maintenance and functioning of the committee may be required under this part throughout the period it is in effect irrespective of whether particular provisions thereof are suspended or become inoperative.

(b) The Secretary shall fix the rate of assessment to be paid by each such person. At any time during or after the fiscal period, the Secretary may increase the rate of assessment in order to secure sufficient funds to cover any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expenses which may be incurred. Such increase shall be applied to all prunes handled during the applicable fiscal period. In order to provide funds for the administration of the provisions of this part during the first part of a fiscal period before sufficient operating income is available from assessments on the current year's shipments, the committee may accept the payment of assessments in advance, and may also borrow money for such purpose.

§ 1030.42 Accounting.

(a) If, at the end of a fiscal period, the assessments collected are in excess of expenses incurred, such excess shall be accounted for as follows:

(1) Except as provided in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph, each person entitled to a proportionate refund of any excess assessment shall be credited with such refund against the operation of the following fiscal period unless such person demands repayment thereof, in which event it shall be paid to him: Provided, That any sum paid by a person in excess of his pro rata share of the expenses during any fiscal period may be applied by the committee at the end of such fiscal period to any outstanding obligations due the committee from such person.

(2) The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish and maintain during one or more fiscal years an operating monetary reserve in an amount not to exceed approximately one fiscal year's operational expenses. Upon approval of the Secretary, funds in such reserve shall be available for use by the committee for all expenses authorized pursuant to § 1030.40.

(3) Upon termination of this part, any funds not required to defray the necessary expenses of liquidation shall be disposed of in such manner as the Secretary may determine to be appropriate: Provided, That to the extent practical, such funds shall be returned pro rata to the persons from whom such funds were collected.

(b) All funds received by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this part shall be used solely for the purposes specified in this part and shall be accounted for in the manner provided in this part. The Secretary may at any time require the committee and its members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

(c) Upon the removal or expiration of the term of office of any member of the committee, such member shall account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property and funds in his possession to his successor in office, and shall execute such assignments and other instruments as may be necessary or appropriate to vest in such successor full title to all of the property, funds, and claims vested in such member pursuant to this part.

RESEARCH

§ 1030.45 Marketing research and development.

The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish or provide for the establishment of marketing research and development projects designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of prunes. The expense of such projects shall be paid from funds collected pursuant to § 1030.41.

REGULATIONS

§ 1030.50 Marketing policy.

(a) Each season prior to making any recommendations pursuant to § 1030.51, the committee shall submit to the Secretary a report setting forth its marketing policy for the ensuing season. Such marketing policy report shall contain information relative to:

(1) The estimated total production of prunes within the production area;

(2) The expected general quality and size of prunes in the production area and in other areas;

(3) The expected demand conditions for prunes in different market outlets;

(4) The expected shipments of prunes produced in the production area and in areas outside the production area;

(5) Supplies of competing commodities;

(6) Trend and level of consumer income;

(7) Other factors having a bearing on the marketing of prunes; and

(8) The type of regulations expected to be recommended during the season.

(b) In the event it becomes advisable, because of changes in the supply and demand situation for prunes, to modify substantially such marketing policy, the committee shall submit to the Secretary a revised marketing policy report setting forth the information prescribed in this section. The committee shall publicly announce the contents of each marketing policy report, including each revised marketing policy report, and copies thereof shall be maintained in the office of the committee where they shall be available for examination by growers and handlers.

§ 1030.51 Recommendations for regulation.

(a) Whenever the committee deems it advisable to regulate the handling of any variety or varieties of prunes in the manner provided in § 1030.52, it shall so recommend to the Secretary.

(b) In arriving at its recommendations for regulation pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, the committee shall give consideration to current information with respect to the factors affecting the supply and demand for prunes during the period or periods when it is proposed that such regulation should be made effective. With each such recommendation for regulation, the committee shall submit to the Secretary the data and information on which such recommendation is predicated and such other available information as the Secretary may request.

§ 1030.52 Issuance of regulations.

(a) The Secretary shall regulate, in the manner specified in this section, the handling of prunes whenever he finds, from the recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or from other available information, that such regulations will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act. Such regulations may:

(1) Limit, during any period or periods, the shipments of any particular grade, size, quality, maturity, or pack, or any combination thereof, of any variety or varieties of prunes grown in the production area.

(2) Limit the shipment of prunes by establishing, in terms of grades, sizes, or both, minimum standards of quality and maturity during any period when season average prices are expected to exceed the parity level.

(3) Fix the size, capacity, weight, dimensions, or pack of the container, or containers, which may be used in the packaging or handling of prunes.

(4) Prescribe requirements, as provided in this paragraph, applicable to exports of any variety of prunes which are different from those applicable to the handling of the same variety to other destinations.

(b) The committee shall be informed immediately of any such regulation issued by the Secretary, and the committee shall promptly give notice thereof to growers and handlers.

§ 1030.53 Modification, suspension, or termination of regulations.

(a) In the event the committee at any time finds that, by reason of changed conditions, any regulations issued pursuant to § 1030.52 should be modified, suspended, or terminated, it shall so recommend to the Secretary.

(b) Whenever the Secretary finds, from the recommendations and information submitted by the committee or from other available information, that a regulation should be modified, suspended, or terminated with respect to any or all shipments of prunes in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Act, he shall modify, suspend, or terminate such regulation. On the same basis and in like manner, the Secretary may terminate any such modification or suspension. If the Secretary finds that a regulation obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act, he shall suspend or terminate such regulation. On the same basis and in like manner, the Secretary may terminate any such suspension.

§ 1030.54 Special purpose shipments.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, any person may, without regard to the provisions of §§ 1030.41, 1030.52, 1030.53, and 1030.55, and the regulations issued thereunder, handle prunes (1) for consumption by charitable institutions; (2) for distribution by relief agencies; or (3) for commercial processing into products.

(b) Upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or from other available information, the Secretary may relieve from any or all requirements, under or established pursuant to §§ 1030.41, 1030.52, 1030.53, or 1030.55, the handling of prunes in such minimum quantities, or types of shipments, or for such specified purposes (including shipments to facilitate the conduct of marketing research and development projects established pursuant to § 1030.48) as the committee, with approval of the Secretary, may prescribe.

(c) The committee shall, with the approval of the Secretary, prescribe such rules, regulations, and safeguards as it may deem necessary to prevent prunes handled under the provisions of this section from entering the channels of trade for other than the specific purposes authorized by this section. Such rules, regulations, and safeguards may include the requirements that handlers shall file applications and receive approval from the committee for authorization to handle prunes pursuant to this section, and that such applications be accompanied by a certification by the intended purchaser or receiver that the prunes will not be used for any purpose not authorized by this section.

§ 1030.55 Inspection and certification.

Whenever the handling of any variety of prunes is regulated pursuant to § 1030.52 or § 1030.53, each handler who handles prunes shall, prior thereto, cause such prunes to be inspected by the Federal or Federal-State Inspection Service, and certified by it as meeting the applicable requirements of such regulation: Provided, That inspection and certification shall be required for prunes which previously have been so inspected and certified only if such prunes have been regraded, resorted, repackaged, or in any other way further prepared for market. Promptly after inspection and certification, each such handler shall submit, or cause to be submitted, to the committee a copy of the certificate of inspection issued with respect to such prunes.

REPORTS

(a) Upon request of the committee, made with the approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish to the committee, in such manner and at such time as it may prescribe, such reports and other information as may be necessary for the committee to perform its duties under this part. Such reports may include, but are not necessarily limited to, the following: (1) The quantities of each variety of prunes received by a handler; (2) the quantities disposed of by him, segregated as to the respective quantities subject to regulation and not subject to regulation; (3) the date of each such disposition and the identification of the carrier transporting such prunes, and (4) the destination of each shipment of such prunes.

(b) All such reports shall be held under appropriate protective classification and custody by the committee, or duly appointed employees thereof, so that the information contained therein which may adversely affect the competitive position of any handler in relation to other handlers will not be disclosed. Compilations of general reports from data submitted by handlers are authorized, subject to the prohibition of disclosure of individual handler's identities or operations.

(c) Each handler shall maintain for at least two succeeding years such records of the prunes received, and of prunes disposed of, by such handler as may be necessary to verify reports pursuant to this section.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 1030.61 Compliance.

Except as provided in this part, no person shall handle prunes the shipment of which has been prohibited by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of this part; and no person shall handle prunes except in conformity with the provisions and the regulations issued under this part.

§ 1030.62 Right of the Secretary.

The members of the committee (including successors and alternates), and any agents, employees, or representatives thereof, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time. Upon such disapproval, the disapproved action of the committee shall be deemed null and void, except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in accordance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary.

§ 1030.63 Effective time.

The provisions of this part and of any amendments thereto shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare above his signature, and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways specified in § 1030.64.

§ 1030.64 Termination.

(a) The Secretary may at any time terminate the provisions of this part by giving at least one day's notice by means of a press release or in any other manner in which he may determine.

(b) The Secretary shall terminate or suspend the operation of any and all of the provisions of this part whenever he finds that such provisions do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this part at the end of any fiscal period whenever he finds that continuance is not favored by the majority of producers who, during a representative period determined by the Secretary, were engaged in the production area in the production of prunes for market in fresh form: Provided, That such majority has produced for market during such period more than 50 percent of the volume of prunes produced for fresh market in the production area; but such termination shall be effective only if announced on or before May 31 of the then current fiscal period.

(d) The provisions of this part shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 1030.65 Proceedings after termination.

(a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this part, the committee shall, for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the committee, continue as trustees of all the funds and property then in its possession, or under its control, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination.

(b) The said trustees shall (1) continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property on hand, together with all books and records of the committee and of the trustees, to such persons as the Secretary may direct; and (3) upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person, full title and right to all of the funds, property, and claims vested in the committee or the trustees pursuant hereto.

(c) Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been transferred or delivered, pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligation imposed upon the committee and upon the trustees.

§ 1030.66 Effect of termination or amendment.

Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this part or of any regulation issued pursuant to this part or the issuance of any amendment to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this part or any regulation issued under this part, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this part, or of any regulation issued under this part, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violation.

§ 1030.67 Duration of immunities.

The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this part shall cease upon the termination of this part, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this part.

§ 1030.68 Agents.

The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States, or name any agency or division in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 1030.69 Derogation.

Nothing contained in the provisions of this part is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States (a) to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or (b) in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 1030.70 Personal liability.

No member or alternate member of the committee and no employee or agent of the committee shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate, employee, or agent, except for acts of dishonesty, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

§ 1030.71 Separability.

If any provision of this part is declared invalid or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this part, or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing shall not be affected thereby.

PART 297—CLASSIFICATION AND EXEMPTION OF INTERNATIONAL AIR FREIGHT FORWARDERS

Application Form for Operating Authorization

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 14th day of July 1960.

A notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 4, 1960 (25 F.R. 3856) and circulated to the industry as Economic Regulations Docket No. 11337, dated April 29, 1960, proposing certain amendments to Parts 296 and 297 of the Economic Regulations which would require the use of the same application form for air freight forwarders (Part 296) and international air freight forwarders (Part 297).

It is felt that the use of a single application form would establish a more uniform application system and would allow for the handling of applications in a much more efficient and expeditious manner and be thereby beneficial to the air freight forwarder industry.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented. No industry comments were received. The phrase "5 percent or more" found in items 7 and 10 of the application form, and the corresponding phrase in the body of the regulation, have been changed to read "more than 5 percent," to conform with section 407(b) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 297 of the Economic Regulations (14 CFR Part 297) effective August 19, 1960, as follows:

1. By amending § 297.32 to read as follows:

§ 297.32 Application for issuance.

(a) Application form. Any person, other than those specified in § 297.33, desiring to operate as an international air freight forwarder may apply to the Board for an appropriate Operating Authorization. Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 60-NY-61]

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Modification of Federal Airways and Associated Control Areas

On March 5, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 1964) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering an amendment to §§ 600.6189, 600.6260, 601.6189 and 601.6260 of the regulations of the Administrator which would modify VOR Federal airways Nos. 189 and 260 and their associated control areas.

As stated in the notice, Victor 189 presently extends from the Rocky Mount, N.C., VOR to the Franklin, Va., VOR. Victor 260 presently extends from the Charleston, W. Va., VOR to the Richmond, Va., VOR. The Federal Aviation Agency is extending Victor 189 from the Franklin VOR to the Hopewell, Va., VORTAC and Victor 260 from the Richmond VOR to the Hopewell VORTAC, thence via the Hopewell VORTAC 134° True radial to its intersection with VOR Federal airway No. 1.

The Department of the Air Force offered no objections to the proposed amendments, provided the procedures for the use of these airways would not result in an adverse impact on Langley Air Force Base traffic. The Air Force questioned the desirability of extending Victor 260 into an already congested area.

The Department of the Navy interposed no objection to the extension of Victor 189 and concurred in the use of the Hopewell VORTAC 134° True radial to its intersection with Victor 1 provided radar separation standards are utilized. However, the Navy did object to the designation of this route segment as a Federal airway for the following reasons: The extension of Victor 260 was designed for the use of commercial air traffic and would serve one small segment of aviation to the detriment of other, heavier users of the same area; the necessity for terminal traffic to navigate on en route aids in this area is confined to the rare occasions of radar or communications failure. This situation would necessitate the evacuation of the primary feeder fix to the Norfolk Naval Air Station, thereby penalizing landing traffic; the designation of this route would funnel additional VFR civil traffic into an area already containing a heavy concentration of military traffic; the extension of Victor 260 would create a mid-air collision prone environment simply to save an air carrier a few miles on those rare occasions when radar or communications failure prohibit the use of radar services.

The airspace encompassed by the proposed extension of Victor 260 is already designated as control area in § 601.1149 (24 F.R. 10555; 25 F.R. 336, 337, 338). This route has been utilized since approximately July 15, 1958, to expedite all segments of air traffic proceeding via Hopewell VORTAC to Patrick Henry Airport, Langley AFB, Norfolk NAS, Norfolk Municipal Airport and Oceana NAS. No adverse conditions have resulted due to its use. The designation of this route as a Federal airway will not alter the procedures now being utilized except to simplify controller phraseology in reducing the amount of conversation necessary for its description. Even though receiving radar separation and advisory services, it is desirable, from an air traffic management viewpoint, that air traffic navigate on predetermined routes as far as possible into terminal areas prior to transition to pure radar service. Traffic proceeding along the proposed extension of Victor 260 will continue to receive radar services as deemed necessary and in the event of radar or communication failure, traffic to Norfolk Municipal and Oceana NAS will normally be routed via Victor 189 and 268 which will be the preferred flight planning route in this area. The Federal Aviation Agency does not believe that the action taken herein would result in an abnormal increase in VFR civil traffic in this area. The airway is being designated over a commonly used route in presently designated controlled airspace, for the purpose of simplifying procedures.

No other adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530), the following actions are taken:

1. Section 600.6189 (24 F.R. 10521) is amended to read:

§ 600.6189 VOR Federal airway No. 189 (Rocky Mount, N.C., to Hopewell, Va.).

From the Rocky Mount, N.C., VOR via the Franklin, Va., VOR; to the Hopewell, Va., VORTAC.

§ 600.6260 [Amendment]

2. In § 600.6260 (25 F.R. 2159), the following changes are made:

(a) In the caption "(Charleston, W. Va., to Richmond, Va.)" is deleted and "(Charleston, W. Va., to Deep Creek, Va.)" is substituted therefor.

(b) In the text "to the Richmond, Va., VOR." is deleted and "Richmond, Va., VOR; Hopewell, Va., VORTAC; to the INT of the Hopewell VORTAC 134° True radial and the Norfolk, Va., VORTAC direct radial to the Cofield, N.C., VORTAC." is substituted therefor.

§ 601.6189 [Amendment]

2. In the caption of § 601.6189 (24 F.R. 10002), "(Rocky Mount, N.C., to Franklin, Va.)" is deleted and "(Rocky Mount, N.C., to Hopewell, Va.)" is substituted therefor.

§ 601.6260 [Amendment]

4. In the caption of § 601.6260 (25 F.R. 2159), "(Charleston, W. Va., to Richmond, Va.)" is deleted and "(Charleston, W. Va., to Deep Creek, Va.)" is substituted therefor.

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. August 25, 1960.

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Modification of Federal Airway, Associated Control Areas and Reporting Points

The purpose of these amendments to §§ 600.282, 601.282 and 601.4282 of the regulations of the Administrator is to modify Red Federal airway No. 82 between the Skwentna, Alaska radio range station and the Willow, Alaska, intersection.

Red 82 is presently designated from the Skwentna radio range station to the intersection of the southeast course of the Skwentna radio range and the north course of the Anchorage (Merrill), Alaska, radio range. The Anchorage (Merrill) radio range has been decommissioned. Therefore, it is necessary to delete any reference to the "Anchorage (Merrill), Alaska radio range station" and redescribe Red 82 by use of a line bearing 357° True from the Anchorage, Alaska radio range station. This redescription does not alter the airway nor its associated control areas. Concurrently with this action, the captions of § 601.282 relating to control areas for Red 82 and § 601.4282 relating to reporting points for Red 82 are amended to reflect the actual terminals of the airway.

Since these amendments impose no additional burden on the public, compliance with the notice, public procedure, and effective date requirements of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary and they may be made effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) § 600.282 (24 F.R. 10499), § 601.282 (24 F.R. 10545) and § 601.4282 (24 F.R. 10595) are amended to read:

§ 600.282 Red Federal airway No. 82 (Skwentna, Alaska, to Willow, Alaska).

From the Skwentna, Alaska, RR to the INT of the SE course of the Skwentna RR with a line bearing 357° True from the Anchorage, Alaska, RR.

§ 601.282 Red Federal airway No. 82 control areas (Skwentna, Alaska, to Willow, Alaska).

All of Red Federal airway No. 82.

§ 601.4282 Red Federal airway No. 82 (Skwentna, Alaska, to Willow, Alaska).

No reporting point designation.

These amendments shall become effective upon the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Designation of Federal Airway and Associated Control Areas

On December 29, 1959, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (24 F.R. 10920) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to designate VOR Federal airway No. 1524 and its associated control areas, from Los Angeles, Calif., to Joliet, Ill.

On February 12, 1960, a modified notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 1285) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was amending its original proposal. This amended proposal substituted "Moline, Ill.," and "Moline VOR" for "Nodine, Ill.," and "Nodine VOR" respectively, where these place names appear in the description of Victor 1524 and also changed the segment of Victor 1524, between the Moline VOR and the Joliet VOR, from a routing via the intersection of the Moline VOR 082° True and the Joliet VOR 263° True radials to direct station to station.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments. The Department of the Navy, however, conditioned its concurrence on the proposed airway not being designated as a positive control route segment between Ontario, Calif., and Peach Springs, Ariz. The Federal Aviation Agency is not designating this segment of Victor 1524 as a positive control route segment. Additionally, the Department of the Air Force stated that it had no objections to the proposed airway, provided it would overlie existing airways and that interested agencies would be given an opportunity to comment on the proposed intermediate altitude airway concept. The new Victor 1524 will overlie existing airways and interested persons will be given an opportunity to comment on the intermediate altitude airways concept in accordance with existing Federal Aviation Agency procedures.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, Parts 600 (24 F.R. 10487) and 601 (24 F.R. 10530) are amended by adding the following sections:

§ 600.6624 VOR Federal airway No. 1524 (Los Angeles, Calif., to Joliet, Ill.).

From the Los Angeles, Calif., VOR via the Ontario, Calif., VOR; INT of the Ontario VOR 091° True and the Twentynine Palms, Calif., VOR 244° True radials; Twentynine Palms VOR; Needles, Calif., VORTAC; Peach Springs, Ariz., VORTAC; Tuba City, Ariz., VOR; Farmington, N. Mex., VORTAC; Alamosa, Colo., VOR; Lamar, Colo., VOR; Hill City, Kans., VOR; Mankato, Kans., VOR; Pawnee City, Nebr., VORTAC; Lamoni, Iowa, VOR; Ottumwa, Iowa, VORTAC; Moline, Ill., VORTAC; to the Joliet, Ill., VORTAC.

All of VOR Federal airway No. 1524.

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. September 22, 1960.

[Airspace Docket No. 60-FW-1]

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Modification of Control Zone

On March 24, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 2496) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to modify the Charlotte, N.C., control zone by revoking the south extension based on the Charlotte radio range and the Fort Mill, S.C., fan marker; by revoking that portion of the control zone extension based on the Fort Mill VOR extending south of the VOR, and by extending the southwest extension to a point 12 miles southwest of the Douglas Airport ILS outer marker.

On May 26, 1960, a modified notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 4652) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was amending its original proposal. This amended proposal stated that the Douglas Airport ILS outer marker compass locator ADF standard instrument approach procedure would be modified to eliminate the need for that portion of the control zone extension southwest of the outer marker. The original proposal was, therefore, amended in that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering the redesignation of the control zone extension based on the Douglas Airport ILS localizer as within 2 miles either side of the Douglas Airport ILS localizer southwest course extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the ILS outer marker.

Subsequent to publication of the notice and modified notice, it was determined that the radial of the Fort Mill VOR, upon which the modified south control zone extension will be based, is the 004° True instead of the 005° True radial. This change has been made herein since it is minor in nature in that it represents a correction of only one degree.

Although the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association objected to the modification of the southwest extension to the Charlotte control zone as proposed in the original notice, no adverse comments were received regarding the amendment as proposed in the modified notice.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendment having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, § 601.2135 (24 F.R. 10578) is amended to read:

§ 601.2135 Charlotte, N.C., control zone.

Within a 5-mile radius of the geographical center of the Douglas Airport (latitude 35°12'58" N., longitude 80°56'22" W.), within 2 miles either side of the 004° True radial of the Fort Mill, S.C., VOR extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VOR, and within 2 miles either side of the SW course of the Douglas Airport ILS localizer extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the ILS outer marker.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. September 22, 1960.

(Secs. 307(a), 313(a), 72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 14, 1960.

Director, Bureau of Air Traffic Management.

[Airspace Docket No. 60-WA-164]

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS

Modification of Control Zone

The purpose of this amendment to § 601.2407 of the regulations of the Administrator is to modify the Alpena, Mich., control zone.

The Alpena control zone is presently designated from 0001 e.s.t., June 11, 1960, to 0001 e.s.t., September 4, 1960, and annually thereafter. Phelps Collins Airport, Alpena, Mich., is used annually during the above period for summer Air National Guard encampments. It has been determined that the activity at this location is not sufficient to meet the minimum control zone criteria on a continuous basis during its period of designation. Therefore, the control zone is modified by limiting the time of designation to from 0600 to 2200 local time daily, June 11, 1960, to September 4, 1960, and annually thereafter.

A review of the instrument approach procedure published for the Phelps Collins Airport revealed that the present control zone extension extending 5 miles north of the Alpena nondirectional radio beacon is in addition to that required. Aircraft executing an instrument approach based on this beacon must cross the beacon on an inbound heading at least 1,700 feet MSL, which is in excess of 1,000 feet above the terrain. Accordingly, the control zone extension is modified by terminating it at the beacon.

Since the changes effected by this amendment are less restrictive in nature than the present requirements, and impose no additional burden on any person, notice and public procedure thereon are unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530), § 601.2407 (24 F.R. 10590, 25 F.R. 4349) is amended to read:

§ 601.2407 Alpena, Mich., control zone.

The airspace within a 5-mile radius of the geographical center of the Phelps Collins Airport (latitude 45°05'00" N., longitude 83°33'30" W.), and within 2 miles either side of a 185° True bearing from the Alpena (APN), Mich., RBN extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the RBN shall be designated a control zone from 0600 to 2200 local time daily during the period June 11 to September 4, annually.

This amendment shall become effective upon the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

These sixteen proceedings were heard by a hearing examiner on complaints of the Commission charging publishers and their distributors of magazines, paper backs, and comic books with violating section 2(d) of the Clayton Act by making payments or allowances for services or facilities furnished certain customers operating retail outlets in railroad, airport, and bus terminals and in hotels and office buildings, which were not made available on proportionally equal terms to all competing customers.

Accepting consent agreements, the hearing examiner made the initial decisions and orders to cease and desist, all of which became on July 6 the decisions of the Commission.

Respondents in these sixteen cases were ordered to cease and desist as follows:

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 17—BAKERY PRODUCTS; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

Bread; Order Amending Standard of Identity

In the matter of amending the definition and standard of identity for bread:

A notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of May 3, 1960 (25 F.R. 3840), setting forth a proposal by the Red Star Yeast and Products Company, 325 North 27th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to amend the definition and standard of identity for bread by listing calcium iodate as an optional ingredient permitted to be used in amounts not exceeding 75 parts per million on the basis of the weight of flour used. Upon consideration of the proposal and other relevant information, it is concluded that to promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers the definition and standard of identity for bread (21 CFR 17.1) should be amended as hereinafter set forth. Therefore, pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 401, 701, 52 Stat. 1046, 1055, as amended; 70 Stat. 919, 72 Stat. 948; 21 U.S.C. 341, 371) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (22 F.R. 1045, 23 F.R. 9500, 25 F.R. 5611): It is ordered, That § 17.1(a)(12) be amended to read as follows:

§ 17.1 Bread, white bread, and rolls, white rolls, or buns, white buns; identity; label statement of optional ingredients.

(12) Potassium bromate, potassium iodate, calcium iodate, calcium peroxide, or any combination of two or more of these; but the total quantity thereof (including the potassium bromate in any bromated flour used) is not more than 0.0075 part for each 100 parts by weight of flour used.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C. written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing, and such objections must be supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Effective date. This order shall become effective 60 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, except as to any provisions that may be stayed by the filing of proper objections. Notice of the filing of objections or lack thereof will be announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Proposed Rule Making

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 994]

[Docket No. AO-300-A1]

MILK IN COLORADO SPRINGS-PUEBLO MARKETING AREA

Decision on Proposed Amendments to Tentative Marketing Agreement and Order

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Colorado Springs, Colorado, on June 21–22, 1960, pursuant to notice thereof issued on May 31, 1960 (25 F.R. 4919).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on July 7, 1960 (25 F.R. 6483; Doc. 60–6423) filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision containing notice of the opportunity to file written exceptions thereto. No exceptions were filed.

The material issues on the record of the hearing relate to:

1. The Class I price;
2. The Class II price;
3. Feed plant requirements and clarification of plant definitions;
4. Classification of milk transferred or diverted to nonpool plants;
5. Limitations on diversions;
6. Location adjustments to producers;
7. Administrative charges to partially regulated handlers; and
8. Allocation of packaged sour cream received from plants where it has been classified and priced as Class I under another Federal order.

Inasmuch as the Class I price provision will expire July 31, 1960, immediate consideration is necessary on issue number 1, therefore this decision is confined to this issue. The remaining issues will be considered in a separate decision at a later date.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions are confined to material issue number 1 and are based on evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof:

1. The Class I price provision should be continued 18 months beyond its present expiration date.

Producers proposed the continuation of the present Class I price. A handler testified in support of producers' proposal. No testimony in opposition was offered.

The Class I price presently is determined by adding $2.20 to the basic formula price for the preceding month. When the order was issued, effective February 1, 1959, this Class I price provision was made effective for a temporary period of 18 months. It was contemplated that after a full year's operation of the order, there should be opportunity to review the Class I price in the light of experience under the order.

Class I sales and producer milk supplies have both increased in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo market in the past year. For the five-month period January through May 1960, Class I sales of pool plants were 12.7 percent higher than those of the comparable period in 1959. Producer receipts in this period were 124.6 percent of those in the same months of 1959. The ratio of producer receipts to Class I sales was 119.2 percent in January–May 1959 and 130.9 percent in January–May 1960.

This higher ratio of increase in production over sales would in most circumstances indicate need for some downward adjustment of the Class I price in order to avoid excessive supplies for the market. There are, however, circumstances in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo market that indicate strongly the need for further experience under the order before arriving at a conclusion concerning the effect over the longer term of present pricing provisions in influencing a proper level of supply for the market.

The most significant factor in the changing supply-sales relationship from early 1959 to early 1960 is the fact that in early 1960 the Fort Carson military installation was supplied by a Denver handler. When this handler became fully regulated under the order, his milk supply was used to fulfill the contract. Local milk previously used to fulfill the contract then had to be classified as Class II. The needs of Fort Carson represent about 10 percent of the Class I sales of local handlers so that the shift of this one contract had a significant impact. At the time of the hearing the Fort Carson contract for the six-month period beginning July 1, 1960, had not yet been awarded.

The trend of producer numbers since the effective date of the order has been quite erratic. There was an increase of 145 producers (42 percent) from February to March 1959, decreases of 81 and 39, respectively, occurred in April and May and there was an increase of 38 in July. In a substantial number of cases producers supplied the market for only a few days, indicating that such producers were primarily associated with other markets, and that this milk was either received to meet the peak demand of an individual handler or that the pool was carrying reserves associated with other markets. Certain issues of this hearing are related to establishing the regular association of producers with the market as a condition of pooling or diversion.

The Colorado Springs-Pueblo market competes for supplies and sales with the substantially larger nearby Denver market. For May 1960, the Colorado Springs-Pueblo Class I price was 45 cents less than the Class I price reported as prevailing in the Denver market. While classification and accounting in Denver differ from Colorado Springs-Pueblo to the point that close comparisons cannot be made, the present Class I price is in reasonable alignment with the neighboring market under present conditions.

Continuation of present pricing provisions for another 18-month period will provide opportunity for a better basis for evaluation of the supply responses to such pricing in the light of developments in this and neighboring markets. It is concluded that the order should so provide.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. A brief and proposed findings and conclusions were filed on behalf of an interested party. This brief, proposed findings and conclusions and the evidence in the record were considered in making the findings and conclusions set forth above. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions filed by the interested party are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions set forth herein, the request to make such findings or reach such conclusions are denied for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

General findings. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo Marketing Area", and "Order Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo Marketing Area", which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order as hereby proposed to be amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

Determination of representative period. The month of May 1960 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the attached order amending the order regulating the handling of milk in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo marketing area, is approved or favored by producers, as defined under the terms of the order as hereby proposed to be amended, and who, during such representative period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale within the aforesaid marketing area.

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 18th day of July 1960.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo Marketing Area

§ 994.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Colorado Springs-Pueblo marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, and the aforesaid order is hereby amended as follows:

§ 994.51 [Amendment]

Delete § 994.51(a) and substitute therefore the following:

(a) Class I milk. During the period through January 1962, the basic formula price for the preceding month plus $2.20.

[F.R. Doc. 60-6818; Filed, July 20, 1960; 8:50 a.m.]

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[17 CFR Part 230]

DEFINITION OF "TRANSACTIONS BY AN ISSUER NOT INVOLVING ANY PUBLIC OFFERING"

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Section 5(c) of the Securities Act of 1933 makes it unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to use federal jurisdictional means—the mails, or the means or instruments of transportation or communication in interstate or foreign commerce—to offer to sell or to solicit an offer to buy a security unless a registration statement with respect to such security has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Under section 5(a) it is unlawful by jurisdictional means for any person, directly or indirectly, to sell such security or to carry or cause to be carried any such security for the purpose of sale or for delivery after sale unless the registration statement has become effective. The second clause of section 4(1) of the Securities Act of 1933 exempts from the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act "transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering." These provisions are intended to make effective a basic statutory objective that the registration and prospectus provisions of section 5 of the Act shall apply to distributions of securities to the public by an issuer, underwriter or dealer. Apart from exemptions for certain securities and transactions, other provisions of the Act limit the application of the registration provisions to distributions effected by or on behalf of an issuer or on behalf of a person in a control relationship with the issuer.

Questions have arisen as to the application of the exemption afforded by section 4(1) to a public offering of convertible securities by or on behalf of any person who purchased the convertible security directly or indirectly from the issuer in a non-public transaction, or to a public offering of the underlying securities received upon conversion of the securities so placed. On December 2, 1959, the Commission published Securities Act of 1933 Release No. 4162 in which it invited comment upon a new Rule 155 which had been proposed by the staff of the Commission to clarify the application of the statute in these circumstances.

Release No. 4162, to which reference is made, contains a summary of the staff conclusions and recommendations which form the basis for the proposed rule. Briefly restated, the staff view is that, "For purposes of the provisions of sections 2(11), 4(1) and 5 of the Securities Act, the transaction involved in a private placement by an issuer of a convertible security is not completed until the disposition of the underlying securities is determined" and that, in consequence, no exemption from the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act is available for a public offering of an immediately convertible security so issued, or for the underlying security received upon conversion unless the circumstances of acquisition, retention and disposition of the underlying security are such that the persons offering the underlying security are not underwriters within the meaning of section 2(11) of the Act.

The Commission has received helpful letters of comment. A number of the suggestions made have been incorporated in a revision of the proposed § 230.155 (Rule 155) as set forth below.

§ 230.155 Definition of "transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering" in section 4(1) for certain transactions.

(a) The phrase "transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering" in section 4(1) of the Act shall not include (1) any public offering of a security, which at that time is immediately convertible into another security of the same issuer, by or on behalf of any person or persons who purchased the convertible security directly or indirectly from an issuer as part of a non-public offering of such security, or (2) any public offering by or on behalf of any such person or persons of the other security acquired on conversion of a convertible security, unless the other security was acquired under such circumstances that such person or persons are not underwriters within the meaning of section 2(11).

(b) The phrase "transactions by any person other than an * * * underwriter" in section 4(1) of the Act shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include transactions by the initial, and any intermediate, holder of the convertible security or of the underlying security who (1) has not acquired the convertible or underlying security with a view to the distribution of either of them, and (2) is not effecting or causing to be effected, and has not arranged for a public offering of either security within the meaning of and subject to paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) This section shall apply to transactions of the character described in paragraph (a) of this section only with respect to convertible securities issued after _____ (Effective date of the section.)

Several of the letters received also raised questions as to the application of the proposed rule to various situations and requested that the Commission publish, prior to any final action upon the proposed rule, a further release treating with these questions. The following paragraphs refer to the more important of these questions and to the reasons advanced by the staff for the additional provisions reflected in the revised proposal.

I. Notes or debentures convertible into similar trust indenture securities. The question has been raised whether the proposed rule would relate to "* * * an unsecured note or debenture issued in a bona fide private placement [which] provides that the holder thereof may, if he so desires, break down the note or debenture into a number of small pieces issued under a trust indenture meeting the requirements of the Trust Indenture Act, so as to make it possible for such purchaser or someone else at a later date to effect resales, in such smaller units, of the notes or debenture * * *." It is understood that transactions initially are effected in this manner to avoid certain taxes, the drafting of an indenture, and payment of the fees of an indenture trustee, all of which are not then necessary but might be required in connection with a later public offering of the security, not then contemplated. Assuming that resales at a later date would not be inconsistent with an original bona fide private placement, the staff for many years has been of the view that the breakdown of the large note originally issued into a number of smaller pieces of the same general terms, under a trust indenture, and the distribution of such pieces by a person not in a control relationship with the issuer, who received the security in the private placement, ordinarily does not raise a question under the Securities Act of 1933. The Commission has so ruled in a number of situations of this character. In any event, the proposed Rule 155 does not apply to cases of this character.

II. Convertible securities issued in certain exempt transactions. The question has been raised whether the proposed rule, or the principles underlying it, would apply to convertible securities issued in certain "types of exempt transactions other than non-public offerings." Particular reference is made to transactions in which convertible securities are issued in:

(a) A voluntary exchange offer meeting the requirements of section 3(a)(9);

(b) Transactions meeting the requirements of sections 3(a)(10) or 3(a)(11);

(c) Transactions meeting the requirements of the Commission's rules under section 3(b) or Section 3(c);

(d) Or a Rule 133 transaction, where Rule 133 would not require registration;

(e) In a Chapter X proceeding.

These will be dealt with in order. In general, however, it should be emphasized that the proposed rule deals only with the issue of convertible securities in non-public transactions, and specifies the circumstances under which registration is required for subsequent public offerings of such securities or of the underlying securities by or on behalf of the purchaser in the original transaction. It does not apply where convertible securities are distributed to the public initially, whether they are registered or reliance is placed on one of the cited exemptions.

On the other hand, the cited exemptions are all fundamentally transaction exemptions and do not necessarily create exempted securities. Subsequent transactions in securities issued under these exemptions must find their own exemptions. Consequently, if convertible securities are privately placed initially, the principles announced in the proposed rule will be applicable to subsequent transactions in such securities, even if the initial placement is in form which literally falls within one of the cited exemptions.

These two principles furnish the basis for considering the questions posed. If the initial placement was public in character, whether registered under the Act or exempt from registration because of one or more of the indicated exemptions, the proposed rule does not apply. This is on the basis that the statutory objective has been achieved, that is, registration and the delivery of a prospectus to public purchasers in non-exempt situations. Once registration is effected transactions may be freely made by the public holders of the convertible securities. Any later delivery of the underlying security under conversion is deemed to fall within the exemption afforded by section 3(a)(9); and subsequent transactions in the underlying securities may be consummated free of the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act except as noted below.

Conversely, where the convertible security is issued in a non-public transaction, whether or not the transaction might also be urged as one falling within the literal mold of one of the stated exemptions, the proposed rule would apply. Specifically, the staff's view as to each of the stated situations is as follows:

(a) If, apart from section 3(a)(9), an exchange offer of a convertible security is essentially private in character, any later public offering of the convertible security (if then immediately convertible) and any public offering of the underlying security received upon conversion would be subject to the proposed rule. On the other hand, if the exchange offer is essentially a public offering which, except for the provisions of section 3(a)(9), would be subject to the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act, the proposed rule would not apply either to a later public offering of the convertible security, or of the underlying security, by the holders. If such an offering were made by or on behalf of a person in a control relationship with the issuer or by or on behalf of a person acting as an underwriter for such control person, registration would be necessary without reference to section 3(a)(9) or the proposed Rule 155.

(b) Whether or not the requirements of section 3(a)(10) or 3(a)(11) would seem to be literally fulfilled in regard to the initial placement, if the issuance of the convertible security is essentially private in character, the proposed rule would apply to any later public offering of the convertible or of the underlying security. If, on the other hand, the transaction involving the issuance of the convertible is a public transaction, the proposed rule would not be applicable and registration would not be required except as to transactions by or on behalf of persons in a control relationship with the issuer.

(c) Presumably, the transaction of issuance of the convertible security, where reliance is had upon section 3(b) and section 3(c), is a public transaction. In such case the proposed rule would not apply to subsequent transactions except by or on behalf of a control person.

(d) The question posed here relates to the issuance of convertible securities "in a Rule 133 transaction where Rule 133 would not require registration of such securities for subsequent transactions." It is assumed that the question, as framed, is limited to persons who, under Rule 133, would not be considered "underwriters." Subject to the qualification for transactions by a person in the control relationship with the issuer, the rationale for the application of the proposed rule discussed above is essentially the same in these circumstances. Transactions subsequent to the Rule 133 transaction by such persons would not appear to be subject to the rule if the over-all Rule 133 transaction involved a public offering of the convertible securities. If, however, the over-all transaction is private in character, the proposed rule will apply whether or not the initial placement falls literally within Rule 133.

(e) Similar considerations as have been discussed with respect to section 3(a)(10) will prevail as to transactions after the issuance of the convertible securities in connection with a Chapter X proceeding.

As to all situations, the caveat should be added that no matter which form the initial transaction takes, if the over-all transaction is designed as a method of evading the registration or prospectus provisions, the asserted exemption would not in any case be available.

III. Exclusion of persons from underwriter status. The question raised here is whether the person to whom a convertible security was issued initially in a non-public transaction, and any immediate and subsequent assignee of the security in a non-public transaction, should, upon a later public offering of the convertible security or the underlying security, be deemed to be an underwriter as to the securities involved in such offering within the meaning of section 2(11) of the statute. In this connection, it is suggested that at least certain of these holders of the convertible security be excluded from the status of underwriter.

As already stated, the proposed rule is bottomed upon the view that the availability of an exemption from the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act to a transaction involving the issuance of a convertible security in a non-public transaction is not determinable until a public offering of the convertible or underlying security has been effected or precluded or the right to convert has terminated. If as proposed by Rule 155, registration is required as to any such public offering of the underlying security, any person who effects such public offering in the circumstances encompassed by the proposed rule would be a person who has directly or indirectly purchased the convertible from the issuer, with a view to the distribution of, or who has offered, the (underlying) security on behalf of the issuer. Since each holder engaged in steps which ultimately developed into a public offering of the securities, it may be urged that each should be deemed to be an underwriter within the meaning of section 2(11). On the other hand, it has also been urged that a conclusion that each such intermediate holder is an underwriter does not necessarily follow from the facts and the intentions of the parties. This is based on the view that each of the holders who did not acquire the convertible with a view to the direct or indirect public offering by him or on his behalf of either security may be in a position to argue that he does not meet the definition of underwriter. Whatever the merits of this argument, in the light of the special circumstances to which the proposed rule relates, it does not appear necessary to hold that every intermediate holder is an underwriter in order to achieve the aim of the rule—to make clear that the ultimate public offering is subject to the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act. Accordingly, the staff has recommended that the proposed rule be revised to make clear that each such intermediate holder is not, merely because of an intermediate holding of the convertible security, an underwriter within the meaning of section 2(11) and the first clause of section 4(1) of the Act. On this basis, any person who actually effects the public offering as well as any person who arranges for a public offering would be deemed to be an underwriter.

IV. The "Unless" clause. The proposed rule provides, in effect, that, in a case falling within the rule, upon exercise of the conversion privilege and subsequent sale of the underlying security, the registration and prospectus provisions apply "unless [that] security was acquired under such circumstances that such person or persons are not underwriters within the meaning of section 2(11)." It has been suggested that (a) if "what is intended is that the person who converts the convertible security must acquire the underlying security with that state of mind which would prevent such person from being an underwriter if the underlying security were being sold for cash," this should be stated, and (b) "a period should be specified which would at least be prima facie evidence of the fact that the converter of the security acquired the underlying security for investment and not with a view to their distribution." It is the view of the staff that the test as quoted in (a) fairly states the meaning and purpose of the "unless" clause and that it is neither necessary nor feasible to adopt a standard as suggested in (b). The Commission has repeatedly indicated its view that it is a question of fact, turning on the circumstances of a particular case, whether a person acquiring securities from an issuer and later disposing of them in a public offering is or is not an underwriter. There is nothing in section 2(11), the legislative history of the Act, Commission precedent or in case law which suggests that the time between the acquisition and disposition is or necessarily should be conclusive of the question. Undoubtedly time is relevant insofar as it may be evidence of the intent of a person when the security is purchased from an issuer. There is nothing in the Act, however, which suggests that one who may otherwise be fairly considered to be an underwriter necessarily ceases to be such because the distribution is intentionally or otherwise deferred.

V. Brokers' transactions. It has been suggested that "an exemption analogous to the 'brokers' transactions' exemption of paragraphs (d) and (e) of Rule 133" be considered by the Commission. Particularly it is suggested that adoption of "the same test of 'distribution' which is used to determine whether a person has the status of an underwriter in a Rule 133 transaction would be appropriate in the case of sale of the convertible securities or the related underlying securities, * * *." The Commission has never considered that a person who has taken securities from an issuer in a purportedly private transaction, but under such circumstances that he would have the status of an underwriter if he distributed the securities to the public, may claim exemption from registration under the first clause of section 4(1) for such public offering, and such a position would appear contrary to the holding of the court in Gilligan, Will & Co. vs SEC, 267 F. 2d 461 (C.A. 2, 1959), cert. den. 361 U.S. 896 (1959). The adoption of the standard provided in Rule 133 springs from different circumstances, including the fact that a Rule 133 transaction, unlike the transactions presently involved, may and often does involve a widespread distribution of securities by the issuer in what is, in effect, an exempt transaction. A certain degree of latitude in the application of section 2(11) and the first clause of section 4(1) to reofferings is appropriate under such circumstances. Paragraphs (d) and (e) of Rule 133 represent an effort to recognize that, in a situation where a trading market may be availed of by other persons receiving securities in a Rule 133 transaction, it would be less than realistic to permit a controlling person of a constituent company less latitude in a trading transaction than he had before consummation of the Rule 133 transaction and, indeed, less than a controlling person of the issuer itself.

VI. Applicability of rule to registered securities and to securities not immediately convertible. The Commission has been asked to "indicate the practice which it would follow as a matter of logic or policy, where a convertible security, whether widely distributed through an underwriting group or offered directly to a number of initial purchasers for investment, is registered at the time of issuance, particularly where one or more blocks of such security are subsequently distributed by non-controlling but substantial holders or where such non-controlling but substantial holders convert and distribute the underlying security." The question relates to securities immediately convertible and to those which contain a delayed conversion privilege.

Where initially there is a genuine public offering of the convertible security, whether or not immediately convertible, the proposed rule has no application. In such cases, any later reoffering of the convertible security or of the underlying security by a person who is not (a) in a control relationship with the issuer, (b) an underwriter disposing of an undistributed portion of the original offering, (c) someone offering for a person in (a) or (b), or (d) an underwriter acting pursuant to some arrangement with the issuer, would not ordinarily be subject to the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act.

Where there is no genuine public offering, registration is not required for the initial non-public placement. However, even if a registration statement were filed and became effective by lapse of time or otherwise in such circumstances, i.e. at the outset of a non-public placement, this would not relieve the persons with whom the securities were so placed from their status and obligations under the Act. Thus, any later offering by them under circumstances contemplated by proposed Rule 155 would require the use of a prospectus which at that time met the requirements of section 10 in all respects or the filing of a new registration statement.

Section 5(a) of the Act reflects a statutory prohibition against what is referred to as "registration for the shelf." This is accomplished by a provision that "[a] registration statement shall be deemed effective only as to securities specified therein as proposed to be offered." This has been construed by the Commission as limiting the availability of registration to securities presently proposed to be offered at the time of the effectiveness of the registration statement.

It is recognized, however, that the Commission has in certain situations permitted what has been referred to as "continuous registration." Thus, in Rule 133 situations, the Commission has not objected to registration of securities issued to persons who have declined to make a commitment that they were taking for investment and not with a view to distribution because they wished to be free to dispose of the securities in a manner and at a time which might make them "underwriters." However, in these situations it is clear that upon a distribution by such persons, absent a clear showing to the contrary, they might be deemed to be underwriters. Consequently registration is permitted but only when accompanied by undertakings to assure that the prospectus which must be used by the underwriters will meet the requirements of section 10, and otherwise be consistent with other provisions of the Act at the time of its use. Undoubtedly the Commission would be prepared to consider flexible procedures in connection with proposed Rule 155 situations to meet any reasonable problems arising in that context. This would include any special problems created by separate offerings made by one or more holders of convertible securities. In this connection it should again be emphasized that the proposed rule would apply only to a public offering of a convertible security which at the time of the offering is immediately convertible.

VII. Outstanding securities. It has been suggested that, in the event the Commission should adopt the proposed rule, a proviso should be added making it inapplicable to outstanding convertible securities and securities acquired upon conversion of such convertibles. It is pointed out that for many years issuers, institutional investors and their counsel relied on the view, which they believed to be shared by the Commission, that, in the situations encompassed by the proposed rule, the registration and prospectus provisions of the Act did not apply; that, in consequence, many such securities were issued and are outstanding with respect to which no provision was negotiated either for registration or for investigations considered necessary to the assumption of an underwriter's liabilities; that even assuming recognition by issuers of a duty to provide registration upon a proposed public offering by such holders, at best a deadlock would arise; that, as a result, many institutional investors with a large public interest in their own securities would be "locked in" or compelled to liquidate a position at less than might be obtained upon a public offering. There is some basis for each of these arguments, and the situation is consequently somewhat analagous to the ones for which Congress provided in section 19 of the Act, that is, those who rely in good faith on what appears to be the view of the Commission, and act accordingly, should not be penalized for so acting. Under all of the circumstances it seems reasonable in this context to suggest that the Commission consider the addition of such a proviso to the proposed rule, and the staff so recommends.

Proposed Rule 155 was published on December 2, 1959. Since that time it has received wide attention and it has been the subject of considerable discussion among issuers, institutional investors, investment bankers and the Bar. The Commission is of the view, therefore, that a further period of comment should be limited to the time reasonably required to consider and comment upon the views of the staff hereinabove described. Accordingly, the Commission invites the comments, suggestions and views of all concerned upon Proposed Rule 155 as revised to give effect to the changes hereinbefore suggested and requests that such comments be submitted not later than September 1, 1960. For the convenience of all concerned there is attached hereto a reprint of Release No. 4162 which contains the text of the rule as originally proposed together with a statement of the staff conclusions upon which the proposal was based.[1] Rule 155 as revised is proposed under section 19(a) of the Securities Act of 1933.

By the Commission.

3. The records show that all of T. 64 N., R. 18 W., 4th P.M. is withdrawn by the Shipstead-Nolan Act of July 10, 1930 and therefore Lot 15, Section 29 therein is not subject to disposition under the public land laws.

4. The remaining islands described in this notice are open to application, location, selection and petition as outlined in paragraph 6 below. No applications for these lands will be allowed under the Homestead, Small Tract or any other non-mineral public land law, unless the lands have already been classified for consideration of an application. Any application that is filed will be considered on its merits. The lands will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until they have been classified.

5. The islands which are all upland in character are of sandy, gravelly and stoney formation, ranging in elevation from 1 to 20 feet above water level. The timber specie consists mainly of jack pine, Norway pine, white pine, spruce, birch, cedar, poplar, ash, elm, willow, and cottonwood, ranging in size from 4 to 30 inches in diameter.

6. Applications and selections under the non-mineral public land laws and applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications, selections, and offers will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

Applications by persons having prior, valid, existing and maintained settlement rights; preference rights conferred by existing laws; or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation, will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support thereof. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

All valid applications and selections under the non-mineral public land laws, other than those coming under paragraph above, and applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws, presented prior to 10:00 a.m., August 26, 1960 will be considered filed simultaneously at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour and date will be governed by the time of filing.

7. All inquiries relating to the lands should be directed to the Manager, Eastern States Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D.C.

NEVADA

Notice of Proposed Withdrawal and Reservation of Lands

JULY 15, 1960.

The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has filed an application, Serial Number Nevada-055233 for the withdrawal of the lands described below, from all forms of appropriation, including the mining, but not the mineral leasing laws, nor disposals of materials under the act of July 31, 1947 (61 Stat. 681; 30 U.S.C. 601-604), as amended.

The applicant desires the land for construction of ponds and water control structures to improve waterfowl habitat, to retard waterfowl losses from botulism, and to provide public use of a natural resource. This area, to be known as Alkali Lake Wildlife Management Area, will be administered by the State of Nevada Fish and Game Department.

[Docket Nos. 11541, 11544; Order No. E-15525]

ALLEGHENY AIRLINES, INC.

Proposed "No-Reservation Fares" Between Philadelphia and Providence/Boston

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 8th day of July 1960, in the matter of complaints against Allegheny Airlines, Inc., proposed "No-Reservation Fares" between Philadelphia and Providence/Boston; Dockets 11541 and 11544.

By a tariff revision filed on June 10, 1960,[1] Allegheny Airlines, Inc. (Allegheny) proposes to introduce "No-Reservation Fares" between Philadelphia/Camden on the one hand, and Boston, Massachusetts and Providence, Rhode Island, on the other. The one-way fares proposed are $13.64 between Philadelphia and Boston and $11.82 between Philadelphia and Providence. These fares reflect reductions from the currently effective first-class fares of approximately 36 percent and 37 percent, respectively.

[1] Allegheny Airlines, Inc., C.A.B. No. 11.

and are marked to expire on March 31, 1961. They are available to passengers who make no reservations, carry their own baggage, and board flights on a stand-by basis.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and Northeast Airlines, Inc., by complaints filed June 24 and 27, 1960, have requested the Board to investigate and suspend Allegheny's proposed tariff on the grounds that the fares are uneconomical, unreasonably low, unjustly discriminatory, unduly preferential, unduly prejudicial, and will have the effect of increasing the subsidy requirements of Allegheny.

On October 1, 1959, the Board considered a similar proposal by Allegheny to introduce a "No-Reservation Fare" between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and found that, although suspension of the proposal was not warranted, an investigation should be instituted to determine the lawfulness of the tariff charge.[1] A hearing in this investigation is scheduled July 28, 1960.

The proposed fares represent a worthwhile experiment in promotional fares and a lower cost type of service which we are reluctant to suspend in the absence of a more compelling showing of probable unlawfulness than has been made by the complainants. We will therefore dismiss the complaints insofar as suspension is sought.

The current investigation of Allegheny's "No-Reservation Fare" between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia (Docket 10900) involves many questions which are substantially similar to those involving its Philadelphia-Providence/Boston "No-Reservation Fare" proposals. In view of the substantially similar questions involved we recognize that the final decision in the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia investigation may provide guideposts for further Board action in respect to fares of this nature both as presently proposed and as may be proposed in the future. Moreover, it is to be expected that the decision of the Board in the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia case will be issued at a much earlier date than would be possible for the completion of any investigation of the instant proposals. Under these circumstances we will not initiate a second investigation of "No-Reservation Fares" at this time. We will defer ruling, therefore, upon the complainants' requests for investigation until such future time when any investigation would not result in either an unjustifiable duplication of effort or a substantial delay in concluding the pending investigation.

The Board finds that its action herein is necessary and appropriate in order to carry out the provisions and objectives of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 and particularly sections 204(a), 403, 404, and 1002 thereof.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That:

1. The complaints in Dockets Nos. 11541 and 11544 be dismissed insofar as suspension is requested.

2. Decision be deferred upon the requests for investigation contained in the complaints in Dockets Nos. 11541 and 11544.

3. Copies of this order be served on Allegheny Airlines, Inc., the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and Northeast Airlines, Inc.

This order will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 24D-2361]

HEALTH MACHINES AND EQUIPMENT CORP.

Order Temporarily Suspending Exemption, Statement of Reasons Therefor, and Notice of Opportunity for Hearing

JULY 15, 1960.

I. Health Machines and Equipment Corporation (issuer), a Colorado corporation, 206 South Federal Boulevard, Denver, Colorado, filed with the Commission on March 25, 1959 a notification on Form 1-A and an offering circular relating to an offering of 300,000 shares of its $1 par value common stock at $1 per share for an aggregate of $300,000, and filed various amendments thereto, for the purpose of obtaining an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, pursuant to the provisions of section 3(b) thereof, and Regulation A promulgated thereunder.

II. The Commission has reasonable cause to believe that:

A. The terms and conditions of Regulation A have not been complied with in that:

1. The issuer has filed a report of sales on Form 2-A which fails to reflect accurately the use of the proceeds from the offering;

2. The issuer has failed to revise its offering circular in accordance with the requirements of Rule 256(e).

B. The offering circular contains untrue statements of material facts and omits to state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading, particularly with respect to:

1. The failure to reflect the fact that the proceeds of the offering were being and had been used for advances to an affiliate;

2. The failure to reflect the fact that the company is no longer in business at the address shown in the offering circular.

C. The offering, if made on the basis of the material filed, would be made in violation of section 17 of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

III. It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule 261(a) of the general rules and regulations under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, that the exemption under Regulation A be, and it hereby is, temporarily suspended.

Notice is hereby given that any person having any interest in the matter may file with the Secretary of the Commission a written request for hearing within thirty days after the entry of this order; that within twenty days after receipt of such request the Commission will, or at any time upon its own motion may, set the matter down for hearing at a place to be designated by the Commission, for the purpose of determining whether this order of suspension should be vacated or made permanent, without prejudice, however, to the consideration and presentation of additional matters at the hearing; that if no hearing is requested and none is ordered by the Commission, this order shall become permanent on the thirtieth day after its entry and shall remain in effect unless or until it is modified or vacated by the Commission; and that notice of the time and place for any hearing will promptly be given by the Commission.

By the Commission.

TRINITY SMALL BUSINESS INVESTMENT CO.

Notice of Motion To Terminate Registration

JULY 14, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") on its own motion is proposing under section 8(f) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") to declare by order that Trinity Small Business Investment Company ("Trinity"), registered under the Act as a closed-end investment company, has ceased to be an investment company.

Trinity was organized under South Carolina law on March 30, 1959 for the express purpose of operating as a licensee under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 ("Act of 1958"). On April 17, 1959 it registered under the Act and also filed its Registration Statement on Form N-5 under the Act and under the Securities Act of 1933 registering 235,000 shares of its capital stock which it proposed to offer to the public. This Registration Statement, insofar as it pertained to the offering of securities under the Securities Act of 1933, was ordered effective on September 28, 1959. Subsequently, on December 4, 1959, pursuant to the request of Trinity, the Commission issued its order consenting to the withdrawal of the Registration Statement under the Securities Act of 1933.

Trinity has represented to the Commission that the final prospectus under the Securities Act of 1933 registration statement was not circulated to anyone other than the company's directors; that no public solicitations were made, nor were subscriptions accepted; no shares of its capital stock were issued; and the company will be dissolved and its charter cancelled. The Small Business Administration informed the Commission that no license had been issued to Trinity under the Act of 1958.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 29, 1960, submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, the application may be granted as provided in Rule O-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act.

By the Commission.

CENTRAL SECURITIES CORP. AND WM. H. TEGTMEYER & CO.

Notice of Filing of Application for Order Exempting Certain Proposed Transactions

JULY 19, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Central Securities Corporation ("Central"), a registered closed-end non-diversified management investment company, has filed an application under section 17(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 17(a) of the Act the proposed sale to Central by Wm. H. Tegtmeyer & Co. ("Tegtmeyer & Co."), the underwriter in a current offering of the securities of Super Food Services, Inc., ("Super Food"), of 10,000 Preferred Shares-Convertible Series of Super Food at $25.00 per share.

Super Food is a Delaware Corporation engaged, among other things, in the wholesale grocery business. Tegtmeyer & Co., under a firm underwriting commitment acquired 70,000 Preferred Shares-Convertible Series of Super Food which it is offering to the general public at $25.00 per share. Central and Super Food are affiliates of each other by reason of the ownership by Central of more than 5 percent of the outstanding voting securities of Super Food. In addition, William H. Tegtmeyer ("Tegtmeyer"), is President, Director and the sole stockholder of Tegtmeyer & Co., and is also President, Director and the owner of more than 5 percent of the oustanding voting securities of Super Food.

Pursuant to section 2(a)(3) of the Act, Tegtmeyer and Tegtmeyer & Co., are affiliates of each other and Tegtmeyer and Super Food are affiliates of each other. The application recites that Tegtmeyer & Co. is not technically an affiliated person of Super Food or an affiliated person of an affiliated person of Central, but requests the relief sought in the application in order to avoid any question of the legality of the proposed transaction under the Act by reason of Tegtmeyer's sole ownership and control of Tegtmeyer & Co.

Pursuant to section 48(a) of the Act, it is unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to cause to be done any act or thing through or by means of any other person which it would be unlawful for such person to do under the Act and the rules promulgated thereunder. In this connection the direct sale of the Super Food stock by Tegtmeyer & Co. to Central would constitute the indirect sale of such stock by Tegtmeyer, who by reason of the affiliated relationship referred to above, could not make such sale unless the transaction is exempted from section 17(a) of the Act.

Section 17(a) prohibits, among other things, an affiliated person of a registered investment company (Central) or an affiliated person (Tegtmeyer) of an affiliated person (Super Food) of a registered investment company from selling to such company any security or other property unless an order exempting such transaction is granted by the Commission pursuant to section 17(b), upon a finding that the terms of the proposed transaction are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned; and that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of the registered investment company concerned and consistent with the general purposes of the Act.

The application states that the proposed purchase from Tegtmeyer & Co. will be at the same price and under the same conditions as the offering to other purchasers; that the securities proposed to be acquired are a proper and sound investment for Central; and that the proposed transaction does not contravene and is not inconsistent with the general purposes of the Act and is consistent with the tax and investment policy of the Applicant.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 29, 1960, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on this matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule O–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

By the Commission.

Title 3—THE PRESIDENT

Proclamation 3357

CAPTIVE NATIONS WEEK, 1960

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

WHEREAS many nations throughout the world have been made captive by the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet communism; and

WHEREAS the peoples of the Soviet-dominated nations have been deprived of their national independence and their individual liberties; and

WHEREAS the citizens of the United States are linked by bonds of family and principle to those who love freedom and justice on every continent; and

WHEREAS it is appropriate and proper to manifest to the peoples of the captive nations the support of the Government and the people of the United States of America for their just aspirations for freedom and national independence; and

WHEREAS by a joint resolution approved July 17, 1959 (73 Stat. 212), the Congress has authorized and requested the President of the United States of America to issue a proclamation designating the third week in July 1959 as "Captive Nations Week," and to issue a similar proclamation each year until such time as freedom and independence shall have been achieved for all the captive nations of the world:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the week beginning July 17, 1960, as Captive Nations Week.

I invite the people of the United States of America to observe such week with appropriate ceremonies and activities, and I urge them to study the plight of the Soviet-dominated nations and to recommit themselves to the support of the just aspirations of the peoples of those captive nations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this eighteenth day of July in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-fifth.

[SEAL]

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

WHEREAS section 4731(g) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 provides in part as follows:

OPIATE.—The word "opiate", as used in this part shall mean any drug (as defined in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; 52 Stat. 1041, section 201(g); 21 U.S.C. 321) found by the Secretary or his delegate, after due notice and opportunity for public hearing, to have an addiction-forming or addiction-sustaining liability similar to morphine or cocaine, and proclaimed by the President to have been so found by the Secretary or his delegate. * * *;

AND WHEREAS the Secretary of the Treasury, after due notice and opportunity for public hearing, has found that the following-named drug has an addiction-forming or addiction-sustaining liability similar to morphine, and that in the public interest this finding should be effective immediately:

Ethyl 1-(3-cyano-3,3-diphenylpropyl)-4-phenyl-4-piperidinecarboxylate.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim that the Secretary of the Treasury has found that the aforementioned drug has an addiction-forming or addiction-sustaining liability similar to morphine and that in the public interest this finding should be effective immediately.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this eighteenth day of July in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-fifth.

Correction

In F.R. Doc. 60-6045, appearing at page 6267 of the issue for Saturday, July 2, 1960, the following corrections are made in the tabular material under § 728.1107:

1. Under California, the total in the "Apportionment from the national reserve: Acreage apportioned" column should read "414" instead of "441".

2. Under Mississippi, the figures in the "Apportionment from the national reserve: Acreage apportioned" column for Humphreys and Issaquena counties should read "211" and "152" respectively, instead of "21" and "15". In the same column, the figures "2", "1", "3", and "2" should be entered for Itawamba, Jackson, Jefferson, and Jefferson Davis counties, respectively.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter II—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 60-KC-7]

PART 608—RESTRICTED AREAS

Modification

The purpose of this amendment to § 608.30 of the regulations of the Administrator is to modify the Sturgeon Bay, Mich., Restricted Area (R-502) (Green Bay Chart).

The present time of designation of Restricted Area R-502 is from 0800 to 1800 c.s.t. The Department of the Air Force has reviewed the activities, aerial rocketing and gunnery, within this area and determined that the time of designation can be reduced to 0900 to 1600 c.s.t. Therefore, the Federal Aviation Agency is reducing the time of designation from "0800 to 1800 c.s.t." to "0900 to 1600 c.s.t."

Since this amendment reduces a burden on the public, compliance with the notice, public procedure and effective date requirements of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, the following action is taken:

In § 608.30, the Sturgeon Bay, Mich., Restricted Area (R-502) (Green Bay Chart) (23 F.R. 8583, 24 F.R. 1079) is amended by deleting "0800–1800C, Monday–Friday" and substituting therefor "0900–1600 c.s.t., Monday–Friday".

This amendment shall become effective upon the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Secs. 307(a), 313(a), 72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 18, 1960.

E. R. QUESADA,
Administrator.

[Airspace Docket No. 60-WA-88]

PART 608—RESTRICTED AREAS

Revocation of Prohibited Area and Designation of Restricted Areas

The purpose of these amendments is to modify Executive Order 10127 by revoking the airspace reservation, hereinafter referred to as Prohibited Area (P-207), established over the Los Alamos Project, Sante Fe, N. Mex., and to amend Part 608 of the regulations of the Administrator by designating Los Alamos, N. Mex., Restricted Areas (R-5A and R-5B) (Albuquerque Chart).

The Los Alamos Prohibited Area (P-207) was established by Presidential Executive Order 10127 (paragraph 3 thereof) dated May 23, 1950 (15 F.R. 3171) at the request of the Atomic Energy Commission for national defense and other government purposes. The prohibited area is in effect continuously from the surface to an unlimited altitude and encompasses the area beginning at latitude 36°00'00" N., longitude 106° 04'00" W.; thence along the Rio Grande River to latitude 35°45'00" N., longitude 106°15'00" W; thence to latitude 35° 45'00" N., longitude 106°30'00" W.; thence to latitude 36°00'00" N., longitude 106°30'00" W.; thence to the point of beginning.

The Federal Aviation Agency has received information from the Atomic Energy Commission which indicates there is no longer a requirement for this prohibited area. However, it does appear that a limited restricted area is justified in the interest of public safety. Therefore, the retention of Prohibited Area (P-207) is no longer justified as an assignment of Airspace and its revocation is in the public interest. Concurrently, two small portions of this area are being designated as restricted areas with a ceiling of 12,000 feet MSL on a continuous basis for the purpose of protecting aircraft from possible exposure to harmful radiations emitted as a result of development work pertaining to the Atomic Energy Program and related fields.

Since the changes effected by these amendments are less restrictive in nature than the present requirements, and impose no additional burden on any person, notice and public procedure thereon are unnecessary and they may be made effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing, the following actions are taken:

1. In Executive Order 10127 (15 F.R. 3171; 25 F.R. 5925), the Los Alamos Project, Santa Fe, N. Mex., Prohibited Area (P-207) (Albuquerque Chart) is revoked.

2. In § 608.39 New Mexico (23 F.R. 8584) the following is added:

(a) Los Alamos, N. Mex., Restricted Area (R-5A) (Albuquerque Chart).

Description of geographical coordinates. Beginning at latitude 35°45'15" N., longitude 106°15'12" W.; thence to latitude 35°50'03" N., longitude 106°21'36" W.; thence to latitude 35°53'22" N., longitude 106°20'42" W.; thence to latitude 35°53'52" N., longitude 106°16'48" W.; thence to latitude 35°53'30" N., longitude 106°14'48" W.; thence to latitude 35°48'35" N., longitude 106°14'48" W.; thence to latitude 35°47'06" N., longitude 106°12'06" W.; thence to the point of beginning.

Designated altitudes. Surface to 12,000 feet MSL.

Time of designation. Continuous.

Controlling agency. U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Los Alamos, N. Mex.

(b) Los Alamos, N. Mex., Restricted Area (R-5B) (Albuquerque Chart).

Description of geographical coordinates. Beginning at latitude 35°53'53" N., longitude 106°14'06" W.; thence to latitude 35°53'03" N., longitude 106°16'09" W.; thence to latitude 35°54'45" N., longitude 106°16'09" W.; thence on the arc of a circle with a radius of 10,000 feet, centered at latitude 35°53'03" N., longitude 106°16'09" W., to the point of beginning.

Designated altitudes. Surface to 12,000 feet MSL.

Time of designation. Continuous.

Controlling agency. U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Los Alamos, N. Mex.

These amendments shall become effective upon the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1–15.000 to 1–15.603 issued under sec. 205(c), 63 Stat. 390; 40 U.S.C. 486(c).

§ 1–15.000 Scope of part.

This part contains general cost principles and procedures for the determination and allowance of costs in connection with the negotiation and administration of cost-reimbursement type contracts and contains guidelines for use, where appropriate, in the evaluation of costs in connection with certain negotiated fixed-price type contracts and contracts terminated for the convenience of the Government.

Subpart 1–15.1—Applicability

§ 1–15.101 Scope of subpart.

This subpart describes the applicability of succeeding subparts of this part to the various types of contracts in connection with which cost principles and procedures are used, and the need for advance understandings.

§ 1–15.102 Cost-reimbursement supply and research contracts with concerns other than educational institutions.

This category includes all cost-reimbursement type contracts (see § 1–3.404) for supplies, services, or experimental, developmental, or research work (other than with educational institutions, as to which § 1–15.103 applies), except that it does not include construction contracts (see § 1–15.104) or facilities contracts. The cost principles and procedures set forth in Subpart 1–15.2 may be incorporated by reference in cost-reimbursement supply and research contracts with other than educational institutions as the basis—

(a) For determination of reimbursable costs under such contracts, including cost-reimbursement type subcontracts thereunder, and the cost-reimbursement portion of time-and-materials contracts (§ 1–3.405–1);

(b) For the negotiation of overhead rates; and

(c) For the determination of costs of terminated cost-reimbursement type contracts, and for settlement of such contracts by determination.

§ 1–15.103 Cost-reimbursement research contracts with educational institutions.

(a) This category includes all cost-reimbursement type contracts (see § 1–3.404) for experimental, developmental, or research work with educational institutions. The cost principles and procedures set forth in Subpart 1–15.3 are the same as those provided, together with related policy guides, for Government-wide use by Circular No. A–21, September 10, 1958, issued by the Bureau of the Budget, and accordingly shall be incorporated (by reference, if desired) in cost-reimbursement research contracts with educational institutions as the basis—

(1) For determination of reimbursable costs under cost-reimbursement type contracts, including cost-reimbursement type subcontracts thereunder;

(2) For the negotiation of overhead rates; and

(3) For the determination of costs of terminated cost-reimbursement type contracts, and for settlement of such contracts by determination.

(b) In addition, Subpart 1–15.3 is to be used in determining allowable costs of research and development performed by educational institutions under grants.

§ 1–15.104 Cost-reimbursement construction contracts.

This category includes all cost-reimbursement type contracts for the construction, alteration, or repair of buildings, bridges, roads, or other kinds of real property. It also includes cost-reimbursement type contracts for architect-engineer services related to such construction." It does not include contracts for vessels, aircraft, or other kinds of personal property. The cost principles and procedures set forth in Subpart 1–15.4 may be incorporated by reference in cost-reimbursement construction contracts as the basis—

(a) For determination of reimbursable costs under cost-reimbursement type contracts, including cost-reimbursement type subcontracts thereunder;

(b) For the negotiation of overhead rates; and

(c) For the determination of costs of terminated cost-reimbursement type contracts, and for settlement of such contracts by determination.

§ 1–15.105 [Reserved]

§ 1–15.106 Use of cost principles for fixed-price type contracts.

Subpart 1–15.6 provides guidance for the use of Subparts 1–15.2, 1–15.3, and 1–15.4 where appropriate, in the evaluation of costs in connection with the negotiation of certain fixed-price type contracts and termination settlements.

§ 1–15.107 Advance understandings on particular cost items.

The extent of allowability of the selected items of cost covered in Subparts 1–15.2, 1–15.3, and 1–15.4 has been stated to apply broadly to many accounting systems in varying contract situations. Thus, as to any given contract, the reasonableness and allocability of certain items of cost may be difficult to determine, particularly in connection with firms or separate divisions thereof which may not be subject to effective competitive restraints. In order to avoid possible subsequent disallowance or dispute based on unreasonableness or nonallocability, it is important that prospective contractors, particularly those whose work is predominantly or substantially with the Government, seek agreement with the Government in advance of the incurrence of special or unusual costs in categories where reasonableness or allocability are difficult to determine. Such agreement may also be initiated by contracting officers when appropriate. Any such agreement should be incorporated in cost-reimbursement type contracts, or made a part of the contract file in the case of negotiated fixed-price type contracts, and should govern the cost treatment covered thereby throughout the performance of the contract. But the absence of such an advance agreement on any element of cost will not, in itself, serve to make that element either allowable or unallowable. Examples of costs on which advance agreements may be particularly important are:

(a) Compensation for personal services;

(b) Use charge for fully depreciated assets;

(c) Deferred maintenance costs;

(d) Pre-contract costs;

(e) Research and development costs;

(f) Royalties;

(g) Selling and distribution costs; and

(h) Travel costs, as related to special or mass personnel movement.

Subpart 1–15.2—Principles and Procedures for Use in Cost-Reimbursement Type Supply and Research Contracts With Commercial Organizations

§ 1–15.201 Basic considerations.

§ 1–15.201–1 Composition of total cost.

The total cost of a contract is the sum of the allowable direct and indirect costs allocable to the contract, incurred or to be incurred, less any allocable credits. In ascertaining what constitutes costs, any generally accepted method of determining or estimating costs that is equitable under the circumstances may be used, including standard costs properly adjusted for applicable variances.

§ 1–15.201–2 Factors affecting allowability of costs.

Factors to be considered in determining the allowability of individual items of cost include (a) reasonableness, (b) allocability, (c) application of those generally accepted accounting principles and practices appropriate to the particular circumstances, and (d) any limitations or exclusions set forth in this Subpart 1–15.2, or otherwise included in the contract as to types or amounts of cost items.

§ 1–15.201–3 Definition of reasonableness.

A cost is reasonable if, in its nature or amount, it does not exceed that which would be incurred by an ordinarily prudent person in the conduct of competitive business. The question of the reasonableness of specific costs must be scrutinized with particular care in connection with firms or separate divisions thereof which may not be subject to effective competitive restraints. What is reasonable depends upon a variety of considerations and circumstances involving both the nature and amount of the cost in question. In determining the reasonableness of a given cost, consideration shall be given to:

(a) Whether the cost is of a type generally recognized as ordinary and necessary for the conduct of the contractor's business or the performance of the contract;

(b) The restraints or requirements imposed by such factors as generally accepted sound business practices, arm's length bargaining, Federal and State laws and regulations, and contract terms and specifications;

(c) The action that a prudent business man would take in the circumstances, considering his responsibilities to the owners of the business, his employees, his customers, the Government, and the public at large; and

(d) Significant deviations from the established practices of the contractor which may unjustifiably increase the contract costs.

§ 1–15.201–4 Definition of allocability.

A cost is allocable if it is assignable or chargeable to a particular cost objective, such as a contract, product, product line, process, or class of customer or activity, in accordance with the relative benefits received or other equitable relationship. Subject to the foregoing, a cost is allocable to a Government contract if it:

(a) Is incurred specifically for the contract;

(b) Benefits both the contract and other work, or both Government work and other work, and can be distributed to them in reasonable proportion to the benefits received; or

(c) Is necessary to the overall operation of the business, although a direct relationship to any particular cost objective cannot be shown.

§ 1–15.201–5 Credits.

The applicable portion of any income, rebate, allowance, and other credit relating to any allowable cost, received by or accruing to the contractor, shall be credited to the Government either as a cost reduction or by cash refund, as appropriate.

§ 1–15.202 Direct costs.

(a) A direct cost is any cost which can be identified specifically with a particular cost objective. Direct costs are not limited to items which are incorporated in the end product as material or labor. Costs identified specifically with the contract are direct costs of the contract and are to be charged directly thereto. Costs identified specifically with other work of the contractor are direct costs of that work and are not to be charged to the contract directly or indirectly. When items ordinarily chargeable as indirect costs are charged to Government work as direct costs, the cost of like items applicable to other work of the contractor must be eliminated from indirect costs allocated to Government work.

(b) This definition shall be applied to all items of cost of significant amount unless the contractor demonstrates that the application of any different current practice achieves substantially the same results. Direct cost items of minor amount may be distributed as indirect costs as provided in § 1–15.203.

§ 1–15.203 Indirect costs.

(a) An indirect cost is one which, because of its incurrence for common or joint objectives, is not readily subject to treatment as a direct cost. Minor direct cost items may be considered to be indirect costs for reasons of practicality. After direct costs have been determined and charged directly to the contract or other work as appropriate, indirect costs are those remaining to be allocated to the several classes of work.

(b) Indirect costs shall be accumulated by logical cost groupings with due consideration of the reasons for incurring the costs. Each grouping should be determined so as to permit distribution of the grouping on the basis of the benefits accruing to the several cost objectives. Commonly, manufacturing overhead, selling expenses, and general and administrative expenses, are separately grouped. Similarly, the particular case may require subdivisions of these groupings, e.g., building occupancy costs might be separable from those of personnel administration within the manufacturing overhead group. The number and composition of the groupings should be governed by practical considerations and should be such as not to complicate unduly the allocation where substantially the same results are achieved through less precise methods.

(c) Each cost grouping shall be distributed to the appropriate cost objectives. This necessitates the selection of a distribution base common to all cost objectives to which the grouping is to be allocated. The base should be selected so as to permit allocation of the grouping on the basis of the benefits accruing to the several cost objectives. This principle for selection is not to be applied so rigidly as to complicate unduly the allocation where substantially the same results are achieved through less precise methods.

(d) The method of allocation of indirect costs must be based on the particular circumstances involved. The method shall be in accord with those generally accepted accounting principles which are applicable in the circumstances. The contractor's established practices, if in accord with such accounting principles, shall generally be acceptable. However, the methods used by the contractor may require reexamination when:

(1) Any substantial difference occurs between the cost patterns of work under the contract and other work of the contractor; or

(2) Any significant change occurs in the nature of the business, the extent of subcontracting, fixed asset improvement programs, the inventories, the volume of sales and production, manufacturing processes, the contractor's products, or other relevant circumstances.

(e) A base period for allocation of indirect costs is the period during which such costs are incurred and accumulated for distribution to work performed in that period. Normally, the base period will be the contractor's fiscal year; however, use of a shorter period may be appropriate in case of (1) contracts whose performance involves only a minor portion of the fiscal year, or (2) where it is general practice in the industry to use a shorter period. In any event the base period or periods shall be so selected as to avoid inequities in the allocation of costs. When the contract is performed over an extended period of time, as many such base periods will be used as will be required to represent the period of contract performance.

§ 1–15.204 Application of principles and procedures.

(a) Costs shall be allowed to the extent that they are reasonable (see § 1–15.201–3), allocable (see § 1–15.201–4), and determined to be allowable in view of the other factors set forth in §§ 1–15.201–2 and 1–15.205. These criteria apply to all of the selected items of cost which follow, notwithstanding that particular guidance is provided in connection with certain specific items for emphasis or clarity.

(b) Costs incurred as reimbursements to a subcontractor under a cost-reimbursement type subcontract of any tier above the first fixed-price subcontract are allowable to the extent that allowance is consistent with the subpart of this Part 1–15 which is appropriate to the subcontract involved. Thus, if the subcontract is for supplies, such costs are allowable to the extent that the subcontractor's costs would be allowable if this Subpart 1–15.2 were incorporated in the subcontract; if the subcontract is for construction, such costs are allowable to the extent that the subcontractor's costs would be allowable if Subpart 1–15.4 were incorporated in the subcontract.

(c) Selected items of cost are treated in § 1–15.205. However, § 1–15.205 does not cover every element of cost and every situation that might arise in a particular case. Failure to treat any item of cost in § 1–15.205 is not intended to imply that it is either allowable or unallowable. With respect to all items, whether or not specifically covered, determination of allowability shall be based on the principles and standards set forth in this subpart and, where appropriate, the treatment of similar or related selected items.

§ 1–15.205 Selected costs.

§ 1–15.205–1 Advertising costs.

(a) Advertising costs mean the costs of advertising media and corollary administrative costs. Advertising media include magazines, newspapers, radio and television programs, direct mail, trade papers, outdoor advertising, dealer cards and window displays, conventions, exhibits, free goods and samples, and the like. The following advertising costs are allowable:

(1) Advertising in trade and technical journals, provided such advertising does not offer specific products or services for sale but is placed in journals which are valuable for dissemination of technical information within the contractor's industry;

(2) Help-wanted advertising, as set forth in § 1–15.205–33, when considered in conjunction with all other recruitment costs;

(3) Costs of participation in exhibits—

(i) Upon invitation of the Government, or

(ii) Which exhibits are for the purpose of disseminating technical information within the contractor's industry; however, such costs are not allowable under this (ii) if the exhibit offers specific products or services for sale;

(4) Advertising for the exclusive purpose of obtaining scarce materials, plant, or equipment, or disposing of scrap or surplus materials, in connection with the contract.

(b) Except as provided above, all other advertising costs are unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–2 Bad debts.

Bad debts, including losses (whether actual or estimated) arising from uncollectible customers' accounts and other claims, related collection costs, and related legal costs, are unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–3 Bidding costs.

Bidding costs are the costs of preparing bids or proposals on potential Government and non-Government contracts or projects, including the development of engineering data and cost data necessary to support the contractor's bids or proposals. Bidding costs of the current accounting period of both successful and unsuccessful bids and proposals normally will be treated as allowable indirect costs, in which event no bidding costs of past accounting periods shall be allowable in the current period to the Government contract. However, if the contractor's established practice is to treat bidding costs by some other method, the results obtained may be accepted only if found to be reasonable and equitable.

§ 1–15.205–4 Bonding costs.

(a) Bonding costs arise when the Government requires assurance against financial loss to itself or others by reason of the act or default of the contractor. They arise also in instances where the contractor requires similar assurance. Included are such bonds as bid, performance, payment, advance payment, infringement, and fidelity bonds.

(b) Costs of bonding required pursuant to the terms of the contract are allowable.

(c) Costs of bonding required by the contractor in the general conduct of his business are allowable to the extent that such bonding is in accordance with sound business practice and the rates and premiums are reasonable under the circumstances.

§ 1–15.205–5 Civil defense costs.

(a) Civil defense costs are those incurred in planning for, and the protection of, life and property against, the possible effects of enemy attack. Reasonable costs of civil defense measures (including costs in excess of normal plant protection costs, first-aid training and supplies, fire fighting training and equipment, posting of additional exit notices and directions, and other approved civil defense measures) undertaken on the contractor's premises pursuant to suggestions or requirements of civil defense authorities are allowable when allocated to all work of the contractor.

(b) Costs of capital assets under (a) above are allowable through depreciation in accordance with § 1–15.205–9.

(c) Contributions to local civil defense funds and projects are unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–6 Compensation for personal services.

(a) General.

(1) Compensation for personal services includes all remuneration paid currently or accrued, in whatever form and whether paid immediately or deferred, for services rendered by employees to the contractor during the period of contract performance. It includes, but is not limited to, salaries, wages, directors' and executive committee members' fees, bonuses (including stock bonuses), incentive awards, employee stock options, employee insurance, fringe benefits, and contributions to pension, annuity, and management employee incentive compensation plans. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this § 1–15.205–6, such costs are allowable to the extent that the total compensation of individual employees is reasonable for the services rendered and they are not in excess of those costs which are allowable by the Internal Revenue Code and regulations thereunder.

(2) Compensation is reasonable to the extent that the total amount paid or accrued is commensurate with compensation paid under the contractor's established policy and conforms generally to compensation paid by other firms of the same size, in the same industry, or in the same geographic area, for similar services. In the administration of this principle, it is recognized that not every compensation case need be subjected in detail to the above tests. Such tests need be applied only to those cases in which a general review reveals amounts or types of compensation which appear unreasonable or otherwise out of line. However, certain conditions give rise to the need for special consideration and possible limitation as to allowability for contract cost purposes where amounts appear excessive. Among such conditions are the following:

(i) Compensation to owners of closely held corporations, partners, sole proprietors, or members of the immediate families thereof, or to persons who are contractually committed to acquire a substantial financial interest in the contractor's enterprise. Determination should be made that such compensation is reasonable for the actual personal services rendered rather than a distribution of profits.

(ii) Any change in a contractor's compensation policy resulting in a substantial increase in the contractor's level of compensation, particularly when it was concurrent with an increase in the ratio of Government contracts to other business, or any change in the treatment of allowability of specific types of compensation due to changes in Government policy.

(iii) The contractor's business is such that his compensation levels are not subject to the restraints normally occurring in the conduct of competitive business.

(3) Compensation in lieu of salary for services rendered by partners and sole proprietors will be allowed to the extent that it is reasonable and does not constitute a distribution of profits.

(4) In addition to the general requirements set forth in (1) through (3) above, certain forms of compensation are subject to further requirements as specified in (b) through (i) below.

(b) Salaries and wages. Salaries and wages for current services include gross compensation paid to employees in the form of cash, products, or services, and are allowable. However, premiums for overtime, extra-pay shifts, and multi-shift work are allowable to the extent approved pursuant to § 1-12.102-4 or permitted pursuant to § 1-12.102-5.

(c) Cash bonuses and incentive compensation. Incentive compensation for management employees, cash bonuses, suggestion awards, safety awards, and incentive compensation based on production, cost reduction, or efficient performance, are allowable to the extent that the overall compensation is determined to be reasonable and such costs are paid or accrued pursuant to an agreement entered into in good faith between the contractor and the employees before the services were rendered, or pursuant to an established plan followed by the contractor so consistently as to imply, in effect, an agreement to make such payment. (But see § 1-15.107.) Bonuses, awards, and incentive compensation when any of them are deferred are allowable to the extent provided in (f) below.

(d) Bonuses and incentive compensation paid in stock. Costs of bonuses and incentive compensation paid in the stock of the contractor or of an affiliate are allowable to the extent set forth in (c) above (including the incorporation of the principles of (f) below for deferred bonuses and incentive compensation), subject to the following additional requirements:

(1) Valuation placed on the stock transferred shall be the fair market value at the time of transfer, determined upon the most objective basis available; and

(2) Accruals for the cost of stock prior to the issuance of such stock to the employees shall be subject to adjustment according to the possibilities that the employees will not receive such stock and their interest in the accruals will be forfeited.

Such costs otherwise allowable are subject to adjustment according to the principles set forth in (f)(3) below. (But see § 1-15.107.)

(e) Stock options. The cost of options to employees to purchase stock of the contractor or of an affiliate is unallowable.

(f) Deferred compensation.

(1) As used herein, deferred compensation includes all remuneration, in whatever form, for which the employee is not paid until after the lapse of a stated period of years or the occurrence of other events as provided in the plans, except that it does not include normal end of accounting period accruals. It includes (i) contributions to pension, annuity, stock bonus, and profit sharing plans, (ii) contributions to disability, withdrawal, insurance, survivorship, and similar benefit plans, and (iii) other deferred compensation, whether paid in cash or in stock.

(2) Deferred compensation is allowable to the extent that (i) except for past service pension and retirement costs, it is for services rendered during the contract period; (ii) it is, together with all other compensation paid to the employee, reasonable in amount; (iii) it is paid pursuant to an agreement entered into in good faith between the contractor and employees before the services are rendered, or pursuant to an established plan followed by the contractor so consistently as to imply, in effect, an agreement to make such payments; and (iv) for a plan which is subject to approval by the Internal Revenue Service, it falls within the criteria and standards of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations of the Internal Revenue Service. (But see § 1-15. 107.)

(3) In determining the cost of deferred compensation allowable under the contract, appropriate adjustments shall be made for credits or gains, including those arising out of both normal and abnormal employee turnover, or any other contingencies that can result in a forfeiture by employees of such deferred compensation. Adjustments shall be made only for forfeitures which directly or indirectly inure to the benefit of the contractor; forfeitures which inure to the benefit of other employees covered by a deferred compensation plan with no reduction in the contractor's costs will not normally give rise to adjustment in contract costs. Adjustments for normal employee turnover shall be based on the contractor's experience and on foreseeable prospects, and shall be reflected in the amount of cost currently allowable. Such adjustments will be unnecessary to the extent that the contractor can demonstrate that its contributions take into account normal forfeitures. Adjustments for possible future abnormal forfeitures shall be effected according to the following rules:

(i) Abnormal forfeitures that are foreseeable and which can be currently evaluated with reasonable accuracy, by actuarial or other sound computation, shall be reflected by an adjustment of current costs otherwise allowable; and

(ii) Abnormal forfeitures, not within (i) above, may be made the subject of agreement between the Government and the contractor either as to an equitable adjustment or a method of determining such adjustment.

(4) In determining whether deferred compensation is for services rendered during the contract period or is for future services, consideration shall be given to conditions imposed upon eventual payment, such as, requirements of continued employment, consultation after retirement, and covenants not to compete.

(g) Fringe benefits. Fringe benefits are allowances and services provided by the contractor to its employees as compensation in addition to regular wages and salaries. Costs of fringe benefits, such as pay for vacations, holidays, sick leave, military leave, employee insurance, and supplemental employment benefit plans are allowable to the extent required by law, employer-employee agreement, or an established policy of the contractor.

(h) Severance pay. See § 1-15.205-39.

(i) Training and education expenses. See § 1-15.205-44.

§ 1-15.205-7 Contingencies.

(a) A contingency is a possible future event or condition arising from presently known or unknown causes, the outcome of which is indeterminable at a present time.

(b) In historical costing, contingencies are not normally present since such costing deals with costs which have been incurred and recorded on the contractor's books. Accordingly, contingencies are generally unallowable for historical costing purposes. However, in some cases, as for example, terminations, a contingency factor may be recognized which is applicable to a past period to give recognition to minor unsettled factors in the interest of expeditious settlement.

(c) In connection with estimates of future costs, contingencies fall into two categories:

(1) Those which may arise from presently known and existing conditions, the effects of which are foreseeable within reasonable limits of accuracy; e.g., anticipated costs of rejects and defective work; in such situations where they exist, contingencies of this category are to be included in the estimates of future cost so as to provide the best estimate of performance costs; and

(2) Those which may arise from presently known or unknown conditions, the effect of which cannot be measured so precisely as to provide equitable results to the contractor and to the Government; i.e., results of pending litigation, and other general business risks. Contingencies of this category are to be excluded from cost estimates under the several items of cost, but should be disclosed separately, including the basis upon which the contingency is computed in order to facilitate the negotiation of appropriate contractual coverage (see, for example, §§ 1-15.205-16, 1-15.205-20, and 1-15.205-39).

§ 1-15.205-8 Contributions and donations.

Contributions and donations are unallowable.

§ 1-15.205-9 Depreciation.

(a) Depreciation is a charge to current operations which distributes the cost of a tangible capital asset, less estimated residual value, over the estimated useful life of the asset in a systematic and logical manner. It does not involve a process of valuation. Useful life has reference to the prospective period of economic usefulness in the particular contractor's operations as distinguished from physical life.

(b) Normal depreciation on a contractor's plant, equipment, and other capital facilities is an allowable element of contract cost; provided that the amount thereof is computed:

(1) Upon the property cost basis used by the contractor for Federal income tax purposes (see section 167 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954); or

(2) In the case of nonprofit or tax-exempt organizations, upon a property cost basis which could have been used by the contractor for Federal income tax purposes, had such organizations been subject to the payment of income tax; and in either case

(3) By the consistent application to the assets concerned of any generally accepted accounting method, and subject to the limitations of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, including—

(i) The straight line method;

(ii) The declining balance method, using a rate not exceeding twice the rate which would have been used had the annual allowance been computed under the method described in (i) above;

(iii) The sum of the years-digits method; and

(iv) Any other consistent method productive of an annual allowance which, when added to all allowances for the period commencing with the use of the property and including the current year, does not, during the first two-thirds of the useful life of the property, exceed the total of such allowances which would have been used had such allowances been computed under the method described in (ii) above.

(c) Depreciation should usually be allocated to the contract and other work as an indirect cost. The amount of depreciation allowed in any accounting period may, consistent with the basic objectives set forth in (a) above, vary with volume of production or use of multi-shift operations.

(d) Depreciation on idle or excess facilities shall not be allowed except on such facilities as are reasonably necessary for standby purposes.

(e) No depreciation, rental, or use charge shall be allowed on the contractor's assets which have been fully depreciated when a substantial portion of such depreciation was on a basis that represented, in effect, a recovery thereof as a charge against Government contracts or subcontracts. Otherwise, a reasonable use charge may be agreed upon and allowed. (But see § 1-15.107.) In determining this charge, consideration should be given to cost, total estimated useful life at time of negotiation, and effect of any increased maintenance charges or decreased efficiency due to age.

§ 1-15.205-10 Employee morale, health, and welfare costs and credits.

Reasonable costs of health and welfare activities, such as house publications, health or first-aid clinics, recreational activities, and employee counseling services, incurred, in accordance with the contractor's established practice or custom in the industry or area, for the improvement of working conditions, employer-employee relations, employee morale, and employee performance, are allowable. Income generated from any of these activities shall be credited to the costs thereof unless such income has been irrevocably set over to employee welfare organizations.

§ 1-15.205-11 Entertainment costs.

Costs of amusement, diversion, social activities and incidental costs relating thereto, such as meals, lodging, rentals, transportation, and gratuities, are unallowable (but see §§ 1-15.205-10 and 1-15.205-42).

§ 1-15.205-12 Excess facility costs.

Costs of maintaining, repairing, and housing idle and excess contractor-owned facilities, except those reasonably necessary for standby purposes, are unallowable. Any costs of excess plant capacity reserved for defense mobilization production which are to be paid for by the Government should be the subject of a separate contract.

§ 1-15.205-13 Fines and penalties.

Costs of fines and penalties resulting from violations of, or failure of the contractor to comply with, Federal, State, and local laws and regulations are unallowable except when incurred as a result of compliance with specific provisions of the contract, or instructions in writing from the contracting officer.

§ 1-15.205-14 Food service and dormitory costs and credits.

Food and dormitory services include operating or furnishing facilities for cafeterias, dining rooms, canteens, lunch wagons, vending machines, living accommodations or similar types of services for the contractor's employees at or near the contractor's facilities. Reasonable losses from the operation of such services are allowable if they are allocated to all activities served. Profits (except profits irrevocably set over to an employee welfare organization of the contractor in amounts reasonably useful for the benefit of the employees at the site or sites of contract performance) accruing to the contractor from the operation of these services, whether operated by the contractor or by a concessionaire, shall be treated as a credit, and allocated to all activities served.

§ 1-15.205-15 Fringe benefits.

(See § 1-15.205-6(g)).

§ 1-15.205-16 Insurance and indemnification.

(a) Insurance includes insurance which the contractor is required to carry, or which is approved, under the terms of the contract, and any other insurance which the contractor maintains in connection with the general conduct of his business.

(1) Costs of insurance required or approved, and maintained, pursuant to the contract, are allowable.

(2) Costs of other insurance maintained by the contractor in connection with the general conduct of his business are allowable subject to the following limitations:

(i) Types and extent of coverage shall be in accordance with sound business practice and the rates and premiums shall be reasonable under the circumstances;

(ii) Costs allowed for business interruption or other similar insurance shall be limited to exclude coverage of profit;

(iii) Costs of insurance or of any provision for a reserve covering the risk of loss of or damage to Government property are allowable only to the extent that the contractor is liable for such loss or damage and such insurance or reserve does not cover loss or damage which results from willful misconduct or lack of good faith on the part of any of the contractor's directors or officers, or other equivalent representatives, who has supervision or direction of (A) all or substantially all of the contractor's business, or (B) all or substantially all of the contractor's operations at any one plant or separate location in which the contract is being performed, or (C) a separate and complete industrial operation in connection with the performance of the contract;

(iv) Provisions for a reserve under an approved self-insurance program are allowable to the extent that the types of coverage, extent of coverage, and the rates and premiums would have been allowed had insurance been purchased to cover the risks; and

(v) Costs of insurance on the lives of officers, partners, or proprietors are allowable only to the extent that the insurance represents additional compensation (see § 1–15.205–6).

(3) Actual losses which could have been covered by permissible insurance (through an approved self-insurance program or otherwise) are unallowable unless expressly provided for in the contract, except:

(i) Costs incurred because of losses not covered under nominal deductible insurance coverage provided in keeping with sound business practice, are allowable; and

(ii) Minor losses not covered by insurance, such as spoilage, breakage, and disappearance of small hand tools, which occur in the ordinary course of doing business, are allowable.

(b) Indemnification includes securing the contractor against liabilities to third persons and any other loss or damage, not compensated by insurance or otherwise. The Government is obligated to indemnify the contractor only to the extent expressly provided for in the contract, except as provided in (a) (3) above.

§ 1–15.205–17 Interest and other financial costs.

Interest on borrowings (however represented), bond discounts, costs of financing and refinancing operations, legal and professional fees paid in connection with the preparation of prospectuses, costs of preparation and issuance of stock rights, and costs related thereto, are unallowable except for interest assessed by State or local taxing authorities under the conditions set forth in § 1–15.205–41. (But see § 1–15.205–24.)

§ 1–15.205–18 Labor relations costs.

Costs incurred in maintaining satisfactory relations between the contractor and its employees, including costs of shop stewards, labor management committees, employee publications, and other related activities, are allowable.

§ 1–15.205–19 Losses on other contracts.

An excess of costs over income under any other contract (including the contractor's contributed portion under cost-sharing contracts), whether such other contract is of a supply, research and development, or other nature, is unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–20 Maintenance and repair costs.

(a) Costs necessary for the upkeep of property (including Government property unless otherwise provided for), which neither add to the permanent value of the property nor appreciably prolong its intended life, but keep it in an efficient operating condition, are to be treated as follows (but see § 1–15.205–9):

(1) Normal maintenance and repair costs are allowable;

(2) Extraordinary maintenance and repair costs are allowable, provided such are allocated to the periods to which applicable for purposes of determining contract costs. (But see § 1–15.107.)

(b) Expenditures for plant and equipment, including rehabilitation thereof, which, according to generally accepted accounting principles as applied under the contractor's established policy, should be capitalized and subjected to depreciation, are allowable only on a depreciation basis.

§ 1–15.205–21 Manufacturing and production engineering costs.

Costs of manufacturing and production engineering, including engineering activities in connection with the following, are allowable:

(a) Current manufacturing processes such as motion and time study, methods analysis, job analysis, and tool design and improvement; and

(b) Current production problems, such as materials analysis for production suitability and component design for purposes of simplifying production.

§ 1–15.205–22 Material costs.

(a) Material costs include the costs of such items as raw materials, parts, subassemblies, components, and manufacturing supplies, whether purchased outside or manufactured by the contractor, and may include such collateral items as inbound transportation and intransit insurance. In computing material costs consideration will be given to reasonable overruns, spoilage, or defective work (concerning correction of defective work, see the provisions of the contract relating to inspection and correction of defective work). These costs are allowable subject, however, to the provisions of (b) through (e) below.

(b) Costs of material shall be suitably adjusted for applicable portions of income and other credits, including available trade discounts, refunds, rebates, allowances, and cash discounts, and credits for scrap and salvage and material returned to vendors. Such income and other credits shall either be credited directly to the cost of the material involved or be allocated (as credits) to indirect costs. However, where the contractor can demonstrate that failure to take cash discounts was due to reasonable circumstances, such lost discounts need not be so credited.

(c) Reasonable adjustments arising from differences between periodic physical inventories and book inventories may be included in arriving at costs, provided such adjustments relate to the period of performance of the contract.

(d) When the materials are purchased specifically for and identifiable solely with performance under a contract, the actual purchase cost thereof should be charged to the contract. If material is issued from stores, any generally recognized method of pricing such material is acceptable if that method is consistently applied and the results are equitable. When estimates of material costs to be incurred in the future are required, either current market price or anticipated acquisition cost may be used, but the basis of pricing must be disclosed.

(e) Charges for materials, services, and supplies sold or transferred between plants, divisions, or organizations, under a common control, ordinarily shall be allowable to the extent of the lower of cost to the transferor or current market price. However, a departure from this basis is permissible where (1) the item is regularly manufactured and sold by the contractor through commercial channels, and (2) it is the contractor's long-established practice to price inter-organization transfers at other than cost for commercial work; provided that the charge to the contract is not in excess of the transferor's sales price to its most favored customer for the same item in like quantity, or the current market price, whichever is lower.

§ 1–15.205–23 Organization costs.

Expenditures, such as incorporation fees, attorneys' fees, accountants' fees, brokers' fees, fees to promoters and organizers, in connection with (1) organization or reorganization of a business, or (2) raising capital, are unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–24 Other business expenses.

Included in this item are such recurring expenses as registry and transfer charges resulting from changes in ownership of securities issued by the contractor, cost of shareholders' meetings, normal proxy solicitations, preparation and publication of reports to shareholders, preparation and submission of required reports and forms to taxing and other regulatory bodies; and incidental costs of directors and committee meetings. The above and similar costs are allowable when allocated on an equitable basis.

§ 1–15.205–25 Overtime, extra-pay shift and multi-shift premiums.

Premiums for overtime, extra-pay shift, and multi-shift work are allowable to the extent approved pursuant to § 1–12.102–4, or permitted pursuant to § 1–12.102–5.

§ 1–15.205–26 Patent costs.

Costs of preparing disclosures, reports, and other documents required by the contract and of searching the art to the extent necessary to make such invention disclosures, are allowable. In accordance with the clauses of the contract relating to patents, costs of preparing documents and any other patent costs, in connection with the filing of a patent application where title is conveyed to the Government, are allowable. (See § 1–15.205–36.)

§ 1–15.205–27 Pension plans.

(See § 1–15.205–6.)

§ 1–15.205–28 Plant protection costs.

Costs of items such as (a) wages, uniforms, and equipment of personnel engaged in plant protection, (b) depreciation on plant protection capital assets, and (c) necessary expenses to comply with security requirements, are allowable.

§ 1–15.205–29 Plant reconversion costs.

Plant reconversion costs are those incurred in the restoration or rehabilitation of the contractor's facilities to approximately the same condition existing immediately prior to the commencement of the contract work, fair wear and tear excepted. Reconversion costs are unallowable except for the cost of removing Government property and the restoration or rehabilitation costs caused by such removal. However, in special circumstances where equity so dictates, additional costs may be allowed to the extent agreed upon before the costs are incurred. Whenever such costs are given consideration, care should be exercised to avoid duplication through allowance as contingencies, as additional profit or fee, or in other contracts.

§ 1–15.205–30 Precontract costs.

Precontract costs are those incurred prior to the effective date of the contract directly pursuant to the negotiation and in anticipation of the award of the contract where such incurrence is necessary to comply with the proposed contract delivery schedule. Such costs are allowable to the extent that they would have been allowable if incurred after the date of the contract (but see § 1–15.107).

§ 1–15.205–31 Professional service costs—legal, accounting, engineering, and other.

(a) Costs of professional services rendered by the members of a particular profession who are not employees of the contractor are allowable, subject to (b) and (c) below, when reasonable in relation to the services rendered and when not contingent upon recovery of the costs from the Government (but see § 1–15.205–23).

(b) Factors to be considered in determining the allowability of costs in a particular case include:

(1) The past pattern of such costs, particularly in the years prior to the award of Government contracts;

(2) The impact of Government contracts on the contractor's business (i.e., what new problems have arisen);

(3) The nature and scope of managerial services expected of the contractor's own organizations;

(4) Whether the proportion of Government work to the contractor's total business is such as to influence the contractor in favor of incurring the cost, particularly where the services rendered are not of a continuing nature and have little relationship to work under Government contracts; and

(5) Whether retainer fees are reasonably supported by evidence of bona fide services available or rendered.

(c) Costs of legal, accounting, and consulting services, and related costs, incurred in connection with organization and reorganization, defense of antitrust suits, and the prosecution of claims against the Government, are unallowable. Costs of legal, accounting, and consulting services, and related costs, incurred in connection with patent infringement litigation, are unallowable unless otherwise provided for in the contract.

§ 1–15.205–32 Profits and losses on disposition of plant, equipment, or other capital assets.

Profits or losses of any nature arising from the sale or exchange of plant, equipment, or other capital assets, including sale or exchange of either short or long term investments, shall be excluded in computing contract costs (but see § 1–15.205–9(b) as to basis for depreciation).

§ 1–15.205–33 Recruiting costs.

Costs of "help wanted" advertising, operating costs of an employment office necessary to secure and maintain an adequate labor force, costs of operating an aptitude and educational testing program, travel costs of employees while engaged in recruiting personnel, and travel costs of applicants for interviews for prospective employment are allowable. Where the contractor uses employment agencies, costs not in excess of standard commercial rates for such services are also allowable. Costs of special benefits or emoluments offered to prospective employees beyond the standard practices in the industry are unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–34 Rental costs (including sale and leaseback of facilities).

(a) Rental costs of land, building, and equipment and other personal property are allowable if the rates are reasonable in light of such factors as rental costs of comparable facilities and market conditions in the area, the type, life expectancy, condition, and value of the facilities leased, options available, and other provisions of the rental agreement. Application of these factors, in situations where rentals are extensively used, may involve among other considerations, comparison of rental costs with the amount which the contractor would have received had it owned the facilities.

(b) Charges in the nature of rent between plants, divisions, or organizations under common control are allowable to the extent such charges do not exceed the normal costs of ownership, such as depreciation, taxes, insurance, and maintenance; provided that no part of such costs shall duplicate any other allowed costs.

(c) Unless otherwise specifically provided in the contract, rental costs specified in sale and leaseback agreements, incurred by contractors through selling plant facilities to investment organizations, such as insurance companies, or to private investors, and concurrently leasing back the same facilities, are allowable only to the extent that such rentals do not exceed the amount which the contractor would have received had it retained legal title to the facilities.

(d) The allowability of rental costs under unexpired leases in connection with terminations is treated in § 1–15.205–42(e).

§ 1–15.205–35 Research and development costs.

(a) Basic research, for the purpose of this Subpart 1–15.2, is that type of research which is directed toward increase of knowledge in science. In such research, the primary aim of the investigator is a fuller knowledge or understanding of the subject under study, rather than any practical application thereof. Applied research, for the purpose of this Subpart 1–15.2, consists of that type of effort which (1) normally follows basic research, but may not be severable from the related basic research, (2) attempts to determine and expand the potentialities of new scientific discoveries or improvements in technology, materials, processes, methods, devices, and techniques, and (3) attempts to "advance the state of the art." Applied research does not include any such efforts when their principal aim is the design, development, or test of specific articles or services to be offered for sale, which are within the definition of the term development as hereinafter provided.

(b) "Development" is the systematic use of scientific knowledge which is directed toward the production of, or improvements in, useful products to meet specific performance requirements, but exclusive of manufacturing and production engineering.

(c) A contractor's independent research and development is that research and development which is not sponsored by a contract, grant, or other arrangement.

(d) A contractor's costs of independent research as defined in (a) and (c) above shall be allowable as indirect costs (subject to (h) below), provided they are allocated to all work of the contractor.

(e) Costs of contractor's independent development, as defined in (b) and (c) above (subject to (h) below), are allowable to the extent that such development is related to the product lines for which the Government has contracts, provided the costs are reasonable in amount and are allocated as indirect costs to all work of the contractor on such product lines. In cases where a contractor's normal course of business does not involve production work, the cost of independent development is allowable to the extent that such development is related and allocated as an indirect cost to the field of effort of Government research and development contracts.

(f) Independent research and development costs shall include an amount for the absorption of their appropriate share of indirect and administrative costs, unless the contractor, in accordance with its accounting practices consistently applied, treats such costs otherwise.

(g) Research and development costs (including amounts capitalized), regardless of their nature, which were incurred in accounting periods prior to the award of a particular contract, are unallowable except where allowable as precontract costs (see § 1–15.205–30).

(h) The reasonableness of expenditures for independent research and development should be determined in light of all pertinent considerations such as previous contractor research and development activity, cost of past programs and changes in science and technology. Such expenditures should be pursuant to a broad planned program, which is reasonable in scope and well managed. Such expenditures (especially for development) should be scrutinized with great care in connection with contractors whose work is predominantly or substantially with the Government. Advance agreements as described in § 1–15.107 are particularly important in this situation. In recognition that cost sharing of the contractor's independent research and development program may provide motivation for more efficient accomplishment of such program, it is desirable in some cases that the Government bear less than an allocable share of the total cost of the program. Under these circumstances, the following are among the approaches which may be used as the basis for agreement: (1) Review of the contractor's proposed independent research and development program and agreement to accept the allocable costs of specific projects; (2) agreement on a maximum dollar limitation of costs, an allocable portion of which will be accepted by the Government; (3) an agreement to accept the allocable share of a percentage of the contractor's planned research and development program.

§ 1–15.205–36 Royalties and other costs for use of patents.

(a) Royalties on a patent or amortization of the cost of acquiring by purchase a patent or rights thereto, necessary for the proper performance of the contract and applicable to contract products or processes, are allowable unless:

(1) The Government has a license or the right to free use of the patent;

(2) The patent has been adjudicated to be invalid, or has been administratively determined to be invalid;

(3) The patent is considered to be unenforceable; or

(4) The patent is expired.

(b) Special care should be exercised in determining reasonableness where the royalties may have been arrived at as a result of less than arm's length bargaining; e.g.:

(1) Royalties paid to persons, including corporations, affiliated with the contractor;

(2) Royalties paid to unaffiliated parties, including corporations, under an agreement entered into in contemplation that a Government contract would be awarded; or

(3) Royalties paid under an agreement entered into after the award of the contract.

(c) In any case involving a patent formerly owned by the contractor, the amount of royalty allowed should not exceed the cost which would have been allowed had the contractor retained title thereto.

(d) See § 1–15.107, regarding advance understandings.

§ 1–15.205–37 Selling costs.

(a) Selling costs arise in the marketing of the contractor's products and include costs of sales promotions, negotiation, liaison between Government representatives and contractor's personnel, and other related activities.

(b) Selling costs are allowable to the extent they are reasonable and are allocable to Government business (but see §§ 1–15.107 and 1–15.205–1). Allocability of selling costs will be determined in the light of reasonable benefit to the Government arising from such activities as technical, consulting, demonstration, and other services which are for purposes such as application or adaptation of the contractor's products to Government use.

(c) Notwithstanding (b) above, salesmen's or agents' compensation, fees, commissions, percentages, or brokerage fees, which are contingent upon the award of contracts, are allowable only when paid to bona fide employees or bona fide established commercial or selling agencies maintained by the contractor for the purpose of securing business.

§ 1–15.205–38 Service and warranty costs.

Such costs include those arising from fulfillment of any contractual obligation of a contractor to provide services, such as installation, training, correcting defects in the products, replacing defective parts, making refunds in the case of inadequate performance, etc. When not inconsistent with the terms of the contract, such service and warranty costs are allowable. However, care should be exercised to avoid duplication of the allowance as an element of both estimated product cost and risk.

§ 1–15.205–39 Severance pay.

(a) Severance pay, also commonly referred to as dismissal wages, is a payment in addition to regular salaries and wages, by contractors to workers whose employment is being terminated. Costs of severance pay are allowable only to the extent that, in each case, it is required by (1) law, (2) employer-employee agreement, (3) established policy that constitutes, in effect, an implied agreement on the contractor's part, or (4) circumstance of the particular employment.

(b) Costs of severance payments are divided into two categories as follows:

(1) Actual normal turnover severance payments shall be allocated to all work performed in the contractor's plant; or, where the contractor provides for accrual of pay for normal severances such method will be acceptable if the amount of the accrual is reasonable in light of payments actually made for normal severances over a representative past period, and if amounts accrued are allocated to all work performed in the contractor's plant; and

(2) Abnormal or mass severance pay is of such a conjectural nature that measurement of costs by means of an accrual will not achieve equity to both parties. Thus accruals for this purpose are not allowable. However, the Government recognizes its obligation to participate, to the extent of its fair share, in any specific payment. Thus, allowability will be considered on a case-by-case basis in the event of occurrence.

§ 1–15.205–40 Special tooling costs.

The term "special tooling" means all jigs, dies, fixtures, molds, patterns, special taps, special gauges, special test equipment, other special equipment and manufacturing aids, and replacements thereof, acquired or manufactured by the contractor for use in the performance of a contract, which are of such a specialized nature that, without substantial modification or alteration, their use is limited to the production of such supplies or parts thereof, or the performance of such services, as are peculiar to the needs of the Government. The term does not include: (a) Items of tooling or equipment acquired by the contractor prior to the contract, or replacements thereof, whether or not altered or adapted for use in the performance of the contract, (b) consumable small tools, or (c) general or special machine tools, or similar capital items. The cost of special tooling, when acquired for and its usefulness is limited to one or more Government contracts, is allowable and shall be allocated to the specific Government contract or contracts for which acquired.

§ 1–15.205–41 Taxes.

(a) Taxes are certain charges levied by Federal, State, or local governments. They do not include fines and penalties except as otherwise provided herein. In general, taxes (including State and local income taxes) which the contractor is required to pay and which are paid or accrued in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles are allowable, except for:

(1) Federal income and excess profits taxes;

(2) Taxes in connection with financing, refinancing, or refunding operations (see § 1–15.205–17);

(3) Taxes from which exemptions are available to the contractor directly or available to the contractor based on an exemption afforded the Government except when the contracting officer determines that the administrative burden incident to obtaining the exemption outweighs the corresponding benefits accruing to the Government; and

(4) Special assessments on land which represent capital improvements.

(b) Taxes otherwise allowable under (a) above, but upon which a claim of illegality or erroneous assessment exists, are allowable: Provided, That the contractor prior to payment of such taxes:

(1) Promptly requests instructions from the contracting officer concerning such taxes; and

(2) Takes all action directed by the contracting officer arising out of (b)(1) above or an independent decision of the Government as to the existence of a claim of illegality or erroneous assessment, including cooperation with and for the benefit of the Government to (i) determine the legality of such assessment or, (ii), secure a refund of such taxes.

Reasonable costs of any such action undertaken by the contractor at the direction or with the concurrence of the contracting officer are allowable. Interest and penalties incurred by a contractor by reason of the nonpayment of any tax at the direction of the contracting officer or by reason of the failure of the contracting officer to assure timely direction after prompt request therefor, are also allowable.

(c) Any refund of taxes, interest, or penalties, and any payment to the contractor of interest thereon, attributable to taxes, interest, or penalties which were allowed as contract costs, shall be credited or paid to the Government in the manner directed by the Government, provided any interest actually paid or credited to a contractor incident to a refund of tax, interest, or penalty shall be paid or credited to the Government only to the extent that such interest accrued over the period during which the contractor had been reimbursed by the Government for the taxes, interest, or penalties.

§ 1–15.205–42 Termination costs.

Contract terminations generally give rise to the incurrence of costs, or the need for special treatment of costs, which would not have arisen had the contract not been terminated. Cost principles covering these items are set forth below. They are to be used in conjunction with the remainder of this subpart in termination situations.

(a) Common items: The cost of items reasonably usable on the contractor's other work shall not be allowable unless the contractor submits evidence that it could not retain such items at cost without sustaining a loss. In deciding whether such items are reasonably usable on other work of the contractor, the contracting officer should consider the contractor's plans and orders for current and scheduled production. Contemporaneous purchases of common items by the contractor shall be regarded as evidence that such items are reasonably usable on the contractor's other work. Any acceptance of common items as allocable to the terminated portion of the contract should be limited to the extent that the quantities of such items on hand, in transit, and on order are in excess of the reasonable quantitative requirements of other work.

(b) Costs continuing after termination: If, in a particular case, despite all reasonable efforts by the contractor, certain costs cannot be discontinued immediately after the effective date of termination, such costs are generally allowable within the limitations set forth in this subpart, except that any such costs continuing after termination due to the negligent or willful failure of the contractor to discontinue such costs shall be considered unallowable.

(c) Initial costs, including starting load and preparatory costs, are allowable, subject to the following:

(1) Starting load costs are costs of a non-recurring nature arising in the early stages of production and not fully absorbed because of the termination. Such costs may include the cost of labor and material, and related overhead attributable to such factors as:

(i) Excessive spoilage resulting from inexperienced labor,

(ii) Idle time and subnormal production occasioned by testing and changing methods of processing,

(iii) Employee training, and

(iv) Unfamiliarity or lack of experience with the product, materials, manufacturing processes and techniques.

(2) Preparatory costs are costs incurred in preparing to perform the terminated contract, including costs of initial plant rearrangement and alterations, management and personnel organization, production planning and similar activities, but excluding special machinery and equipment and starting load costs.

(3) If initial costs are claimed and have not been segregated on the contractor's books, segregation for settlement purposes shall be made from cost reports and schedules which reflect the high unit cost incurred during the early stages of the contract.

(4) When the settlement proposal is on the inventory basis, initial costs should normally be allocated on the basis of total end items called for by the contract immediately prior to termination; however, if the contract includes end items of a diverse nature, some other equitable basis may be used, such as machine or labor hours.

(5) When initial costs are included in the settlement proposal as a direct charge, such costs shall not also be included in overhead.

(6) Initial costs attributable to only one contract shall not be allocated to other contracts.

(d) Loss of useful value of special tooling, special machinery and equipment is generally allowable: Provided—

(1) Such special tooling, machinery or equipment is not reasonably capable of use in the other work of the contractor;

(2) The interest of the Government is protected by transfer of title or by other means deemed appropriate by the contracting officer; and

(3) The loss of useful value as to any one terminated contract is limited to that portion of the acquisition cost which bears the same ratio to the total acquisition cost as the terminated portion of the contract bears to the entire terminated contract and other Government contracts for which the special tooling, special machinery and equipment was acquired.

(e) Rental costs under unexpired leases are generally allowable where clearly shown to have been reasonably necessary for the performance of the terminated contract, less the residual value of such leases, if—

(1) The amount of such rental claimed does not exceed the reasonable use value of the property leased for the period of the contract and such further period as may be reasonable; and

(2) The contractor makes all reasonable efforts to terminate, assign, settle, or otherwise reduce the cost of such lease. There also may be included the cost of alterations of such leased property, provided, such alterations were necessary for the performance of the contract, and of reasonable restoration required by the provisions of the lease.

(f) Settlement expenses including the following are generally allowable:

(1) Accounting, legal, clerical, and similar costs reasonably necessary for—

(i) The preparation and presentation to contracting officers of settlement claims and supporting data with respect to the terminated portion of the contract, and

(ii) The termination and settlement of subcontracts; and

(2) Reasonable costs for the storage, transportation, protection, and disposition of property acquired or produced for the contract.

(g) Subcontractor claims, including the allocable portion of claims which are common to the contract and to other work of the contractor, are generally allowable.

§ 1–15.205–43 Trade, business, technical, and professional activity costs.

(a) Membership. This category includes costs of memberships in trade, business, technical, and professional organizations. Such costs are allowable.

(b) Subscriptions. This item includes cost of subscriptions to trade, business, professional, or technical periodicals. Such costs are allowable.

(c) Meetings and conferences. This item includes cost of meals, transportation, rental of facilities for meetings, and costs incidental thereto, when the primary purpose of the incurrence of such costs is the dissemination of technical information or stimulation of production. Such costs are allowable.

§ 1–15.205–44 Training and educational costs.

(a) Costs of preparation and maintenance of a program of instruction at noncollege level, designed to increase the vocational effectiveness of bona fide employees, including training materials, textbooks, salaries or wages of trainees (excluding overtime compensation which might arise therefrom), and

(1) Salaries of the director of training and staff when the training program is conducted by the contractor; or

(2) Tuition and fees when the training is in an institution not operated by the contractor; are allowable.

(b) Costs of part-time education, at an under-graduate or post-graduate college level, related to the job requirements of bona fide employees, including only:

(1) Training materials;

(2) Textbooks;

(3) Fees charged by the educational institution;

(4) Tuition charged by the educational institution, or in lieu of tuition, instructors' salaries and the related share of indirect cost of the educational institution to the extent that the sum thereof is not in excess of the tuition which would have been paid to the participating educational institution; and

(5) Straight-time compensation of each employee for time spent attending classes during working hours not in excess of 156 hours per year where circumstances do not permit the operation of classes or attendance at classes after regular working hours;

are allowable.

(c) Costs of tuition, fees, training materials and textbooks (but not subsistence, salary, or any other emoluments) in connection with fulltime scientific and engineering education at a postgraduate (but not undergraduate) college level related to the job requirements of bona fide employees for a total period not to exceed one school year for each employee so trained, are allowable. In unusual cases where required by military technology, the period may be extended.

(d) Maintenance expense, and normal depreciation or fair rental, on facilities owned or leased by the contractor for training purposes are allowable to the extent set forth in §§ 1–15.205–20, 1–15.205–9, and 1–15.205–24, respectively.

(e) Grants to educational or training institutions, including the donation of facilities or other properties, scholarships, or fellowships, are considered contributions and are unallowable.

§ 1–15.205–45 Transportation costs.

Transportation costs include freight, express, cartage, and postage charges relating either to goods purchased, in process, or delivered. These costs are allowable. When such costs can readily be identified with the items involved, they may be directly costed as transportation costs or added to the cost of such items (see § 1–15.305–22). Where identification with the materials received cannot readily be made, inbound transportation costs may be charged to the appropriate indirect cost accounts if the contractor follows a consistent, equitable procedure in this respect. Outbound freight, if reimbursable under the terms of the contract, shall be treated as a direct cost.

§ 1–15.205–46 Travel costs.

(a) Travel costs include costs of transportation, lodging, subsistence, and incidental expenses, incurred by contractor personnel in a travel status while on official company business.

(b) Travel costs may be based upon actual costs incurred, or on a per diem or mileage basis in lieu of actual costs, or on a combination of the two, provided the method used does not result in an unreasonable charge.

(c) Travel costs incurred in the normal course of over-all administration of the business are allowable and shall be treated as indirect costs.

(d) Travel costs directly attributable to specific contract performance are allowable and may be charged to the contract in accordance with the principle of direct costing (see § 1–15.202).

(e) Necessary, reasonable costs of family movements and personnel movements of a special or mass nature are allowable, subject to allocation on the basis of work or time period benefited when appropriate. (But see § 1–15.107.)

Subpart 1–15.3—Principles for Determining Applicable Costs Under Research Contracts With Educational Institutions

§ 1–15.301 General.

(a) It is the intent of these principles to provide executive agencies and educational institutions with a common basis for determining the allowable costs of research sponsored by the Federal Government. Application of these principles should enable such agencies and institutions to identify the allowable direct costs of such research, plus the allocable portion of the allowable indirect costs, less applicable credits. The tests of allowability of costs applied in these principles are reasonableness and allocability under consistently applied generally accepted cost accounting principles and practices; however, these provisions are subject to any limitations as to types or amounts of costs set forth in the research agreement.

(b) These principles do not attempt to identify the circumstances or dictate the extent of agency and institution participation in the financing of a particular research and development project, but rather are confined to the subject of cost determination. Arrangements concerning financial participation are properly the subject of negotiation between the contracting officer and the educational institution concerned.

(c) These principles should be applied to all Government sponsored research at an educational institution, including research conducted at locations other than the main campus of the institution.

(d) A negotiated fixed amount in lieu of indirect costs may be appropriate in certain instances for off-campus or segregated research projects where (1) research agreements are charged directly for the cost of many of their administrative or housekeeping services, or (2) the cost of benefits derived from an institution's indirect services cannot be readily determined by use of apportionment or allocation bases normally employed, or (3) the costs of apportioning and allocating expenses to research agreements are excessive. The negotiated amount should not exceed a conservative estimate of anticipation indirect costs.

§ 1–15.302 Definitions.

As used in this subpart, the following terms have the meanings stated below:

(a) "Research agreements" are agreements to perform Federally sponsored research through grants, cost-reimbursement type contracts, cost-reimbursement type subcontracts, and fixed-price contracts and subcontracts for research.

(b) "Apportionment" is the process by which the indirect costs of the institution are assigned to (1) instruction and research, and (2) other institutional activities.

(c) "Allocation" is the process by which the indirect costs apportioned to instruction and research are distributed to research agreements.

(d) "Sponsoring agency" means the Federal agency for which the institution is performing research. Its use in this document does not imply a change in concept or intent for those agencies that have traditionally used a grant rather than a contractual instrument.

(e) "Original complement" means the complement of equipment initially placed in buildings to perform the functions currently being performed in such buildings. If a permanent change in the function of a building takes place, a redetermination of the original complement of equipment may be made at that time to establish a new original complement.

(f) "Other institutional activities" means all organized activities of an institution not directly related to the instruction and research functions, such as residence halls, dining halls, student hospitals, student unions, intercollegiate athletics, book stores, faculty housing, student apartments, guest houses, chapels, theaters, public museums, financial campaigns, and other similar activities or auxiliary enterprises. Also included under this definition is any category of cost treated as "unallowable," Provided, Such category of cost identifies a function or activity to which a portion of the institution's general overhead expenses are properly allocable.

§ 1–15.303 Direct costs.

Direct costs are those identified as having been specifically incurred to perform a particular research agreement. The general types of direct costs are:

(a) Direct salaries and wages, including employee benefit expenses and pension plan costs (see § 1–15.307) to the extent that they are consistently treated by the educational institution as a direct rather than an indirect cost, are those applicable directly to the performance of a research agreement. Such salaries and wages should be charged at the actual rates paid by the institution. Where professional staff paid on a salary basis work directly part time on a research agreement, current and reasonable estimates of time spent may be used in the absence of actual time records;

(b) Direct material costs, including raw materials, purchased or supplied from stock, which are directly consumed or expended in the performance of a research agreement, or are otherwise applicable directly to a research agreement; and

(c) Other direct costs, including other expenses related directly to a particular research agreement or project, including abnormal utility consumption. This may include services purchased from institution service operations, Provided, Such are consistently treated as direct rather than indirect costs and are priced under a recognized method of costing or pricing designed to recover only actual costs and conforming to generally accepted cost accounting practices consistently followed by the institution. Purchases of equipment will be included under this heading only to the extent expressly provided for in the research agreement or approved pursuant to such agreement.

§ 1–15.304 Indirect costs.

Indirect costs are those which, because of their incurrence for common or joint objectives, are not readily subject to treatment as direct costs of research agreements or other activities. The general types of indirect costs are:

(a) General administration and general expenses are those incurred for the general executive and administrative offices of educational institutions and other expenses of a general character which do not relate solely to any specific division of the institution. Employee benefit expenses and pension plan costs may be included in this category to the extent that they are consistently treated by the educational institution as an indirect rather than a direct cost;

(b) Research administration expenses are those which apply to research administered in whole or in part by a separate organization or an identifiable administrative unit. Examples of work relating to research which is sometimes performed under such organizational arrangement are: contract administration, security, purchasing, personnel administration, and editing and publishing of research data;

(c) Operation and maintenance expenses are those incurred for operating and maintaining the institution's physical plant. They include expenses normally incurred by the institution for administration or supervision of the physical plant; janitorial service; repairs and ordinary or normal alterations of buildings, furniture, and equipment; care and maintenance of grounds; utilities; and other expenses customarily associated with the operation, maintenance, preservation, and protection of the physical plant;

(d) Library expenses are those incurred for direct operation of the library plus a use allowance for library books. The use allowance shall not exceed eight cents per volume per year;

(e) Use allowance is a means of compensation for the use of buildings, capital improvements, and equipment over and above the expenses for operation and maintenance when depreciation or other equivalent costs are not considered. The use allowance for buildings and improvements shall be computed at an annual rate not to exceed 2 percent of acquisition cost. The use allowance for equipment shall be computed at an annual rate not exceeding 6⅔ percent of acquisition cost of usable equipment in those cases where the institution maintains current records with respect to such equipment on hand. Where the institution's records reflect only the cost (actual or estimated) of the original complement of equipment, the use allowance shall be computed at an annual rate not exceeding 10 percent of such cost. In those cases where no equipment records are maintained, the institution will justify a reasonable estimate of the acquisition cost of usable equipment which may be used to compute the use allowance at an annual rate not exceeding 6⅔ percent of such estimate. Computation of the use allowance shall exclude the portion of the cost of buildings and equipment paid for out of Federal funds and the cost of grounds; and

(f) Indirect department expenses are those incurred for departmental administration, such as salaries of deans or heads of colleges, schools, departments or divisions, and related secretarial and other administrative expenses.

§ 1–15.305 Applicable costs.

(a) The cost of a research agreement is comprised of the allowable direct costs incident to its performance, plus the allocable portion of the allowable indirect costs of the institution, less applicable credits.

(b) When any types of expense ordinarily treated as indirect costs are charged to a research agreement as direct costs, the costs of similar items applicable to other activities of the institution must be eliminated from indirect costs allocable to the research agreement.

(c) Where a particular understanding has been reached regarding specific items of cost to be reimbursed, the research agreement should clearly state such understanding.

(d) Section 1–15.307 provides standards to be applied in determining the allowability of certain items of cost and also identifies certain types of expenditures which relate solely to instruction and therefore do not enter into the costs of research agreements, either as direct costs or indirect costs; such costs of instruction shall be excluded from the computations provided herein.

§ 1–15.306 Determination of indirect costs.

§ 1–15.306–1 General.

(a) In determining the indirect costs applicable to Federally sponsored research agreements, the allowable indirect costs should first be apportioned equitably between (1) instruction and research activity and (2) other institutional activities, as provided in § 1–15.306–2.

(b) The amounts of indirect costs apportioned to instruction and research should then be allocated in an equitable manner to research agreements, as provided in § 1–15.306–3.

(c) Actual conditions must be taken into account in determining the most suitable method or methods to be used in the apportionment and allocation of indirect costs. The objective should be the selection of a method or methods which will distribute the indirect costs in a fair and equitable manner to the Government research and development work and other work of the institution, giving due consideration to the nature and extent of the use of the institution's facilities by research personnel, academic staff, students and other personnel or activities, and to the materiality of the amounts involved. The methods used should conform with generally accepted cost accounting practices, provide uniformity of treatment for like cost elements, be applied consistently, and produce equitable results. Any significant change, such as in the nature or extent of Government work or other activities sponsored or conducted by the institution, may require reconsideration of the methods previously in use to determine whether they continue to be equitable.

§ 1–15.306–2 Apportionment.

Where indirect costs relate to research, instruction, and other activities, such indirect costs shall be apportioned as between instruction and research activities, and other institutional activities as defined in § 1–15.302(f). The apportionment shall be made as follows:

(a) General administration and general expenses, on the basis of total expenditures; if more appropriate in the circumstances, however, other bases may be used;

(b) Operation and maintenance of the physical plant, if not separately costed, on the basis of total square or cubic footage of the buildings; and

(c) Other types of indirect costs normally do not require apportionment; where they do, an equitable basis for making the apportionment should be selected.

§ 1–15.306–3 Allocation.

(a) After determination of the total amount of indirect costs applicable to instruction and research activities, such indirect costs shall in turn be allocated between instruction activities and research agreements as described in (b), (c), (d), and (e) below.

(b) The following criteria should be used with such appropriate modifications as will under the circumstances produce reasonably equitable allocation of the indirect costs associated with research agreements:

(1) General administration and general expenses should normally be allocated on the basis of total expenditures (exclusive of capital expenditures and use allowances) if equitable, direct salaries and wages, or other bases appropriate in the circumstances;

(2) Research administration expenses should be allocated to (i) applicable research agreements and (ii) other research benefiting therefrom on the basis of records reflecting the proportion fairly applicable to each or, in the absence of such records, on the basis of a reasonable estimate;

(3) Operation and maintenance expenses should be allocated on a basis that gives primary emphasis to space utilization. The amount allocated may be developed as follows:

(i) Where actual space and related cost records are or can readily be maintained without significant change in the accounting practices, the amount allocated to research agreements should be based on such data;

(ii) Where the space and related cost records maintained are not sufficient for purposes of (i) above, a reasonable estimate of the proportion of total space assigned to research agreements normally will suffice, and this proportion of operation and maintenance expense should be allocated to research agreements. Where it can be established that the cost of maintaining space assigned to research varies significantly from the cost of maintaining other space, appropriate weighting factors may be used to give effect to such variations;

(iii) Where more definitive information is not available, either of the following simplified techniques for determining space may be used, as most appropriate—

(A) Reduce the total space identified with instruction and research by the amount of space occupied by undergraduate students, including appropriate portions of classrooms and access and related space. Reduce by the same proportion the amount of maintenance and operation expense that has been apportioned to instruction and research, and then allocate to research agreements on the basis of the relationship that direct salaries and wages of research agreements bears to direct salaries and wages of instruction and research; or

(B) Prepare a reasonable estimate of the average gross space assigned per research worker, and extend to the equivalent annual number of research workers under research agreements. The resulting product should then be related to total space assigned to instruction and research in order to obtain the proportion of space utilized for research agreements. The resulting proportion should then be applied to operation and maintenance expense to obtain the amount allocable to research agreements; or

(C) Where it can be demonstrated that an area or volume of space basis of allocation is impractical or inequitable, other bases may be used provided consideration is given to the use of facilities by research personnel and others, including students;

(4) Library expenses should normally be allocated to research agreements on the basis of population including students and other users. Where appropriate, consideration may be given to weighting segments of the population figures as necessary to produce equitable results;

(5) Use allowance for buildings and equipment should, if depreciation or other equivalent costs are not considered, be computed in accordance with § 1.15.-304(c). The cost of buildings and equipment used by "other institutional activities" (as defined in § 1–15.302(f)) should be excluded from any computation of use allowances. If available records permit, use allowances may be specifically allocated in whole or in part to research agreements. In the absence of such usable records, use allowance may be allocated to research agreements on the same basis as that used for allocating operation and maintenance expenses; and

(6) Indirect departmental expenses; the salaries and wages of departmental heads and their offices, including the allocated portion of deans of schools and their offices, which jointly benefit both research agreements and other activities should be allocated between research agreements administered or supervised by the department and other work of the department on any equitable basis, possibly direct salaries and wages, total direct expenditures, or approximate time so devoted. Where equitable results would be obtained, the distribution may be made on a composite base which would include all schools and departments.

(c) Indirect costs allocated to research agreements normally should be treated as a common pool. The costs in such common pool should then be distributed to individual research agreements benefiting therefrom on a single rate basis. This rate will be the percentage which the indirect cost pool is of direct salaries and wages of the applicable research agreements. If appropriate, total direct expenditures may be used rather than salaries and wages.

(d) It is recognized that in certain cases, due to the nature of the work, the facilities or personnel involved, or other considerations, the application of a single indirect expense rate on research agreements may produce inequitable results to the institution or to the Government. In such cases, it may be necessary to develop two or more indirect expense rates by means of: (1) Appropriate adjustment to the basic indirect expense rate developed through use of the common pool, or (2) segregation of the indirect expenses allocated to research agreements into two or more indirect expense pools. In the latter case, the costs in each such pool will be distributed to the specific research agreements benefiting therefrom on the basis of direct wages and salaries or total direct expenditures, as appropriate. Examples of conditions which may justify the development of two or more pools of indirect expense are:

(1) Where the nature of a particular type of overhead cost requires a different basis of allocation to produce equitable results;

(2) Where a research agreement or group of agreements or the facility in which such agreement(s) is performed provides its own services to a significant degree, as may be in the case of a hospital or a segregated or off-campus facility;

(3) Where a research agreement requires significantly different degrees of indirect services from the institution. For example, such conditions may exist where: (i) Significant amounts of Government-owned facilities or equipment are provided in lieu of that normally furnished by the institution, (ii) a research agreement requires an unusual amount of power or other utilities, (iii) the cost of a special library provided in lieu of regular library services is reimbursed by the Government, or (iv) construction constitutes a significant portion of the work; and

(4) Where it is appropriate to associate certain costs more directly with the activities benefited, such as where the research work is performed on one campus of a multicampus university.

(e) Where research is separately administered, in whole or in part, or separate services are provided in lieu of those services normally provided by the institution, the cost of the normal institutional administration or other services replaced thereby shall be excluded from allocation to such research.

§ 1–15.306–4 Overhead determinations acceptable under special circumstances.

(a) Indirect costs may be claimed at a rate which is anticipated to be less than that which would otherwise be allowable with provisions made in the research agreement for adjustment if actual costs subsequently proved to be less than the claimed rate.

(b) The degree of preciseness required in the computation of indirect costs will be influenced by considerations such as the materiality of the amounts involved, the size of the educational institution, and the aggregate dollar volume of Government-sponsored research at the institution. Generally, where the total direct cost of Government-sponsored research and development work at an institution does not exceed $250,000 in a year, the use of abbreviated procedures in the determination of allowable indirect costs may be acceptable when the results obtained are equitable. For example, educational institutions which have a relatively small dollar volume of Government-sponsored research may compute allowable indirect expenses on the basis of data available in the institution's financial reports. One permissible method in such cases would contemplate the use of a single indirect expense pool composed of:

(1) General and administrative expenses, exclusive of unallowable costs (see § 1–15.307), but inclusive of allocable salaries and expenses of deans of schools and department heads;

(2) Operation and maintenance expenses; and,

(3) Library expenses.

The indirect expense pool should then be allocated to research agreements and other activities of the institution on any equitable basis, possibly total expenditures (exclusive of capital expenditures).

§ 1–15.307 General standards for selected items of cost.

§ 1–15.307–1 Purpose and applicability.

(a) This § 1–15.307 provides standards to be applied to the extent deemed practicable in determining the allowability of certain items of cost. These standards should apply irrespective of whether a particular item of cost is properly treated as direct cost or indirect cost. Failure to mention a particular item of cost in the standards should not imply that it is either allowable or unallowable; rather, determination as to allowability in such case should be based on the treatment or standards provided for similar or related items of cost.

(b) In case of discrepancy between the provisions of a specific research agreement and the applicable standards, the provisions of the research agreement should govern.

§ 1–15.307–2 Costs applicable to instruction.

Except as specifically noted, the following types of costs apply only to instruction and therefore do not enter into the costs of research agreements, either as direct costs or indirect costs, unless specific provision is made therefor in the research agreement:

(a) Commencement and convocation costs;

(b) Sabbatical leave costs, including leave of absence to employees for performance of graduate work or sabbatical study, travel, or research;

(c) Scholarships, fellowships, tuition, and other forms of student aid costs. However, in certain cases such costs may be allocable in part to research agreements under the conditions set forth in §1–15.307–3(ii); and

(d) Student services costs, including such activities as deans of students, administration of student affairs, registrar, placement offices, student advisers, student health and infirmary services, and such other activities as are identifiable with student services. However, in the case of students actually engaged in work under research agreements, a proportion of student service costs measured by the relationship between hours of work by students on such research work and total student hours including all research time may be allowed as a part of research administration expenses.

§ 1–15.307–3 Allowable and unallowable costs.

(a) Advertising costs include the cost of advertising media and related technical and administrative costs. Only the following advertising costs are allowable: (1) Help wanted advertising, and (2) other advertising necessary for the performance of the research agreement to the extent authorized.

(b) Bad debts including losses (whether actual or estimated) arising from uncollectible accounts and other claims, related collection costs, and related legal costs are unallowable.

(c) Capital expenditures are unallowable except as provided for in the research agreement. This includes costs of books, equipment and buildings, as well as repairs which materially increase the value or useful life of such equipment or buildings.

(d) Civil defense costs are those incurred in planning for, and the protection of life and property against, the possible effects of enemy attack. Reasonable costs of civil defense measures (including costs in excess of normal plant protection costs, first aid training and supplies, fire-fighting training, posting of additional exit notices and directions, and other approved civil defense measures) undertaken on the institution's premises pursuant to suggestions or requirements of civil defense authorities are allowable when apportioned to all activities of the institution. Capital expenditures for civil defense purposes shall not be allowed, but a use allowance may be permitted in accordance with provisions set forth elsewhere. Costs of local civil defense projects not on the institution's premises are unallowable.

(e) Communication costs including telephone services, local and long distance telephone calls, telegrams, radiograms, postage, and the like are allowable.

(f) Compensation for personal services: Each institution shall maintain control over its salary and wage rates according to its established policy consistently applied: Provided, however, That the excess of salary and wage rates paid to personnel working on Government research agreements over salary and wage rates paid to personnel working on the institution's departmental research or other research will not be allowed unless specifically provided in the agreement or approved by the contracting officer. This principle does not prohibit the charging of the full salary of any temporary employee in whose favor a salary differential exists solely by virtue of the nature of his employment in accordance with the regular practice of the institution concerned. Faculty members shall be considered as employed for the period represented by the sum of all semesters and other periods during which they are required to work under the practice of the institution concerned. (Example: Professor of X institution is required to work two semesters of 4½ months each, or a total of nine months out of the academic year. His compensation is $5,400.00. During the summer months, July, August, and September, he works full time on Government research projects in the institution laboratory. Unless the established practice of the institution relating to summer compensation, not based on Government contract experience, would result in a different computation, his compensation for that period, chargeable by the institution to the Government research agreement, will be $1,800.00, computed as follows: ($5,400.00÷9=$600.00; $600.00 multiplied by 3=$1,800.00)).

(g) Contingency provisions to provide for events the occurrence of which cannot be foretold with certainty as to time, intensity, or with an assurance of their happening, are unallowable.

(h) Deans of faculty and graduate schools, or their equivalents, including their staffs and related expenses are allowable.

(i) Employee morale, health, and welfare costs and credits, such as house publications, health or first aid clinics and/or infirmaries, recreational activities, and employees' counseling services, incurred in accordance with the institution's established practice or custom for the improvement of working conditions, employer-employee relations, employee morale, and employee performance, are allowable. Such costs shall be equitably apportioned to all activities of the institution. Income generated from any of these activities shall be credited to the cost thereof unless such income has been irrevocably set over to employee welfare organization.

(j) Entertainment costs including costs of amusement, social activities, entertainment, and incidental costs relating thereto, such as meals, lodging, rentals, transportation, and gratuities, are unallowable.

(k) Equipment and other facilities: The cost of equipment or other facilities, including books purchased specifically for use on the project, are allowable where such purchases are approved by the sponsoring agency concerned or provided for by the terms of the research agreement.

(l) Fines and penalties: Costs resulting from violations of, or failure of the institution to comply with, Federal, State, and local laws and regulations are unallowable except when incurred as a result of compliance with specific provisions of the research agreement, or instructions in writing from the contracting officer.

(m) Insurance and indemnification:

(1) Insurance includes those types of insurance which the institution is required to carry, or which is approved, under the terms of the research agreement, and any other insurance which the institution maintains in the general conduct of its activities. Indemnification includes securing the institution against liabilities to third persons and other losses not compensated by insurance or otherwise.

(2) Costs of insurance required or approved, and maintained, pursuant to the research agreement, are allowable.

(3) Costs of other insurance maintained by the institution in connection with the general conduct of its activities, are allowable subject to the following limitations:

(i) Types and extent and cost of coverage shall be in accordance with sound institutional practice;

(ii) Costs of insurance or of any contributions to any reserve covering the risk of loss of or damage to Government-owned property are unallowable except to the extent that the Government shall have required or approved such costs;

(iii) Contributions to a reserve for an approved self-insurance program are allowable to the extent that the types of coverage, extent of coverage, and the rates and premiums would have been allowed had insurance been purchased to cover the risks;

(iv) Costs of insurance on the lives of officers or trustees are unallowable except where such insurance is part of an employee plan which is not unduly restricted; and

(v) Actual losses which could have been covered by permissible insurance (through an approved self-insurance program or otherwise) are unallowable unless expressly provided for in the research agreement except: (A) Costs incurred because of losses not covered under nominal deductible insurance coverage provided in keeping with sound business practice are allowable; and (B) minor losses not covered by insurance, such as spoilage, breakage, and disappearance of small hand tools, which occur in the ordinary course of doing business, are allowable.

(n) Interest costs for interest on borrowed capital or temporary use of endowment funds, however represented, are unallowable.

(o) Investment counsel and staff costs are unallowable.

(p) Labor relations costs incurred in maintaining satisfactory relations between the institution and its employees, including costs of labor management committees, employees' publications, and other related activities are allowable.

(q) Losses on other research agreements or contracts: Any excess of costs over income under any other research agreement or contract of any nature is unallowable. This includes, but is not limited to, the institution's contributed portion by reason of cost-sharing agreements or any under-recoveries through negotiation of flat amounts for overhead.

(r) Maintenance and repair costs necessary for the upkeep of property (including Government property unless otherwise provided for) which neither add to the permanent value of the property nor appreciably prolong its intended life but keep it in an efficient operation condition, are allowable.

(s) Material costs of purchased materials, supplies, and fabricated parts directly or indirectly related to the research agreement are allowable. Purchases made specifically for the research agreement should be charged thereto at their actual prices after deducting all cash discounts, trade discounts, rebates, and allowances received by the institution. Withdrawals from general stores or stockrooms should be charged at their cost under any recognized method of pricing stores withdrawals conforming to sound accounting practices consistently followed by the institution. Incoming transportation charges are a proper part of material cost. Direct material cost should include only the materials and supplies actually used for the performance of the research agreement, and due credit should be given for any excess materials retained, or returned to vendors. Due credit should be given for all proceeds or value received for any scrap resulting from work under the research agreement. Where Government-donated or furnished material is used in performing the research agreement, such material will be used without charge.

(t) Memberships, subscriptions, and professional activity costs:

(1) Membership costs of the institution's membership in civic, business, technical, and professional organizations are allowable.

(2) Subscription costs of the institution's subscriptions to civic, business, professional, and technical periodicals are allowable, excepting those obtained for the library for which a use allowance is made.

(3) Meetings and conferences: This item includes cost of meals, transportation, rental of facilities for meetings, and costs incidental thereto, when the primary purpose of the incurrence of such costs is the dissemination of technical information. Such costs are allowable.

(u) Patent costs: Costs of preparing disclosures, reports, and other documents required by the research agreement and of searching the art to the extent necessary to make such invention disclosures, are allowable. In accordance with the clauses of the research agreement relating to patents, costs of preparing documents and any other patent costs, in connection with the filing of a patent application where title is conveyed to the Government, are allowable. (See also (ff) below.)

(v) Pension plan costs are allowable if in accordance with the established policies of the institution, provided such policies meet the test of reasonableness and the methods of cost allocation are not discriminatory, and provided appropriate adjustments are made for credits or gains arising out of normal and abnormal employee turnover or any other contingencies that can result in forfeitures by employees which inure to the benefit of the institution.

(w) Plant security costs including wages, uniforms, and equipment of personnel engaged in plant protection, and necessary expenses to comply with Government security requirements, are allowable.

(x) Prerearch agreement costs are those which are incurred prior to the effective date of the research agreement whether or not they would have been allowable thereunder if incurred after such date. Such costs are unallowable unless specifically set forth and identified in the research agreement.

(y) Professional service costs—legal, accounting, engineering, and other.

(1) Costs of professional services rendered by the members of a particular profession who are not employees of the institution are allowable, subject to (2) and (3) below, when reasonable in relation to the services rendered and when not contingent upon recovery of the costs from the Government. Retainer fees to be allowable must be reasonably supported by evidence of services rendered.

(2) Factors to be considered in determining the allowability of costs in a particular case include:

(i) The past pattern of such costs, particularly in the years prior to the award of Government research agreements;

(ii) The impact of Government research agreements on the institution's total activity;

(iii) The nature and scope of managerial services expected of the institution's own organization; and

(iv) Whether the proportion of Government work to the institution's total activity is such as to influence the institution in favor of incurring the cost, particularly where the services rendered are not of a continuing nature and have little relationship to work under Government research agreements.

(3) Costs of legal, accounting, and consulting services, and related costs, incurred in connection with organization and reorganization, and the prosecution of claims against the Government, are unallowable. Costs of legal, accounting, and consulting services, and related costs, incurred in connection with patent infringement litigation, are unallowable unless otherwise provided for in the research agreement.

(z) Profits and losses on disposition of plant, equipment, or capital assets: Profits or losses of any nature arising from the sale or exchange of plant, equipment, or other capital assets, including sale or exchange of either short- or long-term investments, shall be excluded in computing research agreement costs.

(aa) Proposal costs are the costs of preparing bids or proposals on potential Government and non-Government research agreements or projects, including the development of engineering data and cost data necessary to support the institution's bids or proposals. Proposal costs of the current accounting period of both successful and unsuccessful bids and proposals normally should be treated as indirect costs and allocated currently to all activities of the institution, and no proposal costs of past accounting periods shall be allocable in the current period to the Government research agreement. However, the institution's established practices may be to treat proposal costs by some other recognized method. Regardless of the method used, the results obtained may be accepted only if found to be reasonable and equitable.

(bb) Public information services costs such as news releases pertaining to specific research or scientific accomplishment are unallowable unless specifically authorized by the sponsoring agency.

(cc) Rearrangement and alteration costs: Ordinary or normal rearrangement and alteration costs are allowable. Special arrangement and alteration costs incurred specifically for the project are allowable when such work has been approved in advance by the sponsoring agency concerned.

(dd) Reconversion costs are those incurred in the restoration or rehabilitation of the institution's facilities to approximately the same condition existing immediately prior to commencement of Government research agreement work, fair wear and tear excepted. Reconversion costs are allowable, only to the extent of the cost of removing Government property and the restoration or rehabilitation costs caused by such removal.

(ee) Recruiting costs such as "help wanted" advertising, operating costs of an employment office necessary to secure and maintain an adequate staff, travel costs of employees while engaged in recruiting personnel, and travel costs of applicants for interviews for prospective employment, are allowable. Where the institution uses employment agencies, costs not in excess of standard commercial rates for such services are also allowable. Costs of special benefits or emoluments offered to prospective employees beyond recognized practices for recruiting such personnel are unallowable.

(ff) Royalties and other costs for use of patents: Royalties on a patent or amortization of the cost of acquiring a patent or invention or rights thereto, necessary for the proper performance of the research agreement and applicable to tasks or processes thereunder, are allowable unless:

(1) The Government has a license or the right to free use of the patent;

(2) The patent has been adjudicated to be invalid or has been administratively determined to be invalid;

(3) The patent is considered to be unenforceable; or

(4) The patent has expired.

(gg) Severance pay is a payment, in addition to regular salaries and wages, by institutions to employees whose services have been terminated. Severance pay is allowable as a cost only to the extent that it is required by law, employer-employee agreement, established policy that constitutes in effect an implied agreement on the institution's part, or circumstances of the particular employment. Severance payments are divided into two categories as follows:

(1) Those due to normal, recurring turnover: The actual costs of such severance payments shall be regarded as expense applicable to the current fiscal year and equitably apportioned to the institution's activities during that period; and

(2) Those due to abnormal or mass terminations: Abnormal or mass severance pay is of such a conjectural nature that measurement of cost by means of an accrual will not achieve equity to both parties. Thus accruals for this purpose are not allowable. However, the Government recognizes its obligation to participate, to the extent of its fair share, in any specific payment. Thus, allowability will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

(hh) Special services costs, such as general public relations activities, catalogs, and alumni activities, are unallowable.

(ii) Staff benefits are allowances and services provided by the institution to its employees as compensation in addition to regular wages and salaries. Costs of such staff benefits are allowable and include vacations, holidays, sick leave, military leave, employee insurance, social security taxes, and workmen's compensation insurance. The payment of tuition or remission of tuition for employees and their families are allowable to the extent that such payments or remissions are made under established policies consistently applied.

(jj) Taxes: In general, taxes which the institution is required to pay and which are paid or accrued in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and payments made to local governments in lieu of taxes which are commensurate with the local government services received are allowable, except for:

(1) Taxes from which exemptions are available to the institution directly or which are available to the institution based on an exemption afforded the Government and in the latter case when the sponsoring agency makes available the necessary exemption certificates; and

(2) Special assessments on land which represent capital improvements.

Any refund of taxes, interest, or penalties, and any payment to the institution of interest thereon, attributable to taxes, interest, or penalties which were allowed as research agreement costs, shall be credited or paid to the Government in the manner directed by the Government provided any interest actually paid or credited to an institution incident to a refund of tax, interest, and penalty shall be paid or credited to the Government only to the extent that such interest accrued over the period during which the institution had been reimbursed by the Government for the taxes, interest, and penalties.

(kk) Transportation costs: Transportation costs include freight, express, cartage, and postage charges relating either to goods purchased, in process, or delivered. These costs are allowable. When such costs can readily be identified with the items involved, they may be direct costed as transportation costs or added to the cost of such items. Where identification with the materials received cannot readily be made, inbound transportation costs may be charged to the appropriate indirect cost accounts if the institution follows a consistent, equitable procedure in this respect. Outbound freight, if reimbursable under the terms of the research agreement, should be treated as a direct cost.

(ll) Travel costs:

(1) Travel costs consist of transportation, lodging subsistence, and incidental expenses.

(2) Travel costs incurred by institution personnel in a travel status while on specific research business are allowable.

(3) Travel costs incurred in the normal course of over-all administration of the institution and applicable to the entire institution are allowable. Such costs shall be equitably apportioned to all work of the institution.

(4) Subsistence and lodging, including tips or similar incidental costs, are allowable either on an actual or per diem basis. The basis selected shall apply to an entire trip and not selected days of the trip.

(5) Costs of personnel movement of a special or mass nature are allowable only when authorized or approved in writing by the sponsoring agency or its authorized representative.

(mm) Termination costs:

(1) Contract termination generally gives rise to the incurrence of costs or to the need for special treatment of costs, which would not have arisen had the contract not been terminated. Items peculiar to termination are set forth below. They are to be used in conjunction with all other provisions of this subpart in the case of contract termination.

(2) The cost of common items of material reasonably usable on the institution's other work shall not be allowable unless the institution submits evidence that it could not retain such items at cost without sustaining a loss. In deciding whether such items are reasonably usable on other work of the institution, consideration should be given to the institution's plans and orders for current and scheduled work. Contemporaneous purchases of common items by the institution shall be regarded as evidence that such items are reasonably usable on the institution's other work. Any acceptance of common items as allowable to the terminated portion of the contract should be limited to the extent that the quantities of such items on hand, in transit, and on order are in excess of the reasonable quantitative requirements of other work.

(3) If in a particular case, despite all reasonable efforts by the institution, certain costs cannot be discontinued immediately after the effective date of termination, such costs are generally allowable within the limitations set forth in this part, except that any such costs continuing after termination due to the negligent or willful failure of the institution to discontinue such costs shall be considered unacceptable.

(4) Loss of useful value of special tooling, and special machinery and equipment is generally allowable, Provided,

(i) Such special tooling, machinery, or equipment is not reasonably capable of use in the other work of the institution;

(ii) The interest of the Government is protected by transfer of title or by other means deemed appropriate by the contracting officer; and

(iii) The loss of useful value as to any one terminated contract is limited to that portion of the acquisition cost which bears the same ratio to the total acquisition cost as the terminated portion of the contract bears the entire terminated contract and other Government contracts for which the special tooling, special machinery, and equipment was acquired.

(5) Rental costs under unexpired leases are generally allowable where clearly shown to have been reasonably necessary for the performance of the terminated cost, less the residual value of such leases, if:

(i) The amount of such rental claimed does not exceed the reasonable use value of the property leased for the period of the contract and such further period as may be reasonable, and

(ii) The institution makes all reasonable efforts to terminate, assign, settle, or otherwise reduce the cost of such lease. There also may be included the cost of alterations of such leased property, Provided, Such alterations were necessary for the performance of the contract, and of reasonable restoration required by the provisions of the lease.

(6) Settlement expenses including the following are generally allowable:

(i) Accounting, legal, clerical, and similar costs reasonably necessary for—

(A) The preparation and presentation to contracting officers of settlement claims and supporting data with respect to the terminated portion of the contract; and

(B) The termination and settlement of subcontracts; and

(ii) Reasonable costs for the storage, transportation, protection, and disposition of property acquired or produced for the contract.

(7) Subcontractor claims, including the allocable portion of claims which are common to the contract and to other work of the contractor, are generally allowable.

Subpart 1–15.4—Construction Contracts

§ 1–15.401 Definition of construction contract.

The term "construction contract" as used in this subpart means any contract for the construction, alteration, or repair of buildings, bridges, roads, or other kinds of real property. It does not include a contract for the manufacturing, producing, furnishing, construction, alteration, repair, processing or assembling of vessels, aircraft, or other kinds of personal property, regardless of the terms of any such contract as to payment or title.

§ 1–15.402 General basis for determination of costs.

The total cost of a cost-reimbursement type contract for construction or for architect-engineer services related to construction is the sum of the allowable costs incident to the performance of the contract, less applicable income and other credits. The tests used in determining the allowability of costs also include (a) reasonableness and (b) any limitations as to types or amounts of cost items set forth in this Subpart 1–15.4 or otherwise included in the contract. Failure to mention any item of cost in this subpart is not intended to imply that it is either allowable or not allowable. Income and other credits arising out of operations under the contract, where the related cost was reimbursed or accepted as an allowable cost, will be credited to the Government.

§ 1–15.403 Examples of items of allowable costs.

Subject to the requirements of § 1–15.402 with respect to the general basis for determining allowability of costs, the following items of cost are considered allowable within the limitations indicated:

(a) Bonds and insurance, including self-insurance, to the extent authorized by the contracting officer;

(b) Camp operations (but see § 1–15.404(h));

(c) Freight, transportation, and material handling;

(d) Land and structures, temporary use thereof;

(e) Materials and supplies, including inspection, storage, salvage, and other usual expenses incident to the procurement and use thereof;

(f) Patents, purchased designs, and royalty payments, to the extent authorized by the contracting officer;

(g) Plant and equipment, purchase or rental thereof;

(h) Recruiting of personnel (including "help wanted" advertising);

(i) Restoration and cleanup of site and facilities, as directed by the contracting officer;

(j) Structures and facilities of a temporary nature;

(k) Subcontracts;

(l) Taxes, fees or charges, except those imposed upon, by reason of, or measured by the contractor's fee;

(m) Traveling expenses, to the extent authorized by the contracting officer;

(n) Utility services, such as communication, power, gas, and water;

(o) Vacation, holiday and severance pay, sick leave and military leave, to the extent required by law or specifically provided for elsewhere in the contract;

(p) Wages and salaries; and

(q) Pension and retirement plans in accordance with the interpretation set forth in § 1–15.406 and group health, accident and life insurance plans (but see § 1–15.404 (b), (d) and (m)).

§ 1–15.404 Examples of items of unallowable costs.

The following items of costs are considered unallowable, except as indicated and then only subject to the requirements of § 1–15.402:

(a) Advertising (including advertising in trade or technical journals), except "help wanted" advertising;

(b) Central office expenses of the contractor, such as supplies, equipment, rent, or any other expenses incident to its maintenance and operation, except to the extent authorized by the contracting officer;

(c) Commissions and bonuses (under whatever name) in connection with obtaining or negotiating for a Government contract;

(d) Compensation and traveling expenses of any officer or employee in the central office organization of the contractor, except to the extent authorized by the contracting officer;

(e) Contingency reserves;

(f) Contributions and donations;

(g) Dividend payments;

(h) Entertainment, except for on-site recreational activities for the contractor's employees as authorized by the contracting officer;

(i) Interest on borrowings (however represented), bond discount and expense, and financial charges;

(j) Legal, accounting and consulting fees and related expenses, except to the extent authorized by the contracting officer;

(k) Losses on other contracts;

(l) Memberships in trade, business, and professional organizations;

(m) Premiums for insurance on the lives of directors, officers, proprietors, or other persons, where the contractor is the beneficiary directly or indirectly;

(n) Storage of contract records after completion of contract operations, irrespective of contractual or statutory requirements regarding the preservation of records; and

(o) Taxes, fees, or charges imposed upon, by reason of, or measured by the contractor's fee.

§ 1–15.405 Examples of subjects requiring special considerations.

The following examples are illustrative of subjects affecting cost which may require special consideration:

(a) Costs incurred incidental to work covered by the contract but prior to the execution of the contract, with specific identification of the types thereof and the period involved;

(b) Government-furnished property, general nature and extent;

(c) Indirect cost basis (1) actual, (2) negotiated rate or amount, or (3) other;

(d) Insurance;

(e) Intracompany and intercompany transactions;

(f) Liability to third persons;

(g) Operation of restaurants and cafeterias;

(h) Overtime compensation (see § 1–12.102);

(i) Patents, purchased designs, and royalty payments;

(j) Personnel movement of a special or mass nature;

(k) Plant facilities fully depreciated or amortized on the contractor's books of account or acquired without cost (possible compensation for utilization in the form of a use or rental charge);

(l) Rearrangement or relocation of facilities or plant sites;

(m) Research programs of a general nature;

(n) Security measures of a special nature;

(o) Sharing of cost of research projects of the type which an educational or other nonprofit institution might undertake as a part of its own educational or research program;

(p) Subcontracting, nature and extent thereof and relation to fee or profit;

(q) Subsistence and housing of employees;

(r) Termination expenses;

(s) Tooling and equipment;

(t) Traveling expenses of a special or unusual nature; and

(u) Wages or salaries of partners or sole proprietors.

§ 1–15.406 Cost interpretation of pension and retirement plans.

(See § 1–15.403(q).)

(a) Costs of pension and retirement plans, including reasonable incidental benefits, such as disability, withdrawal, insurance or survivorship allowances which are deductible from taxable income in accordance with the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations of the Internal Revenue Service, are allowable except to the extent they are determined to be unreasonable or unallowable under any other provision of this cost interpretation. Costs of such plans established by nonprofit or other organizations not subject to payment of Federal income taxes are also allowable except to the extent they are determined to be unreasonable or unallowable under any other provision of this cost interpretation.

(b) Pension or retirement plans of a contractor which are subject to approval of the Internal Revenue Service must have been so approved before costs under the plans may be accepted as charges to Government contracts. Many plans of nonprofit or other tax exempt organizations are also reviewed and approved by the Internal Revenue Service—when not so reviewed and approved, each such plan will be reviewed, and approved or disapproved, by the procuring activity concerned, using, insofar as applicable, the criteria and standards of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations of the Internal Revenue Service. In any case where the Internal Revenue Service withdraws approval of a plan, approval of amounts allocated to contract costs will be withdrawn accordingly.

(c) The approval of a pension or retirement plan by the Internal Revenue Service will, as a general rule, be the only approval required by the procuring activity; however, the right is reserved to require submission of any plan for consideration by the procuring activity and to disapprove such plan in its entirety or any feature thereof whenever the circumstances in a particular case are deemed to warrant such action.

(d) Approval of a pension or retirement plan by the Internal Revenue Service or by the procuring activity does not imply that the cost thereof for any particular year will be allowable for apportionment to contract costs, except to the extent costs for that year meet all other requirements of the Internal Revenue Service as a deduction for income tax purposes, and are acceptable under the provisions of this cost interpretation and other provisions of this Part 1–15.

(e) Pension and retirement costs constitute a part of the total compensation by a contractor to any individual covered by the plan, and accordingly, are subject to the provisions of this Part 1–15 with respect to reasonableness of the total compensation paid to the individual for the services rendered.

(f) Where contributions to pension or retirement plans are based on profits, Provided, That provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and regulations of the Internal Revenue Service have been met, the amount allowable for apportionment to contracts in any one year shall be the amount contributed to the pension trust(s) for that year, but not to exceed 15 percent of the total compensation otherwise paid or accrued in that year to the individuals covered under the plan(s).

(g) The allowability of costs of lump sum purchases of annuities or of periodic cash payments made to provide pension or retirement benefits for retiring or retired employees, other than incurred under approved pension or retirement plans, will be subject to consideration on an individual case basis.

(h) Credits which became available or are foreseeable must be taken into account in an equitable manner in determining pension and retirement costs subject to apportionment to a particular contract. In some instances, this may require adjustments to costs in anticipation of the realization of credits. For example, such action would normally be appropriate where contractors' organizations are substantially expanded for the performance of Government contracts and there is a reasonable expectation that, upon completion of the contracts, the services of practically all or a large number of the additional employees will be terminated with the result that contractors will benefit from contributions made on behalf of these employees, because such personnel will not acquire vested rights under the terms of the plan.

(i) In any current or future contract no cost allowance will be made which would duplicate, in whole or in part, an allowance previously made under a prior contract.

Subpart 1–15.5—[Reserved]

Subpart 1–15.6—Guidelines for Application in the Negotiation and Administration of Fixed-Price Type Contracts and in the Negotiation of Termination Settlements

§ 1–15.600 Scope of subpart.

This subpart provides guidance for the use of Subparts 1–15.2, 1–15.3, and 1–15.4 in (a) the evaluation of costs in pricing of negotiated fixed-price type contracts and subcontracts in those instances where such evaluation is required to establish prices for such contracts and (b) the negotiation of termination settlements.

§ 1–15.601 Definition of fixed-price type contracts.

"Fixed-price type" contracts include, for purpose of this subpart, the following:

(a) Firm fixed-price contracts;

(b) Fixed-price contracts with escalation;

(c) Fixed-price contracts providing for the redetermination of price;

(d) Fixed-price incentive contracts;

(e) Non-cost-reimbursable portion of time and materials contracts;

(f) Labor-hour contracts.

§ 1–15.602 Basic considerations.

(a) Under fixed-price type contracts, the negotiated price is the basis for payment to a contractor whereas allowable costs are the basis for reimbursement under cost-reimbursement type contracts. Accordingly, the policies and procedures of Subpart 1–3.8 are applicable in the negotiation of fixed-price type contracts. Cost and accounting data may provide guides for ascertaining fair compensation but are not rigid measures of it. Other types of data, criteria, or standards may furnish reliable guides to fair compensation. The ability to apply standards of business judgment as distinct from strict accounting principles is at the heart of a negotiated price or settlement.

(b) Among the different types of fixed-price type contracts, the need for consideration of costs varies considerably as indicated below:

(1) Retrospective pricing and settlements. In negotiating firm fixed prices or settlements for work which has been completed at the time of negotiation (e.g., final negotiations under fixed-price incentive contracts, redetermination of price after completion of the work, or negotiation of a settlement agreement under a contract terminated for the convenience of the Government), the treatment of costs is a major factor in arriving at the amount of the price or settlement. However, even in these situations, the finally agreed price or settlement may represent something other than the sum total of acceptable costs plus profit, since the final price accepted by each party does not necessarily reflect agreement on the evaluation of each element of cost, but rather a final resolution of all issues in the negotiation process.

(2) Forward pricing. The extent to which costs influence forward pricing varies greatly from case to case. In negotiations covering future work, actual costs cannot be known and the importance of cost estimates depends on the circumstances. The contracting officer must consider all the factors affecting the reasonableness of the total proposed price, such as the technical, production, or financial risk assumed, the complexity of work, the extent of competitive pricing, and the contractor's record for efficiency, economy, and ingenuity, as well as available cost estimates. He must be free to bargain for a total price which equitably distributes the risks between the contractor and the Government and provides incentives for efficiency and cost reduction. In negotiating such a price, it is not possible to identify the treatment of specific cost elements since the bargaining is on a total price basis. Thus, while cost data is often a valuable aid, it will not control negotiation of prices for work to be performed, or a target price under an incentive contract.

§ 1–15.603 Cost principles and their use.

(a) When, pursuant to § 1–15.602, costs are to be considered in the negotiation of fixed-price type contracts, the appropriate subpart of this Part 1–15 may be used as a guide in the evaluation of cost data required to establish a fair and reasonable price in conjunction with other pertinent considerations as set forth more fully in Subpart 1–3.8.

(b) In retrospective pricing, whenever an occasion arises in which acceptability of a specific item of cost becomes an issue, the appropriate part of this Part 1–15 will serve as a guide for the contracting officer in his conduct of negotiations.

(c) In applying this Part 1–15 to fixed-price contracts, contracting officers will (1) not be expected to negotiate agreement on every individual element of cost; and (2) be expected to use their judgment as to the degree of detail in which they consider the individual elements of cost in arriving at their evaluation of total cost, where such evaluation is appropriate. However, the negotiation record should fully substantiate and justify the reasoning leading to any negotiated price.

(d) In order to permit the proper evaluation of cost data submitted by contractors for use in negotiating prices, it may be necessary to obtain breakdowns or account analyses in respect to some cost items, particularly those whose treatment may be dependent upon special circumstances as stated in these principles. Contractors will be expected to be responsive to reasonable requests for data of this kind.

Effective date. These regulations are effective August 15, 1960, but may be observed earlier.

Dated: July 15, 1960.

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 27—CANNED FRUITS AND CANNED FRUIT JUICES; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY; QUALITY; AND FILL OF CONTAINER

Canned Prunes, Canned Seedless Grapes, Canned Berries, Canned Plums; Order Establishing Standards of Identity [1]

In the matter of establishing definitions and standards of identity for canned prunes, canned seedless grapes, canned berries, and canned plums:

A notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of March 25, 1960 (25 F.R. 2545), setting forth proposals by the National Canners Association, 1133 Twentieth Street NW., Washington, D.C., to establish definitions and standards of identity for canned prunes, canned seedless grapes, canned berries, and canned plums. Each proposal contained definitions of the optional saccharine ingredients to be used in preparing the packing media for these canned fruits. Since the definitions of such optional saccharine ingredients in § 27.1 apply to all the identity standards for food in this chapter, they need not be repeated in the identity standards established by this order.

[1] Statement of policy § 3.12 Notice to canners and distributors of canned prunes, canned seedless grapes, canned berries, and canned plums, published March 25, 1960 (25 F.R. 2516) exempted the listed canned fruits from certain requirements for labeling pending rulings on the proposed standards. It is intended that an announcement shall be published rescinding § 3.12 when the notice confirming the effective date of the identity standards for these canned fruits is published.

Interested persons were invited to submit views and comments on the proposals. The only comment filed was an objection to these standards submitted by a manufacturer of lactose, whose comment was that no standards for these canned fruits should be established unless they are changed to include lactose. No data concerning canned fruits with added lactose was submitted.

Upon consideration of the proposals, the comment submitted, and other relevant information, it is concluded that to promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers definitions and standards of identity for canned prunes, canned seedless grapes, canned berries, and canned plums should be adopted as hereinafter set forth. PART 120—TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

Tolerance for Residues of CIPC

A petition was filed with the Food and Drug Administration by Columbia Southern Chemical Corporation, a subsidiary of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, 1 Gateway Center, Pittsburgh 22, Pennsylvania, requesting the establishment of a tolerance for residues of CIPC (isopropyl N(3-chlorophenyl) carbamate) at 50 parts per million in or on potatoes to permit its postharvest use to inhibit sprouting.

The Secretary of Agriculture has certified that this pesticide chemical is useful for the purposes for which a tolerance is being established.

After consideration of the data submitted in the petition and other relevant material which show that the tolerance esablished in this order will protect the public health, and by virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (d) (2), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U.S.C. 346a(d) (2)) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (21 CFR 120.7(g)), the regulations for tolerances for pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities (21 CFR Part 120) are amended by adding the following new section.

§ 120.181 Tolerances for residues of CIPC.

A tolerance of 50 parts per million is established for residues of CIPC (isopropyl N(3-chlorophenyl) carbamate) in or on potatoes from postharvest application.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C., written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order, and specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Effective date. This order shall be effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SUBCHAPTER C—DRUGS

PART 141c—CHLORTETRACYCLINE (OR TETRACYCLINE) AND CHLORTETRACYCLINE- (OR TETRACYCLINE-) CONTAINING DRUGS; TESTS AND METHODS OF ASSAY

PART 146c—CERTIFICATION OF CHLORTETRACYCLINE (OR TETRACYCLINE) AND CHLORTETRACYCLINE- (OR TETRACYCLINE-) CONTAINING DRUGS

Demethylchlortetracycline Hydrochloride-Nystatin Capsules

Under the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended; sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055, as amended; 21 U.S.C. 357, 371) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (22 F.R. 1045, 23 F.R. 9500), the regulations for tests and methods of assay and certification of antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR Parts 141c, 146c) are amended as follows:

1. Part 141c is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 141c.259 Demethylchlortetracycline hydrochloride-nystatin capsules.

(a) Potency—(1) Demethylchlortetracycline hydrochloride content. Using a high-speed blender, prepare an appropriate number of capsules in 500 milliliters of 0.1 N HCl and proceed as directed in § 141c.251(a). The average potency is satisfactory if it contains not less than 85 percent of the number of milligrams of demethylchlortetracycline hydrochloride that it is represented to contain.

(2) Nystatin content. Proceed as directed in § 141c.224(a)(1)(ii). Its content of nystatin is satisfactory if it contains not less than 85 percent of the number of units that it is represented to contain.

(b) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141a.5(a) of this chapter.

2. Part 146c is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 146c.259 Demethylchlortetracycline hydrochloride-nystatin capsules.

Demethylchlortetracycline hydrochloride-nystatin capsules are capsules that conform to all requirements and are subject to all procedures prescribed by § 146c.252 for capsules demethylchlortetracycline hydrochloride, except that:

(a) Each capsule contains not less than 250,000 units of nystatin. The nystatin used conforms to the requirements prescribed therefor by § 146c.222 (a).

(b) The average moisture content of the capsules is not more than 5.0 percent.

(c) In addition to the labeling prescribed by § 146c.252(c), each package shall bear on its label or labeling the number of units of nystatin in each capsule of the batch. Its expiration date shall be the date that is 18 months after the month during which the batch was certified.

(d) In addition to complying with the requirements of § 146c.252(d), a person who requests certification of a batch shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark and (unless they were previously submitted) the results and the date of the latest tests and assays of the nystatin used in making the batch for potency, toxicity, pH, moisture, and specific rotation. He shall also submit in connection with his request (unless it was previously submitted) a sample consisting of 10 packages, each containing approximately equal portions of not less than 300 milligrams of the nystatin used in making the batch.

(e) The fees for the services rendered with respect to the samples submitted in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section shall be:

(1) $1.00 for each capsule.

(2) $4.00 for each immediate container of nystatin.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industry and since it would be against public interest to delay providing for tests and methods of assay and certification of this new antibiotic drug.

Effective date. This order shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industry will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Title 43—PUBLIC LANDS: INTERIOR

Chapter I—Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior

APPENDIX—PUBLIC LAND ORDERS

[Public Land Order 2163]

ALASKA

Revoking Executive Order No. 8872 of August 27, 1941 and Public Land Order No. 894 of May 19, 1953 (Cook Inlet Bombing and Gunnery Range)

By virtue of the authority vested in the President and pursuant to Executive Order No. 10355 of May 26, 1952, it is ordered as follows:

1. Executive Order No. 8872 of August 27, 1941, withdrawing the public lands in the following-described area (excepting fishing villages and the area withdrawn by Executive Order No. 2141 of February 27, 1915), for use of the War Department as an aerial gunnery and bombing range, is hereby revoked:

Beginning at corner No. 1, not monumented, at the line of mean high tide on the most easterly part of Harriet Point on the west shore of Cook Inlet, approximate latitude 60°23'30" N., longitude 152°14'30" W.

From said initial point, by metes and bounds,
N. 70° W., 18 miles, to highest point on Mt. Redoubt;
N. 16° E., 58 miles, to highest point on Mt. Spurr;
N. 68° E., 25 miles, to foot of Triumvirate Glacier;
S. 55° E., 27 miles, to west shore of Cook Inlet, at a point 1½ miles east of the light at the mouth of Beluga River;
Southwesterly, along line of mean high tide to the point of beginning.

The area described, including both public and non-public lands, aggregates 1,210,000 acres.

2. Public Land Order No. 894 of May 19, 1953, reserving the public lands in the following-described area as an addition to the range described in paragraph 1, is hereby revoked:

Tract No. 1

Beginning at the southwest corner of area withdrawn by Executive Order 8872 of August 27, 1941, which corner is located at the highest point on Redoubt Volcano, latitude 60°29'06.04" N., longitude 152°44'29.29" W.; thence Northerly 61.4 miles approximately, to intersection of latitude 61°20' N., longitude 152°20' W.

Northeasterly 18.7 miles approximately, to northwest corner of area withdrawn by Executive Order 8872, latitude 61°24'30" N., longitude 151°48'00" W.

S. 63°05'00.10" W., 16.77 miles along west boundary of area withdrawn by Executive Order 8872 to Mt. Spurr.

S. 16°10'04.84" W., 58.74 miles along west boundary of area withdrawn by Executive Order 8872 to point of beginning.

The tract described contains approximately 86,085 acres.

3. Public Land Order No. 894 also restored 74,530 acres from the withdrawal made by Executive Order No. 8872. Reference is made to the public land order for the description of the released lands, which in general parallel the shore of Cook Inlet.

4. Until 10:00 a.m. on October 15, 1960, the State of Alaska shall be entitled to apply to select the lands or portions thereof in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the act of July 28, 1956 (70 Stat. 709; 48 U.S.C. 46-3b), and section 6g of the Alaska Statehood Act of July 7, 1958 (72 Stat. 339).

5. None of the released lands shall become subject to oil and gas leasing until such time as a notice or notices shall be issued by an authorized officer of the Bureau of Land Management, which notice or notices shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, describing the unselected lands subject to noncompetitive lease and providing for a simultaneous filing period of offers to lease. Such notices shall also include provisions opening the unselected lands to location under the United States mining laws, and to other forms of use and disposal under the public land laws, subject to valid existing rights.

6. Leases will be issued pursuant to the provisions of the 1920 Mineral Leasing Act in accordance with the regulations in 43 CFR Part 192, and the provisions of this order and of the published notices of the availability of the lands for leasing.

7. All offers to lease any portion of the released lands prior to the publication of the notices above referred to will be rejected.

8. The area released from withdrawal by this order is topographically very rugged, varying in elevation from sea level to 11,000 feet. Most of the higher elevations are perpetually covered with ice and snow. Access by foot is along stream beds and game trails.

9. The area has been utilized by the Department of the Air Force as a bombing, gunnery and rocketry range. That Department has completed explosive contamination surveys of all areas traversable by foot, without locating unexploded ordnance. However, the United States cannot and does not give any assurance that contamination does not exist in any part of the area.

10. All locations and settlements shall be made and leases under the mineral leasing laws shall be issued with the understanding that the United States neither warrants nor represents that the lands are safe or suitable for such use. All leases shall contain provisions absolving and releasing the United States from any and all liability of whatever nature for damages for personal injury, death or damage to property arising out of operations under such lease, which may be suffered by the lessee, his successors and assigns, and the agents, servants and employees of either.

11. In an area located about three miles inland from the mouth of the Beluga River are located two buildings and an oil storage tank which have been sold for off site removal. Any entry upon or selection or location of such land, or use or disposal thereof, shall be subject to the rights and interest of the United States and its transferees in such improvements, until such time as they have been removed or officially abandoned in place.

Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Anchorage, Alaska.

ROGER ERNST,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

§ 48.4001–1 Imposition of tax.

(a) In general. Section 4001 imposes a tax upon the following articles sold at retail:

(1) Articles commonly or commercially known as jewelry, whether real or imitation;

(2) Certain real or synthetic stones listed in § 48.4001–3(a);

(3) Articles made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof; and

(b) Cross references. For provisions relating to the specific articles taxable under section 4001, see the following regulations in this subpart:

(1) Section 48.4001–2 for jewelry;
(2) Section 48.4001–3 for certain real or synthetic stones;
(3) Section 48.4001–4 for articles made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof;

(c) Rate of tax. The tax is imposed at the rate of 10 percent of the price for which the taxable article is sold at retail. For definition of the term "price", see section 4051 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(d) Liability for tax. The tax is payable by the person who sells at retail any article subject to tax under section 4001. For tax applicable to leases, see section 4052 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(e) Sales by United States. For provisions relating to sales at retail made by the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, see section 4054 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

§ 48.4001–2 Jewelry.

(a) Generally. Jewelry in general includes articles designed to be worn on the person or on apparel for the purpose of adornment and which in accordance with custom or ordinary usage are worn so as to be displayed, such as rings, chains, brooches, bracelets, cuff buttons, necklaces, earrings, beads, charms, pendants, etc. The tax is imposed on the sale of any of such articles at retail, regardless of the substance of which made and without reference to their utilitarian value or purpose, unless for a purpose specifically exempted by law. It is immaterial whether the articles taxable under this paragraph are real or imitation jewelry. Thus, articles constituting costume jewelry are subject to tax regardless of the material of which they are made.

(b) Articles made of, or ornamented with, certain stones. Jewelry also includes articles to be carried in the hand, or hung on the arm, or carried or worn on the person, whether in pocket or bag or under the outer garments, such as cigarette cases, pocket mechanical lighters for cigarettes, cigars, and pipes, eyeglass cases, pencils, powder boxes, garter buckles, canes, purses or handbags, if made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, any of the stones enumerated in section 4001 whether such stones are real or synthetic. Such articles are likewise subject to tax without regard to their utilitarian value or purpose. Mother-of-pearl is not a real or synthetic pearl; therefore, articles not otherwise subject to the tax are not made taxable by reason of their ornamentation with mother-of-pearl. See also § 48.4001–4 as to the taxability of the sale at retail of articles made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof, and section 4031, and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart E, relating to the taxability of the sale at retail of purses, handbags, pocketbooks, etc.

(c) Credit or refund of manufacturers excise tax. See section 6416 (d) and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart O for credit or refund of the manufacturers excise tax paid under section 4201 on mechanical pencils, fountain and ball point pens, and mechanical lighters for cigarettes, cigars, and pipes, in the case where because of further manufacture the tax imposed by section 4001 applies to the sale of such articles at retail.

§ 48.4001–3 Certain real or synthetic stones.

(a) Real stones—(1) In general. The tax imposed by section 4001 applies to sales at retail of the following stones, by whatever name called:

Amber.
Beryl of the following types: Aquamarine, emerald, golden beryl, heliodor, morganite.
Chrysoberyl of the following types: Alexandrite, cat's eye, chrysolite.
Coral.
Corundum of the following types: Ruby, sapphire.
Diamond.
Feldspar of the following type: Moonstone.
Garnet.
Jadeite (jade).
Jet.
Lapis lasuli.
Nephrite (jade).
Opal.
Pearls (natural and cultured).
Peridot.
Quartz of the following types: Amethyst, bloodstone, citrine, moss agate, onyx, sardonyx, tiger-eye.
Spinel.
Topaz.
Tourmaline.
Turquoise.
Zircon.

In the case of articles not otherwise taxable under chapter 31 which are ornamented, mounted or fitted with, any of the stones enumerated in section 4001, the tax shall apply to that portion of the retail selling price attributable to such stones.

(2) Coral. The tax on sales at retail of coral does not apply to sales after October 31, 1959.

(b) Synthetic stones. The tax imposed by section 4001 also applies to the sale at retail of any synthetic stone which has a molecular-composition similar to a natural stone listed in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Condition of stones. The tax applies to sales at retail of the stones referred to in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section whether they are in rough or natural state, whether cut or uncut, whether drilled, mounted or matched, whether or not strung, and if strung whether with or without clasps.

(d) Stones used exclusively for industrial, scientific, or educational purposes, or as part of mechanical devices. (1) For purposes of section 4001, the stones enumerated in such section do not include stones which are sold to be used exclusively as—

(i) A tool or material for industrial, scientific, research, or educational purposes (including mineral hardness testing, polishing, cutting, and grinding); or

(ii) A part of the mechanism of a mechanical device (for example, a bearing in a watch).

(2) The person making the sale at retail for a purpose indicated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall keep adequate records in the nature of invoices or other documents identifying the stones, the person to whom sold, the date of sale, and the purpose for which the stones are to be used.

§ 48.4001–4 Articles made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof.

(a) In general. The tax imposed by section 4001 applies to the sale at retail of articles (as distinguished from those articles commonly or commercially known as jewelry as described in § 48.4001–2) which are made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof. Examples of articles which become subject to the tax when made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof are as follows: photograph frames, book ends, ash trays, vanity cases, mesh bags, cigarette cases and lighters, glassware, china, pottery, umbrellas, walking sticks, and shoe buckles. Buttons, belts, and belt buckles, made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, imitations of precious metals are in the nature of dress findings and are not subject to the tax. For exemption from tax of sales at retail of certain pens, pencils, and smokers' pipes, see section 4003 and paragraph (a) of § 48.4003–1.

(b) Definitions. For purposes of section 4001—

(1) The term "precious metals" includes platinum, gold, silver, and other metals of similar or greater value.

(2) The term "imitations thereof" includes (i) alloys of precious metals, and (ii) platings of precious metals and platings of alloys of precious metals, provided such platings are one one-hundred-thousandths of an inch or more in thickness. Substances such as metal alloys which resemble but do not contain precious metals (for example, "nickel silver" (sometimes known as "German silver") or polished brass) are not included in the term.

(c) Credit or refund of manufacturers excise tax. See section 6416(d) and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart O for credit or refund of the manufacturers excise tax paid under section 4201 on mechanical pencils, fountain and ball point pens, and mechanical lighters for cigarettes, cigars, and pipes, in the case where because of further manufacture the tax imposed by section 4001 applies to the sale of such articles at retail.

§ 48.4001–5 Watches and clocks.

(a) In general. Section 4001 imposes a tax on the sale at retail of watches and clocks and cases and movements therefor. The tax applies to such articles sold at retail regardless of whether they are new, secondhand, or antique, or whether they are in working condition. The term "watches and clocks" includes all time-measuring devices which when in operation indicate the time of day, whether activated by weights, springs, or electrical energy. Any instrument the sole function of which is to indicate elapsed time and which is incapable of being used to tell the time of day at all times, such as a stop watch, is not considered to be a watch or clock within the meaning of section 4001.

(b) Combined with nontaxable articles—(1) Generally. Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, if a watch or clock and one or more articles not subject to the tax imposed by section 4001 (for example, a barometer, lamp, or an advertising device) are combined in a single unit, the tax shall apply to that portion of the retail sales price charged for the combination which is attributable to such watch or clock. For the method of computing the tax in such cases, see section 4051 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(2) Exemptions. See section 4003(a) and paragraph (a) of § 48.4003–1 for exemption for watches designed especially for use by the blind. See also section 4003 (c) and (d) and § 48.4003–3 for the exemption provided for certain clocks, watches, and cases and movements therefor, which are taxed under chapter 32 (relating to manufacturers excise taxes), or which are part of a control or regulatory device not taxable under chapter 32.

§ 48.4001–6 Gold, gold-plated, silver, or sterling flatware or hollow ware, and silver-plated hollow ware.

(a) In general. Section 4001 imposes a tax on the sale at retail of any article which is commonly or commercially known and sold as gold, gold-plated, silver, or sterling flatware or hollow ware, or as silver-plated hollow ware. However, a gold, gold-plated, silver, silver-plated, or sterling article which is neither commonly nor commercially known or sold in the trade as flatware or hollow ware, may be subject to the tax as an article made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof (see § 48.4001–4).

(b) Silver-plated flatware. No tax attaches to the sale at retail of any article commonly or commercially known or sold in the trade as "silver-plated flatware".

§ 48.4001–7 Opera glasses, lorgnettes, marine glasses, etc.

(a) In general. Section 4001 imposes a tax on the sale at retail of opera glasses, lorgnettes, marine glasses, field glasses, and binoculars.

(b) Definitions. The terms "opera glasses", "lorgnettes", "marine glasses", "field glasses", and "binoculars" generally include all instruments known as such. However, the terms do not include:

(1) Optical instruments which by reason of their size or weight are ordinarily mounted upon tripods or other bases; or

(2) Telescopes and sextants.

§ 48.4001–8 Repairs.

(a) Taxable operations. If an item is repaired and in connection therewith the person making the repair furnishes an article which would be taxable under section 4001 if sold separately at retail, the tax applies to the charge made for the article so furnished. In such case, the total charge made for the repair shall be deemed to be the price charged for the taxable article used in the repair, unless the portion of the total charge attributable to labor and to the use of any nontaxable materials is billed as a separate item. The following are examples of articles which are taxable under section 4001 when furnished in connection with the repair of other articles: (1) Articles made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, precious metals or imitations thereof, such as a ring mounting or setting, a bracelet link or safety chain, a complete shank of a ring (extending from one side of the head of the ring to the other side), a spring ring or swivel, catch, earring back or screw; and (2) a stone enumerated in section 4001.

(b) Nontaxable operations. If an article referred to in section 4001 is repaired and the repair operation consists of labor only, the repair operation is not subject to the tax. Also, the tax does not apply to repair operations (1) in which the person making the repair furnishes only materials such as unfabricated metal, wire, solder, etc., or (2) where he furnishes only a portion of an article made of, or ornamented, mounted or fitted with, a precious metal or imitation thereof, such as a section of a shank of a ring.

(c) Watches and clocks. The tax imposed by section 4001 with respect to watches and clocks is limited to watches and clocks as such and cases and movements therefor. Accordingly, the tax imposed by section 4001 attaches to the repair of a watch or clock only if a case or movement is furnished in connection with the repair.

§ 48.4002 Statutory provisions; definition of sale includes auctions.

SEC. 4002. Definition of sale includes auctions. For the purposes of section 4001, the term "articles sold at retail" includes an article sold at retail by an auctioneer or other agent in the course of his business on behalf of (1) a person who is not engaged in the business of selling like articles, or (2) the legal representative of the estate of a decedent who was not engaged in the business of selling like articles. In the case of articles so sold, the auctioneer or other agent shall be considered the "person who sells at retail."

[Sec. 4002 as originally enacted and in effect Jan. 1, 1959]

§ 48.4002–1 Definition of sale includes auctions.

(a) In general. Section 4002 provides that for purposes of section 4001, the term "articles sold at retail" includes articles sold at retail by an auctioneer or other agent in the course of his business on behalf of (1) a person who is not engaged in the business of selling like articles, or his legal representative, or (2) the legal representative of the estate of a decedent who was not engaged in the business of selling like articles. Section 4002 also provides that in the case of articles so sold, the auctioneer or other agent shall be considered the "person who sells at retail". Thus, such auctioneer or agent shall be liable for payment of the tax imposed by section 4001 and the filing of returns.

(b) Sales not at auction. The provisions of section 4002 and paragraph (a) of this section are not limited to auction sales but are applicable to all sales at retail of articles enumerated in section 4001 by an auctioneer or other agent in the course of his business.

(c) Exemption. See section 4003(b) and § 48.4003–2 for the limited exemption which applies to certain auction sales.

§ 48.4003 Statutory provisions; exemptions.

SEC. 4003. Exemptions—(a) Specific articles. The tax imposed by section 4001 shall not apply to any article used for religious purposes, to surgical instruments, to watches designed especially for use by the blind, to frames or mountings for spectacles or eyeglasses, to a fountain pen, mechanical pencil, or smokers' pipe if the only parts of the pen, the pencil, or the pipe which consist of precious metals are essential parts not used for ornamental purposes, or to buttons, insignia, cap devices, chin straps, and other devices prescribed for use in connection with the uniforms of the armed forces of the United States,

(b) Certain auction sales. (1) In the case of an auction sale held at the home of a person whose articles are being sold, any taxable article (as defined in paragraph (2)) of such person sold by the auctioneer shall be exempt from the tax imposed by section 4001 except to the extent that the price for which such article is sold, when added to the sum of the sale prices of all other taxable articles of such person previously sold at the same auction, exceeds $100.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection—

(A) The term "taxable article" means an article which, by reason of section 4002 and without regard to the exemption provided in paragraph (1), is taxable under section 4001 when sold at auction; and

(B) In the case of articles of a decedent sold on behalf of the legal representative of his estate, an auction sale held at the home of such decedent shall be considered as "held at the home of a person whose articles are being sold".

(c) Clocks subject to manufacturers tax. The tax imposed by section 4001 shall not apply to a clock or watch, or to a case or movement for a clock or watch, if a tax in respect of such clock, watch, case, or movement was imposed under chapter 32 by reason of its sale (1) as a part or accessory, or (2) on or in connection with or with the sale of any article.

(d) Certain parts of control or regulatory devices. The tax imposed by section 4001 shall not apply to a clock or watch, or to a case or movement for a clock or watch, if such clock, watch, case, or movement is (1) a part of a control or regulatory device which is an article (or part thereof) not taxable under chapter 32, or (2) sold as a repair or replacement part for such a device.

[Sec. 4003 as amended and in effect Jan. 1, 1959]

§ 48.4003–1 Exemptions; certain articles.

(a) In general. Section 4003 specifically provides that the tax imposed by section 4001 shall not apply to: Any article used for religious purposes; surgical instruments; watches designed especially for use by the blind; frames or mountings for spectacles or eye-glasses; fountain pens, mechanical pencils, or smokers' pipes, if the only parts thereof which consist of precious metals are essential parts not used for ornamental purposes; and buttons, insignia, cap devices, chin straps, and other devices prescribed for use in connection with the uniforms of the armed forces of the United States. See section 7701(a)(15), and the regulations thereunder contained in part 301, for meaning of the term "Armed Forces of the United States".

(b) Articles used for religious purposes. (1) The tax imposed by section 4001 does not apply to articles of such nature as to be intended for use only for religious purposes (for example, a crucifix, rosary, chalice, etc.). Such articles may be sold tax free without a statement from the purchaser as to the purpose for which the article is to be used.

(2) The tax imposed by section 4001 also does not apply to articles of such nature as to be usable for nonreligious purposes as well as for religious purposes if such articles are purchased by a church or other religious organization and if—

(i) The articles (such as Cross and Crown pins, medals, or buttons) are to be used by a religious organization as an award in connection with a religious program, or

(ii) The articles (such as crosses, candlesticks, vases, etc.) are used in connection with religious services by a religious organization.

With respect to these articles the retailer must have in his possession a statement from a representative of the religious organization certifying that the articles were purchased solely for religious purposes in order to establish the right to exemption from the tax on the sale.

(c) Fountain pens, mechanical pencils, smokers' pipes—(1) Essential parts defined. For purposes of the exemption from tax provided by section 4003 applicable to fountain pens, mechanical pencils, and smokers' pipes, the term "essential parts" shall include:

(i) Fountain pen. In the case of a fountain pen—the pen point, lever, clip, and the plain narrow band or bands placed on the cap for the purpose of preventing the cap from splitting or expanding.

(ii) Mechanical pencil. In the case of a mechanical pencil—the tapered point holding the lead for writing, the clip, and the plain narrow band or bands placed on the barrel or cap, or both, for the purpose of preventing such part or parts from splitting or expanding.

(iii) Smoker's pipe. In the case of a smoker's pipe—the plain narrow band or bands placed on the shank of the pipe to prevent the shank from splitting.

All other parts of such pens, pencils, or pipes consisting of precious metals or imitations thereof shall be deemed to be ornamentations unless it is established that a particular part is an essential part not used for ornamental purposes. Furthermore, the tax imposed by section 4001 shall attach if the aforementioned essential band or bands on a fountain pen, mechanical pencil, or smoker's pipe consist of precious metals or imitations thereof and have a combined width of more than ¾ of an inch.

(2) Credit or refund of manufacturers excise tax. See section 6416(d) and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart O of this part for credit or refund of the manufacturers excise tax paid under section 4201 on mechanical pencils, fountain and ball point pens, and mechanical lighters for cigarettes, cigars, and pipes, in the case where because of further manufacture the tax imposed by section 4001 applies to the sale of such articles at retail.

§ 48.4003–2 Exemptions; certain auction sales.

A limited exemption in the amount of $100 of the sale price is provided by section 4003(b) in the case of an auction sale held at the home of the owner of an article or articles taxable under section 4001. Thus, for example, if a pearl necklace was first sold by an auctioneer at the owner's home for $40 and a diamond pin was next sold at the same sale for $150, the sale of the necklace would be tax free and the remaining $60 of the $100 exemption would be applied against the sale price of the pin, $90 of such sale price being subject to tax. Sales of articles not taxable under section 4001 shall not be considered in applying the $100 exemption. Only one exemption shall be allowed regardless of the period of time during which the auction sale takes place. This exemption also applies to an auction sale of articles of a decedent held at the home of such decedent. See section 4013 and § 48.4013–1 for $100 exemption in the case of furs sold at certain auction sales.

§ 48.4003–3 Exemptions; certain clocks.

(a) Clocks subject to manufacturers excise tax. Section 4003(c) provides that a clock or watch (or a case or movement for a clock or watch) shall be exempt from the tax imposed by section 4001 if a tax was imposed in respect of such clock, watch, case, or movement under chapter 32 (relating to manufacturers excise taxes) by reason of its sale as a part or accessory (for example, an automobile clock) or by reason of its sale on or in connection with or with the sale of any article (for example, a stove). The exemption is limited to clocks, watches, and cases and movements in respect of which tax under chapter 32 was imposed. Thus, for example, the exemption does not apply where a clock or watch (or a case or movement therefor) in respect of which tax was not imposed under chapter 32 is (1) sold at retail in conjunction with the sale of another article which is subject to a manufacturer's excise tax imposed by chapter 32, or (2) sold separately at retail to replace a clock, watch, case, or movement in an article subject to a manufacturers excise tax imposed by chapter 32.

(b) Clocks in control or regulatory devices—(1) In general. Section 4003(d) provides that sales at retail of a clock or watch (or a case or movement for a clock or watch) shall be exempt from the tax imposed by section 4001 if such clock, watch, case, or movement is—

(i) A part of a control or regulatory device (for example, a thermostat) which is an article, or part thereof, not taxable under chapter 32 (relating to manufacturers excise taxes), or

(ii) Sold as a repair or replacement part for such a device.

(2) Control or regulatory device defined. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "control or regulatory device" does not include clocks which in themselves have control or regulatory features, such as electric clocks that can be used to turn on radios, coffeemakers, etc., or defrost refrigerators. To qualify for the exemption, the control or regulatory device must be the major item of the combination and the clock a subsidiary item.

§ 48.4003–4 Other tax-free sales.

For provisions relating to other tax-free sales of articles referred to in section 4001, see—

(a) Section 4055, relating to the exemption of sales for the exclusive use of any State or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia,

(b) Section 4056, relating to the exemption of sales for export, and

(c) Section 4057, relating to the exemption of sales to nonprofit educational organizations, and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

Subpart C—Furs

§ 48.4011 Statutory provisions; imposition of tax.

SEC. 4011. Imposition of tax. There is hereby imposed upon the following articles sold at retail a tax equivalent to 10 percent of the price for which so sold: Articles made of fur on the hide or pelt, and articles of which such fur is the component material of chief value, but only if such value is more than three times the value of the next most valuable component material.

[Sec. 4011 as originally enacted and in effect Jan. 1, 1959]

§ 48.4011–1 Imposition of tax.

(a) In general. (1) Section 4011 imposes a tax upon the following articles sold at retail:

(i) Articles made of fur on the hide or pelt; and

(ii) Articles of which fur on the hide or pelt is the component material of chief value, but only if such value is more than three times the value of the next most valuable component material.

(2) The tax imposed by section 4011 is not limited to wearing apparel, but applies to sales of an article suitable for any use, such as a rug, robe, toy, novelty, etc.

(3) The tax does not apply to the sale of raw fur.

(4) For tax applicable in respect of fur articles manufactured from a customer's materials, see section 4012(a) and § 48.4012–1.

(5) For provisions relating to sales by an auctioneer or other agent, see section 4012(b) and § 48.4012–2.

(b) Fur on hide or pelt. For purposes of section 4011 and the regulations in this subpart, the term "fur on the hide or pelt" means animal hides or pelts with hair wholly or partially intact. However, the term does not include hides or pelts with hair which does not have the appearance of fur and is not used as fur. For example, certain sheep have hair so fine that its natural tendency is to become matted or felted, and, therefore, in its natural condition it neither resembles fur nor is used as fur. But if such hides or pelts are processed so that the hair loses its matted or felted appearance and takes on the appearance of fur, they will be deemed to be "fur on the hide or pelt".

(c) Articles made of fur. The term "articles made of fur on the hide or pelt", as used in section 4011 and this section, includes all articles made of such fur as distinguished from fur-trimmed or fur-lined articles. For example, fur coats, capes, stoles, hats, etc., shall be subject to the tax referred to in paragraph (a)(1)(i) of this section without regard to the relative values of the component parts. Fur-trimmed or fur-lined articles shall be subject to the tax referred to in paragraph (a)(1)(ii) of this section if the value of the fur is more than three times the value of the next most valuable component material.

(d) Articles of which fur is a component material—(1) Valuation. In determining, for the purposes of paragraph (a)(1)(ii) of this section, whether the sale of an article of which fur is a component material is subject to tax, the value of such fur at the time of assemblage of the article must be compared to the value of each other single component at such time. In comparing the value of the fur to the other components, all costs (including labor) of making or preparing a complete component shall be considered. However, the cost of assembling the components into the finished article shall not be considered.

(2) Records. Where fur is a component material of an article and exemption with respect to the sale of such article is claimed on the ground that the value of the fur as compared with that of the most valuable of the other component materials is such as to render the sale taxable under paragraph (a)(1)(ii) of this section, the retailer must maintain adequate records or have in his possession proper documentary evidence to establish that fact to the satisfaction of the Commissioner. An example of documentary evidence which will be acceptable is a written statement from the manufacturer or producer of the article stating that the value of the fur at the time of assemblage of the article was not more than three times the value at such time of the next most valuable component material. In the absence of such records or documentary evidence, the tax must be paid with respect to the sale of such article at retail.

(c) Rate of tax. The tax is imposed at the rate of 10 percent of the price for which the taxable article is sold at retail. For definition of the term "price", see section 4051 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(f) Liability for tax. The tax is payable by the person who sells at retail any article subject to tax under section 4011. For tax applicable to leases, see section 4052 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(g) Sales by United States. For provisions relating to sales at retail made by the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, see section 4054 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G of this part.

§ 48.4011–2 Repairing, remodeling, and restyling.

(a) Fur furnished by furrier. If a furrier uses fur on the hide or pelt which he furnishes to repair, remodel, or restyle a fur article owned by a customer, the tax imposed by section 4011 shall apply if a garment or an article such as a collar, cuff, sleeve, lapel, button, border, etc., is produced from the fur furnished by the furrier. The tax shall not apply if, for example, the fur furnished by the furrier is used merely to replace a worn section of a sleeve or cuff. If a taxable garment or article is produced, the tax shall attach to that portion of the price charged for the entire repairing, remodeling, or restyling operation which is attributable to the garment or article so produced, and the person repairing, remodeling, or restyling shall be deemed to be the person selling such garment or article at retail for the purposes of the tax imposed by section 4011. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "furrier" includes a person in the business of repairing, remodeling, or restyling fur articles.

(b) Fur furnished by customer. The tax shall not apply in the case where the fur furnished by the customer is used merely to replace a section of a garment or other article, such as a worn section of a sleeve or cuff. For tax applicable in respect of repairing, remodeling, or restyling of fur articles where an article is produced from fur furnished by the customer, see § 48.4012–1.

§ 48.4012 Statutory provisions; definitions.

SEC. 4012. Definitions—(a) Manufacture from customers material. Where a person, who is engaged in the business of dressing or dyeing fur skins or of manufacturing, selling, or repairing fur articles, produces an article of the kind described in section 4011 from fur on the hide or pelt furnished, directly or indirectly, by a customer and the article is for the use of, and not for resale by, such customer, the transaction shall be deemed to be a sale at retail and the person producing the article shall be deemed to be the person selling such article at retail for the purposes of such section. The tax on such a transaction shall be computed and paid by such person upon the fair retail market value, as determined by the Secretary or his delegate, of the finished article.

(b) Sale includes auctions. For the purposes of section 4011, the term "articles sold at retail" includes an article sold at retail by an auctioneer or other agent in the course of his business on behalf of—

(1) A person who is not engaged in the business of selling like articles, or

(2) The legal representative of the estate of a decedent who was not engaged in the business of selling like articles. In the case of articles so sold, the auctioneer or other agent shall be considered the "person who sells at retail."

[Sec. 4012 as originally enacted and in effect Jan. 1, 1959]

§ 48.4012–1 Manufacture from customer's fur.

The tax imposed by section 4011 applies where a person, who is engaged in the business of dressing or dyeing fur skins or of manufacturing, selling, or repairing fur articles, produces a garment, or article such as a muff, collar, cuff, sleeve, lapel, button, border, or other article of the kind described in section 4011 and paragraph (a)(1) of § 48.4011–1, from unused fur on the hide or pelt furnished directly or indirectly by a customer and the article is for the use of, and not for resale by, such customer. The transaction shall be deemed to be a sale at retail and the person producing the article shall be deemed to be the person selling such article for purposes of section 4011. The tax applicable to such transaction shall be computed upon the fair retail market value of the finished article as determined by the district director of internal revenue for the district in which the principal place of business of the taxpayer is located, and shall be determined without regard to the fact that the fur was furnished by the customer. In general, the fair retail market value may be considered as the retail sale price for which the same or a similar finished article is sold by retailers generally in the ordinary course of the retail trade.

§ 48.4012–2 Definition of sale includes auctions.

(a) In general. Section 4012(b) provides that for purposes of section 4011, the term "articles sold at retail" includes an article sold at retail by an auctioneer or other agent in the course of his business on behalf of (1) a person who is not engaged in the business of selling like articles or his legal representative, or (2) the legal representative of the estate of a decedent who was not engaged in the business of selling like articles. Section 4012(b) also provides that in the case of articles so sold, the auctioneer or other agent shall be considered the "person who sells at retail". Thus, such auctioneer or agent shall be liable for payment of the tax imposed by section 4011 and the filing of returns.

(b) Sales not at auction. The provisions of section 4012(b) and paragraph (a) of this section are not limited to auction sales but are applicable to all sales at retail of articles enumerated in section 4011 by an auctioneer or other agent in the course of his business.

(c) Exemption. See section 4013 and § 48.4013–1 for the limited exemption which applies to certain auction sales.

§ 48.4013 Statutory provisions; exemption of certain auction sales.

SEC. 4013. Exemption of certain auction sales. (a) In the case of an auction sale held at the home of a person whose articles are being sold, any taxable article (as defined in subsection (b)) of such person sold by the auctioneer shall be exempt from the tax imposed by section 4011 except to the extent that the price for which such article is sold, when added to the sum of the sale prices of all other taxable articles of such person previously sold at the same auction, exceeds $100.

(b) For the purposes of this section—

(1) The term "taxable article" means an article which, by reason of section 4012(b) and without regard to the exemption provided in subsection (a), is taxable under section 4011 when sold at auction; and

(2) In the case of articles of a decedent sold on behalf of the legal representative of his estate, an auction sale held at the home of such decedent shall be considered as "held at the home of a person whose articles are being sold".

[Sec. 4013 as originally enacted and in effect Jan. 1, 1959]

§ 48.4013–1 Exemption of certain auction sales.

Section 4013 provides a limited exemption in the amount of $100 of the sale price in the case of an auction sale held at the home of the owner of an article or articles taxable under section 4011. Thus, for example, if a fur neck piece was first sold by an auctioneer at the owner's home for $80 and a fur coat was next sold at the same sale for $200, the sale of the fur neck piece would be tax free and the remaining $20 of the $100 exemption would be applied against the sale price of the fur coat, $180 of such sale price being subject to tax. Sales of articles not taxable under section 4011 shall not be considered in applying the $100 exemption. Only one exemption shall be allowed regardless of the period of time during which the auction sale takes place. This exemption also applies to an auction sale of articles of a decedent held at the home of such decedent. See section 4003(b) and § 48.4003–2 for $100 exemption in the case of certain auction sales of jewelry and other articles taxable under section 4001.

§ 48.4013–2 Other tax-free sales.

For provisions relating to other tax-free sales of articles referred to in section 4011, see—

(a) Section 4055, relating to the exemption of sales for the exclusive use of any State or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia,

(b) Section 4056, relating to the exemption of sales for export, and

(c) Section 4087, relating to the exemption of sales to nonprofit educational organizations, and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

Subpart D—Toilet Preparations

§ 48.4021 Statutory provisions; imposition of tax.

SEC. 4021. Imposition of tax. There is hereby imposed upon the following articles sold at retail a tax equivalent to 10 percent of the price for which so sold—

Perfume.	Hair oils.
Essences.	Pomades.
Extracts.	Hair dressings.
Toilet waters.	Hair restoratives.
Cosmetics.	Hair dyes.
Petroleum jellies.	Toilet powders.

Any other similar substance, article, or preparation, by whatsoever name known or distinguished; any of the above which are used or applied or intended to be used or applied for toilet purposes.

[Sec. 4021 as originally enacted and in effect Jan. 1, 1959, and as amended by sec. 1, Act of April 8, 1960 (Pub. Law 86–413, 74 Stat. 31)]

§ 48.4021–1 Imposition of tax.

(a) In general—(1) Articles subject to tax. The tax attaches to the sale by the retailer of the following articles specifically enumerated in section 4021—

Perfume.	Pomades.
Essences.	Hair dressings.
Extracts.	Hair restoratives.
Toilet waters.	Hair dyes.
Cosmetics.	Aromatic cachous.
Petroleum jellies.	Toilet powders.
Hair oils.

and similar articles commonly or commercially known as toilet articles, which are used or applied, or intended to be used or applied, for toilet purposes. Any article advertised or held out for toilet purposes, or for any purpose for which the articles enumerated in section 4021 are customarily used, shall be subject to the tax regardless of the name by which it may be known or distinguished. The tax attaches to the sale by the retailer of any preparation which is used or applied or intended to be used or applied for toilet purposes or used in connection with the bath or care of the body, or applied to the clothing as a perfume or to the body as a toilet article.

(2) Articles not subject to tax. A substance, article, or preparation which is medicated and is held out for use only for the relief, remedy, or cure of conditions of the skin, such as those caused by acne, "athlete's foot", dandruff, or burns (including sunburn), shall not be subject to the tax imposed by section 4021. Also, a medicated substance, article, or preparation which is held out only for medicinal purposes, such as for use as an antiseptic or for the relief of muscular aches, shall not be subject to the tax imposed by section 4021. However, the fact that any particular product, preparation, or substance coming within the scope of section 4021 may have, or may be held out to have, a medicinal, stimulating, remedial, or curative value does not exempt it from the tax, if it is used, or held out for use, as an adjunct to the toilet or for toilet purposes. Thus, for example, lotions, creams, oils, salves, etc., for such toilet purposes as the treatment of chapped condition of the skin, the treatment of dry, oily, or falling hair, or the prevention of sunburn, are subject to the tax even though they have, or are held out to have, a medicinal, stimulating, remedial, or curative value.

(3) Aromatic cachous. The tax on sales at retail of aromatic cachous does not apply to sales after April 30, 1960.

(b) Certain products for care of the skin. Except as provided in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, relating to medicated products, the following rules shall apply with respect to substances, articles, or preparations used or held out for use for the care of the skin because of exposure to certain irritants.

(1) Exposure to weather irritants. Any substance, article, or preparation which is advertised or held out for use either before or after exposure to sun, wind, cold, or other weather conditions shall be deemed to be intended for use for toilet purposes and shall be subject to tax.

(2) Exposure to non-weather irritants—(i) Industrial or commercial use before exposure. Any substance, article, or preparation which is advertised or held out only for industrial or commercial use as a protection of the skin before exposure to industrial or commercial irritants such as grease, paint, printing ink, acids, dyes, etc., shall not be subject to tax.

(ii) General public use before exposure—(a) General rule. Any substance, article, or preparation which is advertised or held out for general public use as a protection of the skin before exposure to irritants such as dirt, grime, household cleaning products, etc., shall be deemed to be intended for use for toilet purposes and shall be subject to tax.

(b) Effective date. The provisions of subdivision (ii)(a) of this subparagraph shall, under authority of section 7805(b), apply to the sale at retail of any substance, article, or preparation referred to in such subdivision made on or after the first day of the first calendar month which begins more than 30 days after the date of publication of the regulations in this subpart in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(iii) Use after exposure. Any substance, article, or preparation which is advertised or held out for use after exposure to any non-weather irritants shall be deemed to be intended for use for toilet purposes and shall be subject to tax.

(c) Rate of tax. The tax is imposed at the rate of 10 percent of the price for which the taxable article is sold at retail. For definition of the term "price", see section 4051 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(d) Liability for tax. The tax is payable by the person who sells at retail any article subject to tax under section 4021.

(e) Sales by United States. For provisions relating to sales at retail made by the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, see section 4054 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

§ 48.4022 Statutory provisions; exemptions.

SEC. 4022. Exemptions—(a) Items for babies. The tax imposed by section 4021 shall not apply to lotion, oil, powder, or other article intended to be used or applied only in the care of babies.

(b) Barber shops and beauty parlors. For the purposes of section 4021, the sale of any article described in such section to any person operating a barber shop, beauty parlor, or similar establishment for use in the operation thereof, or for resale, shall not be considered as a sale at retail. The resale of such article at retail by such person shall be subject to the provisions of section 4021.

(c) Miniature samples. For the purposes of section 4021, the sale of miniature samples of any article described in such section for demonstration use only to a house-to-house salesman by the manufacturer or distributor, shall not be considered as a sale at retail. The resale of such sample at retail by such house-to-house salesman shall be subject to the provisions of section 4021.

[Sec. 4022 as originally enacted and in effect Jan. 1, 1959]

§ 48.4022–1 Exemptions.

(a) Items for babies. Section 4022 provides that the tax imposed by section 4021 does not apply to the sale of lotions, oils, powders, or other articles intended to be used or applied only in the care of babies. The determination of whether toilet articles are intended to be used or applied only in the care of babies will be made only by reference to the advertising with respect to, and the labeling contained on, the article. If an article is advertised and labeled as being for use in the care of babies and is not advertised or labeled as usable by persons other than babies, the sale of the article is exempt from tax even though the particular purchaser buys it for adult use. On the other hand, the sale of an article which is represented by advertising or labeling as fit for adult use, in addition to use in the care of babies, shall not be exempt from tax even though sold to a purchaser who intends to use the article only in the care of babies.

(b) Barber shops and beauty parlors. (1) The sale of any article taxable under section 4021 to a person operating a barber shop, beauty parlor, or similar establishment, whether for use in the operation thereof or for resale purposes, shall not be considered as a sale at retail and the tax imposed by section 4021 shall not be applicable to such sale.

(2) In any case where the operator of a barber shop, beauty parlor, or similar establishment sells at retail an article taxable under section 4021, he is liable for the tax imposed by such section.

(c) Miniature samples. The sale by the manufacturer or distributor of miniature samples of any article taxable under section 4021 to a house-to-house salesman for demonstration use only shall not be considered as a sale at retail and the tax imposed by section 4021 shall not be applicable to such sale. In any case where the house-to-house salesman sells at retail any of the miniature samples purchased from the manufacturer or distributor for demonstration use, he is liable for the tax imposed by section 4021.

§ 48.4022–2 Other tax-free sales.

For provisions relating to other tax-free sales of articles referred to in section 4021, see—

(a) Section 4055, relating to the exemption of sales for the exclusive use of any State or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia,

(b) Section 4056, relating to the exemption of sales for export, and

(c) Section 4057, relating to the exemption of sales to nonprofit educational organizations, and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(2) Fittings or accessories for any article enumerated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph sold on or in connection with the sale at retail of such article.

(b) Meaning of terms—(1) In general. For purposes of the tax imposed by section 4031, the articles listed in such section include all receptacles commonly or commercially known and sold as such regardless of design, size, or materials from which made or the purpose for which they are to be used. If there is doubt as to whether an article is taxable, the manner in which the article is advertised or otherwise held out for sale shall be considered. The articles listed in section 4031 include any such articles regardless of the name attached to, or associated with, the articles for merchandising or other reasons. For example, an article marketed as a "money holder" is taxable if in fact it is a "billfold" or "wallet".

(2) Briefcases. The term "briefcases" includes, for purposes of the tax imposed by section 4031, articles commonly or commercially known and sold as such regardless of materials from which made or the purpose for which they are to be used. The term also includes so-called "portfolios", "envelopes", etc., capable of being closed on all four sides which are designed and constructed for carrying or conveying unfolded legal-size or letter-size papers, documents, etc. The term does not include "portfolios", "envelopes", etc., designed and constructed primarily for storage purposes.

(3) Knitting or shopping bags. A knitting or shopping bag shall be considered suitable for use as a purse or handbag, for purposes of the tax imposed by section 4031, if it is capable of being carried in the hand, or hung on the arm or across the shoulder, and if—

(i) The bag has a secure closure, or

(ii) The bag has a built-in purse, side pocket, or compartment closed by a zipper, snap fastener, or other secure closure, provided the bag, or the built-in purse, side pocket, or compartment, is capable, when open, of holding the normal contents of a purse or handbag.

(c) Children's luggage and toy luggage. The tax applies to the sale at retail of articles listed in section 4031 which are designed and constructed for use as such by a child (for example, a child's purse, handbag, or suitcase). However, the tax does not attach to the sale at retail of articles which simulate articles of the type referred to in section 4031 but which are toys, that is, articles designed, constructed, and advertised or otherwise held out for sale for the amusement of a child or for use in a child's play. For example, the tax shall not apply to the sale at retail of a trunk designed, constructed, and held out for sale solely to hold clothing for a doll.

(d) Rate of tax. The tax is imposed at the rate of 10 percent of the price for which the taxable article is sold at retail. For definition of the term "price", see section 4051 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(e) Liability for tax. The tax is payable by the person who sells at retail any article subject to tax under section 4031. For tax applicable to leases, see section 4052 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(f) Sales by United States. For provisions relating to sales at retail made by the United States, its agencies or instrumentalities, see section 4054 and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G.

(g) Tax-free sales. For provisions relating to tax-free sales of articles referred to in section 4031, see—

(1) Section 4055, relating to the exemption of sales for the exclusive use of any State or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia,

(2) Section 4056, relating to the exemption of sales for export, and

(3) Section 4057, relating to the exemption of sales to nonprofit educational organizations, and the regulations thereunder contained in Subpart G of this part.

MILK IN GREAT BASIN MARKETING AREA

Notice of Recommended Decision and Opportunity To File Written Exceptions to Proposed Amendments to Tentative Marketing Agreement and to Order

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement, and order regulating the handling of milk in the Great Basin marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., not later than the close of business the 10th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The exceptions shoud be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing on the record of which the proposed amendments, as hereinafter set forth, to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, were formulated, was conducted at South Salt Lake City, Utah on May 10–12, 1960, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued April 15, 1960 (25 F.R. 3420).

The material issues on the record of the hearing relate to:

1. Extension of the marketing area;
2. Limitation of diversion to nonpool plants by a cooperative association;
3. Requirements for producer-handler status;
4. Base-excess payments to producers;
5. Classification of transfers to nonpool plants;
6. Pool plant requirements;
7. Accounting for frozen cream;
8. Shrinkage allowance on milk received in bulk tanks for which a cooperative association is the handler;
9. Advance payments to producers; and
10. Allocation provisions applicable to receipts of packaged sour cream priced under another order.

No evidence was offered with respect to a proposal in the hearing notice to modify the provisions applicable to plants regulated under other orders operating routes in the marketing area. The record presents no issue with respect to this proposal.

This decision is concerned with issues number 4 and 10 and that portion of issue number 5 related to the distance that bulk cream may be moved for manufacturing use as Class II milk. Decision with respect to all other issues is reserved for future decision.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based on evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof:

1. Base-excess payments. A base and excess plan should be used in this market as a method of distributing returns to producers.

About 90 percent of the producers on the market are presently receiving payment for milk on a base and excess plan. Each of the three proponent cooperative associations has used this system of distributing payments among its members for a number of years to provide the incentive needed to induce local dairymen to strive for more even milk production throughout the year.

During the period of order operation greater seasonality of production has been shown by producers not operating under a base plan than by the members of the proponent cooperatives. Base and excess plans have proved an effective means of improving the seasonal pattern of milk deliveries and such a plan applied to all producers, by being incorporated in the attached order, will play an essential part in encouraging the trend toward more even production seasonally.

The base-excess plan proposed by the producers is modeled after a similar plan used by Order 25, for the Puget Sound marketing area, and includes provision for a twelve-month base paying period. The plans used by proponent cooperative associations have included base-excess payments in all months of the year.

The type of base plan recommended herein will adopt, with minor exceptions, most of the features of the plan proposed by the producers. The base-forming period proposed at the hearing differed only with respect to the inclusion of January. Producer proponents of the base-excess plan would include the months of August through January of each year as the base-forming period with the base to become effective for the 12-month period beginning with February next following and ending January 31 of the next succeeding year. Bases so computed would be recomputed each year.

The base-excess plan recommended herein would provide that the base-forming period shall be the months of August through December with the base to be effective for the 12-month period beginning with the following February 1.

The exclusion of January from the proposed base-earning period will result in the continuation of the use of the old base for one month after the new base-forming period to permit the market administrator time in which to compute the bases and make the required notices of such new bases prior to February 1, the effective date of the new bases.

There is no evidence in the record to show that the exclusion of January from the base-forming period will materially alter the effectiveness of the plan recommended.

For each month separate uniform prices would be computed for base milk and for excess milk for the purpose of allocating Class I sales first to base milk. Base milk would be that quantity of milk delivered by a producer each month up to his average daily base multiplied by the number of days in the month for which his milk is delivered to any pool plant or is diverted as producer milk. Any milk delivered by such producer in excess of the base is excess milk. The excess price would be the Class II price except in any month when total Class I sales exceed the total quantity of base milk. During such a month, the excess price would be a blend of the actual Class I and Class II utilization of excess milk. Producer location adjustments, where applicable would affect only base milk and adjustments to maintain a producer-settlement fund reserve would be made in the computation of the base milk price only. In view of the lesser volume to which the reserve adjustment applies, the rate, presently 4 to 5 cents, is increased 1 cent so that it will be 5 to 6 cents.

Plants may become newly qualified as pool plants in any month of the year. In such event the producers supplying the new plant should have their bases computed from their deliveries to such plant during the previous base-making period rather than being paid base price for a percentage of monthly deliveries as provided for producers entering the market individually. The essential difference is that the shippers to the new pool plant would have become Great Basin producers by handler action whereas single new shippers at established pool plants become producers by their own choice. It would be necessary in such cases that the plant furnish a record of deliveries during the preceding base-earning period. This provision is also extended to include a producer who has relinquished his status as producer-handler.

Provision should be made for new producers entering the market to be paid for a portion of their deliveries at the base milk price without waiting until they have delivered milk during an entire base-earning period. Such a provision should also be consistent with the primary purpose of the base plan which is to encourage an even seasonal flow of milk to the market.

Since new producers have no prior fall deliveries from which the seasonality of their deliveries may be measured it is necessary that their base payments be determined somewhat arbitrarily as contrasted with producers with established bases who are paid on the basis of their individual performance. Producer proponents have proposed a seasonally varied schedule of percentages for each month which would allot a new producer a certain percentage of his production each month as base milk until such time as the producer has established an earned base. The percentage option would also be applicable to any regular baseholder who might elect to relinquish his earned base in favor of a base computed from such percentages. It is desirable therefore, that the base provisions for new producers be such as to encourage them to enter the market when their supplies will not increase seasonal variation and likewise will not be such as to invite substantial numbers of old producers to relinquish their bases.

In view of the lack of evidence in the record as to the operation of the various base plans in the market the percentages proposed by the producers and modified somewhat to include the considerations set forth above are considered to be reasonable and equitable, at least at the outset of the plan. The recommended percentages are: January, 70; February, 65; March, 60; April, 55; May, 45; June, 50; July, 55; August, 65; and 80 September through December.

Certain rules regulating the transfer of established bases were proposed and are adopted herein. The order should permit the producers to transfer an earned base with the sale or lease of the herd to a producer who continues to produce milk on the same farm. It is reasonable to assume that a herd so obtained and kept normally would continue to produce for a period of several months following the transfer in close alignment with the production pattern already established by the transferor.

Provision is also made that when a base is transferred subsequent to August 1 of any year all of the milk produced on the farm whether by the transferor or the transferee during the base-earning period, will be used in allotting a new base for the succeeding year. The burden of proof would be upon the transferor and transferee to establish to the satisfaction of the market administrator that the transfer was bona fide and not for the purpose of evading any provision of the order. It should be provided that a base may be transferred to a member of a baseholder's immediate family and in case of a baseholder's death the base may be transferred to another person upon transfer of the herd, even though production is not continued on the same farm. Only one base may be established with respect to milk produced by one or more persons where the land, buildings, and equipment are jointly owned and operated and if a producer operates more than one farm he shall establish separate bases with respect to producer milk delivered from each such farm.

2. Cream transfers. Some revision should be made in the transfer provisions of the order.

The present provisions of the order classify as Class I, any skim milk or butterfat moved in bulk in the form of skim milk or cream to a nonpool plant located 225 miles or more from the City Hall in Salt Lake City, Utah. Producers proposed changing the mileage limitation, with respect to bulk cream of 30 percent or more butterfat, to 525 miles and proposed to continue using the 225 mile limitation as it may apply to bulk shipments of whole milk or skim milk.

Substantial cream sales for manufacturing use have been made in the past from this market to Denver, Colorado; Las Vegas, Nevada; Grand Junction, Colorado; and Rawlins and Riverton, Wyoming, all of which are included in the proposed 525 mile area. Due to its concentrated nature, cream can move longer distances for manufacturing use than can milk or skim milk.

For the purpose of effective administration of the order some limitation must be set on the requirements upon the market administration to determine final disposition of producer milk in other than Class I use. The mileage limitation of the transfer provision was adopted to cut the costs of administrative expenses in verifying the utilization of milk shipped beyond the limits within which one might reasonably be expected to ship milk for manufacturing. Since the proposed 525 mile area limitation for cream sales includes markets (enumerated above) which are and have been regular manufacturing cream sales outlets for the Great Basin market. It is concluded that this limitation should apply uniformly to all bulk movements of milk, skim milk, and cream. It is probable that shipments of milk and skim milk to the expanded area will be limited in number because of the transportation costs involved. It will be administratively feasible to verify the end use of the milk within this radius.

Other proposals to modify the rules for classification of milk transferred to nonpool plants will be considered in a future decision.

3. Packaged sour cream. Sour cream manufactured from milk subject to the pricing and pooling provisions of Order No. 41 for the Chicago marketing area should be allocated directly to Class I at pool plants under the Great Basin order when such cream is received, handled and distributed in the same consumer or institutional size packages in which it was received.

A proposal to this effect was presented by a handler regulated under the Chicago Order No. 41 who has been engaged in the movement of packaged sour cream from the Chicago market to a handler in Salt Lake City area on a regular weekly or bi-weekly basis since November 1957.

Present provisions of the Great Basin order give priority of all Class I utilization to producer milk. Receipts of sour cream priced and pooled under Order No. 41 are allocated to Class II to the extent possible while all cream products under the Chicago order are classified as Class II, under the accounting and pricing system of the Chicago order this class is the equivalent of the Class I classification and pricing under the accounting system of the Great Basin order. With allowance for transportation cost from Chicago raw material cost equals or exceeds that under the Great Basin order. Inasmuch as the Class I price in the Great Basin marketing area will be generally aligned with prices under other Federal orders, there is little chance that handlers in the Chicago market can achieve a substantial competitive advantage with respect to sales of packaged sour cream in this area over handlers under this order.

The movement of packaged sour cream from the Chicago sources to the Salt Lake City handler is of sufficiently long standing to establish that the seasonal and daily reserves necessary to supply the exact quantities so moving were carried by the Chicago producers. Yet under current provisions of the Great Basin order the seasonal and daily excess of producer milk in the market is assigned to Class I to the extent of receipts of packaged sour cream from the Chicago market.

The handler receiving the packaged sour cream went on record as supporting in part the proposal made by the Chicago handler to the extent that such packaged sour cream should be permitted direct assignment to Class I utilization under the Great Basin order.

It is accordingly concluded that receipt of sour cream priced as Class II under Order No. 41 and disposed of in the same consumer or institutional size packages as received should be allocated to the Class I utilization of the receiving handler. Such allocation should be provided only when sour cream is not processed or packaged in the plant during the month. While the Great Basin handler proposed a provision applicable to all packaged Class I products and all orders, all testimony was directed to the allocation of packaged sour cream priced under Order No. 41. No basis exists on the record to provide for movement of other products or from other orders.

In opposing the proposed allocation it was the suggestion of the three producer associations that it would be preferable for sour cream to be classified under the order as a Class II product. The health regulations of the Great Basin market require the same Grade A health standards for sour cream as is required for fluid milk. It is appropriate, therefore, that all the products required to be made from Grade A milk be included in a single class so that all milk required to make such products may contribute uniformly to the cost of supplying the market needs for Grade A milk. The suggested change is therefore not adopted on the basis of this record.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs and proposed findings and conclusions were filed on behalf of certain interested parties. These briefs, proposed findings and conclusions and the evidence in the record were considered in making the findings and conclusions set forth above. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions filed by interested parties are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions set forth herein, the request to make such findings or reach such conclusions are denied for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

General findings. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Recommended marketing agreement and order amending the order. The following order amending the order regulating the handling of milk in the Great Basin marketing area is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be the same as those contained in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended:

1. Add the following as § 963.18 (to be effective 2–1–61):

§ 963.18 Base milk.

"Base milk" means the quantity of producer milk delivered by a producer each month which is not in excess of his daily base computed pursuant to § 963.65 multiplied by the number of days for which his milk production is delivered during the month.

2. Add the following as § 963.19 (to be effective 2–1–61):

§ 963.19 Excess milk.

"Excess milk" means producer milk delivered by a producer in excess of base milk.

§ 963.22 [Amendment]

3. In § 963.22(k)(3) (to be effective 2–1–61) delete the phrase "uniform price for producer milk" and substitute therefor the following "uniform prices for base milk and excess milk".

§ 963.30 [Amendment]

4. Delete § 963.30(a)(1)(i) (to be effective 2–1–61) and substitute therefor the following:

(i) Producer milk received at the plant or diverted therefrom by the handler and the aggregate quantities of base milk and excess milk, respectively;

§ 963.30 [Amendment]

5. Change the period at the end of § 963.30(b)(2) to a semicolon (;), insert "and" and add the following as § 963.30 (b)(3) (to be effective 2–1–61):

§ 963.42 [Amendment]

6. Delete § 963.42(c)(1) and substitute therefor the following:

§ 963.44 [Amendment]

7. Delete § 963.44(a)(4) and substitute therefor the following:

(4) Subtract the pounds of skim milk in fluid milk products received from plants regulated under another order issued pursuant to the Act, as specified:

(i) Subtract, if sour cream was not processed or packaged in the pool plant during the month, from the pounds of skim milk in Class I milk the pounds of skim milk in sour cream packaged in consumer or institutional size packages, classified and priced as Class II milk pursuant to Order No. 41 regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois, marketing area (Part 941 of this chapter), and disposed of in the same packages in which it is received;

(ii) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class II, the pounds of skim milk in fluid milk products received from plants regulated under another order(s) issued pursuant to the Act, and classified and priced as Class I milk pursuant to such other order(s).

8. Following § 963.63 add the following:

DETERMINATION OF BASE

§ 963.65 Computation of producer bases.

Subject to the rules set forth in § 963.66 the market administrator shall compute bases for producers as follows:

(a) (1) A daily base shall be computed for each producer delivering 90 days or more milk production during the months of August through December of each year by dividing the total producer milk delivered during this period by such producer by the number of days' production delivered, the number of days from the date of first delivery during the period through December 31, or 120, whichever is greatest. Such base shall be effective for the 12-month period beginning the following February 1.

(2) Any dairy farmer for whom information concerning deliveries during the base earning period is available to the market administrator and who becomes a producer as a result of (i) the plant to which his milk was delivered during the base earning period subsequently qualifying as a pool plant, or (ii) relinquishment of status as a producer-handler, shall have a daily base computed pursuant to this paragraph.

(b) Any producer for whom no base can be computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, or any producer who chooses to relinquish such base pursuant to § 963.66(b) shall have a monthly base computed by multiplying his deliveries to handlers during the month by the appropriate monthly percentage in the following table, except that no such monthly base shall be computed if such producer or a member of his immediate family has transferred a base pursuant to § 963.65(a) (1) or (2) within the preceding twelve months:

January	70	July	55
February	65	August	65
March	60	September	80
April	55	October	80
May	45	November	80
June	50	December	80

§ 963.66 Base rules.

The following rules shall be observed in determination of base:

(a) A base may be transferred upon written notice to the market administrator on or before the last day of the month of transfer but under the following circumstances only: If a producer who earned a base pursuant to § 963.65(a) sells, leases, or otherwise conveys his herd to another person who is or becomes a producer, the latter may receive the transferor's base, pursuant to the conveyance and utilize such base for the remainder of the period for which such base is effective pursuant to § 963.65(a), subject to the following conditions:

(1) Such base shall apply to deliveries of milk by the transferee-producer from the same farm only;

(2) If such conveyance takes place subsequent to August 1 of any year, all producer milk delivered to a handler(s) between August 1 and the last day of the period as specified in § 963.65(a), inclusive, from the same farm (whether by the transferor or transferee-producer) shall be utilized in computing the base of the transferee-producer pursuant to § 963.65(a).

(3) The burden shall be upon the transferee and transferor to establish to the satisfaction of the market administrator that the conveyance of the herd was bona fide and not for the purpose of evading any provision of this order; and

(4) Notwithstanding subparagraph (1) of this paragraph but in compliance with subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph;

(i) A base, whether earned pursuant to § 963.65(a) or received by transfer, may be transferred to a member of a baseholder's immediate family; and

(ii) In the case of a baseholder's death, a base earned pursuant to § 963.65 (a) by the baseholder or by a member of his immediate family may be further transferred to another person: Provided, That for purposes of this subparagraph a transfer to an estate shall not be considered as a transfer to another person.

(b) By notifying the market administrator in writing on or before the 15th day of any month, a producer holding a base established pursuant to § 963.65(a) may relinquish such base by cancellation. Such producer's base shall be computed in the manner provided by § 963.65(b) and shall be effective from the first day of the month in which notice is received by the market administrator until the close of the period, pursuant to § 963.65(a), for which such base was computed.

(c) As soon as bases computed by the market administrator are allotted notice of the amount of each producers' base shall be given by the market administrator to the handler receiving such producer's milk and the producer or the cooperative association of which the producer is a member.

(d) If a producer operates more than one farm he shall establish a separate base with respect to producer milk delivered from each such farm.

(e) Only producers as defined in § 963.7 may establish or earn a base pursuant to the provisions of § 963.65 and only one base shall be allotted with respect to milk produced by one or more persons where the land, buildings, and/or equipment used are jointly owned or operated.

9. Delete § 963.71 and substitute therefor the following (to be effective 2-1-61):

§ 963.71 Computation of uniform prices.

The market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight of base milk and of excess milk, each of 3.5 percent butterfat content, as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 963.70 for the producer milk of all handlers who submitted reports prescribed in § 963.30 and who are not in default of payments pursuant to § 963.82;

(b) Subtract, if the average butterfat content of the producer milk included under paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 3.5 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential pursuant to § 963.72 and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(c) Add an amount equal to the sum of the deduction to be made from producer payments for location differentials pursuant to § 963.73;

(d) Add an amount equal to one-half of the unobligated balance on hand in the producer-settlement fund from prior periods;

(e) Compute the total value of excess milk included in these computations by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk not in excess of the total quantity of Class II milk included in these computations by the price for Class II milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content, multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in excess of the total hundredweight of such Class II milk by the price for Class I milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content, and adding together the resulting amounts;

(f) Divide the total value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (e) of this section by the total hundredweight of such milk, and adjust to the nearest cent. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for excess milk received from producers;

(g) Subtract the value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (e) of this section from the aggregate value of milk obtained in paragraph (d) of this section and adjust by any amount involved in adjusting the uniform price of excess milk to the nearest cent;

(h) Divide the amount obtained in paragraph (g) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk included in these computations; and

(i) Subtract not less than 5 cents nor more than 6 cents from the rate pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for base milk.

§ 963.72 [Amendment]

10. In § 963.72 (to be effective 2-1-61) delete "price" and substitute therefor "prices".

§ 963.73 [Amendment]

11. In § 963.73 (to be effective 2-1-61) delete the term "prices to be paid for producer milk" and substitute therefor the term "prices to be paid for base milk".

§ 963.74(b) [Amendment]

12. In § 963.74(b) (to be effective 2-1-61) delete "price" and substitute therefor "prices".

§ 963.80(a)(1) [Amendment]

13. In § 963.80(a)(1) (to be effective 2-1-61) delete "price" and substitute therefor "prices".

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 19th day of July 1960.

MILK IN NORTHEASTERN OHIO MARKETING AREA

Notice of Proposed Termination of Certain Provisions of the Order

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the termination of certain provisions of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Northeastern Ohio marketing area is being considered.

The provisions proposed to be terminated are §§ 975.16, 975.17, 975.22(k), 975.60, 975.61, 975.72, 975.73; in §§ 975.22 (j)(2) the provision "and for April, May, and June the price for ineligible milk and the price for eligible milk, computed pursuant to §§ 975.72, and 975.73, respectively,", in 975.30(a)(1) the provision "and for the months specified in § 975.60 the aggregate quantities of eligible milk", in 975.32(a) the provisions "for the months of July through March," and "and for the months of April through June, the pounds of eligible milk, and the percentage of butterfat contained therein, received from each producer;", in 975.74(b) the provision "975.72, and 975.73", in 975.80(a) the provisions "(a)" and "or §§ 975.72 and 975.73" and in 975.81 the provision "with respect to eligible milk received from producers during the months specified in § 975.60 and" relating to establishment of producer quotas and payments to producers for eligible milk and ineligible milk in certain months.

The Milk Producers Federation of Cleveland, Wayne Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., Akron Milk Producers, Inc., Stark County Cooperative Sales Association, Northwestern Cooperative Sales Association, Constantine Cooperative Creamery Company, and Tri-County Producers Cooperative have requested that the eligible-ineligible plan of the order be terminated at the earliest possible date in order that producers may be aware that their milk deliveries during the months of October through December 1960 will not be used as a basis of computing payments during the months of April through June 1961. Termination of the plan will have no effect on costs of milk to handlers, but will affect distribution of returns among producers with different seasonal patterns of production. Timely action on the request can best be accomplished through termination of the provisions cited. Opportunity is hereby afforded all interested parties to submit written data, views and arguments with respect to the proposed termination.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with the proposed termination should file the same with the Hearing Clerk, Room 112, Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C., not later than 10 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. All documents filed should be in quadruplicate.

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 19th day of July 1960.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 701 (a), 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U.S.C. 371(a)) and under the authority delegated to him by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (22 F.R. 1045, 23 F.R. 9500, 25 F.R. 5611) proposes to amend the regulations for the enforcement of the drug and device sections and the new-drug section (21 CFR 1.106, 130.4, 130.5, 130.9, 130.13) as hereinafter set forth. The Commissioner hereby offers an opportunity to all interested persons to submit their views in writing with reference to this proposal to the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C., within 60 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Views and comments should be submitted in quintuplicate.

1. It is proposed to amend § 1.106 in the following respects:

a. By changing paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) to read as follows:

§ 1.106 Drugs and devices; directions for use.

* * * * *

(b) Exemption for prescription drugs. A drug subject to the requirements of section 503(b)(1) of the act shall be exempt from section 502(f)(1) if all the following conditions are met:

(1) The drug is:

(i)(a) In the possession of a person (or his agents or employees) regularly and lawfully engaged in the manufacture, transportation, storage, or wholesale distribution of prescription drugs; or

(b) In the possession of a retail, hospital, or clinic pharmacy, or a public health agency, regularly and lawfully engaged in dispensing prescription drugs; or

(c) In the possession of a practitioner licensed by law to administer or prescribe such drugs; and

(ii) It is to be dispensed in accordance with section 503(b).

(2) The label of the drug bears:

(i) The statement "Caution: Federal law prohibits dispensing without prescription"; and

(ii) The recommended or usual dosage; and

(iii) The route of administration, if it is not for oral use; and

(iv) If it is fabricated from two or more ingredients and is not designated solely by a name recognized in an official compendium, the quantity or proportion of each active ingredient, as well as the information required by section 502 (d) and (e); and

(v) If it is intended for ophthalmic use or for administration by parenteral injection, the quantity or proportion of all inactive ingredients; and

(vi) An identifying lot or control number from which it is possible to determine the complete manufacturing history of the package of the drug;

Provided, however, That in the case of containers too small or otherwise unable to accommodate a label with sufficient space to bear all such information, but which are packaged within an outer container from which they are removed for dispensing or use, the information required by subdivisions (ii), (iii) and (v) of this subparagraph may be contained in other labeling on or within the package from which it is to be dispensed, and the information referred to in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be placed on such outer container only.

(3) Labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed bears adequate information for its use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions under which practitioners licensed by law to administer the drug can use the drug safely and for the purposes for which it is intended, including all purposes for which it is advertised or represented; and, if the article is subject to section 505, 506, or 507 of the act, the labeling bearing such information is the labeling authorized by the effective new-drug application or required as a condition for the certification or the exemption from certification requirements applicable to preparations of insulin or antibiotic drugs: Provided, however, That in the case of drugs not subject to section 505, 506, or 507, such information may be omitted from the dispensing package if, but only if, the article is a drug for which directions, hazards, warnings, and use information are commonly known to the ordinary practitioner. Upon written request, stating reasonable grounds therefor, the Commissioner will offer an opinion on a proposal to omit such information from the dispensing package under this proviso.

(4) Any labeling, whether or not it is on or within a package from which the drug is to be dispensed, distributed by or on behalf of the manufacturer, packer, or distributor of the drug, that furnishes or purports to furnish information for use or which prescribes, recommends, or suggests a dosage for the use of the drug contains:

(i) Adequate information for its use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions, under which practitioners licensed by law to administer the drug can use the drug safely and for the purposes for which it is intended, including all conditions for which it is advertised or represented; and if the article is subject to section 505, 506, or 507 of the act, the labeling providing such information is the labeling authorized by the effective new-drug application or required as a condition for its certification or exemption from certification; and

(ii) The same information concerning the ingredients of the drug as appears on the label and labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed.

(5) All labeling bearing information for use of the drug also bears the date of the issuance of such labeling.

(c) Exemption for veterinary drugs. A drug intended solely for veterinary use which, because of toxicity or other potentiality for harmful effect, or the method of its use, is not safe for animal use except under the supervision of a licensed veterinarian, and hence for which "adequate directions for use" cannot be prepared, shall be exempt from section 502(f)(1) of the act if all the following conditions are met:

(1) The drug is:

(i) In the possession of a person (or his agents or employees) regularly and lawfully engaged in the manufacture, transportation, storage, or wholesale or retail distribution of veterinary drugs and is to be sold only to or on the prescription or other order of a licensed veterinarian for use in the course of his professional practice; or

(ii) In the possession of a licensed veterinarian for use in the course of his professional practice.

(2) The label of the drug bears:

(i) The statement "Caution: Federal law restricts this drug to sale by or on the order of a licensed veterinarian"; and

(ii) The recommended or usual dosage; and

(iii) The route of administration, if it is not for oral use; and

(iv) If it is fabricated from two or more ingredients and is not designated solely by a name recognized in an official compendium, the quantity or proportion of each active ingredient as well as the information required by section 502(e) of the act; and

(v) If it is intended for ophthalmic use or for administration by parenteral injection, the quantity or proportion of all inactive ingredients; and

(vi) An identifying lot or control number from which it is possible to determine the complete manufacturing history of the package of the drug:

Provided, however, That in the case of containers too small or otherwise unable to accommodate a label with sufficient space to bear all such information, but which are packaged within an outer container from which they are removed for dispensing or use, the information required by subdivisions (ii), (iii), and (v) of this subparagraph may be contained in other labeling on or within the package from which it is to be so dispensed, and the information referred to in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be placed on such outer container only.

(3) Labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed bears adequate information for its use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions under which veterinarians licensed by law to administer the drug can use the drug safely and for the purposes for which it is intended, including all purposes for which it is advertised or represented; and if the article is subject to section 505, or 507 of the act, the labeling bearing such information is the labeling authorized by the effective new-drug application, or required as a condition for the certification or the exemption from certification requirements applicable to preparations of antibiotic drugs: Provided, however, That in the case of drugs not subject to sections 505 or 507, such information may be omitted from the dispensing package if, but only if, the article is a drug for which directions, hazards, warnings, and other information are commonly known to the ordinary veterinarian. Upon written request, stating reasonable grounds therefor, the Commissioner will offer an opinion on a proposal to omit such information from the dispensing package under this proviso.

(4) Any labeling, whether or not it is on or within a package from which the drug is to be dispensed, distributed by or on behalf of the manufacturer, packer, or distributor of the drug, that furnishes or purports to furnish information for use or which prescribes, recommends, or suggests a dosage for the use of the drug contains:

(i) Adequate information for its use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions, under which veterinarians licensed by law to administer the drug can use the drug safely and for the purposes for which it is intended, including all conditions for which it is advertised or represented; and if the article is subject to section 505 or 507 of the act, the labeling providing such information is the labeling authorized by the effective new-drug application or required as a condition for its certification or exemption from certification; and

(ii) The same information concerning the ingredients of the drug as appears on the label and labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed.

(5) All labeling bearing information for use of the drug also bears the date of the issuance of such labeling.

(d) Exemption for prescription devices. A device, which, because of any potentiality for harmful effect, or the method of its uses, or the collateral measures necessary to its use, is not safe except under the supervision of a practitioner licensed by law to direct the use of such device, and hence for which "adequate directions for use" cannot be prepared, shall be exempt from section 502(f)(1) of the act if all the following conditions are met:

(1) The device is:

(i) (a) In the possession of a person (or his agents or employees) regularly and lawfully engaged in the manufacture, transportation, storage, or wholesale or retail distribution of such device; or

(b) In the possession of a practitioner, such as physicians, dentists, and veterinarians, licensed by law to use or order the use of such device; and

(ii) Is to be sold only to or on the prescription or other order of such practitioner for use in the course of his professional practice.

(2) The label of the device (other than surgical instruments) bears:

(i) The statement "Caution: Federal law restricts this device to sale by or on the order of a ----------," the blank to be filled with the word "physician," "dentist," "veterinarian," or with the descriptive designation of any other practitioner licensed by the laws of the State in which he practices, to use or order the use of the device; and

(ii) The method of its application or use.

(3) Labeling on or within the package from which the device is to be dispensed bears information for use, including indications, effects, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions under which practitioners licensed by law to administer the device can use the device safely and for the purpose for which it is intended, including all purposes for which it is advertised or represented: Provided, however, That such information may be omitted from the dispensing package if, but only if, the article is a device for which directions, hazards, warnings, and other information are commonly known to the ordinary practitioner. Upon written request, stating reasonable grounds therefor, the Commissioner will offer an opinion on a proposal to omit such information from the dispensing package under this proviso.

(4) Any labeling, whether or not it is on or within a package from which the device is to be dispensed, distributed by or on behalf of the manufacturer, packer, or distributor of the device, that furnishes or purports to furnish information for use of the device contains adequate information for its use, including indications, effects, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions, under which practitioners licensed by law to employ the device can use the device safely and for the purposes for which it is intended, including all purposes for which it is advertised or represented.

(5) All labeling bearing information for use of the device also bears the date of the issuance of such labeling.

b. By revoking § 1.106(e).

2. It is proposed to amend § 130.4 Applications by changing items (6) (c), (d), and (e) and (9) in the new-drug application form set out in paragraph (c) to read as set forth below and by adding to § 130.4 a new paragraph (e), reading as indicated:

§ 130.4 Applications.

* * * * * * *

(c) * * *

(6) * * *

(c) If the drug is limited in its labeling to use under the professional supervision of a practitioner licensed by law to administer it, labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed should bear information for use under which such practitioners can use the drug for the purposes for which it is intended, including all the purposes for which it is to be advertised or represented.

(d) Typewritten or other draft labeling copy may be accepted for conditional consideration of an application with the understanding that final printed labeling identical in content to the draft copy will be submitted as soon as available and prior to the marketing of the drug.

* * * * * * *

(9) It is agreed that the labeling and advertising for the drug will prescribe, recommend, or suggest its use only under the conditions stated in the labeling which is part of this application; and if the article is a prescription drug, it is agreed that any labeling which furnishes or purports to furnish information for use or which prescribes, recommends, or suggests a dosage for use of the drug will also contain adequate information for its use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions, which is contained in the labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed.

It is understood that all representations in this application regarding the components, composition, manufacturing methods, facilities, controls, and labeling apply to the drug produced until an effective supplement to the application provides for a change or the applicant is notified in writing by the Food and Drug Administration that a supplemental application is not required for the change, or the article is no longer a new drug. It is further understood that a new drug for which an application is conditionally effective may not be marketed until the stated conditions have been met, including when such is a condition, the submission of final printed labeling identical in content to the draft copy in the application, and including, when such is a condition, notification of the New Drug Branch when the first production batch of the drug will be prepared, so that an inspection may be conducted to verify the adequacy of the manufacturing methods, facilities, and controls.

(e) When in the judgment of the New Drug Branch, the description of the methods used in and the facilities and controls used for the manufacture, processing, and packaging of such drug appears adequate on its face, but it is not feasible to reach a conclusion as to the safety of the drug solely from consideration of this description, the New Drug Branch will notify the applicant that an inspection is required and the application will be made conditionally effective until such time that it is notified that the applicant is prepared to produce the first production batch, and the Administration is given an adequate opportunity to inspect the manufacturing methods, facilities, and controls to verify their adequacy. When an application is made conditionally effective under the conditions prescribed in this paragraph, the production and marketing of the drug without notification of the New Drug Branch or without offering an opportunity for an inspection to verify the adequacy of the manufacturing methods, facilities, and controls shall be regarded as the production and marketing of a drug for which no new-drug application is effective.

3. It is proposed to amend the first sentence of § 130.5(a)(3) to read as follows:

§ 130.5 Reasons for refusing to file applications.

(a) * * *

(3) The specimens of labeling proposed for use upon or within the retail package do not expressly prescribe, recommend, or suggest the use of such drug under such conditions. * * *

4. It is proposed to amend § 130.9 to read as follows:

§ 130.9 Supplemental applications.

(a) After an application is effective, a supplemental application may propose changes. The supplemental application may omit statements made in the effective application concerning which no change is proposed. A supplemental application should be submitted for any change beyond the variations provided for in the application, that may alter the conditions of use, the labeling, the safety, identity, strength, quality, or purity of the drug or the adequacy of manufacturing methods, facilities, or controls to preserve them. Labeling changes include deviations from the authorized brochure in any mailing or promotional piece used after the drug is placed on the market. When necessary for the safety of the drug, a supplemental application may be required to specify a period of time within which the proposed change will be made; and in such case the distribution of the drug after such time without such change constitutes distribution without an effective new-drug application. If a material change is made in labeling or advertising from the representations in an effective application for a new drug before a supplement is effective for such change, the application may be suspended under § 130.27, because the authorized labeling does not truly represent the intended uses of the drug.

(b) The submission of a supplemental new-drug application is not required for changes made in the new drug, or in its labeling, or in the manufacturing facilities or controls under which it is produced, that are not significant from the standpoint of the safety of the new drug as established by the original new-drug application. The holder of an effective new-drug application should submit to the New Drug Branch, in writing, full details of any proposed change or changes, and he will be notified in writing whether, in the Food and Drug Administration's opinion, the submission of a supplemental application is required for such change or changes. This includes all mailing and promotional pieces that are to be used after the new drug has been placed on the market.

(c) A supplemental application is not required when the article is no longer a new drug, under the labeling submitted in the new-drug application, unless the proposed change itself causes it to become a new drug.

5. It is proposed to amend § 130.13 to read as follows:

§ 130.13 Insufficient information in application.

The information contained in an application may be insufficient for the New Drug Branch to determine whether a drug is safe for use if it fails to include (among other things) a statement showing whether the drug is to be limited to prescription sale and exempt under section 502(f)(1) of the act, from the requirement that its labeling bear adequate directions for use. If the drug is to be exempt, the information may also be insufficient if:

(a) The specimen labeling proposed for use on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed fails to bear adequate information for use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions under which practitioners licensed by law to administer the drug can use the drug for the purposes for which it is intended, including all purposes for which it is to be advertised or represented.

(b) The application fails to show that the labeling and advertising of the drug will offer the drug for use only under those conditions for which it is offered in the labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed.

(c) The application fails to show that all labeling which furnishes or purports to furnish information for use of the drug will contain adequate information for use, including indications, effects, dosages, routes, methods, and frequency and duration of administration, and any relevant hazards, contraindications, side effects, and precautions which is contained in the labeling on or within the package from which the drug is to be dispensed.

Dated: July 18, 1960.

SULFUR DIOXIDE AND SODIUM METABISULFITE USED IN FUMIGATION OF STORED GRAINS

Notice of Proposal To Exempt From Requirement of Tolerances

Data in possession of the Food and Drug Administration indicate that the pesticide chemical sulfur dioxide has been used in the fumigation of stored grains to combat insect infestation, to combat deterioration caused by fungi, and to serve as a warning indicator of less odoriferous fumigants used with it. The sulfur dioxide may be used directly as a gas in combination with other fumigants or it may be released from sodium metabisulfite. When sulfur dioxide is used in the fumigation of grains, it has no adverse affect on thiamine of cereal grains and it does not constitute a hazard to the public health.

Accordingly, the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, on his own initiative and under the authority of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (e), 68 Stat. 514; 21 U.S.C. 346a(e)), vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare and delegated to the Commissioner (25 F.R. 5611), proposes that the regulations for tolerances for pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities (21 CFR Part 120) be amended by adding the following new section:

§ 120.180 Exemption from the requirement of a tolerance for residues of sulfur dioxide from direct application or from sodium metabisulfite.

Sulfur dioxide from direct application or from sodium metabisulfite is exempted from the requirement of a tolerance for residues, when used in the fumigation of barley, buckwheat, corn, oats, popcorn, rice, rye, sorghum (milo), wheat.

A person who has registered or who has submitted an application for the registration of an economic poison under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act containing sulfur dioxide or sodium metabisulfite may request, within 30 days from the date of publication of this proposal in the FEDERAL REGISTER, that the proposal be referred to an advisory committee in accordance with section 902(e) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

Any interested person is invited at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER to file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C., written comments on the proposal. Comments may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Dated: July 18, 1960.

Commissioner of Food and Drugs.

FEDERAL AVIATION AGENCY

[14 CFR Part 507]

[Reg. Docket No. 450]

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Boeing 707–100 Series Aircraft

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, (§ 405.27, 24 F.R. 2196), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration to a proposal to amend Part 507 of the regulations of the Administrator to include an airworthiness directive requiring modifications to Boeing 707–100 Series aircraft engine start levers. This proposal requires an additional start lever detent modification to prevent the lever slipping to the "off" position thereby cutting off the fuel supply, and provides a more adequate engine ignition circuitry modification.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Docket Section of the Federal Aviation Agency, Room B–316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. All communications received on or before August 23, 1960, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action on the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in light of comments received. All comments submitted will be available, in the Docket Section, for examination by interested persons when the prescribed date for return of comments has expired. This proposal will not be given further distribution as a draft release.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601 and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 752, 775, 776; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 507.10(a), (14 CFR Part 507), by adding the following airworthiness directive:

BOEING. Applies to the following 707–100 Series aircraft:

Serial Numbers 17586 through 17591, 17628 through 17651, 17655 through 17672, 17696 through 17702, and 17925 through 17927.

Compliance required by 90 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER as an adopted rule.

Incidents have occurred of the engine start lever slipping to the "OFF" position causing engine flame-out. One such incident occurred during take-off. These incidents were caused by insecure placement of the start lever in the "idle" position. In addition, inspections have disclosed the presence of incorrect parts and improper installations on some airplanes.

Also, in the present starting ignition system, on some airplanes, the igniter plug fires during initial engine rotation. This has caused combustion chamber explosions when fuel vapors were present.

To correct the above unsatisfactory conditions, the following modifications and inspections are required:

I. Modify and inspect the start lever system as follows:

a. Machine an additional slot at the start position of the start lever latch in each of the start lever guides as shown in Fig. 1 of Boeing Service Bulletin 369 dated April 15, 1959.

b. Ascertain that the control stand start lever spacers, P/N 66–19067–1 and –2, and lever guide fillers P/N 66–9256–3, are correctly installed as follows:

(1) The two outboard spacers must be P/N 66–19067–1 and –2 and installed in accordance with Boeing Drawing 65–1795. (Boeing 707 Parts Catalog Fig. 25–2–11 is in error in calling for P/N 66–9256–1 and –2 for Items 28 and 33. Correct P/N's are 19067–1 and –2 as indicated above.)

c. Ascertain that the start lever detents have a minimum distance of .53 inches between the stop strap and the idle detents in accordance with Bulletin 369.

d. After reinstallation of the start levers, ascertain that the start lever system is properly rigged as covered in Chapter 76 of Boeing 707–100 Series Maintenance Manual. This applies only to airplanes which require removal of the start lever detents for machining the slot.

II. Modify the starting ignition system as follows:

a. Remove the jumper wire between the "COMMON" terminal and "NO" terminal of each engine start lever switch (S192, S193, S194, S195).

b. Install a wire from the "ON" contact flight start and control switches (S188, S189, S190 and S191) on the pilot's overhead panel to the corresponding engine ignition circuit breaker bus on the P6 circuit breaker panel. Remove the No. 18 jumper wire between the flight start and ground start terminals of the engine start and control switch. Boeing Service Bulletin No. 195 (R–1) dated July 8, 1959, and Supplement No. 195 (R–1) A dated August 4, 1959, covers these changes.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 15, 1960.

B. PUTNAM,
Acting Director, Bureau of Flight Standards.

RESTRICTED AREAS

Modification of Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 400.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 608.40 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration a proposal by the Department of the Air Force for modification of the Rome, N.Y., Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor (R–544). The present climb corridor extends from a point 5 statute miles from the airbase on the 138° and 318° True radials of the Griffiss TVOR, to a point 32 statute miles northwest. The lower altitude limits extend in graduated steps from 2,500 feet MSL to 19,500 feet MSL. It is proposed to modify the lateral dimensions of the climb corridor by designating it on the 138° and 318° True radials of the Griffiss TVOR and the 318° True radial of the Griffiss TACAN, extending from 5 statute miles northwest of the airbase to 32 statute miles northwest of the airbase, having a width at the beginning extending from 1 statute mile southwest of the TVOR 138° True radial to 1 statute mile northeast of the TACAN 318° True radial, expanding uniformly to a width extending from 2.3 statute miles southwest of the TVOR 318° True radial to 2.3 statute miles northeast of the TACAN 318° True radial at the outer extremity. This modification would provide protection for TACAN or VOR equipped air defense aircraft while operating within the Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor.

If this action is taken, the Rome, N.Y., (Griffiss AFB), Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor (R–544) (Albany Chart) would be designated as follows:

Description. That area based on the 138° and the 318° True radials of the Griffiss TVOR and the 318° True radial of the Griffiss TACAN, extending from 5 statute miles northwest of the airbase to 32 statute miles northwest of the airbase, having a width from 1 statute mile southwest of the 138° True radial of the TVOR to 1 statute mile northeast of the 318° True radial of the TACAN at the point of beginning, expanding uniformly to a width of 2.3 statute miles southwest of the 318° True radial of the TVOR to 2.3 statute miles northeast of the 318° True radial of the TACAN at the outer extremity.

Designated altitudes.

2,500' MSL to 15,500' MSL from 5 statute miles northwest of the airbase to 6 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

2,500' MSL to 24,500' MSL from 6 to 7 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

2,500' MSL to 27,000' MSL from 7 to 10 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

6,500' MSL to 27,000' MSL from 10 to 15 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

10,500' MSL to 27,000' MSL from 15 to 20 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

15,500' MSL to 27,000' MSL from 20 to 25 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

19,500' MSL to 27,000' MSL from 25 to 32 statute miles northwest of the airbase.

Time of designation. Continuous.

Controlling agency. Griffiss Approach Control.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B–316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 18, 1960.

FM BROADCAST STATIONS; PERMISSION TO TRANSMIT STEREOPHONIC PROGRAMS ON A MULTIPLEX BASIS

Order Extending Time for Filing Comments

On May 9, 1960, the Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rule Making in the above-entitled matter (FCC 60–498) inviting comments and technical data on several systems of stereophonic program transmissions by FM broadcast stations. The time for filing comments was specified as July 29, 1960, and the time for filing replies was specified as August 8, 1960. On July 12, 1960, the Electronics Industries Association, in behalf of the National Stereophonic Radio Committee (NSRC) filed a Request for Extension of Time in this proceeding from July 29, 1960, until October 29, 1960.

NSRC states that it has undertaken to test the FM stereophonic radio systems and that the actual testing is scheduled to commence July 11, 1960, and will require several weeks to complete. These tests will deal with transmitter requirements, selection of receiving sites, measurements to be made, and standards for receiving equipment. It urges that it is not possible to complete the tests, the necessary analysis of the data and report to the Commission by the present deadline and that a 90-day extension is needed to do so.

We are of the view that the petitioner has made an adequate showing of need for the extension and that it would serve the public interest.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That the above request made by the Electronics Industries Association is granted, and the last dates for filing comments and reply comments in this proceeding are extended to October 28, 1960, and November 8, 1960, respectively.

Released: July 18, 1960.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 13th day of July 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each of the instant applicants is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing that pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated April 6, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that the aforementioned letter advised The Altus Broadcasting Company that, in the event of a grant of its application, permittee shall submit sufficient field intensity measurements to establish that the proposed non-directional radiation pattern has not been seriously distorted due to the proximity of a steel water tower; that, in response to the Commission's letter, the applicant stated that the tower has not been in use for three years, that the city council has passed an ordinance to demolish it, and that the tower will be done away with before the present KWHW proposal could be put in operation; but that an appropriate condition will be included to require proof of the demolition of the tower or, in lieu thereof, the necessary field intensity measurements; and

It further apearing that by letter dated May 27, 1960, Aubrey D. Conrow, licensee of Station KALV, Alva, Oklahoma, states that he will not interpose an objection to the interference which may be caused by the proposal of Station KSIM (BP-12330) to Station KALV's existing operation; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing, and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from the operation proposed by Charles L. Cain (BP-12546) and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operations of Stations KWHW, KGFF, KENM, KSIW, and KSNY and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

4. To determine whether the proposals would involve objectionable interference with the existing stations indicated below, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations:

	KLLL, Lubbock, Tex.
	KCMR, McCarney, Tex.

5. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

6. To determine whether the transmitter site proposed by Station KGFF (BP-12588) is satisfactory with particular regard to any conditions that may exist in the vicinity of the antenna system which would distort the proposed antenna radiation pattern.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, each of the instant applicants and parties respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this Order.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-9325 etc.]

AMERADA PETROLEUM CORP. ET AL.

Order Providing for Hearing on and Suspension of Proposed Change in Rates and Rejecting Settlement Offer and Denying Request To Terminate Proceedings

JULY 15, 1960.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation, et al., Docket No. G-9325, etc.; Amerada Petroleum Corporation, G-13401; G-13683, G-19606, and RI 61-1.

On June 20, 1960, Amerada Petroleum Corporation (Amerada) tendered for filing a proposed change in its presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change is designated as follows:

Description: Notice of change, undated.
Purchaser: Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation (Texas Eastern).
Producing area: Melrose Field, Goliad County, Texas (R.R. Dist. No. 2).

Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 9 to Amerada's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 44.

Effective rate: 11.5276$ cents per Mcf at 14.65 psia.

Proposed rate: 13.8733 cents per Mcf at 14.65 psia.

Effective date: July 21, 1960 (stated effective date is the first day after the required thirty days' notice).

Concurrently with its aforementioned filing, Amerada submitted an Offer of Settlement. In its Offer of Settlement, Amerada states that, in consideration of the Commission's acceptance of its proposed rate of 13.8733 cents per Mcf under its FPC Rate Schedule No. 44 and termination of the suspension proceedings in Docket Nos. G–13401, G–16662, and G–19606, it will eliminate the flexible price provisions from the contracts involved (i.e., Rate Schedule Nos. 44 and 53) and will substitute revised schedules of periodic increases at five-year intervals beginning in 1963 in place of the present schedules of annual increases. Amerada further states that, upon the acceptance of its offer, it will also agree to withdraw the 0.2 cent per Mcf increase to 14.8 cents per Mcf suspended in Docket No. G–19606.

The suspension proceedings in Docket Nos. G–13401, G–16662, and G–19606 involve increased rates of 14.4 cents, 14.6 cents, and 14.8 cents per Mcf, respectively, under Amerada's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 53, which covers the sale of natural gas to Texas Eastern from the Cherokee Lake Area, Rusk and Gregg Counties, Texas (R.R. Dist. No. 6). The increased rates were made effective subject to refund in Docket No. G–13401 on April 3, 1958, in Docket No. G–16662 on April 1, 1959, and in Docket No. G–19606 on April 1, 1960. The proceedings in Docket Nos. G–12401 and G–16662 have been consolidated in the proceedings involved in Docket Nos. G–9385, et al. which also includes a section 5(a) investigation into all of Amerada's rates. The proceeding in Docket No. G–19606 has not been consolidated with the aforesaid consolidated proceedings. The aforesaid consolidated proceedings are near completion. The direct cases of Amerada and the staff have been presented; Amerada's direct case has been cross-examined; and intervenors' direct case is scheduled to be presented on July 26, 1960.

In support of its Offer of Settlement, Amerada submits the usual statements indicating the value, to the producer, of the flexible price provisions of the contracts and further states that the proposed rates of 13.8733 cents and 14.6 cents per Mcf are not unreasonably high and are below recently negotiated contract prices for gas produced in the same areas. In addition to its aforesaid filing, Amerada also filed a letter agreement executed by Amerada and Texas Eastern. This letter agreement deletes the favored-nation clause and a related provision from the contract comprising the subject Rate Schedule No. 44 and provides for three 0.5 cent per Mcf escalations at five-year intervals beginning in February 1963 in lieu of the present schedule of annual increases. No provision for price redetermination is contained in this letter agreement.

Further, if the offer is accepted, Amerada will execute and file an amendment (submitted as an exhibit to the offer) deleting the favored-nation clause and a related provision from its subject Rate Schedule No. 53 and substituting a revised schedule of three 1.0 cent per Mcf escalations at five-year intervals beginning in November 1963 for the present schedule of annual escalations under this contract. This contract does not provide for price redetermination.

Texas Eastern has executed the aforementioned letter agreement and has agreed to make the contract changes or amendments provided for in the offer with respect to Rate Schedule No. 53. Amerada states that, if the offer is not accepted by the Commission before July 18, 1960, it is to be considered withdrawn.

Amerada has made no attempt to provide a basis for determining whether or not its proposed rates are just and reasonable, since its offer of settlement was not accompanied by any cost data, nor was any substantive data submitted to show that cost determination was not feasible in this situation. Furthermore, in view of the present status of the consolidated proceedings in Docket Nos. G–9385, et al., which includes therein a rate investigation into all of Amerada's rates, it is deemed necessary and in the public interest to reject Amerada's Offer of Settlement inasmuch as it would prejudice the Commission staff's presentation in the section 5(a) case and may possibly lead to protests from the intervenors therein.

The increased rates and charges so proposed may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds:

(1) It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the proposed change contained in Supplement No. 9 to Amerada's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 44 and that the aforesaid supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

(2) Good cause exists for rejecting Amerada's Offer of Settlement submitted on June 20, 1960, and denying Amerada's request to terminate the proceedings in Docket Nos. G–13401, G–16662, and G–19606.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing shall be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 9 to Amerada's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 44.

(B) Pending hearing and decision thereon, the afore-mentioned supplement is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 21, 1960, and thereafter until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplement hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until the proceeding in Docket No. RI61–1 has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)) on or before August 29, 1960.

(E) The Offer of Settlement filed with the Commission by Amerada on June 20, 1960, in Docket Nos. G–13401, G–16662, and G–19606, is hereby rejected, and Amerada's request to terminate the proceedings in the afore-mentioned Docket Nos. G–13401, G–16662, and G–19606 is hereby denied.

By the Commission.

Acting Secretary.

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO.

Notice of Application and Date of Hearing

JULY 18, 1960.

Take notice that on March 3, 1960, as supplemented on April 18 and May 18, 1960, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Applicant) filed in Docket No. CP60–46 an application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of a new tap and regulating and measuring facilities on Applicant's existing transmission system near Lulu in Monroe County, Michigan, all as more fully set forth in the application, as supplemented, which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

The purpose of the facilities for which authorization is sought is to provide an additional delivery point to Applicant's existing customer, Michigan Gas Utilities Company (Michigan Gas), to enable Michigan Gas to render new retail natural gas service in the Village of Petersburg and in Bedford Township, Monroe County, Michigan, in addition to the service presently being rendered in Michigan Gas, Southern Division.

The estimated cost of Applicant's facilities proposed hereunder is $40,200.

Michigan Gas proposes to build pipeline facilities at a total estimated cost of $3,226,600 which will provide service not only to the two new towns but also will provide additional capacity for service to Michigan Gas, existing markets in its Southern Division. Michigan Gas has allocated $3,083,925 of the total cost of the facilities which it will build, to the facilities necessary to render service to the aforesaid two new towns.

The estimated peak day and annual requirements of Petersburg and Bedford at 14.73 psia are:

	1st year	2d year	3d year
Peak day (Mcf)	1,825	3,004	5,338
Annual	312,800	494,300	738,000

Applicant states that there will be no increase in contract demand to the distributor for this service.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by section 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 16, 1960, at 9:30 a.m., e.d.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street, NW., Washington, D.C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30(c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before August 5, 1960. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

[Docket No. CP60–38]

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO.

Notice of Application and Date of Hearing

JULY 18, 1960.

Take notice that on February 17, 1960, as supplemented on May 4, 1960, United Gas Pipe Line Company (Applicant), filed in Docket No. CP60–38, an application, pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of approximately .03 of a mile of 6-inch pipeline, a sales meter station and appurtenant facilities on Applicant's existing lateral line to Courtaulds, Inc., in Mobile County, Alabama.

The purpose of the proposed construction is to enable Applicant to sell and deliver natural gas to Clarke-Mobile Counties Gas District (District), for resale and distribution in the communities of Jackson, Grove Hill, Thomasville and environs in Alabama. The District is comprised of the municipalities of Jackson, Thomasville, Grove Hill, Fulton and Mount Vernon, and the area along the route of the District's proposed transmission line all in Mobile, Washington and Clark Counties, Alabama.

It appears that the District was incorporated pursuant to the laws of the State of Alabama and requires no franchise to render the service it proposes, according to the application.

The total cost of Applicant's proposed facilities is $22,024 which will be paid out of current working funds.

This service to the District would be made under Applicant's presently effective rates on file with the Commission, subject to refund.

The application reveals that in order to receive, transport and resell the gas, the District must construct about 79 miles of transmission line and the necessary distribution systems. The District has a construction contract with Hyde Construction Company under which these facilities will be built for a direct cost of approximately $2,664,100. To pay for these facilities and the associated overheads including a 10 percent bond discount, the District proposes to issue $3,800,000 in forty-year gas revenue bonds. The bonds have been sold to the Southern Bond Company.

Applicant estimates the District's gas requirements as follows:

	Mcf at 14.73 psia
	1st year	2d year	3d year
Annual requirements	808,052	1,032,984	1,081,578
Peak day requirements	4,299	5,078	5,569

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on September 8, 1960 at 10:00 a.m., e.d.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by the application as supplemented.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before August 9, 1960.

MICHAEL J. FARRELL,
Acting Secretary.

[Docket No. G–14013]

WESTERN NATURAL GAS CO.

Order Terminating Proceedings

JULY 19, 1960.

On March 8, 1960, Western Natural Gas Company (Western) filed a motion to terminate the above-entitled proceeding, which arose as the result of a proposed change in rate embodied in Supplement No. 2 to Western's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 3, filed November 29, 1957. The sale involved is made to El Paso Natural Gas Company from production in the Jalmat Field Area of Lea County, New Mexico. The proposed increase in rate is from 9.5 to 10.5 cents per Mcf. By order issued December 25, 1957, the proposed increased rate was suspended until June 1, 1958, and until such further time as it was made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act. The proposed increased rate was made effective as of June 1, 1958, under undertaking to assure refund of excess charges, by order issued July 1, 1958.

Western contends that other producers making sales in the same producing area as the Western sale here involved have been allowed to collect increased rates equal to or greater than 10.5 cents per Mcf, either after termination of suspension proceedings or in instances where such rates have not been suspended by the Commission. Thus, Western concludes, its motion should be granted as consistent with the policy enunciated in Reef Fields Gasoline Corporation, et al., Docket No. G–14030, order issued March 18, 1958 (19 FPC 351).

El Paso Natural Gas Company was granted intervention in this proceeding by order issued March 31, 1959, based upon a petition filed January 26, 1959. However, neither in the petition to intervene nor subsequent to the motion to terminate has El Paso specifically objected to the motion to terminate this proposed change in rate.

The Commission finds: Good cause exists for terminating the proceeding in Docket No. G–14013, for permitting the rate proposed in Supplement No. 2 to Western's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 3 to continue in effect without obligation to refund, and for discharging Western from obligation to refund excess charges.

The Commission orders:

(A) The rates and charges set forth in Supplement No. 2 to Western's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 3 are hereby permitted to continue in effect without refund obligation.

(B) Western is hereby discharged from refund obligation under its agreement and undertaking filed pursuant to the requirements of the order issued herein July 1, 1958.

(C) The proceeding in Docket No. G–14013 is hereby terminated.

(D) This order shall not be construed as constituting approval of any rate, charge, classification or any rule, regulation or practice affecting such rate or service contained in the rate filing made by Western in the terminated proceeding and shall be without prejudice to any findings or orders which have been or may be made by the Commission in any proceeding or proceedings now pending or hereafter instituted by or against Western Natural Gas Company.

By the Commission.

MICHAEL J. FARRELL,
Acting Secretary.

[Docket No. CP60-62]

ARKANSAS LOUISIANA GAS CO.

Notice of Application and Date of Hearing

JULY 18, 1960.

Take notice that on March 17, 1960, Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company (Applicant), filed an application in Docket No. CP60-62, as supplemented on April 6, 1960, and April 19, 1960, seeking authorization to abandon interstate operation of Line LM-2, which consists of 9 miles of 12¾-inch lateral pipeline located west of Little Rock, Arkansas, all as more fully set forth in the application as supplemented on file with the Commission and open for public inspection. Line LM-2 was built in 1942.

Applicant states that initially Line LM-2, attached to Applicant's main line "L-System" extending northward from fields in southern Arkansas, carried intrastate gas only, primarily to serve a defense plant at Jones Mills, Arkansas.[1] Subsequently, interstate gas was tied into the L-System, including Line LM-2, as authorized by the Commission on June 21, 1946, in Docket No. G-697.

The application shows that the Jones Mills-Hot Springs area is now served by three lines. Two of these lines, LM-2 and AM-22, carry interstate gas westward from the L-System out of Perla Compressor Station, which is near Little Rock, Arkansas. The third line, BT-1, carries local high pressure intrastate gas from northwest Arkansas to the Jones Mills area. The Applicant now proposes to abandon the use of line LM-2 for carrying interstate gas and use the line instead for carrying a portion of the intrastate gas eastward to the main line at Perla Station.

Line BT-1 consists of 95 miles of 16-inch transmission line authorized by the Arkansas Public Service Commission in 1958. It carries high pressure gas from producing areas in northwest Arkansas to the Hot Springs and Jones Mills area, thus, partially replacing the original function of Line LM-2 which was to serve the defense plant at Jones Mills. The eastern terminus of Line BT-1 and the western terminus of Line LM-2 are at Jones Mills. Applicant proposes herein to connect the two lines at these termini and reverse the flow of gas in Line LM-2.

Line AM-22, which consists of about 10 miles of 12¾ and 10¾-inch transmission line, like Line LM-2, has its eastern terminus at Perla Compressor Station. From there it parallels Line LM-2 in its westerly extension to Jones Mills and continues on to Hot Springs. At present, Line AM-22 and Line LM-2 both carry gas westward from Perla Station to Jones Mills and Hot Springs.

Applicant states that because of the recent acquisition of the northwest Arkansas natural gas made available to the Jones Mills area through Line BT-1, both Lines LM-2 and AM-22 are no longer required for interstate transmission to that area. Accordingly, the Applicant proposes to connect Line BT-1 to Line LM-2 at Jones Mills and use LM-2 to transport a part of the intrastate high pressure gas eastward for use in the Little Rock area. Line AM-22 would then carry a large part of the load from the interstate system to the Jones Mills-Hot Springs area.

Applicant states that its industrial consumers usually require their gas at from 25 to 80 pounds pressure. The supply to such consumers in the Jones Mills-Hot Springs area has been satisfactorily handled by the low pressure gas (200 pounds) from Line AM-22. The use of all the northwest Arkansas high pressure gas (600 pounds) for such industrial consumers would require drastic multi-stage regulation to reduce the pressure. Applicant feels the most economical procedure is to make use of Line LM-2 to carry the largest part of the high pressure gas on to the main line at Perla Station and keep the low pressure AM-22 line fully loaded to meet its needs in Jones Mills and Hot Springs.

Applicant indicates that its entire system gas supply is dedicated to all its market areas, including the Jones Mills-Hot Springs area, and, consequently, no change in its reserve life index would result from the proposed rearrangement of service.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 18, 1960, at 9:30 a.m., e.d.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (c) (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before August 8, 1960. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

Acting Secretary.

NATURAL GAS PIPELINE COMPANY OF AMERICA

Notice of Application and Date of Hearing

JULY 15, 1960.

Take notice that on May 9, 1960, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America (Natural) filed in Docket No. CP60-97 an application, as supplemented on June 10, 1960, June 20, 1960, and July 7, 1960, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing Natural to acquire and operate all of the facilities owned by Peoples Gulf Coast Natural Gas Pipeline Company (Gulf Coast), all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Gulf Coast owns and operates a natural gas pipeline transmission system extending from Texas, in which State it purchases natural gas, through the States of Arkansas and Missouri to termini in Illinois. Its facilities consist of approximately 1225 miles of main transmission pipeline, 366 miles of lateral lines, 11 compressor stations with 146,000 total installed horsepower and other appurtenant facilities. It sells gas to Natural for resale to its utility customers and makes sales for resale to municipalities and utility companies for local distribution in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. It also sells gas to Natural Gas Storage Company of Illinois, which company is controlled by Natural and Gulf Coast, each of which owns 50 percent of the outstanding common stock.

Natural owns and operates a natural gas pipeline system extending from the West Panhandle Field in Texas through the States of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa to a point near Joliet, Illinois, with a lateral extending to the Illinois-Wisconsin state line. Natural makes sales of gas for resale to municipalities and utility companies for local distribution in the States of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. It also makes some mainline industrial sales.

Natural and Gulf Coast are both controlled by The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company (PGL) which owns all of the outstanding common stock of Natural and all of the outstanding capital stock of Gulf Coast. Upon consummation of the merger, which it is proposed will follow upon the granting of the requested certificate, PGL would own all of the outstanding common stock of Natural as the surviving company.

Concurrently with the filing of its application, Natural filed with the Commission a certificate of adoption of the tariff and contracts of Gulf Coast.

Under the plan of reorganization which is proposed PGL would transfer to Natural as a contribution to capital, all or part of the capital stock of Gulf Coast, and will surrender to Gulf Coast for cancellation or extinguishment all of the shares of that company owned by PGL which are not transferred to Natural. Gulf Coast would then be dissolved and liquidated pursuant to the applicable laws of the State of Delaware. Gulf Coast would then distribute and transfer to Natural in complete liquidation of Gulf Coast all of its property and assets subject to all of its debts and liabilities existing at the time of transfer. Natural would assume all such debts and liabilities and would surrender to Gulf Coast for cancellation all of the capital stock of Gulf Coast then owned by Natural. The holders of Gulf Coast's outstanding bonds would surrender them for cancellation, receiving in their place substantially identical bonds of Natural.

Natural would initially render all of the services now rendered by Gulf Coast at the same rates of Gulf Coast now on file with the Commission. At a later date Natural would file a single tariff applicable to all sales now made by Natural and Gulf Coast.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on September 26, 1960, at 10:00 a.m., e.d.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before August 12, 1960.

Acting Secretary.

[Docket No. RP61-2]

NEVADA NATURAL GAS PIPE LINE CO.

Order for Hearing and Suspending Proposed Tariff Sheet

JULY 15, 1960.

Nevada Natural Gas Pipe Line Company (Nevada Natural) on June 16, 1960, tendered for filing Fourth Revised Sheet No. 4 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1 wherein it proposed to increase its straight general service rate from 50.50 cents to 53.05 cents per Mcf, which would result in an annual increase of approximately $60,441 or 5.0 percent based on its jurisdictional sales during the test year ended December 31, 1959, as adjusted. Nevada Natural requested that its filing become effective as of July 26, 1960, and that, if the filing be suspended, the suspension period end on August 24, 1960.

In support of the increased rate proposal, Nevada Natural submitted a cost of service study for the calendar year 1959, as adjusted for changes through August 31, 1960; and stated (1) that on May 4, 1960, in Docket No. G-13259, the Commission found Nevada Natural's present effective rate of 50.50 cents per Mcf just and reasonable when it approved a settlement involved therein; (2) that its proposed increase in rate will result from the passing on of a similar increase, which was requested by its sole supplier, El Paso Natural Gas Company (El Paso) and suspended until August 24, 1960, in Docket No. RP60-3; (3) that its proposed increase rate is sufficient only to recoup the 2.55 cents per Mcf which was suspended and will be passed on to it by El Paso; and (4) that, even though its proposed increase was allowed, it would still have a deficiency in its jurisdictional revenues.

It should be noted that in paragraph (I) of our aforementioned order issued May 4, 1960, in Docket No. G-13259, we stated:

> In issuing this order, the Commission's action is not to be construed as a concurrence with the cost of service determinations, allocation methods and rate design principles used in arriving at rates and charges for future sales, or in computing the amount of refunds agreed upon in the settlement agreement, and neither the Commission, its staff, or other parties to the proceedings are to be prejudiced or bound thereby in future proceedings.

The proposed increased rate and charge contained in the aforementioned revised tariff sheet tendered by Nevada Natural on June 16, 1960, may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, that the Commission enter upon a public hearing concerning the lawfulness of the rate, charge, classification, and service contained in Nevada Natural's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as proposed to be amended by the tariff sheet tendered on June 16, 1960, and that proposed Fourth Revised Sheet No. 4 thereof and the rate contained therein be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter provided.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held on a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the rate, charge, classification, and service contained in Nevada Natural's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as proposed to be amended by the aforementioned tariff sheet tendered on June 16, 1960.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon the aforementioned Fourth Revised Sheet No. 4 to Nevada Natural's FPC Gas Tariff Original Volume No. 1 is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until August 24, 1960, and until such further time as the aforementioned increased rate and charge proposed by El Paso may become effective subject to refund in Docket No. RP60-3, and until such further time as said revised tariff sheet may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)), by filing petitions for leave to intervene on or before August 29, 1960.

By the Commission.

Acting Secretary.

[Docket No. CP60-85]

TRANSCONTINENTAL GAS PIPE LINE CORP.

Notice of Application and Date of Hearing

JULY 15, 1960.

Take notice that on April 22, 1960, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation (Transco), a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in Houston, Texas, filed an application as supplemented on May 12, 1960, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for authorization to sell and deliver to Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc. (Consolidated Edison) 4,750 Mcf of natural gas per day under Transco's presently effective LTF-3 Rate Schedule, all as more fully set forth in the application as supplemented on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

By order of the Commission issued March 1, 1957, in Docket Nos. G-10000, et al., Transco was authorized to sell and deliver to North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation (North Carolina Natural) 39,780 Mcf of gas per day under Transco's Rate Schedule CD-2. Of this volume, North Carolina Natural is presently purchasing 24,750 Mcf under a service agreement providing for fixed step-ups of contract demand volumes until the full allocation of 39,780 Mcf is reached commencing on November 1, 1961. The application of Transco states that North Carolina Natural's market has developed more slowly than that customer had anticipated, and that, as a result, North Carolina Natural is now obliged to pay for 4,750 Mcf per day of its contract volume which it cannot receive and resell. North Carolina Natural has asked Transco to relieve it temporarily from this contractural obligation.

At Transco's request and in order to relieve North Carolina Natural from this financial loss, Consolidated Edison has agreed to purchase this volume of 4,750 Mcf per day for the period terminating on October 31, 1961 under Transco's Rate Schedule LTF-3. Transco's application indicated that Consolidated Edison can use such firm service for this limited time without disrupting its market and that Transco will be able to resume enlarged deliveries to North Carolina Natural when the service proposed herein terminates.

North Carolina Natural has not requested, nor is Transco seeking a reduction in the allocation of natural gas for North Carolina Natural heretofore ordered by the Commission in Docket No. G-18000, et al.

The application recites that proposed service can be rendered through the facilities of Transco heretofore authorized by the Commission.

On May 20, 1960, temporary authorization was granted to Transco to render the proposed service to Consolidated Edison.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commision by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 18, 1960 at 9:30 a.m., e.d.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 130(c) (1) and (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Transco to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C. in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before August 8, 1960. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

Secretary.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The committee held an open meeting during the current week, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for Valencia oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such Valencia oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject hereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof. Such committee meeting was held on July 21, 1960.

(b) Order. (1) The respective quantities of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., July 24, 1960, and ending at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., July 31, 1960, are hereby fixed as follows:

PART 1017—ONIONS GROWN IN CERTAIN DESIGNATED COUNTIES IN IDAHO AND MALHEUR COUNTY, OREGON

Limitation of Shipments

Findings. (a) Marketing Agreement No. 130 and Order No. 217 (7 CFR Part 1017), effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), provide methods for limiting the handling of onions grown in the production area defined therein through the issuance of regulations authorized in §§ 1017.1 through 1017.36, inclusive, of the order. The Idaho-Eastern Oregon Onion Committee, pursuant to § 1017.51, of the order, has recommended that regulations limiting the handling of 1960 crop onions should be issued. Committee recommendations, with information submitted therewith and other available information, have been considered and it is hereby found that the regulations hereinafter set forth will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(b) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) in that (1) the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, (2) more orderly marketing in the public interest, than would otherwise prevail, will be promoted by regulating the shipment of onions, in the manner set forth below, on and after the effective date of this section, (3) compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date, (4) reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for such preparation, and (5) information regarding the committee's recommendations has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area.

§ 1017.305 Limitation of shipments.

During the period from July 25, 1960, through June 30, 1961, no person shall handle any lot of onions unless such onions meet the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, or unless such onions are handled in accordance with paragraph (b) or (c) of this section.

(a) Minimum grade requirements. All varieties: U.S. No. 2, or better, grade.

(b) Special purpose shipments. The minimum grade requirements set forth in paragraph (a) of this section and the inspection and assessment requirements of this part shall not be applicable to shipments of onions for any of the following purposes:

(1) Planting;

(2) Livestock feed; and

(3) Charity.

(c) Minimum quantity exception. Each handler may ship up to, but not to exceed, one ton of onions any day without regard to the inspection and assessment requirements of this part, but this exception shall not apply to any portion of a shipment that exceeds one ton of onions.

(d) Definitions. The term "U.S. No. 2" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Northern Grown Onions (§§ 51.2830 to 51.2847 of this title). Other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 130 and this part.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated: July 20, 1960, to become effective July 25, 1960.

Title 8—ALIENS AND NATIONALITY

Chapter I—Immigration and Naturalization Service, Department of Justice

PART 212—DOCUMENTARY REQUIREMENTS: NONIMMIGRANTS; WAIVERS; ADMISSION OF CERTAIN INADMISSIBLE ALIENS; PAROLE

PART 245—ADJUSTMENT OF STATUS OF NONIMMIGRANT TO THAT OF A PERSON ADMITTED FOR PERMANENT RESIDENCE

PART 299—IMMIGRATION FORMS

Refugee-Escapees and Adjustment of Status

The following amendments to Chapter I of Title 8 of the Code of Federal Regulations are hereby prescribed:

1. Section 212.5 is amended to read as follows:

§ 212.5 Parole of aliens into the United States.

(a) General. The district director in charge of a port of entry may, prior to examination by an immigration officer, or subsequent to such examination and pending a final determination of admissibility in accordance with sections 235 and 236 of the Act and this chapter, or after a finding of inadmissibility has been made, parole into the United States temporarily in accordance with section 212(d)(5) of the Act any alien applicant for admission at such port of entry under such terms and conditions, including the exaction of a bond on Form I–352, as such officer shall deem appropriate. At the expiration of the period of time or upon accomplishment of the purpose for which parole was authorized or when in the opinion of the district director in charge of the area in which the alien is located that neither emergency nor public interest warrants the continued presence of the alien in the United States, parole shall be terminated upon written notice to the alien and he shall be restored to the status which he had at the time of parole, and further inspection or hearing shall be conducted under section 235 or 236 of the Act and this chapter, or any order of exclusion and deportation previously entered shall be executed.

(b) Refugee-escapees. An application for parole as a refugee-escapee under section 1 of the Act of July 14, 1960, shall be submitted by the applicant on Form I–590. Parole will not be authorized until assurances of employment and housing in the United States for a period of two years on Form I–591 and assurances of transportation from the applicant's place of abode to point of final destination in the United States have been provided. The approval of an application for parole under section 1 of the Act of July 14, 1960, by an officer in charge outside the United States authorizes the district director at a port of entry to parole the applicant upon arrival at such port within six months after the date of authorization. For purposes of section 3 of the Act of July 14, 1960, the two-year period shall commence on the date of the refugee-escapee's parole following his arrival in the United States. The provisions of the Act of July 14, 1960, will be applied to the spouse and children, as defined in section 101(b)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, of a refugee-escapee as specified in section 1 of the Act of July 14, 1960, if accompanying such refugee-escapee.

2. The first sentence of § 245.1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 245.1 Application.

An alien, other than an alien who (a) on arrival in the United States was serving in any capacity on board a vessel or aircraft or (b) on arrival in the United States was destined to join a vessel or aircraft in the United States to serve in any capacity thereon, may, if he believes he meets the eligibility requirements of section 245 of the Act, file an application Form I–485 with the district director in whose district he resides. * * *

3. The list of forms in § 299.1 Prescribed forms is amended by adding the following forms and references thereto in numerical sequence:

Form No.	Title and description
I–590	Registration for Classification as Refugee-Escapee (section 1, Act of July 14, 1960).
I–591	Assurance by a United States Citizen in Behalf of a Refugee-Escapee (Act of July 14, 1960).

(Sec. 103, 66 Stat. 173; 8 U.S.C. 1103)

This order shall be considered effective as of July 14, 1960. The regulations prescribed by the order are necessary for carrying out the provisions of Public Law 86–648, 86th Congress, which was approved on July 14, 1960. Compliance with the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U.S.C. 1003) relative to notice of proposed rule making and delayed effective date is impracticable in this instance, since such compliance would unduly delay and impede the administration of Public Law 86–648.

Dated: July 21, 1960.

J. M. SWING,
Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Agency

[Reg. Docket No. 453; Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 60-19]

PART 60—AIR TRAFFIC RULES

Interpretation of VFR Cruising Altitudes and IFR Cruising Altitudes

Part 60 of the Civil Air Regulations comprises the Air Traffic Rules and certain definitions pertaining thereto. Section 60.32 of this part prescribes certain requirements attendant to the cruising altitudes to be maintained in flight and is intended to provide a degree of separation between aircraft during level cruising flight. The rule does not purport to provide separation during periods of climb, descent, turning or while holding in a one or two minute holding pattern. There is no parallel between the "segregation" inherent in this rule and the separation provided by the air traffic control system between IFR flights. It must also be emphasized that the application of these rules in no way reduces the obligation of pilots to exercise utmost in-flight vigilance for collision avoidance purposes as required by other sections of this part.

To clarify possible ambiguities which may exist with respect to the applicability of the phrase "level cruising flight", as it appears in the section, to certain flight maneuvers, a note is being inserted to follow § 60.32. The purpose of this note is to indicate that "level cruising flight" does not include the following maneuvers:

1. Turning.

2. Holding which is accomplished in a one or two minute holding pattern.

Since the term "level cruising flight" has an identical application in § 60.44, IFR cruising altitudes, that section is also being amended to include an identical note.

Inasmuch as the addition of these notes is of a minor clarifying nature and imposes no additional burden on any person, compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary and not required.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 60 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 60, as amended) is amended to add the following note to §§ 60.32 and 60.44:

NOTE: When an aircraft is holding in a one or two minute holding pattern or when it is turning, it is not considered to be in level cruising flight.

This amendment shall become effective upon its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Secs. 313(a), 307, 72 Stat. 752, 749; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 19, 1960.

Administrator.

Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER C—AIRCRAFT REGULATIONS

[Reg. Docket No. 396; Amdt. 180]

PART 507—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Douglas DC–6 Series Aircraft

A proposal to amend Part 507 of the regulations of the Administrator to include a new airworthiness directive for Douglas DC–6, –6A, and –6B aircraft superseding AD56–14–3, 21 F.R. 9544, as amended by 22 F.R. 2416, Amendment 1, was published in 25 F.R. 4557.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the amendment. No objections were received. However, paragraph (b) has been rewritten to clearly state that if no cracks are found, only the upper front and center spar caps are to be inspected at 1500-hour intervals.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 507.10(a) (14 CFR Part 507), is hereby amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

DOUGLAS. Applies to all DC–6, DC–6A and DC–6B aircraft, up to Fuselage No. 725, Serial Number 45060, having total flight time in excess of 9,000 Hours.

Compliance required as indicated.

There have been numerous cases reported of spar cap cracking on DC–6 Series aircraft. Cracks are reported to have occurred in the upper and lower front and center spar caps in the area of wing station 60. In approximately ninety percent of the cases, the cracks occurred in the fore and aft tang of the upper front cap. The cracks usually originate at the spar cap tang attach hole and progress chordwise. In addition, recent service experience has shown that aircraft reworked per the temporary repair outlined in rework drawing 5611367 have a limited service life.

The following procedure must be followed:

(a) Unless already accomplished within the last 1,000 hours' time in service, inspection of the upper and lower front and center spar caps in the area of wing station 60 must be accomplished within the next 450 hours' time in service. Special attention should be given to the spar cap tangs between station 55 and 65.

(b) If no cracks are found, the affected area of the upper front and center spar caps must be periodically reinspected at intervals not to exceed 1,500 flight hours, and the lower front and center spar caps in the affected area must be afforded adequate periodic reinspections at convenient overhaul periods. The inspections called for in this paragraph must be continued until the permanent preventive rework is accomplished per manufacturer's recommendations.

(c) If cracks are found in the upper and lower front and center spar caps in the area of station 60, temporary repairs may be made per Douglas rework drawing 5611367, providing crack limitations contained in DC–6 Service Bulletin 678 have not been exceeded. Aircraft incorporating this rework must be reinspected at intervals not to exceed 750 hours' time in service. Furthermore, aircraft which have been repaired per the temporary rework (drawing No. 5611367) and have accumulated 3,200 hours' time in service since temporary rework was accomplished must be reworked per the permanent preventive rework recommended by the manufacturer, within the next 1,000 hours' time in service.

(d) After permanent repairs are accomplished in accordance with manufacturer's recommendations, subsequent inspections may then be made at normal inspection periods.

(Satisfactory permanent rework instructions are contained in Douglas Service Bulletin DC–6 No. 678 revised December 10, 1958, and Douglas Service Bulletin DC–6 No. 694, revised December 3, 1959, Douglas Alert Service Bulletin A–678 revised September 25, 1959, covers the inspections outlined above.)

This supersedes AD 56–14–3 (21 F.R. 9544 as amended by 22 F.R. 2416).

(Sec. 313(a), 601, 603; 72 Stat. 752, 775, 776; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, 1423)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 19, 1960.

PART 507—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Sikorsky S–58 Helicopters

There have been two reported failures of upper pylon hinge fittings on Sikorsky S–58 helicopters, one of which resulted in an accident. It has been determined that these failures were the result of fatigue cracks originating in the attaching bolt holes. Since the tail pylon is hinged at only two points, complete failure of the upper hinge can result in loss of the tail pylon and control of the aircraft.

In the interest of safety it has been found that notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and that good cause exists for making this amendment effective in less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6469), § 507.10(a) (14 CFR Part 507), is hereby amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

SIKORSKY. Applies to all Sikorsky S-58 Helicopters.

Compliance required as indicated.

Fatigue cracks have been found in the area of the rear three bolt holes of the upper pylon folding hinge fitting, P/N S1620-63120-3. In order to preclude propagation of a fatigue crack in this area, and consequent serious weakening of the pylon attachment, the following must be accomplished on all fittings, P/N S1620-63120-3, which have accumulated 1,000 or more hours' time in service.

Effective August 15, 1960, conduct daily visual inspections of the area around the fitting bolt holes for cracks. Fittings with cracks must be replaced prior to further flight. When the fitting is reinforced in accordance with Sikorsky Drawing S1607-2169, the provisions of the AD no longer apply. Sikorsky Service Bulletin No. 52B30-1 covers this subject.

(Sec. 313(a), 601, 603; 72 Stat. 752, 775, 776; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, 1423)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 19, 1960.

Acting Director, Bureau of Flight Standards.

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Reg. Docket No. 455; Amdt. 178]

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

Miscellaneous Amendments

Air Route Traffic Control Centers have experienced difficulty in determining, from the filed flight plan, the exact route to be flown by an aircraft. This has been caused by the assignment, in the past, of identical identification code letters to both L/MFR and VOR air navigation facilities when such facilities were located in the same geographical area. This problem is expected to increase as more computers are introduced into the Air Traffic Control system as the computer cannot distinguish between two types of facilities bearing the same identification code letters. Accordingly, new identification code letters are being assigned those L/MFR air navigation facilities, where such duplication exists, effective August 25, 1960.

As Standard Instrument Approach Procedures found in Part 609 contain reference to L/MFR air navigation facilities by identification code letters, these procedures must be amended to reflect the newly assigned letters.

As this technical amendment is necessary in the interest of safety, compliance with the notice and public procedure provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary and not required.

In consideration of the foregoing and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 5662), Part 609 of the regulations of the Administrator is hereby amended as follows:

The Standard Instrument Approach Procedures found in §§ 609.100, 609.200, 609.300, 609.400 and 609.500 are amended, wherever the identification code letters of the following low frequency range air navigation facilities appear therein, by deleting such letters and substituting therefor the identification code letters indicated below:

PART 42—VISAS: DOCUMENTATION OF IMMIGRANTS UNDER THE IMMIGRATION AND NATIONALITY ACT, AS AMENDED

PART 44—VIVAS: DOCUMENTATION OF IMMIGRANTS UNDER SECTION 15 OF THE ACT OF SEPTEMBER 11, 1957, AS AMENDED

Miscellaneous Amendments

Parts 41, 42, and 44, Chapter I, Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations are hereby amended in the following respects:

1. The definitions of the terms "passport" and "principal alien" contained in § 41.1 are amended as follows:

§ 41.1 Definitions.

• • • • •

Passport. "Passport", as defined in section 101(a)(30) of the Act, shall not be considered as limited to a national passport and shall not be considered as limited to a single document but may consist of two or more documents which, when considered together, fulfill the requirements of a passport as defined in section 101(a)(30) of the Act: Provided, That permission to enter a foreign country must be issued by a competent authority and must be clearly valid for such purpose in order to meet the requirements of section 101(a)(30). A nonimmigrant unable to obtain a document issued by a competent authority which indicates his origin, identity, and nationality if any, may furnish the missing information to the best of his knowledge and belief, by presenting an affidavit which, when combined with the documentary evidence of admissibility into a foreign country, will suffice to meet the requirements of section 101(a)(30) of the Act.

• • • • •

Principal alien. "Principal alien" means an alien from whom another alien derives a privilege or status under the law or regulations.

2. Section 41.7 is amended as follows:

§ 41.7 Waiver of visa and/or passport requirements by joint action of consular and immigration officers.

The provisions of section 212(a)(26) of the Act prescribing the documentary requirements for nonimmigrants may be waived by joint action of consular officers abroad and immigration officers pursuant to the authority contained in section 212(d)(4) of the Act in individual cases of aliens who satisfy the consular officer serving the port or place of embarkation, after consultation with and concurrence by the appropriate immigration officer, that their cases come within any of the following categories:

• • • • •

(c) Visa and passport waiver; members of armed forces of foreign countries making friendly visits to the United States. An alien who is on active duty as a member of the armed forces of a foreign country and who is a member of a group of such force which is making a friendly call in the United States, whether courtesy or operational and whether in behalf of his own government or in behalf of the United Nations, under advance arrangements made with the military, naval, or air force authorities of the United States, other than an alien who is a citizen or resident of Albania, Bulgaria, Communist-controlled China ("Chinese People's Republic"), Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, North Korea ("Democratic People's Republic of Korea"), North Viet-Nam ("Democratic Republic of Viet-Nam"), Poland, Rumania, the Soviet Zone of Germany ("German Democratic Republic"), or the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

• • • • •

(g) Visa and/or passport waiver; authorization to individual consular offices. An alien within the district of a consular office which has been individually authorized by the Department, because of unusual circumstances prevailing in that district, to join with immigration officers abroad in waivers of documentary requirements in specifically described categories of cases, and whose case falls within one of those categories.

3. Section 41.91 is amended as follows:

§ 41.91 Aliens ineligible to receive visas.

(a) Aliens ineligible under the provisions of section 212(a) of the act. • • •

(7) Physical defect affecting alien's ability to earn a living. An alien within the purview of section 212(a)(7) of the Act may be issued a nonimmigrant visa, if otherwise qualified therefor, upon receipt by the consular officer of notice from the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the giving of a bond or undertaking as provided in section 221(g) of the Act, if the consular officer is satisfied that the giving of such bond or undertaking removes the likelihood that the alien might become a public charge within the meaning of section 212(a)(15) of the Act.

• • • • •

(9) Crime involving moral turpitude. • • •

(ii) An alien who has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude or who admits the commission of acts which constitute the essential elements of such a crime and who has committed an additional crime involving moral turpitude is ineligible to receive a visa under the provisions of section 212(a)(9) of the Act although the crimes were committed while the alien was under the age of eighteen years.

• • • • •

(13) Immoral sexual act. An alien shall not be ineligible to receive a visa under section 212(a)(13) of the Act unless his primary purpose in coming to the United States is to engage in an immoral sexual act.

• • • • •

(15) Public charge. • • •

(ii) An alien within the purview of section 212(a)(15) of the Act may be issued a nonimmigrant visa upon receipt of notice by the consular officer of the giving of a bond or undertaking, as provided in section 221(g) of the Act, if the consular officer is satisfied that the giving of such bond or undertaking removes the alien's ineligibility to receive a visa under this section of the law.

(16) Aliens excluded and deported. An alien who was excluded and deported from the United States within the meaning of section 212(a)(16) of the Act shall not be issued a visa within one year from the date of his deportation unless he has obtained permission from the Immigration and Naturalization Service to reapply for admission.

(17) Aliens arrested and deported or removed from the United States. An alien who was arrested and deported from the United States, or who was removed from the United States within the meaning of section 212(a)(17) of the Act shall be required to obtain permission from the Immigration and Naturalization Service to reapply for admission into the United States before a visa may be issued, regardless of the period of time which may have elapsed since his deportation or removal.

• • • • •

(19) Fraud and misrepresentation. (i) An alien who seeks to procure, or has sought to procure, or has procured a visa or other documentation for entry into the United States by fraud or by willfully misrepresenting a material fact, regardless of whether such fraud or misrepresentation occurred before or after December 24, 1952, shall be ineligible to receive a visa under the provisions of section 212(a)(19) of the Act: Provided, That the provisions of this subdivision shall not be applicable if the fraud or misrepresentation was committed by an alien at the time he sought entry into a country other than the United States or obtained travel documents as a bona fide refugee and the refugee was in fear of being repatriated to his former homeland if he had disclosed the facts in his case in connection with his application for a visa to enter the United States: Provided further, That the fraud or misrepresentation was not committed by such refugee for the purpose of evading the quota restrictions of the United States immigration laws, or investigation of the alien's record at the place of his former residence or elsewhere in connection with an application for a visa.

(ii) Subject to the conditions stated in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, an alien who is found by the consular officer to have made a willful misrepresentation within the meaning of section 10 of the Displaced Persons Act of 1948, as amended, for the purpose of gaining admission into the United States as an eligible displaced person, or to have made a material misrepresentation within the meaning of section 11(e) of the Refugee Relief Act of 1953, as amended, for the purpose of gaining admission into the United States as an alien eligible thereunder, shall be considered ineligible to receive a visa under the provisions of section 212(a)(19) of the Act.

(iii) The commission of fraud or the willful misrepresentation of a material fact in seeking to enter the United States as distinguished from fraud or misrepresentation in connection with the procurement, or attempt to procure, documents for entry, shall not render an alien ineligible to receive a visa under the provisions of section 212(a)(19) of the Act. (6 I. & N. Dec. 149, approved by the Attorney General 9–13–54)

• • • • •

(23) Narcotics traffickers. An alien shall be ineligible to receive a nonimmigrant visa under the provisions of section 212(a)(23) of the Act, as amended, irrespective of whether the conviction for illegal possession of narcotic drugs or marihuana or for conspiracy to violate any law or regulation within the contemplation of the Narcotic Control Act of 1956 occurred before or after July 18, 1956.

(Sec. 301(a), 70 Stat. 575, Sec. 8, 74 Stat. 505; 8 U.S.C. 1182)

• • • • •

(28) Members or affiliates of proscribed organizations. • • •

(vi) In accordance with the definition of "totalitarian party" contained in section 101(a)(37) of the Act, a former or present voluntary member of, or an alien who was, or is, voluntarily affiliated with a noncommunist party, organization, or group, or of any section, subsidiary, branch, affiliate or subdivision thereof, which during the time of its existence did not or does not advocate the establishment in the United States of a totalitarian dictatorship, shall not be considered ineligible under the provisions of section 212(a)(28)(C) of the Act to receive a visa, unless the alien is known or believed by the consular officer to advocate, or to have advocated, personally, the establishment in the United States of a totalitarian dictatorship, within the meaning of section 212(a)(28)(D) of the Act.

• • • • •

(c) Failure of application to comply with Act. (1) • • •

(ii) The application contains a false or incorrect statement other than one which would constitute a ground of ineligibility under section 212(a)(19) of the Act;

• • • • •

(d) Former exchange visitors. An alien who was admitted into the United States as an exchange visitor subsequent to June 4, 1956, or who otherwise acquired the status of an exchange visitor subsequent to June 4, 1956, including an alien granted an extension of the period of his temporary admission subsequent to September 20, 1956, shall not be eligible to apply for and receive a nonimmigrant visa under the provisions of section 101(a)(15)(H) of the Act notwithstanding the approval of a petition as provided in section 214(c) of the Act unless (1) the consular officer is satisfied that for an aggregate of at least two years following the termination of his exchange visitor status the alien has resided and been physically present abroad in a country or countries cooperating in the exchange-visitor program, or (2) the residence-abroad requirement of section 201(b) of the United States Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948, as amended, has been waived as provided in that section. (See §§ 63.6 and 63.7 of this chapter.)

(Sec. 201, 62 Stat. 7, as amended, sec. 402(f), 66 Stat. 276, 70 Stat. 241; 22 U.S.C. 1446)

4. Section 41.112(b) is amended as follows:

• • • • •

(b) Aliens included in a single passport. The passport requirement referred to under paragraph (a) of this section may be met by the presentation of a passport including more than one person if such inclusion is authorized under the laws or regulations of the issuing authority and if a photograph of each person sixteen years of age or over to whom a visa is to be issued shall have been attached to the passport by the issuing authority.

5. Section 41.113(c) is amended as follows:

§ 41.113 Medical examination.

• • • • •

(c) The consular officer shall bring to the attention of the panel of physicians the regulations of the United States Public Health Service governing the medical examination of aliens, and shall advise visa applicants, when laboratory facilities for the required tests are not available, that such tests must be made at the United States port of entry and may be a basis for the alien's exclusion.

(Sec. 221, 66 Stat. 191; 8 U.S.C. 1201)

6. Section 41.134 is revised as follows:

§ 41.134 Revocation and invalidation of visas.

(a) Grounds for revocation. A consular officer is authorized to revoke ab initio a nonimmigrant visa under the following circumstances:

(1) The consular officer knows, or after investigation is satisfied, that the visa was procured by fraud, a willfully false or misleading representation, the willful concealment of a material fact, or other unlawful means; or

(2) The consular officer obtains information establishing that the alien was otherwise ineligible to receive the visa at the time of issuance.

(b) Grounds for invalidation. A consular officer is authorized to invalidate at any time a nonimmigrant visa in any case in which he finds that the alien has become ineligible for such visa. The invalidation shall terminate the validity of the visa on the date of such invalidation.

(c) Notice of proposed revocation. The bearer of a nonimmigrant visa which is being considered for revocation or invalidation shall, if practicable, be notified of the consular officer's intention to revoke his visa, be given an opportunity to show why the visa should not be revoked or invalidated, and shall be requested to present his travel document containing the visa to the consular office indicated in the notification of proposed cancelation.

(d) Procedure in revoking or invalidating visa. A nonimmigrant visa which is revoked or invalidated shall be canceled by writing the word "Revoked" or "Invalidated", whichever is applicable, plainly across the face of the visa. The cancellation shall be dated and signed by the consular officer taking the action. The failure of an alien to present his visa for cancellation shall not affect the validity of any action taken to revoke or invalidate such visa. A nonimmigrant visa may be revoked or invalidated regardless of the fact that the alien may be in the United States at the time such action is taken.

(e) Notice to carriers. Notice of revocation or invalidation shall be given to the master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of the carrier or transportation line on which it is believed the alien intends to travel to the United States, unless the visa has been canceled as provided in paragraph (d) of this section.

(f) Notice to Department. Notice of revocation or invalidation, including a full report of the facts in the case, shall be submitted promptly to the Department for transmission to the Immigration and Naturalization Service. No such report is required if the visa has been canceled prior to the alien's departure for the United States except in cases involving A, G, C–2, C–3, NATO, diplomatic or official visas.

(g) Record of action. Upon the revocation or invalidation of a nonimmigrant visa appropriate notation of the action taken, including a statement of the reasons therefor, shall be made, and if the revocation or invalidation of the visa is effected at other than the issuing office, a report of the action taken shall be transmitted to the issuing office.

(h) Reconsideration of revocation. The consular officer shall consider any evidence which may be submitted by the alien, his attorney or representative, indicating that the revocation or invalidation of a visa may have been unwarranted. If it is determined that the visa should not have been revoked or invalidated a new visa shall be issued, a memorandum regarding the action taken and the reasons therefor shall be placed in the consular files, and appropriate notification shall be forwarded promptly to the carriers concerned, to the Department, and to the issuing office if notice of revocation or invalidation has been given in accordance with paragraph (e), (f), or (g) of this section.

(Sec. 221, 66 Stat. 191; 8 U.S.C. 1201)

7. Section 41.150 is added as follows:

(e) Notice to Department. Notice of revocation, including a full report of the facts in the case, shall be submitted promptly to the Department for transmission to the Immigration and Naturalization Service. No such report is required if the visa has been canceled prior to the alien's departure for the United States.

(g) Reconsideration of revocation. The consular officer shall consider any evidence which may be submitted by the alien, his attorney or representative indicating that the revocation of the visa may have been unwarranted. If it is determined that the visa should not have been revoked a new or replace visa shall be issued. A memorandum regarding the action taken and the reasons therefor shall be placed in the consular files and appropriate notification shall be forwarded promptly to the carriers concerned, to the Department, and to the issuing office if notice of revocation or invalidation has been given in accordance with paragraph (d), (e), or (f) of this section.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section the following specifications are mandatory for use by the Department of Defense in the procurement of supplies and services covered by such specifications:

(1) Federal specifications, unless determined by the Department of Defense to be inapplicable for its use; and

(2) Coordinated Military specifications approved by the Department of Defense for its use.

(b) Federal and Military specifications need not be used for the following unless required by Departmental instructions:

(1) Purchase incident to research and development;

(2) Purchase of items for test or evaluation;

(3) Purchase of laboratory test equipment for use by Government laboratories;

(4) Purchase of items for authorized resale except military clothing;

(5) Purchase of items in an amount not to exceed $2,500 (multiple small purchases of less than $2,500 of the same item shall not be made for the purpose of avoiding the use of Federal or Military specifications);

(6) Purchase of one-time procurement items; or

(7) Purchase of items for which it is impracticable or uneconomical to prepare a specification (repetitive use of a purchase description containing the essential characteristics of a specification will be construed as evidence of improper use of this exception).

(c) If it is determined, in accordance with the procedures established under the Defense Standardization Program by the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics), that the specifications listed in paragraph (a) of this section do not meet the particular or essential needs of a bureau, service, or command, then (except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section) applicable interim Federal specifications or limited coordinated Military specifications should be used.

(d) Whenever a specification is found to be inadequate, immediate action shall be taken to effect the issuance of an amendment or revision in accordance with established procedures to obviate the necessity for repeated departures from the specification.

§ 1.1203 Availability of specifications, plans, and drawings.

Invitations for bids and requests for proposals will:

(a) So far as practicable, be accompanied by all applicable specifications, plans, and drawings, and shall so state that fact;

(b) State the exact locations where all applicable specifications, plans, and drawings may be obtained by prospective contractors and that such specifications, plans, and drawings were not furnished with the invitation for bids or request for proposal; or

(c) If distribution of applicable specifications, plans, or drawings is impracticable, state a reasonable number of locations at which they may be examined.

§ 1.1204 Packaging requirements.

Appropriate preservation, packaging, packing, and marking requirements will be included in contracts as applicable.

§ 1.1205 Offshore procurement.

Contracting officers accomplishing offshore procurement are authorized to use, where necessary, such specifications, standards, and purchase descriptions of foreign governments, or groups thereof, foreign trade associations, or purchase descriptions developed locally which will be readily understood by foreign vendors, provided, adequate measures are taken to insure satisfactory and acceptable products, including standard and interchangeable items, where required.

§ 1.1206 Purchase descriptions.

(a) A purchase description may be used in lieu of a specification when authorized by § 1.1202(b) and, subject to the restriction on repetitive use in § 1.1202(b)(7), where no applicable specification exists. A purchase description should set forth the essential characteristics and functions of the items or materials required. Purchase descriptions shall not be written so as to specify a product, or a particular feature of a product, peculiar to one manufacturer and thereby preclude consideration of a product manufactured by another company, unless it is determined that the particular feature is essential to the Government's requirements, and that similar products of other companies lacking the particular feature would not meet the minimum requirements for the item. Purchase descriptions of services to be procured should outline to the greatest degree practicable the specific services the contractor is expected to perform.

(b) Generally, the minimum acceptable purchase description is the identification of a requirement by use of brand name followed by the words "or equal." This technique should be used only as a last resort when an adequate specification or more detailed description cannot feasibly be made available in time for the procurement under consideration. Where feasible, more than one brand name should be indicated. However, the words "or equal" should not be added when it has been determined in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section that only a particular product meets the essential requirements of the Government, as, for example, (1) where the required supplies can be obtained only from one source; (2) procurements negotiated under § 3.207 of this subchapter for specified medicines or medical supplies where it has been determined that only a particular brand name will meet the essential requirements of the Government; or (3) procurements negotiated under § 3.208 of this subchapter for supplies for resale where it has been determined by a selling activity that only a particular brand name will meet the desires or preferences of its patrons.

(c) (1) Where a "brand name or equal" purchase description is used, prospective contractors must be given the opportunity to offer supplies other than those specifically named by brand if such other supplies will meet the needs of the Government in essentially the same manner as those specified by brand. The "brand name or equal" description should specifically set forth those salient characteristics of the named supplies which are essential to the needs of the Government. For example, where interchangeability of parts is required, such requirement should be specified. Where a "brand name or equal" description refers to items, names, and numbers published in manufacturers' catalogs, the invitation for bids or request for proposal shall clearly identify the supplies called for. Such identification should include, for example, complete item names, identification of catalogs, and applicable catalog numbers with the corresponding catalog descriptions. The contracting officer will insure that a copy of any catalogs referenced (except parts catalogs) is available on request for review by bidders at the purchasing office.

(2) When a brand name or equal purchase description is included in an invitation for bids:

(i) The following shall be inserted after each item so described in the invitation for completion by the bidder.

Bidding on:
Manufacturer's Name ___ Brand ___ No. ___

(ii) In addition, the following clause shall be included in the invitation:

BRAND NAME OR EQUAL (JAN. 1960)

As used in this clause, the term "brand name" includes identification of supplies by make and model.

Certain supplies called for by this Invitation for Bids are identified in the schedule by a brand name "or equal" description. This identification is descriptive rather than restrictive. Bids offering "or equal" supplies will be considered for award if such supplies are clearly identified in the bids and are determined by the Government to be equal to the brand named supplies in all material respects.

Bidders must clearly indicate whether their bids are based on a brand name item or on an "equal" item by furnishing the information required below. IF THE BIDDER DOES NOT IDENTIFY THE BRAND NAME OR DESCRIBE IN FULL THE "OR EQUAL" ITEM WHICH IS OFFERED, AS PROVIDED IN (1) AND (2) BELOW, THE BID WILL BE REJECTED.

(1) If the bidder proposes to furnish a brand name item specified in this Invitation for Bids, such brand name shall be inserted in the space provided after each item so described.

(2) If the bidder proposes to furnish an "or equal" item, the brand name of the item proposed to be furnished, if any, shall be inserted in the space provided after each item so described, and in addition, the following descriptive data must be furnished:

A full description thereof, including pertinent physical, mechanical, electrical, and chemical details and a statement explaining the differences between the items being offered and any one of the corresponding brand name items called for by this Invitation for Bids. (This information may be supplied by separate attachments to the bid.)

In negotiated procurements the foregoing provisions may be suitably modified for use in the requests for proposals. If such provisions are not used, prospective contractors shall be informed that proposals offering supplies differing from those identified by brand name will be considered if the contracting officer determines that such offered supplies are equal in all material respects to the supplies identified by brand name. But the requirements of this subparagraph are not mandatory for small purchases made pursuant to Subpart F, Part 3, of this subchapter.

(3) Bids or proposals offering supplies which differ from the brand name supplies shall be considered for award where the contracting officer determines that the offered supplies conform to all characteristics specified in the invitation for bids or request for proposals and otherwise meet the needs of the Government in essentially the same manner as the brand name supplies. Bids or proposals shall not be rejected because of minor differences in design, construction, or features which do not affect the suitability of the supplies.

(4) Award documents shall identify, or incorporate by reference an identification of, the specific supplies (including any brand name and descriptive data specified in the bid) which the contractor is to furnish.

§ 1.1207 Alternate articles or qualities.

Invitations for bids and requests for proposals may provide for alternate bids or proposals on different articles or qualities of material, e.g., where two or more articles will be equally acceptable to the Government depending upon relative price. However, the alternate articles or qualities must be precisely described to assure that the same degree of competition is obtainable on the alternate bids or offers as is obtainable on the basic articles described.

Subpart M—Transportation

§ 1.1301 General.

(a) The transportation factors discussed in this subpart are important in awarding and administering contracts to insure that procurements are on the basis most advantageous to the Government, all factors considered, and that supplies arrive at the right place at the right time and in good condition. Traffic management advice and assistance shall be sought by and given to contracting officers and contract administrators, including property administrators who are concerned with the movement of Government property to, from, and between plants of contractors and subcontractors. Requiring activities should consider transportation factors before submitting purchase requests and should give purchasing activities instructions so that they are able to evaluate all applicable traffic management factors.

(b) As used in this subpart the term "United States" does not include Alaska or Hawaii.

§ 1.1302 Place of delivery.

§ 1.1302–1 Shipments within the United States.

Unless there are valid reasons to the contrary, the procurement of supplies from sources within the United States for ultimate delivery to destinations within the United States shall be in accordance with the following policy:

(a) When it is estimated that a contract will require no shipment to a single destination which will equal a minimum carload or truckload lot, delivery shall be on the basis of all transportation charges paid to destination;

(b) When it is estimated that a contract will require a shipment of a minimum carload or truckload lot, delivery shall be on the basis of whichever of the following is more advantageous to the Government:

(1) At the Government's option, f.o.b. carrier's equipment, wharf, or freight station at a specified city or shipping point at or near contractor's plant; or

(2) All transportation charges paid to destination. Solicitations shall provide that bidders or offerors may make bids or proposals on either or both of these bases. In the absence of specific information to the contrary, a minimum carload or truckload lot shall be deemed to be approximately 20,000 pounds.

§ 1.1302–2 Shipments from the United States for overseas delivery.

Unless there are valid reasons to the contrary, purchases of supplies originating within the United States for ultimate delivery to destinations outside the United States, regardless of the quantity of the shipment, shall be made on the basis of delivery at the Government's option, f.o.b. carrier's equipment, wharf, or freight station at a specified city or shipping point at or near contractor's plant. This policy applies to supplies shipped either directly to a port area for export or to storage areas for subsequent reshipment to a port area for export.

§ 1.1302–3 Shipments originating outside the United States.

Selection of place of delivery for shipments originating outside the United States shall be in accordance with procedures prescribed by the Department concerned.

§ 1.1303 Quantity analysis.

When additional quantities of the item being purchased can be transported at no increase in transportation cost or when purchase of carload or truckload quantities will result in lower unit transportation costs, the purchasing activity should find out from the requiring activity whether there is a known requirement for additional quantities.

§ 1.1304 Commodity description.

A complete description of the commodity being purchased, including packing and packaging instructions, is necessary not only to enable the supplier to bid or quote properly on the requirement, but also for determination of proper transportation charges. In no case shall the manufacturer's part number only be shown without the appropriate descriptive nomenclature.

§ 1.1305 Delivery terms.

§ 1.1305–1 F.o.b. origin or destination.

Solicitations for supplies to be purchased either f.o.b. origin or f.o.b. destination in accordance with § 1.1302–1 (b) shall provide that bids or proposals may be submitted on either or both bases and that they will be evaluated on the basis of the lowest overall cost to the Government. Invitations for bids and requests for proposals shall include so much of the following information as is pertinent to the particular procurement and shall require prospective suppliers to furnish the Government such of the following as may be appropriate:

(a) Method of shipment, such as rail, water, air, or truck;

(b) Minimum quantities or lots, such as carloads, truckloads, less than carloads, or less than truckloads (Where appropriate, the solicitation should elicit information of the minimum size of the shipment which the prospective supplier will make, so that the evaluation of transportation most may be on a realistic basis. The prospective supplier should be cautioned that, if he tenders shipments in lesser quantities, he may be charged with any resulting excess cost.);

(c) Guaranteed shipping weight (If shipping weight and cube of items to be procured are not shown in the solicitation, prospective suppliers should be required to furnish this information so that proper transportation costs can be computed. The prospective supplier should be cautioned that, if actual shipping weights or cubes vary from the guarantees, he may be charged with any resulting excess cost.);

(d) Packing, crating and other preparations;

(e) Transit privileges (§ 1.1308); and

(f) Any other shipping information required for evaluation.

§ 1.1305–2 F.o.b. destination.

Generally, solicitations for supplies to be purchased f.o.b. destination shall provide that supplies shall be delivered, all transportation charges paid by the contractor, to the specified destination. The solicitation shall inform prospective suppliers of any known shortage of transportation facilities at destination or other factors which may affect the supplier's transportation costs. When f.o.b. destination bids only are desired, the invitation for bids shall specify that bids submitted on a basis other than f.o.b. destination will be rejected as nonresponsive.

§ 1.1305–3 F.o.b. origin.

Generally, solicitations for supplies to be purchased f.o.b. origin shall provide for delivery, at the Government's option, f.o.b. carrier's equipment, wharf, or freight station at a city or shipping point to be specified by the bidder or offeror at or near the contractor's plant. This will enable the military traffic management offices, in issuing routing instructions, to select the mode of transportation which will provide the required service at the lowest cost. The solicitation shall state that bids or proposals will be evaluated on the basis of the lowest overall cost to the Government, taking account of transportation costs to the Government from point of origin to the designated destinations. Thus, when material is to be purchased f.o.b. origin in accordance with § 1.1302–2 for ultimate delivery to known destinations outside the United States, the solicitation will state that bids or proposals will be evaluated so as to take into account the cost to the Government of shipment from the point of origin to the overseas destinations. Contracting officers shall request the appropriate transportation officer to furnish any transportation rates and port handling charges required for use in evaluating bids or proposals. When f.o.b. origin bids only are desired, the invitations for bids will specify that bids submitted on a basis other than f.o.b. carrier's equipment, wharf, or freight stations at a specified city or shipping point at or near the contractor's plant will be rejected as nonresponsive.

§ 1.1305–4 Destination unknown.

When the exact destinations of the supplies being purchased are not known at the time bids or proposals are solicited, but the general location of the destination, such as East Coast, Middle West, or West Coast, is known, a definite place or places shall be designated as the point to which transportation costs will be computed—but only for the purpose of evaluating bids or proposals. The solicitation shall specify that bids or proposals should be submitted f.o.b. origin and that shipments will be made on Government bills of lading. The solicitation shall state:

For the purpose of evaluating (bids) (proposals), and for no other purpose, the final destination for the supplies will be considered to be as follows: [Name destinations].

Invitations for bids shall contain a statement that bids submitted on a basis other than f.o.b. origin will be rejected as nonresponsive.

§ 1.1306 Consignment and marking instructions.

Complete consignment and marking instructions, to the extent that they are known at the time the contract is awarded, shall be included in contracts to assist in insuring that supplies will be delivered to proper destinations without delay. "Military Standard Marking of Shipments (MIL–STD–129B)" shall be consulted for proper marking instructions. In those cases where complete consignment information is not initially known, additional instructions to the contractor shall be furnished as soon as such information becomes known. In contracts which provide for delivery f.o.b. origin and shipment on Government bills of lading, consignment instructions may be limited to the mail address of the consignee, provided the contract instructions state that "Shipments other than mail shall be consigned as indicated on the Government bill of lading furnished to the Contractor." It should be noted that receiving activities may have different consignment points for the various transportation media, or even for particular carriers within a medium depending on the weight, shape, size or nature of the shipment involved.

§ 1.1307 Scheduling of deliveries to permit consolidation of shipments.

The accumulation of small shipments into carload or truckload lots will result in lower transportation costs. Also, the accumulation of small shipments into less than load shipments may result in lower transportation costs. Upon review of the purchase request, and in conjunction with the requiring or requisitioning activity, consideration shall be given to revising delivery schedules to provide for deliveries in larger quantities. In some cases, delivery schedules for supplies to be delivered to multiple destinations can be consolidated and the stop-off in transit privilege used for partial unloading at one or more points directly en route between the point of origin and the last destination.

§ 1.1308 Transit arrangements.

Transit arrangements afford an opportunity to stop carload or truckload shipments at specific intermediate points en route to the final destination in order to store, process, or fabricate, or for other purposes as specified in carriers' applicable tariffs. A single through rate from origin to final destination, plus a transit or other related charge if applicable, is charged in lieu of a combination of rates to and from the transit point which would result in higher costs. Consideration should be given to possible benefits to the Government through the use of such transit arrangements. Traffic management personnel can furnish necessary information and analyses of situations where such transit arrangements may be beneficial.

§ 1.1309 Rates and volume shipments.

Procurements involving volume shipments (as defined in departmental instructions) shall be referred at the earliest practicable time to the appropriate military traffic management office for a determination of the reasonableness of applicable current rates. Generally, carriers are required by both Federal and State laws to charge all shippers equally for like transportation and associated services. However, when Government traffic possesses more favorable transportation characteristic (greater volume, heavier loading, less likelihood of damage, etc.) than commercial traffic between the same origins and destinations, freight rates are often lower for the Government traffic, as in the case of quotations under section 22 of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 U.S.C. 22) and similar tenders. Rate information necessary to properly evaluate offers shall be obtained from the appropriate military traffic office.

§ 1.1310 Crosshauling and backhauling.

Crosshauling is the shipment of material of the same kind in reverse directions. Backhauling is the shipment of material from a geographical area to or through another geographical area from which the material previously had been shipped. Crosshauling and backhauling waste transportation funds, facilities and equipment. To reduce crosshauling and backhauling, purchase requests or authorizations should contain as complete and accurate transportation (including destination) data as possible.

§ 1.1311 Unusually large or heavy shipments.

Before purchasing unusually large, heavy, high, wide, or long items, the appropriate transportation office shall be consulted in order that any transportability difficulties may be considered. Additional costs, such as the use of special equipment, excess blocking and bracing material, circuitous routing, etc., incident to these shipments shall also be considered, in conjunction with the freight rate, in determining total transportation costs.

§ 1.1312 Mode of transportation.

Generally, the military traffic management office is the proper authority to specify the mode and routing of shipments. If urgency in delivery is a factor, the appropriate military traffic management office shall be so informed in order that routing authorities may select the appropriate means of transportation.

Subpart N—Preference for United States-Flag Privately Owned Ocean Carriers

§ 1.1401 Definitions.

As used in this subpart:

(a) "Dry bulk carriers" are ships for the carriage of shipload lots of homogeneous unmarked cargoes such as grain, coal, cement and lumber;

(b) "Dry cargo liners" are ships for the carriage of heterogeneous marked cargoes in parcel lots. However, any cargo can be carried in such ships, including part cargoes of bulk items such as those mentioned above, or, when carried in deep tanks, bulk liquids such as petroleum and vegetable oils;

(c) "Tankers" are ships used for carriage of bulk liquid cargoes such as liquid petroleum products, vegetable oils and molasses;

(d) "Government vessel" means a vessel owned by the United States Government and operated directly by the Government or for the Government by an agent or contractor, including privately owned United States-flag vessels under bareboat charter to the Government;

(e) "Private United States vessels" means privately owned United States-flag commercial vessels, including such vessels when under voyage or time charter to the United States Government, and including Government-owned vessels under bareboat charter to private operators; and

(f) "United States-flag vessels" when used independently means both Government vessels and private United States vessels.

§ 1.1402 General.

It is the policy of the Department of Defense, in furtherance of the Cargo Preference Act (68 Stat. 832; 46 U.S.C. 1241(b)) and 10 U.S.C. 2631 to encourage and foster the American merchant marine. When transportation of supplies by ocean vessel is required:

(a) Private United States vessels shall be employed for the transportation of at least 50 percent of the aggregate gross tonnage per annum of the following categories of supplies:

(1) Supplies owned by the Government and in the possession of a Military Department, or of a contractor, or subcontractor of any tier, of a Military Department;

(2) Supplies for the use of the United States which are contracted for and require subsequent delivery to a Military Department but are not owned by the Government at the time of shipment; and

(3) Supplies procured, contracted for or otherwise obtained for non-reimbursable contribution to foreign assistance programs, but which are not owned by the Government at the time of shipment; provided, that this requirement shall not extend to the ocean transportation between foreign countries of supplies procured with local currency funds made available, or derived from funds made available, under the Mutual Security Act. Provided, that the allocation of gross tonnage will be computed separately for dry bulk carriers, dry cargo liners, and tankers and in such a manner as to assure fair and reasonable participation by geographic areas; and provided, that private United States vessels are available at fair and reasonable rates for such vessels;

(b) Only United States-flag vessels will be employed for the transportation of the supplies defined in paragraph (a)(1) of this section when such supplies are for the use of the Military Departments unless such vessels are not available at fair and reasonable United States-flag rates.

§ 1.1403 Applicability.

(2) Shipments which originate or terminate in "exempt areas" as established in paragraph (a)(19) of this section;

(3) Shipments which originate and terminate in the same geographic area; provided, however, that supplies of the type described in § 1.1402(a)(1) shall be transported in United States-flag vessels to the extent such vessels are available at fair and reasonable United States-flag rates;

(4) Shipments aboard vessels of the Panama Canal Company; and

(5) Shipments of classified supplies where the classification prohibits the use of non-Government vessels.

§ 1.1404 Procedures.

(a) Except for those supplies obtained for non-reimbursable contributions to foreign assistance programs for which the ocean transportation is to be provided by and at the expense of the recipient government, ocean transportation of supplies owned by the Government and in the possession of either a Military Department, or a contractor, or subcontractor of any tier, of a Military Department, will be provided by the Military Sea Transportation Service. Accordingly, any contract which may involve ocean transportation of property owned by the Government and in the possession of the contractor or any of his subcontractors (including any contract under which title to property may pass to the Government prior to shipment) shall include a provision requiring the shipment of such property only as directed by the contracting officer, who shall be guided by this subchapter and applicable Departmental procedures. The Military Sea Transportation Service shall take such action as may be necessary and practicable to assure proper utilization of Government vessels and private United States vessels in accordance with this subpart, and applicable regulations. The Commander of the Military Sea Transportation Service, or his designated representative is authorized to make any determination as to availability of United States-flag vessels required to assure such proper utilization.

(b)(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, procuring activities shall include the following clause in any contract which may involve the ocean transportation of supplies of the type described in § 1.1402(a) (2) and (3):

EMPLOYMENT OF OCEAN-GOING VESSELS (JAN. 1958)

If ocean transportation is required after the date of award of this contract in delivering any of the supplies to be furnished hereunder, the Contractor, promptly after each shipment, shall furnish to the Contracting Officer one copy of the applicable ocean shipping document indicating for each shipment made under this contract the name and nationality of the vessel and the measurement tonnage (40 cubic feet) of dry cargo, or long tons (2,240 pounds) of bulk liquid cargo, shipped on such vessel; provided, that the Contractor need not furnish such a document for any shipment of less than 120 measurement tons of dry cargo or less than 35 long tons of bulk liquid cargo; provided further, if this contract is an indefinite quantity contract or a requirement contract, the Contractor need furnish such documents only in connection with shipments made after the date of any delivery order requiring ocean transportation in delivering supplies thereunder. Additional provisions concerning the vessels to be used may be inserted in accordance with Departmental procedures.

(2) The contract shall include the following clause in lieu of the clause set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph when determined by the Head of a Procuring Activity to be necessary to assure proper implementation of the policy expressed in this section or when the procuring activity has been instructed, pursuant to § 1.1405–2, that particular supplies of the type described in § 1.1402(a) (2) and (3) are to be carried exclusively in private United States vessels:

PREFERENCE FOR UNITED STATES-FLAG VESSELS (DEC. 1955)

(a) After the date of award of this contract, the Contractor shall employ privately owned United States-flag commercial vessels, and no others, in the transportation by sea of any supplies to be furnished hereunder; provided, however, that if such vessels are not available for timely shipment at fair and reasonable rates for such vessels, the Contractor shall so notify the Contracting Officer and request authorization to ship in foreign-flag vessels or designation of available United States flag-vessels. If the Contractor is authorized in writing by the Contracting Officer to ship such supplies in foreign-flag vessels, the contract price shall be equitably adjusted to reflect the difference in costs of shipping such supplies on privately owned United States-flag commercial vessels and foreign-flag vessels.

(b) Promptly after each shipment the Contractor shall furnish the Contracting Officer one copy of the applicable shipping document indicating for each shipment made under this contract the name and nationality of the vessel and the measurement tonnage (40 cubic feet) of dry cargo, or long tons (2,240 pounds) of bulk liquid cargo, shipped on such vessels.

§ 1.1405 Responsibilities.

§ 1.1405–1 Military departments.

(a) Each Military department will furnish quarterly reports to the Office of the Secretary of Defense, showing the gross tonnage of all supplies owned, procured, contracted for or otherwise obtained (computed separately for dry bulk carriers, dry cargo liners, and tankers) which have been transported by ocean carrier, during the report period. Such report will consist of two parts. Part I shall include all tonnage subject to this section except Military Assistance Program tonnage and shall also show the geographic area of origin and of destination and shall separately reflect all such information for:

(1) Private United States vessels;

(2) Government vessels (showing separately where Government vessels were used due to nonavailability of private United States vessels); and

(3) Foreign-flag vessels (showing separately where foreign vessels were used due to nonavailability of United States-flag vessels).

Part II shall show all Military Assistance Program tonnage shipped showing the geographic areas of origin and of destination and shall separately identify any shipments in other than foreign-flag vessels. Cargoes transported under arrangements made by the Military departments. Until a Department of Defense report form is announced in Part 16 of this subchapter, the Military departments will maintain records of required information and prepare reports in accordance with departmental procedures. After promulgation, the appropriate Department of Defense form will be used by the Military departments in furnishing the required reports, except that if a Military department develops, for its own use, reports which meet the requirements of this section, and which are acceptable to the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics), such reports may be forwarded in lieu of the Department of Defense form.

(b) The Department of Navy will also furnish quarterly reports in two parts to the Office of the Secretary of Defense showing the gross tonnage of all supplies (computed separately for dry bulk carriers, dry cargo liners and tankers) for which transportation has been arranged by the Military Sea Transportation Service by geographic areas of origin and destination for:

(1) Private United States vessels;

(2) Government vessels (showing separately where Government vessels were used due to nonavailability of private United States vessels); and

(3) Foreign-flag vessels (showing separately where foreign vessels were used due to nonavailability of United States flag vessels).

Part I shall include all tonnage subject to this section except Military Assistance Program tonnage, and Part II shall show Military Assistance Program tonnage.

§ 1.1405–2 Office of the Secretary of Defense.

The Office of the Secretary of Defense will evaluate the reports submitted under § 1.1405–1. In the event the evaluation of the reports indicates the need for increased utilization of private United States vessels, the Office of the Secretary of Defense shall issue appropriate instructions to the Military departments.

Subpart A—[Reserved]

Subpart B—[Reserved]

Subpart C—[Reserved]

Subpart D—[Reserved]

Subpart E—Procurement by Barter—Commodity Credit Corporation

§ 4.501 General.

The purpose of this subpart is to establish procedures which will assist the Commodity Credit Corporation to arrange and to make, through private trade channels, barters and exchanges of United States surplus agricultural commodities.

§ 4.502 Procurement effected within the United States.

(a) On requirements of $100,000 or more for:

(1) Materials or equipment required in connection with foreign economic and military aid and assistance programs;

(2) Materials or equipment required for offshore construction programs; or

(3) Other supplies not subject to the Buy American Act or the limitations contained in the Annual Appropriations Act (Berry Amendment), or which have been previously excepted therefrom pursuant to Subpart F, Part 1 of this subchapter; the purchasing office shall send a copy of the invitation for bids or request for proposals to the Commodity Credit Corporation, Barter and Stockpiling Division, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

(b) Such invitations for bids or requests for proposals shall contain appropriate space for indicating alternate prices, one clearly labeled for barter prices and the other clearly labeled for non-barter prices. In addition, such invitations for bids and request for proposals shall include the following clause:

NOTE—PAYMENT BY BARTER (JUN. 1957)

Attention is directed to section 303 of the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 (Pub. Law 480, 83d Cong.) which authorizes the disposal by barter or exchange of surplus agricultural commodities for use outside of the United States, its possessions and Puerto Rico. BIDDERS OR OFFERORS INTERESTED IN A BARTER ARRANGEMENT (accepting payment in agricultural commodities for use outside of the United States, its possessions, and Puerto Rico rather than in dollars) SHOULD CONSULT AND MAKE APPROPRIATE ARRANGEMENTS WITH THE COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION, Barter and Stockpiling Division, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C., prior to submitting a bid.

Simultaneously with the issuance of this invitation for bids or request for proposals, a copy thereof is being furnished to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Bids or proposals may be made on a barter basis, or on a non-barter basis, or on both bases in the alternative. Bids or proposals on either basis shall be stated in terms of dollars, not in terms of the desired commodity. Arrangements for converting dollar receipts under the contract into commodities must be made by separate agreement with the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Any bid or proposal based on a barter arrangement must be submitted directly to the purchasing office issuing this invitation for bids or request for proposals. In addition, a copy of the official bid or proposal must be forwarded to the Commodity Credit Corporation, by the time specified for submitting bids or proposals, in a sealed envelope marked with the invitation for bids or request for proposals number, and the date and time of opening by the purchasing office.

The Commodity Credit Corporation will consider the barter aspects of all such bids or proposals and will then advise the purchasing office issuing this Invitation for Bids or Request for Proposals which bids or proposals, if any, based on a barter arrangement are acceptable to the Commodity Credit Corporation. Any such bids or proposals which are acceptable to the Commodity Credit Corporation will be considered and evaluated by the purchasing office in connection with the evaluation of the non-barter bids or proposals received hereunder. If the lowest acceptable barter type bid or proposal is equal to or less than the price of the lowest responsive non-barter bid or proposal, preference will be given to the barter type bid or proposal.

No award will be made on a barter basis unless the bidder or offeror has entered into a suitable agreement with the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation has informed the purchasing office that the barter bid or proposal is acceptable. If the award is made on the basis of a barter type bid or proposal, the bidder or offeror, pursuant to the clause of the contract entitled Assignment of Claims and notwithstanding any language to the contrary contained therein, hereby irrevocably assigns all the moneys due or to become due under the resultant contract to the Commodity Credit Corporation. The bidder or offeror will be entitled to acquire commodities on the basis of its agreement with the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(c) The Commodity Credit Corporation will retain the barter bids or proposals which it receives in a locked container or until at least 24 hours after the specified opening time for bids or proposals. The bids or proposals based on a barter arrangement will then be opened and analyzed by the Commodity Credit Corporation, which will advise the contracting officer as to which such bids or proposals are acceptable to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(d) The contracting officer shall make an award on the basis of the lowest responsive bid or proposal, and shall advise the Commodity Credit Corporation in the event the award is made on the basis of a barter type bid or proposal. No award will be made until the Commodity Credit Corporation advises the procuring office as to which barter type bids or proposals, if any, are acceptable, or until ten days after the date set for the opening of bids or receipt of proposals. If the lowest acceptable bid or proposal is on a barter basis, the contracting officer, prior to making the award, shall require such bidder or offeror to furnish evidence of an agreement with the Commodity Credit Corporation covering the payment and assignment arrangements. Where no barter type bids are received by the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Commodity Credit Corporation will promptly advise the contracting officer.

(e) Where the award is made on the basis of a barter type bid or proposal, payment will be made in accordance with the terms of the contract, but to the Commodity Credit Corporation rather than directly to the contractor.

(f) Negotiated contracts based on a barter type proposal shall contain a provision reciting the irrevocable assignment of the contractor's claim for payment to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

§ 4.503 Procurement effected outside the United States.

On procurements of $100,000 or more for supplies or services, except those procurements to be funded and denominated in local currencies or funded in dollars and denominated in local currencies, major overseas commands shall utilize the procedures outlined below:

(a) Major overseas commands shall make available to designated representatives of the Commodity Credit Corporation a copy of all new contracts resulting from procurements described above.

(b) Contracting officers shall distribute to prospective contractors, with the Invitation for Bids or Request for Proposals, or during the course of negotiations, a Commodity Credit Corporation information sheet describing the procurement by barter program.

(c) Designated representatives of the Commodity Credit Corporation are authorized direct contact with contracting officers for the purpose of obtaining information with respect to pertinent clauses in specific existing contracts which may affect barter negotiations.

(d) Commodity Credit Corporation may obtain from a contractor an assignment of moneys due or to become due to the contractor and must, in accordance with the provisions of the Assignment of Claims clause, forward a Notice of Assignment of Claims to the contracting officer, to the disbursing officer, and to any sureties on the contract. The contracting officer shall insure that the Notice of Assignment of Claims is signed by an authorized representative of the Commodity Credit Corporation and that a true copy of the instrument of assignment between the contractor and the Commodity Credit Corporation is attached to the notice. The contracting officer shall acknowledge receipt of the Notice of Assignment of Claims from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(e) Upon presentation of invoices by the contractor, the contracting officer shall insure that each invoice contains a statement by the contractor that he recognizes the assignment to the Commodity Credit Corporation, its validity, and the right of the Commodity Credit Corporation to receive payment. Disbursing officers shall effect appropriate payments to the Commodity Credit Corporation for the amount of the invoice, less any authorized deductions.

7. Add new Subpart K to Part 5, as follows:

Subpart K—Coordinated Procurement

§ 5.1100 Definitions.

As used in this subchapter, the following terms have the meanings set forth below:

§ 5.1100–1 Coordinated procurement.

Coordinated procurement refers to procurement (a) of supplies and services pursuant to § 5.1116 and (b) of supplies under single procurement as defined in § 5.1100–2.

§ 5.1100–2 Single procurement.

Single procurement refers to procurement of supplies pursuant to assignments of procurement responsibility made by the Secretary of Defense. The following are approved types of single procurement.

(a) Single department procurement, whereby one Military Department procures certain supplies to satisfy the requirements of all the Military Departments.

(b) Plant cognizance procurement, whereby one Military Department procures certain supplies from a particular plant to satisfy the requirements of all the Military Departments. This type of procurement is limited presently to airframes, aircraft engines, and propellers.

(c) Joint procurement, whereby a jointly staffed and financed agency within the Department of Defense procures certain supplies to satisfy the requirements of all the Military Departments.

§ 5.1100–3 Requiring department.

Requiring department refers to the Military Department originating a requisition or purchase request for supplies.

§ 5.1100–4 Procuring department.

Procuring department refers to the Military Department or agency which is assigned the procurement responsibility for the supplies.

§ 5.1100–5 Military interdepartmental purchase request (MIPR).

Military interdepartmental purchase request (MIPR) refers to DD Form 448 (Military Interdepartmental Purchase Request) (see § 16.601 of this subchapter) executed by a Requiring Department, as a request for supplies to be procured or furnished by the Procuring Department, or to be manufactured in its own facilities.

§ 5.1101 Application of procurement assignment.

Single procurement in the form of single department, joint agency, or plant cognizance procurement shall be effected whenever it will result in net advantages to the Department of Defense as a whole, except so far as it can be demonstrated that the use of such a procurement method will adversely affect military operations. Single department procurement assignments in Alaska, Hawaii, and outside the remainder of the United States, regardless of funds utilized, will be determined by the respective Unified Commanders. Implementation of such assignments will be effected within the unified commands under the direction of the Unified Commander.

§ 5.1102 Responsibilities under single procurement.

§ 5.1102–1 Single department procurement.

The Procuring Department is generally responsible for the following, under single department procurement (for specific assignment of procurement responsibilities, see Department of Defense Instruction Number 4115.1, dated March 18, 1957, Subject: Department of Defense Single Procurement Assignments, and any amendments thereto):

(a) Operational phases of procurement planning (phasing the submission of requirements, consolidating or dividing requirements, analyzing the market, and determining patterns for the phased placement of orders in such a manner as to assure meeting the needs of the Military Departments at the lowest possible price to the Government, and at the same time avoiding unnecessary peaks and valleys of production);

(b) Purchasing;

(c) Contract administration, including arrangements for followup and expediting;

(d) Acquisition of licenses under patents or other proprietary rights covering the subject matter of the procurement and the settlement of patent infringement claims arising out of the procurement. Approval of the Military Department or Departments whose funds are to be charged for the acquisition of licenses or settlement of claims will be obtained;

(e) Arrangement for inspection; and

(f) Arrangement for transportation.

§ 5.1102–2 Joint procurement.

Responsibilities for procurement by a Joint agency are as set forth in the individual agency charter.

§ 5.1102–3 Plant Cognizance Procurement.

Responsibilities for procurement and mobilization planning are as set forth in Department of Defense Instruction Number 4115.1, dated March 18, 1957, Subject: Department of Defense Single Procurement Assignments, and any amendments thereto.

§ 5.1103 General principles governing implementation of procurement assignments.

§ 5.1103–1 Standard format — development and promulgation of implementing procedures.

Implementation of a procurement assignment shall be accomplished in accordance with Section V (implementation) Department of Defense Instruction 4115.1, dated March 18, 1957, Subject: Department of Defense Procurement Assignments, and any amendments thereto.

§ 5.1103–2 Relationship between research and development and single procurement.

Items are not subject to procurement assignment until they have reached the production stage.

§ 5.1103–3 Small dollar value purchases.

Requirements of small dollar value will be procured in accordance with the provisions of the approved implementing procedures covering the particular assignment. Such implementing procedures will normally provide a small dollar value limitation of $1,000 per line item; however, in special situations the limitation may vary depending upon the commodity area and may be expressed either in a higher or lower dollar value, by tonnage, less-than-carload lot quantities, or other units, as appropriate. Such implementing procedures will clearly state that requirements of a value or quantity less than the prescribed limitations will, wherever feasible, be procured by the Requiring Department. A MIPR for nonmilitary type items of a value or quantity less than the prescribed limitations will contain a notation that procurement by the Requiring Department was not considered to be feasible. A MIPR for a military type item need not contain such a notation. The Procuring Department will not return a MIPR submitted in accordance with the foregoing but will procure such items.

§ 5.1103–4 Emergency.

In case of emergency, where the exigencies of the situation will not permit of the delay incident to following the normal channels of single procurement, purchases may be made without the prior authorization of the Procuring Department. When such emergency purchases are made, one copy of the contractual instrument, bearing or accompanied by a statement of the emergency, shall be transmitted promptly to the purchasing activity of the Procuring Department.

§ 5.1103–5 Department of Defense Manufacturing Establishment.

When procurement assignments have been made for items required by manufacturing establishments of the Military Departments, these items shall be obtained through the facilities of the Procuring Department unless such action will unduly hinder or delay production. When procurements are made other than through the Procuring Department, one copy of the contractual instrument bearing or accompanied by a statement of the circumstances necessitating such procurement shall be transmitted promptly to the purchasing activity of the Procuring Department. This section is not applicable when purchases are made pursuant to § 5.1103–3.

§ 5.1103–6 Local purchase as normal means of supply.

When local purchase of any nonmilitary type item has been authorized by a Requiring Department as the normal means of supply, such item may be obtained by that Department without regard to limitations prescribed in the procurement assignment implementing procedures. This authority will apply only while such item remains in "local purchase" status. For purposes of procurement and administrative planning, a Requiring Department will submit to the Procuring Department a list of the assigned items which have been authorized for local purchase, identified by the commodity area in which such items are classified and the dates on which such authorization for local purchase will be effective. Similar lists will be so submitted covering items being converted from a local purchase to a central procurement status.

§ 5.1104 Items in short supply.

In cases where shortages develop in supplies being purchased, the normal procedure will be to resolve the problem on a Departmental level. If mutual agreement cannot be reached, the subject shall be referred to the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics) for decision.

§ 5.1105 Transfer of uncompleted contracts.

§ 5.1105–1 Effect of assignment of procurement responsibility.

As a general rule, when the procurement responsibility for a commodity or class of commodities is assigned to one Department, uncompleted contracts of any other Department for any such commodity or class of commodities will not be transferred but will continue to be administered for all purposes by such other Department.

§ 5.1105–2 Disputes under transferred contracts.

In the case of any contract transferred, or to be transferred, from one Department to another Department, which contract refers to either the Navy Department Board of Contract Appeals or the Army Board of Contract Appeals, the contract should be amended to provide that the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals will hear and decide all disputes concerning questions of fact which are appealed pursuant to the "Disputes" clause of such transferred contract.

§ 5.1105–3 Contracting officers under transferred contracts.

In the case of any contract transferred, or to be transferred, to any Department, the successor to the contracting officer for each such contract shall be the Head of the Procuring Activity (or any contracting officer thereof) to which the administration of any such contract is assigned, and any such successor shall have all of the rights and responsibilities of a contracting officer under such transferred contract.

§ 5.1106 Purchase authorization.

§ 5.1106–1 MIPR's or other authorized procurement requests.

Military Interdepartmental Purchase Requests or other authorized procurement requests (see Subpart F, Part 16 of this subchapter), when received by the Procuring Department, shall be the authority to procure the supplies listed thereon in accordance with agreements between the Departments concerned. The Procuring Department has no responsibility to determine the validity of a stated requirement in an approved procurement request; however, it should bring to the attention of the Requiring Department apparent errors in the requirement. In coordinated procurement, the Procuring Department is authorized without referral to the Requiring Department, to deviate by 3 percent of the amount stated for each accounting classification, provided, that the sum of such deviation does not exceed 3 percent of the total amount cited in the MIPR. The Procuring Department is authorized to deviate by more than 3 percent in specific assigned commodity areas where mutual agreement has been reached and so indicated in the implementing procedures in accordance with DOD Directive 4115.28. This authorization will remain available to the Procuring Department until acceptance is completed, at which time any excess funds on the MIPR will be rescinded by the Requiring Department without the issuance of a formal amendment to the MIPR. The Requiring Department will authorize the percent variation on each MIPR, and will reserve a net amount sufficient to provide for such variation. If the deviation exceeds this percentage, referral to the Requiring Department will be necessary.

§ 5.1106–2 Determinations and findings.

(a) When procurement is by negotiation, the Procuring Department, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, shall make the determinations and findings in accordance with Subpart C, Part 3 of this subchapter with respect to coordinated procurement. The Requiring Department shall furnish with the procurement request the information required by the Procuring Department to develop the determinations and findings.

(b) With respect to 10 U.S.C. 2304 (a)(13), the Requiring Department shall make the determinations and findings in accordance with Subpart C, Part 3 of this subchapter. Two copies of the determinations and findings shall be attached to the procurement request and shall be utilized by the Procuring Department as authority for negotiation, and the Procuring Department need not make further determinations and findings.

(c) With respect to 10 U.S.C. 2304 (a)(16) and when the procurement agreements under § 5.1116 (as distinguished from single procurement) do not include mobilization planning responsibility, the Requiring Department shall make the determinations and findings in accordance with Subpart C, Part 3 of this subchapter. Two copies of the determinations and findings shall be attached to the procurement request and shall be utilized by the Procuring Department as authority for negotiation, and the Procuring Department need not make further determinations and findings. With respect to single procurement (§ 5.1100–2), the Procuring Department shall make the determinations and findings.

§ 5.1107 Components of end items.

§ 5.1107–1 Contractor-furnished components.

In the procurement of end items where the contractor normally secures all components thereof from his own source (not Government-furnished), the procurement assignment does not apply to the component items required by such contractor.

§ 5.1107–2 Government-furnished components.

In the procurement of end items where the Government furnishes components which are covered by a procurement assignment, such components shall be procured in accordance with the procurement assignment. However, direct purchase may be made by a Requiring Department in exceptional cases where agreement is reached with the Procuring Department.

§ 5.1107–3 Purchase of components over and above those initially purchased with the end item.

The Procurement of components covered by a procurement assignment, and above those initially purchased with the end item, shall be effected in accordance with the procurement assignment. However, direct purchase may be made by a Requiring Department in exceptional cases where agreement is reached with the Procuring Department.

§ 5.1108 Funds and payments.

§ 5.1108–1 Citation of appropriation and funds of Requiring Department.

Contracts and orders shall cite the appropriations or funds of the Requiring Department unless it is not considered feasible and economical to relate payments directly to the end item and ultimate use of the material under procurement. The Procuring Department will, for each commodity, determine which type of funding (direct citation or consolidated-reimbursable procurement) will generally be used. The conditions under which it is considered not feasible to cite the funds of the Requiring Department are:

(a) Procurement of the end item involves separate procurement of components to be assembled by the Procuring Department.

(b) At the time of acceptance of the purchase request (MIPR), it is not considered feasible to identify specific quantities of the end item with respective Requiring Department because of the possibility of allocation of the material upon a different basis as completed items are delivered.

(c) Payments will be made without reference to deliveries of end items; for example, cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts, and fixed-price contracts with progress payment clauses.

§ 5.1108–2 Citation of funds of Procuring Department.

In cases where citation of the funds of the Requiring Department is not feasible, funds of the Procuring Department will be cited subject to reimbursement upon delivery to the Requiring Department. In those cases, contracts and orders will provide for payment by the Procuring Department.

§ 5.1109 [Reserved]

§ 5.1110 Administrative costs.

The Procuring Department shall bear, without reimbursement therefor, the administrative costs incidental to its procurement of supplies for another Department. However, when a procurement responsibility is transferred from one Department to another Department, funds appropriated or to be appropriated for defraying the administrative costs of such procurement responsibility shall be made available to the successor Procuring Department which shall assume budget cognizance at the earliest possible date.

§ 5.1111 Inspection.

Policies and procedures concerning inspection and acceptance for use in conjunction with this Part are set forth in Part 14 of this subchapter.

§ 5.1112 Execution and administration of contracts.

Generally, the Procuring Department will execute a single contract where an award embodying the requirements of more than one Department is made to a single contractor. Administration of contracts shall be in accordance with the procedures developed by the Procuring Department in accordance with § 5.1103–1.

§ 5.1113 Status reporting.

Appropriate systems of followup shall be maintained by the Procuring Department in order that contracting personnel may be currently informed as to the performance by a contractor and to further insure that Requiring Departments are apprised of the status of contracts.

§ 5.1114 Specifications.

The Requiring Department shall be responsible for providing the Procuring Department a list of (or copies of) specifications required for purchase. Under no circumstances will the Procuring Department direct or authorize deviations or waivers from the specifications cited in the MIPR without express authority of the Requiring Department.

§ 5.1115 Transportation of supplies.

Subject to the provisions of Subpart M, Part 1 of this subchapter, every requisition or procurement request shall show the appropriation or fund and accounting classification chargeable for such transportation costs as may be incurred in effecting delivery at Government expense. Government bills of lading, when required, will generally be issued by the Procuring Department. In every instance, the Government bill of lading shall show (a) the Requiring Department as the Department to be billed, and (b) the appropriation or fund designated by that Department as the appropriation chargeable. Where Government bills of lading of the Procuring Department are used to cover shipment of supplies consigned to the Requiring Department, the bill of lading number shall be prefixed by the name of the Requiring Department.

§ 5.1116 Procurement agreements.

10 U.S.C. 2308 provides that Military Department heads by agreement may make such assignments and delegations of procurement responsibilities from one Military Department to another or may create such joint or combined procuring activities or agencies as they deem necessary or desirable. Nothing set forth in this Subchapter shall preclude the Military Departments from making agreements under 10 U.S.C. 2308 which do not violate the single procurement policies and procedures set forth in this subpart or in applicable Department of Defense Directives, Instructions, and regulations.

Chapter IV—Business and Defense Services Administration, Department of Commerce

[Foreign Excess Property Order 1 (Revised)]

PART 401—FOREIGN EXCESS PROPERTY

Small Lot Procedures; Appeals

On May 27, 1960, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 4690) a notice of proposed amendment of Foreign Excess Property Order No. 1 (Revised), Importation Into the United States of Nonagricultural Foreign Excess Property. Said notice provided for the submission of data, views or arguments in writing to the Foreign Excess Property Officer of the Department of Commerce within 20 days following the day of publication of the notice of proposed rule making. Data, views and arguments have been received in writing and have been considered.

Pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act insofar as it may be applicable hereto, Foreign Excess Property Order No. 1 (Revised) (24 F.R. 366), as amended, is further amended to include a new section, § 401.4a Small Lot Procedure, as follows:

§ 401.4a Small Lot Procedure.

(a) Small Lots of foreign excess property, as defined herein, shall be exempt from the requirements for investigation and finding in regard to shortage or other benefit to the economy.

(b) A Small Lot consists of a single item or article of foreign excess property, or a single lot of parts or components, which may be imported for the exclusive use of an applicant, the United States Government acquisition cost of which was not in excess of $10,000. A single lot of parts or components shall, for the purpose of this section, not exceed the number of such parts or components normally used, attached or, installed on a single complete item or article.

(c) To qualify for consideration under the Small Lot Procedure the following conditions must be met:

(1) The property must consist of a single Small Lot as defined in paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) The applicant must file an application to import a single Small Lot in accordance with the provisions of § 401.5. In lieu of the information required in Item 5 of Part I, the application must include the following statement:

This application is filed in accordance with and subject to the provisions of § 401.4a—Small Lot Procedure.

Such applications shall be known as Small Lot Applications.

(3) The applicant must submit evidence satisfactory to the FEPO that he has procured the property or that he proposes to procure the property directly from a United States Government agency, and of the United States Government acquisition cost of the property. Such evidence shall consist of the United States Government acquisition cost of the property as set forth on an actual or estimated basis in the Invitation for Bids; or, if no such actual or estimated acquisition cost is set forth in the Invitation for Bids, the acquisition cost shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be equal to ten times the applicant's bid or ten times the United States Government's sale price of the property, whichever shall be applicable.

(4) A Small Lot Application must set forth that the property is to be imported for the exclusive use of the applicant, that it will not be sold, rented, encumbered, loaned, or given away by the applicant for a period of two years from date of entry, and that bond will be furnished in accordance with paragraph (f) of this section to provide assurance against unauthorized diversion or use of the property.

(d) No person shall be authorized during any one year period to import under the Small Lot Procedure:

(1) More than one item or article, or more than one lot of parts or components, of the same or comparable alternative kind.

(2) More than two Small Lots.

(3) More than $10,000 of property expressed in terms of United States Government acquisition cost.

(e) Every FEP Import Determination and FEP Import Authorization issued pursuant to this section shall state that it is issued in accordance with the Small Lot Procedure, shall set forth the United States Government acquisition cost of the property, and shall refer to the requirement for furnishing bond contained in paragraph (f) of this section.

(f) A person to whom an FEP Import Authorization has been issued for a Small Lot must furnish, at the time of entry of the property, a bond to the Collector of Customs in an amount equal to the United States Government's acquisition cost as stated in the FEP Import Authorization. Such bond shall conform to the Bureau of Customs Forms 7551 or 7555 with the added condition:

There is incorporated in and made a part of the bond No. ——, dated ——, in the amount of $——, executed by ——, as principal, and ——, as surety, the following added condition:

Whereas, the principal named in the said bond has been permitted, in accordance with § 401.4a of Foreign Excess Property Order No. 1 (Revised), to enter merchandise subject to the provisions of section 402 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, and,

Whereas, the said obligors stipulate and agree that within two (2) calendar years of the date of entry of this property such property shall not be sold, rented, encumbered, loaned, or given away but shall be restricted to the exclusive use of the principal;

Now therefore, the added condition on this obligation is such that if during the two (2) year calendar period subsequent to the date of importation the principal named herein shall have retained said property in his possession and available for inspection by Customs officials, and if the said property shall not have been sold, rented, encumbered, loaned, or given away within said two (2) year period, and if at the end of said period the principal shall certify to the Collector of Customs at the port of entry that said property has been retained for the exclusive use of the principal and has not been sold, rented, encumbered, loaned, or given away, or in default thereof the obligors shall pay to the Collector of Customs as liquidated damages the full amount of the bond to which this special condition is attached;

Then this added condition shall be void, otherwise to remain in full force and effect.

(g) The Bureau of Customs shall retain custody of bonds furnished under this section and may take appropriate measures to secure compliance with the conditions and obligations of such bonds and for the enforcement thereof.

§ 401.13 [Amendment]

Section 401.13 Appeals is amended by adding subparagraph (5) to paragraph (b) thereof as follows:

(5) In determining that an applicant under the Small Lot Procedure established by § 401.4a has failed to meet the conditions specified therein.

(Sec. 402, 63 Stat. 398; 40 U.S.C. 512)

This amendment shall take effect upon the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Dated: July 19, 1960.

[7 CFR Part 1003]

DOMESTIC DATES PRODUCED OR PACKED IN DESIGNATED AREA OF CALIFORNIA

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Notice is hereby given that there is being considered a proposed amendment of §§ 1003.145 and 1003.155 of the administrative rules and regulations, as amended (Subpart—Rules and Regulations, 7 CFR 1003.100–1003.165), for operations under, and pursuant to, Marketing Agreement No. 127, as amended, and Order No. 103, as amended (7 CFR Part 1003), regulating the handling of domestic dates produced or packed in a designated area of California, effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674). The proposed amendment was recommended by the Date Administrative Committee, established under the amended marketing agreement and order.

Consideration will be given to any written data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are received by the Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C., not later than the eighth day after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such material should be submitted in triplicate.

The amendatory action hereinafter proposed is intended to assist handlers to develop export outlets for California dates. The proposed action would provide for the identification of restricted dates which are exported and approval of certain countries, in addition to the presently approved country of Mexico, to which handlers may export restricted dates provided the dates meet the minimum grade and size requirements for free dates, are in containers acceptable to the committee, and meet other requirements applicable to exportation of dates.

The proposal is to amend §§ 1003.145 (c)(1) and 1003.155(a) of the administrative rules and regulations (Subpart—Administrative Rules and Regulations; 7 CFR 1003.100–1003.165) in the following respects:

1. Amend the provisions of § 1003.145 (c)(1) by adding at the end thereof subdivision (iv) which shall read as follows:

(iv) Each handler shall mark all shipping containers (not including subcontainers) of dates for export pursuant to § 1003.55 in such manner as to indicate the appropriate lot number, and, except for exports to Mexico, the name of the handler or distributor. Such markings on shipping containers shall be legible and not less than five-sixteenths (5/16) inch in height on shipping containers exceeding five pounds net weight and not less than one-eighth (⅛) inch in height on all shipping containers of five pounds net weight or less. All shipping containers of dates to be exported to Mexico also shall be marked "Export Mexico" and such markings shall be legible and not less than three-fourths (¾) inch in height on shipping containers exceeding five pounds net weight and not less than one-eighth (⅛) inch in height on all shipping containers of five pounds net weight or less. The marking shall be done prior to or at the time the dates are inspected. Prior to such marking, the handler shall remove, delete or obliterate from each such container any former identifying marks other than those herein authorized. Upon the dates being inspected and certified as meeting the applicable grade and size requirements prescribed in, or pursuant to, §§ 1003.39, 1003.40, and 1003.155 the shipping containers shall, except those of dates destined for Mexico, be marked or otherwise identified by, or under the supervision of, the inspection agency with the date of inspection, the ensignia or name of inspection agency and the words "103—Export".

2. Amend the provisions of § 1003.155(a) to read as follows:

(a) By export. (1) The export of restricted dates to the following countries is approved pursuant to § 1003.55: Mexico and, subject to the conditions herein specified, all other countries not included in the annual determination of trade demand pursuant to § 1003.34 and not specified in connection with the annual establishment of volume percentages pursuant to § 1003.44. Prior to export, except exports to Mexico, such dates shall (i) be inspected and certified as meeting all of the requirements of, or those prescribed pursuant to, §§ 1003.39 and 1003.40, for free dates, and (ii) packed only in such containers of not more than four different sizes as the committee may determine to be appropriate and commonly used in commercial trade channels for dates. If these conditions are not complied with, the exportation of such dates shall be considered to be exportation of free dates and subject to requirements applicable to free dates.

(2) Upon completion of disposition by a handler of dates for export to Mexico, the handler shall furnish to the committee, on DAC Form 11a, a certification to the committee and the United States Department of Agriculture that such dates will not re-enter the United States or be re-shipped to Canada or any other country. Such certificate shall state: (i) The name of the handler; (ii) the date of shipment; (iii) the customs permit, passport or border crossing number of the person moving the dates into export; (iv) the quantity and variety of dates included in the shipment; (v) the destination of the dates as reported on DAC Form No. 8 pursuant to § 1003.164; (vi) the location of border crossing station through which such dates will be transported; (vii) the name and address of the Mexican importer. The certificate shall be signed by the handler and the person moving the dates into export. It may constitute the proof of exportation which the handler is required to submit pursuant to § 1003.164. The original copy of the certificate shall be forwarded by the handler to the committee on the day of sale, the duplicate shall accompany the shipment and shall be surrendered to the United States Customs Service at the Mexican border, and the triplicate shall be retained by the handler.

(3) The destination of all dates shipped pursuant to this paragraph shall be specified at time of shipment and the destination shall not be changed or the shipment otherwise diverted without prior approval of the committee.

Title 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Farm Marketing Quotas and Acreage Allotments), Department of Agriculture

[Amdt. 20]

PART 728—WHEAT

Subpart—Wheat Marketing Quota Regulations for 1958 and Subsequent Crop Years

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Basis and purpose. The amendments herein are issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and are for the purpose of (1) clarifying the provisions of the regulations relating to the issuance of marketing cards and certificates and (2) extending the interpretation provision that wheat delivered to the Secretary shall be free of all encumbrances to include all years subsequent to 1958.

With respect to the provisions relating to the issuance of marketing cards and certificates, a recent amendment to § 728.874(c) of the regulations (FEDERAL REGISTER of May 10, 1960, 25 F.R. 4130), provided that a producer who satisfies his proportionate share of the penalty on a farm marketing excess shall remain liable for the remainder of the penalty on the farm marketing excess, notwithstanding the apportionment of the penalty. The first two amendments are for the purpose of harmonizing §§ 728.867 (b) and (c) and 728.868(a) with the amendment to § 728.874(c).

The third amendment deleted the words "of the 1958 crop" from § 728.880(d) so that the provision will apply to 1958 and subsequent crop years as provided in § 728.850.

Since these amendments apply to the 1960 crop of wheat, it is important that they become effective as soon as possible. In addition, they are issued only for the purpose of clarifying certain provisions of the regulations. Accordingly, it is hereby found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and 30-day effective date provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 1003) is unnecessary, impracticable, and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, these amendments shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

1a. Section 728.867(b)(1) is amended to read as follows: "(1) if any producer on the farm owes any penalty for excess wheat for the current crop year or any preceding crop year,".

b. Section 728.867(b) is further amended by inserting the word "or" immediately preceding subparagraph (6) and by changing the comma after the word "operator" at the end of subparagraph (6) to a period and deleting the remainder of the sentence reading "or (7) if a producer's liability has been reduced to a proportionate share of the entire penalty.".

c. The second sentence of § 728.867 (c) is amended by inserting the word "and" immediately preceding subparagraph (2) and by changing the comma after the word "crop" at the end of subparagraph (2) to a period and deleting the remainder of the sentence reading "and (3) the producer's liability has not been reduced to a proportionate share of any such farm.".

2. The first sentence of § 728.868(a)(2) is amended to read as follows: "who has availed himself of the provisions of § 728.874(c),".

3. Section 728.880(d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) Interpretation. Any wheat delivered to the Secretary for the purpose of avoiding the penalty with respect to the farm marketing excess for any farm shall be free and clear of all encumbrances and particularly no wheat shall be accepted for such purpose if it is subject to storage charges or liens of any kind. Conveyance of the wheat to the Secretary shall be made by the execution and delivery of Form MQ–99—Wheat.

(Secs. 1, 55 Stat. 203, 375, 52 Stat. 66, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 1340, 1375)

Issued in Washington, D.C., this 20th day of July 1960.

Administrator,

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Lemon Reg. 855, Amdt. 1]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

Limitation of Handling

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953), regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such lemons as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restriction on the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b)(1)(ii) of § 953.962 (Lemon Regulation 855; 25 F.R. 6744) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(ii) District 2: 372,000 cartons.

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

SUBCHAPTER C—REGULATIONS UNDER SPECIFIC ACTS OF CONGRESS

PART 303—RULES AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE TEXTILE FIBER PRODUCTS IDENTIFICATION ACT

Fiber Content of Special Types of Products; Exclusions From the Act

On May 10, 1960, a notice of Proposed Rule Making was issued by the Commission and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 11, 1960. Such notice stated that the Commission would on June 6, 1960, at its offices in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, give consideration to an amendment of § 303.10 and 303.45 (Rules 10 and 45) of Part 303 Rules and Regulations under the Textile Fiber Products Identification Act. Such notice provided that interested parties might participate by submitting in writing to the Commission on or before such date their views, arguments or other data and further provided that written rebuttal could be submitted until June 13, 1960. A draft of the proposed amendments was made a part of the notice.

Pursuant to such notice, interested parties were afforded an opportunity to submit their views, arguments or other data in writing through June 6, 1960, and opportunity was afforded for the submission of written rebuttal until June 13, 1960. All views, arguments and data presented have been made a part of the record.

After due consideration of the proposed amendments, suggested revisions, deletions and additions thereto, together with all views, arguments, and other data submitted, the following amendments to § 303.10 and 303.45 (Rules 10 and 45) of Part 303 Rules and Regulations under the Textile Fiber Products Identification Act (72 Stat. 1717, 15 U.S.C. 70) are hereby promulgated. Inasmuch as all of the amendments involve a relaxation of the previous requirements of such Rules, such amendments are hereby made effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 7, 72 Stat. 1717; 15 U.S.C. 70e)

The amendments are as follows:

1. An amendment of § 303.10 (Rule 10) under the authority of section 7(c) so as to incorporate present § 303.10 (Rule 10) into paragraph (a) of amended § 303.10 (Rule 10) and to make certain changes therein for the purpose of clarifying the meaning of the Rule and to add a new paragraph (b) to § 303.10 (Rule 10) relating to the disclosure of the required fiber content information of drapery or upholstery fabrics manufactured on hand-operated looms for a particular customer after the sale of such fabric has been consummated where the amount of such order does not exceed 100 yards of fabric.

Section 303.10 (Rule 10) shall hereafter read:

§ 303.10 Fiber content of special types of products.

(a) (1) Where a textile product is made wholly of elastic yarn or material, with minor parts of non-elastic material for structural purposes, it shall be identified as to the percentage of the elastomer, together with the percentage of all textile coverings of the elastomer and all other yarns or materials used therein. (2) Where a textile fiber product is made in part of elastic material and in part of other fabric, the fiber content of such fabric shall be set forth sectionally by percentages as in the case of other fabrics. In such cases the elastic material may be disclosed by describing the material as elastic followed by a listing in order of predominance by weight of the fibers used in such elastic, including the elastomer, where such fibers are present by more than five percentum with the designation "other fiber" or "other fibers" appearing last when fibers required to be so designated are present. An example of labeling under this paragraph is:

Front and back non-elastic sections: 50% Acetate, 50% Cotton.
Elastic: Rayon, Cotton, Nylon, Rubber.

(b) Where drapery or upholstery fabrics are manufactured on hand-operated looms for a particular customer after the sale of such fabric has been consummated, and the amount of the order does not exceed 100 yards of fabric, the required fiber content disclosure may be made by listing the fibers present in order of predominance by weight with any fiber or fibers required to be designated as "other fiber" or "other fibers" appearing last, as for example:

Rayon.
Wool.
Acetate.
Metallic.
Other fibers.

§ 303.45 [Amendment]

2. An amendment of subdivision (xv) of paragraph (a) (1) of § 303.45 (Rule 45), so as to exclude certain flags from the operation of the Act pursuant to section 12(b) of the Act and under the conditions prescribed by § 303.45 (Rule 45). Section 303.45(a) (1) (xv) (Rule 45) shall hereafter read:

(xv) Flags with heading or more than 216 square inches in size.

3. An amendment of paragraph (a) of § 303.45 (Rule 45) by adding another subparagraph thereto. Such paragraph shall follow subparagraph (7) of paragraph (a) of § 303.45 (Rule 45) and shall read:

(8) All textile fiber products in a form ready for the ultimate consumer procured by the military services of the United States which are bought according to specifications, but shall not include those textile fiber products sold and distributed through post exchanges, sales commissaries, or ship stores; provided, however, that if the military services sell textile fiber products for nongovernmental purposes the information with respect to the fiber content of such products shall be furnished to the purchaser thereof who shall label such products in conformity with the Act and regulations before such products are distributed for civilian use.

By direction of the Commission.

Issued: July 25, 1960.

Title 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter II—Federal Reserve System

SUBCHAPTER A—BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

[Reg. A]

PART 201—ADVANCES AND DISCOUNTS BY FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS

Deed of Trust Notes

§ 201.102 Deed of trust notes issued under military housing program as collateral for advances.

(a) The Board of Governors has been asked for an opinion whether certain "Deed of Trust Notes", issued under the provisions of Title VIII of the National Housing Act in connection with the military housing program, are eligible as collateral for advances to member banks under any of the provisions of section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act.

(b) It is understood that the "Deed of Trust Notes" are issued by so-called "Capehart Corporations" and that the financing institutions which advance the funds for the housing construction look to the Defense Department for payment pursuant to a so-called guaranty agreement executed by the Secretary of Defense or his designee under which the United States undertakes to make each periodic payment which becomes due on the note without prior demand for such payment.

(c) After careful consideration of the questions involved, the Board has concluded that (1) the notes would not be eligible as collateral for 15-day advances under the eighth paragraph of section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act since the "Deed of Trust Notes" are not "bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness, or Treasury bills" as those words are used in the eighth paragraph; (2) the notes are not "such notes, drafts, bills of exchange, or bankers' acceptances" as are eligible for rediscount or for purchase by Federal Reserve Banks under the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act, and, accordingly, they are not eligible as collateral for 90-day advances under paragraph eight of section 13; and (3) the notes are not eligible for advances under the last paragraph of section 13 which authorizes 90-day advances to any individual, partnership, or corporation on promissory notes secured by direct obligations of the United States.

(d) Some comment seems desirable with respect to (3) above. Notwithstanding the fact that in a broad sense the Government's contract to make periodic payments on the notes without prior demand appears to be a direct obligation of the United States, it is the Board's view that the Government's contract does not constitute such an obligation within the meaning of the last paragraph of section 13. Under that paragraph, advances by Reserve Banks are authorized on such obligations subject to such "limitations, restrictions, and regulations" as the Board may prescribe. While the term "direct obligations of the United States" is not specifically defined in this Part 201, nevertheless in two places in paragraph (a) of § 201.3, the term is parenthetically defined as meaning only bonds, notes, Treasury bills, or certificates of indebtedness of the United States. Clearly this evidences an intent that the term shall have that meaning wherever it is used in Part 201.

(e) Of course, the "Deed of Trust Notes" are eligible for advances under section 10(b) of the Federal Reserve Act although at a rate of interest not less than one-half of one percent per annum higher than the highest rate applicable to discounts for member banks then in effect.

(Sec. 11(i), 38 Stat. 262; 12 U.S.C. 248(i). Interprets or applies sec. 13, 38 Stat. 263 as amended; 12 U.S.C. 347, 347c)

Dated at Washington, D.C., this 8th day of July 1960.

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 120—TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

Methylene Chloride and 1,1,1-Trichloroethane; Exemptions From the Requirements of Tolerances

A petition was filed with the Food and Drug Administration by The Brogdex Company, Pomona, California, requesting the establishment of a zero tolerance for residues of methylene chloride and an exemption from the requirement of a tolerance for residues of 1,1,1-trichloroethane from use of a combination of these two pesticide chemicals in the postharvest treatment of citrus fruits.

The Secretary of Agriculture has certified that these pesticide chemicals are useful for the purpose of which exemptions are being established.

After consideration of the data submitted in the petition and other relevant material which show that the exemptions from the requirement of a tolerance established in this order will protect the public health, and by virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408(d)(2), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U.S.C. 346a(d)(2)) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (21 CFR 120.7(g)), the regulations for tolerances for pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities (21 CFR Part 120) are amended in the following respects:

1. Section 120.170 is amended to read as follows:

§ 120.170 Exemption of methylene chloride from the requirement of a tolerance.

Methylene chloride is exempted from the requirement of a tolerance for residues:

(a) When used as a fumigant for the following grains: Barley, corn, oats, popcorn, rice, rye, sorghum (milo), wheat.

(b) When used in the postharvest fumigation of citrus fruits.

2. Part 120 is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 120.179 Exemption of 1,1,1-trichloroethane from the requirement of a tolerance.

1,1,1-Trichloroethane is exempted from the requirement of a tolerance for residues when used in the postharvest fumigation of citrus fruits.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C., written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order, specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Effective date. This order shall be effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 59-WA-389]

PART 608—RESTRICTED AREAS

Revocation

On November 11, 1959, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (24 F.R. 9217) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to revoke the Sheboygan, Wis., Restricted Area (R-83c), (Milwaukee and Green Bay Charts).

As stated in the notice, the Federal Aviation Agency is currently reviewing the utilization of all existing restricted areas. This review is based upon all data available to the Federal Aviation Agency, including any received in response to Special Airspace Regulation No. 1 (24 F.R. 5898). Several comments were received in response to the notice, objecting to the proposal. The factual information contained in the comments are briefly outlined as follows:

The Adjutant General, State of Ohio, protested the revocation of Restricted Area (R-83c) on the basis that four tactical fighter squadrons of the Ohio Air National Guard utilized the Restricted Area (R-83) complex during the summer of 1959. He furnished no information as to the number of aircraft involved, time of use, type of aircraft or if Restricted Area (R-83c) was specifically used by his units.

The 131st Tactical Fighter Wing, St. Louis, Mo., of the Missouri Air National Guard objected to the proposal and requested action be deferred, but provided no data as to the number and type of aircraft that utilized Restricted Area (R-83c) nor the time of use.

The Commander of the District of Columbia Air National Guard objected to the proposal on the basis that his unit utilized the area during the summer of 1959, for an average of 42 weapons sorties per day for 11 days.

The Departments of the Navy and Air Force objected to the proposal and requested the whole Central Lake Michigan Restricted Area Complex (R. 83 a, b and c) be studied by a Federal Aviation Agency Regional Special Use Airspace Team. The Federal Aviation Agency has reviewed the activities in these restricted areas and is of the opinion that a Special Use Airspace Team study is not necessary.

The Adjutant General and Governor of the State of Wisconsin objected to the proposal because Restricted Area (R-83c) is used by units of the Wisconsin Air National Guard and Reserve Units for training. However, the Wisconsin State Aeronautics Commission concurred in the proposal because the area as it is now designated prevents the use of a natural flyway between the cities of Manitowoc, Sheboygan, and Milwaukee, Wis., and also prevents the development of the proper instrument runway alignment for the Sheboygan County Airport.

The Department of the Army which is the controlling agency for Restricted Area (R-83c), declared the area excess to their needs and requested that the Federal Aviation Agency transfer control to the Wisconsin Air National Guard. No action has been taken on the Army's request by this agency as no justification has been received indicating a need for or planned use of the area. As a matter of interest, no report on the area as required by Special Airspace Regulation No. 1 (24 F.R. 5898) has been received to date for Restricted Area (R-83c).

In view of the absence of sufficient justification by any agency to support the continued designation of Restricted Area (R-83c), the Federal Aviation Agency is revoking this restricted area. The effective date of this action shall be September 22, 1960, so there will be no interruption to any training activities that The Department of the Air Force have scheduled in this area during the summer months of 1960.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, the following action is taken:

In § 608.57 Wisconsin, the Sheboygan, Wis., Restricted Area (R-83c) (Milwaukee and Green Bay Charts) (24 F.R. 2234) is revoked.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. September 22, 1960.

(Secs. 307(a), 313(a), 72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 20, 1960.

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

Miscellaneous Alterations

The new and revised standard instrument approach procedures appearing hereinafter are adopted to become effective and/or canceled when indicated in order to promote safety. The revised procedures supersede the existing procedures of the same classification now in effect for the airports specified therein. For the convenience of the users, the revised procedures specify the complete procedure and indicate the changes to the existing procedures. Pursuant to authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 5662), I find that a situation exists requiring immediate action in the interest of safety, that notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable, and that good cause exists for making this amendment effective on less than thirty days' notice.

Part 609 (14 CFR, Part 609) is amended as follows:

1. The low or medium frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.100(a) are amended to read in part:

When in the opinion of any Federal, State, or local officer having custody of forfeited, condemned, or abandoned cigarette papers or tubes, upon which the Federal tax has not been paid, the sale thereof will not bring a price equal to such tax due and payable thereon, and the expenses incident to the sale thereof, he shall not sell, nor cause to be sold, such papers and tubes for consumption in the United States. Where the cigarette papers and tubes are not sold, the officer may deliver them to a Federal or State hospital or institution, or cause their destruction. Where such papers and tubes are sold, they shall not be released by the officer having custody thereof until they are properly packaged and taxpaid, which tax shall be considered as a portion of the sales price. § 285.35 Variations from requirements.

The Director may in case of emergency approve methods of operation other than those provided for by this part, where it is shown that variations from the requirements are necessary, will not hinder the effective administration of this part, will not jeopardize the revenue, and are not contrary to any provision of law. Any person, subject to the provisions of this part, who proposes to employ methods of operation other than as provided in this part, shall submit an application so to do, in triplicate, to the assistant regional commissioner. Such application shall describe the proposed variations and state the necessity therefor. The assistant regional commissioner shall make such inquiry as is necessary to ascertain the necessity for the variations and whether approval thereof will hinder the effective administration of this part or result in jeopardy to the revenue. On completion of the inquiry, the assistant regional commissioner will forward two copies of the application to the Director, together with a report of his findings and his recommendation. Variations from requirements granted under this section are conditioned on compliance with the procedures, conditions, and limitations with respect thereto set forth in the approval of the application. Failure to comply in good faith with such procedures, conditions, and limitations shall automatically terminate the authority for such variations and the person granted the variations shall thereupon fully comply with the prescribed requirements of the regulations from which the variations were authorized.

In the case of a manufacturer commencing business, the production, receipts from other factories, and releases to him from customs custody, without payment of tax, shall be estimated for the purpose of this section. The assistant regional commissioner shall refuse to approve any strengthening bond where any notation is made thereon which is intended or which may be construed as a release of any former bond, or as limiting the amount of either bond to less than its full amount.

Upon receipt of an approved bond or extension of coverage of bond from the assistant regional commissioner, such bond or extension of coverage of bond shall be retained by the manufacturer of cigarette papers and tubes in his factory and shall be made available for inspection by any internal revenue officer upon his request.

When the assistant regional commissioner is satisfied that it is no longer necessary to hold such security, he shall fix the date or dates on which a part or all of such security may be released. Part 3, Chapter I of Title 38 of the Code of Federal Regulations, is amended by adding § 3.1544 as follows:

§ 3.1544 Change in method of determining basic pay for purposes of computing dependency and indemnity compensation under Public Law 86-492.

(a) Provisions of law. Public Law 86-492 amends 38 U.S.C. 402, by adding the following new subsection:

(d) If a veteran has satisfactorily served on active duty for a period of six months or more in a rank higher than that specified in subsection (a) or (b) and was so serving in such rank within one hundred and twenty days before death in the active military, naval, or air service or before last discharge or release from active duty under conditions other than dishonorable, his basic pay shall be determined by using the appropriate rank specified in those subsections or by substituting such higher rank for the rank specified in those subsections, whichever will result in a greater amount. The determination as to whether an individual has served satisfactorily for the required period in a higher rank shall be made by the Secretary of the Department in which such higher rank was held.

(b) Effect of the act. (1) It liberalizes the criteria for determining basic pay for purposes of dependency and indemnity compensation in a limited number of widow cases.

(2) Subsequent to June 8, 1960, the applicable service department will certify basic pay based on the rank and years of service that will provide the higher rate.

(3) The service department is responsible for determining whether the veteran served satisfactorily in a higher rank for at least 6 months during active service and held such rank within 120 days of discharge or death.

(c) Effective date. The date of enactment of this act was June 8, 1960. No increase in the rate of dependency and indemnity compensation based solely on its liberalizing provisions may be made effective prior to date of enactment or date of claim, formal or informal, whichever is later.

(1) Pending claims. The effective date of an increased rate of dependency and indemnity compensation as to a claim pending on the date of enactment will be June 8, 1960, if evidence otherwise establishes entitlement on that date. Pending claims will include:

(i) A claim not previously adjudicated.

(ii) A previously disallowed claim pending consideration on appeal.

(iii) A previously disallowed claim reopened by the receipt of any claim, evidence or inquiry on which action was pending on date of enactment.

(iv) A previously disallowed claim reopened by the receipt of any claim, evidence or inquiry after date of enactment but within the appeal period.

(2) New claims. All other claims, formal or informal, received on or after June 8, 1960, will be considered initial claims for the purpose of this law and the effective date will be determined under applicable laws and regulations relating to original claims but not earlier than June 8, 1960. (Instruction 1, 38 U.S.C. 402, Public Law 86-429)

The marriage requirements in 38 U.S.C. 303, as amended, are now identical with those in 38 U.S.C. 404.

(2) This liberalizing change will have a very limited application. Death compensation currently is payable only where the veteran died prior to January 1, 1957, or where he died after April 30, 1957, while having in force a contract of United States Government life insurance or National Service life insurance under an inservice waiver of premiums pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 724. Even in such cases, the change would be applicable only if no child were born of the marriage and the widow had not been married to the veteran for 5 or more years.

(c) Effective date. The law becomes effective on the date of enactment, June 8, 1960. The provisions of this paragraph apply to claims which are allowed solely because of its liberalizing provisions and are subject to the rule that the effective date may not be earlier than the date of enactment.

(1) Pending claims. Where otherwise in order, the effective date of an award as to a claim pending on the date of approval of the act will be June 8, 1960. For the purposes of this subparagraph a pending claim will include:

(i) A claim not previously disallowed by the Adjudication activity of original jurisdiction.

(ii) A previously disallowed claim pending consideration on appeal.

(iii) A previously disallowed claim reopened by the receipt of any claim, evidence or inquiry, in which action was pending on June 8, 1960.

(iv) A previously disallowed claim reopened by the receipt of any claim, evidence or inquiry, after June 8, 1960, but within the appeal period.

(2) New claims. All other claims, formal or informal, received on or after June 8, 1960, will be considered initial claims for the purpose of this act and the effective date will be determined under applicable laws and regulations relating to original claims but not earlier than June 8, 1960. PART 3—VETERANS CLAIMS

New Effective Date for Payment of Additional Compensation for Dependents

Part 3, Chapter I of Title 38 of the Code of Federal Regulations, is amended by adding § 3.1546 as follows:

§ 3.1846 New effective date for payment of additional compensation for dependents.

(a) Provisions of the law. The law provides that section 3011, Title 38, United States Code, is amended to read:

The effective date of an award of increased compensation, dependency and indemnity compensation, or pension (amending, reopening, or supplementing a previous award, authorizing any payments not previously authorized to the individual involved) shall be fixed in accordance with the facts found, but shall not be earlier than the date of receipt of evidence showing entitlement thereto, except as hereafter provided. Additional compensation on account of dependents based on the establishment of a disability rating in the percentage evaluation specified by law for the purpose shall be payable from the effective date of such rating provided the basic proof of dependents is received in the Veterans' Administration within sixty days from the date of notification of such rating action.

(b) Effect of the act—(1) Prior law. Before the enactment of Public Law 86–490, the additional compensation for dependents following a rating increasing the evaluation to 50 percent or more disabling was payable from the date the evidence establishing the dependent was received.

(2) Present law. Under Public Law 86–490, the additional compensation will be payable from the effective date of the increased evaluation to 50 percent or more if basic proof of dependent(s) is received within 60 days from date of Veterans Administration notification of increased disability.

(3) Basic proof—(i) Marriage. The basic proof of marriage will be the evidence described in §§ 3.49 and 3.50 as well as the secondary evidence described in § 3.48, e.g., a copy of the public record of marriage.

(ii) Birth and relationship. The basic proof to establish the relationship and date of birth of a child or relationship of a parent will be the evidence described in §§ 3.45 and 3.46 as well as secondary evidence described in § 3.48. In claims involving additional compensation for dependent parents the basic proof will consist of evidence of relationship and dependency.

(4) Substantiating evidence. The veteran will be given 1 year in which to perfect the claim for increase for dependents, e.g., if the basic proof (record of marriage) is received within 60 days, he will have 1 year from date of Veterans Administration request to submit any substantiating evidence (such as decree of divorce) to show dissolution of a prior marriage.

(c) Effective date. Payment of additional compensation for a dependent by reason of Public Law 86–490 will be from the effective date of the increased evaluation to 50 percent or more or the date of enactment of Public Law 86–490, whichever is the later whenever basic proof received on or after June 8, 1960, is within 60 days from date of Veterans Administration notification of increased evaluation and substantiating evidence is received within 1 year from date of Veterans Administration request therefor. [Docket No. AO–320]

HANDLING OF ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, AND TANGERINES GROWN IN TEXAS

Notice of Recommended Decision and Opportunity To File Written Exceptions With Respect to Proposed Marketing Agreement and Order

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed marketing agreement and order regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, and tangerines grown in Texas, to be effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674), hereinafter referred to as the "act." Interested parties may file written exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 112, Administration Building, Washington 25, D.C., not later than the close of business of the fifteenth day after publication of this recommended decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The public hearing, on the record of which the proposed marketing agreement and order (hereinafter referred to collectively as the "order") were formulated, was held at Weslaco, Texas, on May 24–28, 1960, pursuant to a notice thereof which was published April 28, 1960, in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 3728). Such notice set forth a proposed marketing agreement and order which had been presented to the Department of Agriculture by Texas Citrus Mutual and the Valley Farm Bureau, with a request for a hearing thereon.

Material issues. The material issues presented on the record of the hearing are as follows:

(1) The existence of the right to exercise Federal jurisdiction in this instance;

(2) The need for the proposed regulatory program to effectuate the declared purpose of the act;

(3) The definition of the commodity and determination of the production area to be affected by the order;

(4) The identity of the persons and transactions to be regulated; and

(5) The specific terms and provisions of the order including:

(a) Definition of terms used therein which are necessary and incidental to attain the declared objectives of the act, and including those set forth in the notice of hearing, among which are those applicable to the following additional terms and provisions;

(b) The establishment, maintenance, composition, powers, duties, and operation of a committee which shall be the administrative agency for assisting the Secretary in administration of the program;

(c) The incurring of expenses and the levying of assessments;

(d) Authority to establish marketing research and development projects;

(e) The method for regulating shipments of citrus fruits grown in the production area;

(f) The provision of exemptions and the establishment of special regulation for citrus fruits handled in certain types of shipments or for certain specified purposes;

(g) The requirement for inspection and certification of citrus fruits handled;

(h) The establishment of reporting requirements for handlers;

(i) The requirement of compliance with all provisions of the order and with regulations issued pursuant thereto; and

(j) Additional terms and conditions as set forth in §§ 1031.52 through 1031.62, which are common to marketing agreements and orders, and certain other terms and conditions as set forth in §§ 1031.63 through 1031.85, which are common to marketing agreements only, all of which were included in the notice of hearing published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on April 28, 1960 (25 F.R. 3728).

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions on the aforementioned material issues, all of which are based on the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof, are as follows:

(1) Commercial production of citrus fruits in Texas is confined to the southernmost counties bordering, or near, the Rio Grande River, with approximately 99 percent of such production located in Hidalgo, Cameron, and Willacy counties. In the late 1940's, there were approximately 13 million citrus fruit trees in the Lower Rio Grande Valley in Texas, of which about three-fourths were grapefruit trees. Production from such plantings during the 1947–48 season totaled 23.2 million boxes of grapefruit and 9.2 million boxes of oranges. Successive freezes in 1949 and 1951 practically wiped out the citrus fruit industry in Texas; and total production of oranges and grapefruit during the 1951–52 season was only 500,000 boxes.

Production of citrus fruits in Texas, other than oranges and grapefruit, is small and reference to "citrus fruits" or "fruit" in this decision, as is the case in the Texas citrus industry generally, refers only to oranges and grapefruit unless the context indicates otherwise.

Following the freeze in 1951, the replanting of citrus fruit trees in the Rio Grande Valley in Texas was begun and it is estimated there are now approximately 7.2 million citrus fruit trees of all ages in Hidalgo, Cameron, and Willacy counties. Production of oranges and grapefruit from such plantings during the 1959–60 season is estimated at 2.8 and 5.5 million boxes, respectively. Production from these young citrus fruit groves may be expected to increase rapidly and it was estimated, at the hearing, that within the next five years, or during the 1964–65 season, grapefruit production would total approximately 14.0 million boxes and orange production about 9.8 million boxes.

Texas oranges and grapefruit are distributed widely in the United States and are exported to Canada and other foreign countries. For several years following the 1951 freeze, the production of Texas citrus fruits was marketed primarily in the Southwestern and Western States because transportation costs to these markets were substantially less than those for citrus fruits produced in Florida and the Texas industry could market its small production advantageously in this area. However, as the volume of production of Texas citrus fruits has increased, it has been necessary to expand the market area.

Markets within the State of Texas are important outlets for Texas citrus fruits. At the present time, approximately 25 percent of the fresh shipments of Texas citrus fruits is sold within the State. During the 1958–59 season, unloads of Texas citrus fruits in the Texas markets of Dallas, Fort Worth, and Houston each were greater than for any other individual market. However, it is known that a considerable quantity of the fruit included in such unloads is later transshipped to other destinations, many of which are outside the State. It is a common practice for truckers to assemble mixed loads of citrus fruits in the larger cities in Texas and to transport them to destinations in Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, and other Western States.

Any handling of Texas citrus fruits in fresh market channels exerts a direct influence on all other handling of such citrus fruits in fresh form. It is the primary objective of all handlers of citrus fruits, as well as other commodities, to obtain the highest possible return for the commodities they have for sale. Handlers of citrus fruits, therefore, continually survey all accessible markets so that advantage may be taken of the best possible opportunity to market the fruit. Markets within the State of Texas provide opportunities to dispose of citrus fruits the same as the markets within any other State. If shipments of citrus fruits to markets outside Texas were regulated while those within the State were unregulated, growers and handlers would attempt to market within the State the lower quality citrus fruits which could not be shipped under regulation. This would depress the price of citrus fruits in the Texas markets. Buyers generally have ready access to market information; and knowledge of lower prices in one market is used in bargaining for citrus fruits to be shipped into other markets, including markets outside the State of Texas. Moreover, with substantial quantities of poor quality citrus fruits burdening markets in the State of Texas, there would be little opportunity to sell in such markets citrus fruits meeting the requirements of the regulations established. The larger quantity of citrus fruits which would be required to be sold in interstate markets under such circumstances, would tend to lower the level of prices in the interstate markets.

The movement of citrus fruits by truck in complete loads is increasing. It is customary to load citrus fruits on trucks at the packing shed. Often the buyer may not know the final destination of the citrus fruits at time of purchase. If the market is less favorable in the State of Texas than elsewhere, the purchaser moves the citrus fruits to a more favorable market outside the State. This, coupled with the transshipment of citrus fruits from Texas markets such as Dallas and Houston, would make it virtually impossible to effect compliance with regulations governing interstate shipments if shipments to markets within the State were unregulated. Because of the foregoing, it is concluded that the movement and sale of Texas citrus fruits, whether to a market within the State of Texas or outside thereof, directly affect prices of all citrus fruits grown in the production area. Therefore, it is hereby found that all handling of citrus fruits grown in the production area is either in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce. Hence, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, all handling of citrus fruits grown in the production area should be subject to the authority of the act and of the order.

(2) The evidence presented at the hearing indicates that the current trend of citrus fruit production in Texas is sharply upward. During the season following the disastrous freeze of 1951, the total production of oranges and grapefruit was 300,000 and 200,000 boxes, respectively. The immediate rebuilding of the citrus industry was delayed by the lack of sufficient nursery stock, but a tree census in July 1955, showed there were approximately 2,683,000 grapefruit trees and 2,050,000 orange trees planted in the three lower Rio Grande Valley counties of Willacy, Cameron, and Hidalgo. Estimates presented indicate that since that time an additional 2,800,000 orange and grapefruit trees have been planted in the lower Valley; and it is anticipated that from 300,000 to 400,000 citrus fruit trees may be planted in this area each year for the next 10 to 15 years. Citrus fruit trees generally produce a commercial crop about five years after planting but the maximum bearing stage is not reached until the trees are 15 or more years old. The fact that few of the citrus fruit trees planted in the lower Valley have reached the maximum bearing stage gives an indication of the marketing problems developing within the industry.

During this same period, there has been increases in the production of citrus fruits in other producing areas of the United States, particularly in Florida. For the 5-year period 1945–49 the average annual production of oranges and grapefruit in Florida was approximately 55.7 million boxes and 29.7 million boxes, respectively; and in the 5-year period 1955–59 such production was approximately 89.0 and 34.5 million boxes, respectively.

It is particularly important in view of the prospective increase in the production of citrus fruits in Texas and in other producing areas, that the oranges and grapefruit that the Texas industry markets in fresh fruit channels be of desirable grade, quality, size, and maturity. Before the 1951 freeze, the quality of the Texas grapefruit shipped to the fresh market was very good and the industry was the major supplier of grapefruit throughout the Middle Western and Rocky Mountain States. Following the 1951 freeze, however, shippers generally began to market the entire production in fresh fruit channels, including the less desirable grades and sizes. Recently, as the production of Texas citrus fruits has increased, growers and handlers have endeavored, through industry organization to improve the quality of the fruit marketed. However, the handlers of Texas citrus fruits have, in most instances, continued individually to make their decisions concerning the marketing of the supplies available to them.

As the supplies of Texas oranges and grapefruit available for market have increased, fruit of poor quality and appearance and of less desirable size could be sold only at discounts from the prices prevailing for the better fruit. Such price differentials reflect the consumer preferences for the various grades and sizes of citrus fruits. However, competition in the marketing of citrus fruits is based to a considerable extent on price, and the offering of fruit of less desirable quality and size at discounts tends to depress prices for the preferred grades and sizes.

The level of market prices and total returns to growers could be augmented by making only the more preferred grades, sizes, and qualities of citrus fruits available in the fresh markets. Such results could be obtained under a marketing agreement and order by prohibiting the handling of a portion or all of the discounted grades and sizes of citrus fruits. Such limitations would tend to increase consumer satisfaction and stimulate demand. Moreover, shipments of citrus fruits of undesirable quality and size are made at times that do not return the cash costs of harvesting and marketing. Limitation of shipments of fruit of such quality and size would not only improve the quality and size composition of the citrus fruits shipped but would also improve returns to producers by preventing the losses so incurred.

It is concluded, therefore, that the adoption of a marketing order regulating the handling of Texas citrus fruits would contribute to the establishment of more orderly marketing of such fruit and would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. The objective under such order should be the tailoring of the supply of citrus fruits available for sale in fresh market channels to the demand in such outlet so that the fruit thus made available to buyers will be packed uniformly and be of desirable size and quality. Such limitations on the handling of Texas citrus fruits should tend to increase the demand for, and to improve returns to the producers of, such fruit.

(3) The term "fruit" should be defined in the order to identify the commodity to be regulated thereunder. Such term, as used in the order, should include the citrus fruits classified botanically as citrus grandis, Osbeck, and citrus sinensis, Osbeck, which are grown in the production area. Such fruits are commonly called grapefruit and oranges, respectively. The term should not include the so-called Temple oranges. Temple oranges are grown in the production area in limited volume only and probably are a tangor—a hybrid of an orange and tangerine.

It was proposed in the notice of hearing that tangerines also should be included among the citrus fruits to be regulated under the order. Evidence presented at the hearing shows that only about 16,000 tangerine trees were planted in Cameron, Willacy, and Hidalgo counties in Texas in July 1955, and no evidence was presented to indicate there has been any significant increase in the plantings of tangerine trees in this area since that time. While tangerines represented about 20 percent of the plantings of citrus fruit trees in other citrus fruit producing counties of the State, as of July 1955, and it was indicated at the hearing that the planting of tangerine trees in such counties is being increased, these counties should not, for reasons hereinafter discussed, be included in the production area covered by the order.

Tangerines are used primarily in "mixed car" shipments and in specialty gift packages. Data relating to the volume of shipments and inspections of tangerines included some tangerines produced in Mexico which are brought into the Valley by handlers and reshipped to other destinations. It is concluded, therefore, that need for an order at this time to regulate the handling of tangerines grown in Texas has not been established by the evidence of record and that tangerines should not be included under the order.

The term "variety" should be defined in the order, as hereinafter set forth, since it is proposed, for reasons hereinafter discussed, to provide authority for separate regulations for different varieties of oranges and grapefruit. Some varieties of oranges, and also of grapefruit, are marketed during the same period and are sufficiently similar in characteristics that it would not be practical to attempt to apply different regulations to such fruits. For example, early and midseason varieties of oranges, such as Hamlin, Parson Brown, Jaffa, Marrs, and Pineapple, have marketing seasons which coincide or overlap. Representatives of the inspection services testified that it would not be practical to attempt to certify the particular variety of such oranges that may be included in individual shipments. Nor is it necessary to do so since, in order to establish orderly marketing conditions for such fruit, the same quality and size limitations should be applied. Hence, the term "variety," as used in the order, should refer to the groupings or classifications of citrus fruits as set forth therein.

A definition of production area should be set forth in the order to delineate the area in which the citrus fruits to be regulated are grown. Citrus fruit production in Texas is concentrated in the lower Rio Grande Valley counties of Cameron, Willacy, and Hidalgo. Since this area, by reason of soil, climate, and the availability of irrigation water, is the most suited of any in the State for citrus fruit production, it is likely to continue as the major producing area.

There are some citrus fruits produced in Brooks, Dimmit, Starr, and Webb counties in Texas. Data presented at the hearing show that, as of July 1, 1955, there were about 31,000 orange trees and 1,700 grapefruit trees planted in these counties. Estimates of the current acreage of orange and grapefruit groves in this area, presented at the hearing, indicate there has been increased planting since 1955; and it was indicated that some substantial plantings of tangerines are planned for this area. The volume of production that currently is available in these counties, however, is small in relation to the total for the entire citrus producing area in Texas. Moreover, even if the planned new acreage is planted immediately it will be at least 5 years before there would be any substantial volume of citrus fruits produced in this area.

The production area comprising the three lower Rio Grande Valley counties would have a natural boundary on two sides—the Mexican border and the Gulf of Mexico. To the North and West is an area of brush and ranch land and a limited number of roads leading from the lower valley through this land. The Texas State Department of Agriculture has check stations on all of these highways. Thus, if the production area is confined to the three lower valley counties, there already exists facilities for checking all truck shipments for compliance with the regulations. The other citrus producing counties are some distance from the lower valley counties and no existing facilities would be available for checking such compliance in those counties. The increased cost of administration of the program in the larger area would be excessive in relation to the benefits that might accrue from including all of such area within the scope of the order.

It is concluded, therefore, that the production area should include only the three lower Rio Grande Valley counties and such term should be defined as hereinafter set forth.

It was stated at the hearing that citrus growers in Brooks and Dimmit counties were known to have collected, from the nearby markets in Texas, boxes which had the brand labels of handlers in the lower valley affixed thereon, and that such boxes were used to market ungraded fruit produced in such counties. It was argued that fruit shipped from such counties should be subject to the order regulations since the marketing of this ungraded fruit was detrimental to the handler whose label was affixed to these boxes of fruit. It is not necessary to include this production under the order for this purpose, however, as there are other laws dealing with the marketing of fruits and other commodities in containers which misrepresent the grade of the product contained therein and recourse to such laws is available if the situation warrants.

(4) The term "handler" should be defined in the order to identify the persons who are subject to regulation under the program. Since it is the handling of fruit that is regulated, the term "handler" should apply to all persons who place fruit in commerce by performing any of the activities within the scope of the term "handle," as hereinafter described. In other words, any person who is responsible for the sale or transportation of fruit, or who in any other way places fruit in commerce, should be a handler under the order and be required to carry out such activities in accordance with the order provisions. However, the transportation by a common or contract carrier of fruit owned by another person should not be considered as making such carrier a "handler" as, in such instances, the carrier is performing services for hire and is not responsible for the quality or pack of the commodity. Of course, if the carrier is the owner of the fruit being transported, such carrier would be the handler the same as any other person who may primarily be engaged in another business—such as producer or retailer—but at times he is also a handler of fruit. As handler representation on the administrative agency established under the order is divided between the cooperative marketing organizations which are handlers and all other, or "independent," han-ditors, the term "independent handler" should be defined in the order and should mean any handler other than a cooperative marketing organization.

The term "handle" or "ship" should be defined to identify those activities that it is necessary to regulate in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Such activities include all phases of selling and transporting which place fruit in the channels of commerce between the production area to any point outside thereof in the United States, Canada, or Mexico. The handling of fruit begins after the fruit is picked from the trees and includes each of the successive activities until the fruit reaches its final destination. The performance of any one or more of these activities, such as selling (including consignment and delivery), or transporting by any person, either directly or through others, should constitute handling. In order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, each such person should be required, except as hereinafter indicated, to limit such handling of oranges and grapefruit to fruit which conforms to the applicable regulations under the order.

It is usual for citrus fruits, after picking, to be sorted, graded, packed, or otherwise prepared for market. Such preparation for market generally is performed at a packinghouse. The grower, in such instances, properly relies on the person preparing the fruit for market to see that it meets all applicable requirements for marketing before being shipped. Moreover, such activities, if performed, are preliminary to placing the fruit in marketing channels. It would not be practical and would unnecessarily complicate the administration of the order to endeavor to require persons engaged in the preparation of fruit for market to meet the requirements of regulations under the program until after such preparation. Therefore, movement within the production area from the citrus fruit grove to the place within the production area where the fruit will be prepared for market and activity in connection with such preparation should not be covered as handling subject to regulation.

Oranges and grapefruit may be sold, at times, at the groves where grown to truckers who transport the fruit from such points to markets outside the production area. Such sale or delivery of fruit to the trucker, and the subsequent movement to market, are each handling transactions. Any person, whether grower, packinghouse operator, trucker, or others, who sells or transports fruit, either directly or through others, would therefore be a handler under the order by virtue of such transaction. Each such person should have the responsibility of assuring himself that the fruit he handles meet all applicable regulations in effect at the time of handling. Compliance with the regulations which are authorized by the order can readily be determined by the person who is responsible for grading and otherwise preparing the fruit for market. The primary responsibility for determining whether a particular lot of oranges or grapefruit conforms to the applicable regulations should rest with the person who places such lot, or causes it to be placed, in the current of the regulated commerce. In most cases, such person will be the one who was responsible for grading and preparing the fruit for market. However, all subsequent handlers also should be responsible for seeing that any regulations applicable to the fruit are met at the time such persons handle the fruit. This can readily be ascertained by determining that the fruit has been inspected and certified as meeting such regulations or by having it inspected.

While some fruit is handled for consumption within the production area, most of the transportation of fruit within such area is from groves to packinghouses or to canning plants. The quantity of fruit handled for consumption within the area is so small in relation to the total movement, and the difficulties of enforcing regulations for fruit so marketed would be so great, that such handling should not be regulated.

As all handling of oranges and grapefruit is in interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce, it is concluded that, except as indicated herein and as specifically exempted by the act and order, all such handling of fruit between the production area and any point outside thereof in the United States, Canada, or Mexico should be subject to the order and any regulations issued pursuant thereto.

It was proposed in the notice of hearing that all exports of citrus fruits be subject to regulation under the order. Proponents of the provision asserted that such authority was needed so that, in addition to the necessary regulation of shipments to the nearby export markets in Canada and Mexico (which generally are considered as an extension of the domestic market), only quality citrus fruits would be available to the European markets. Handlers who export citrus fruits to such markets argued that such regulation was not needed and would tend to impede development of the European market. It was stated that import regulations in the European countries vary according to the country involved and are subject to frequent change. Information concerning the demand in, and the conditions for entry of fruit into, such countries is difficult to obtain. Buyers in these markets will accept only fruit which conform to the demand and conditions in the particular market. It is concluded, therefore, that authority to regulate such exports should not be included under the order at this time.

(5) (a) Certain terms applying to specific individuals, agencies, legislation, concepts, or things are used throughout the order. These terms should be defined for the purpose of designating specifically their applicability and establishing appropriate limitations on their respective meanings wherever they are used.

The definition of "Secretary" should include not only the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States, the official charged by law with the responsibility for programs of this nature, but also, in order to recognize the fact that it is physically impossible for him to perform personally all functions and duties imposed upon him by law, any other officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture who is, or who may hereafter be, authorized to act in his stead.

The definition of "act" provides the correct legal citations for the statute pursuant to which the proposed regulatory program is to be operative and avoids the need for referring to these citations.

The definition of "person" follows the definition of that term as set forth in the act, and will insure that it will have the same meaning as it has in the act.

The term "producer" should be defined to include any person who is engaged, within the production area, in the production of fruit for market and who has a proprietary interest therein. A definition of the term grower is necessary for such determinations as eligibility to vote for, and to serve as, a member or alternate member on the Texas Valley Citrus Committee—the agency which will administer the order locally—and for other reasons. The producer representation on the committee is divided between those affiliated with cooperative marketing organizations and so-called "independent producers"—those not so affiliated. The terms "producer" and "independent producer" should, therefore, be defined as hereinafter set forth.

Definitions of "grade" and "size" should be incorporated into the order to indicate the basis for expressing grade and size limitations thereunder. Such terms should mean any one of the established grades or sizes, as the case may be, as defined and set forth in the United States Standards that are applicable to oranges or grapefruit grown in Texas, or amendments thereto, or any modifications thereof or variations based thereon recommended by the committee and approved by the Secretary. The grades and sizes, as established in the United States Standards applicable to Texas citrus fruits, have been used by the handlers for many years and therefore provide appropriate and meaningful basis for describing grade and size limitations established under the order. The use of modifications or variations from the grades and sizes established in such standards provide the flexibility necessary to cope with possible seasonal variation in quality and size due to any detrimental effects of weather or other hazards affecting the crops.

The term "pack" is commonly used throughout the citrus trade and refers to a combination of factors relating to the grade, size, quality, and arrangement of oranges or grapefruit in a particular type and size of container. It may be desirable, under certain circumstances, to modify the specifications of the minimum and maximum diameters specified in the sizes so as to reduce the number that may be packed or to provide more uniform sizing for the fruit in particular containers. It may be desirable also to regulate shipments of oranges or grapefruit on the basis of particular grades or sizes, or both, that may be shipped in a specific container or containers and to specify the arrangement of the fruit within the container. Hence, it is concluded that "pack" should be defined as hereinafter set forth.

The term "container" should be defined in the order to mean a box, bag, crate, lug, basket, carton, package, or any other type of receptacle used in the packaging, or handling of fruit. The definition of the term is needed to serve as a basis for differentiation among the various shipping receptacles, in which oranges and grapefruit are sold or move to market, for which different regulations could be applicable.

The term "maturity" should be defined in the order to mean the various degrees of ripeness of fruit as may be established by the committee with the approval of the Secretary. Maturity requirements applicable to shipments of oranges and grapefruit have been established under State legislation. Such requirements are expressed in terms of the minimum amount of solids and acid, and the specified ratio of solids to acid, that fruit must meet to be eligible for marketing. The evidence of record clearly indicates that such requirements are satisfactory, insofar as the industry generally is concerned, and concurrent regulation under the order does not appear warranted. However, should the State maturity requirements be discontinued in the future, authority for maturity regulation should be available under the order. The term maturity should be defined as heretofore indicated so that requirements as to ripeness of the fruit could be described in any appropriate terms necessary to assure that only mature fruit would be handled.

A definition of "committee" should be incorporated in the order to identify the administrative agency established under the provisions of the program. Such committee is authorized by the act, and the definition thereof, as hereinafter set forth, is merely to avoid repetition of the full name of the committee each time it is referred to in the order.

The term "fiscal period" should be defined to set forth the period with respect to which financial records of the agency which will administer the program locally are to be maintained. At the present time, it is desirable to establish a 12-month period ending the last day of July of each year as a fiscal period. Such a period would fix the end of one fiscal period and the beginning of the next at a time of inactivity in the marketing of oranges and grapefruit. This would facilitate fixing the term of office of members and alternates to coincide with such period as it would allow sufficient time prior to the time shipments begin for the committee to organize and develop information necessary to its functioning during the ensuing year, and would still insure that a minimum of expense would be incurred during a fiscal period prior to the time assessment income is available to defray such expenses. Since it may develop that for convenience of management, or for other good and sufficient reasons not now apparent, that it would be desirable to establish a fiscal period other than one ending the last day of July, authority should be included in the order to provide for such establishment, subject to approval of the Secretary pursuant to recommendations of the committee. It is concluded, therefore, that such term should be defined as hereinafter set forth to provide this flexibility.

"District" should be defined as set forth in the order to provide a basis for the nomination and selection of the producer members of the committee. The districts (i.e., the geographical divisions of the production area as established and as set forth in the order) represent the best basis which could be devised at this time for providing a fair, adequate, and equitable representation on the committee. The provision for redistricting is desirable because it allows the committee and the Secretary to consider, from time to time, whether the basis for representation on the committee should be improved.

(b) It is desirable to establish an agency to administer the order locally under and pursuant to the act, as an aid to the Secretary in carrying out the declared policy of the act. The term "Texas Valley Citrus Committee" is an appropriate identification of the agency. It should be composed of 15 members, of whom 9 would represent producers and 6 would represent handlers. Alternate members should be provided to act in the place and stead of the members so that, in the event a member is unable to attend a committee meeting or a vacancy exists on the committee, both the producer and handler groups may have full representation on the committee at all times. Such a committee would be large enough to provide representation to all segments of the industry. The foregoing division of the members between producers and handlers would provide suitable producer representation and handler experience and information. A majority of the committee should consist of producers because the program is designed to benefit producers. The provision for handler members tends to give balance to the committee by providing the handler experience and marketing information necessary to the development of economically sound regulation of citrus fruit shipments. Each handler member should be either a handler, or an officer or an employee of a handler, as handlers often are corporations and would be precluded from having representation on the committee unless such persons were authorized to serve as members of the committee. There are also producers in the production area which are corporations and their officers and employees should be similarly eligible for membership on the committee.

Each producer member of the committee, and his alternate, should be a producer (or officer or employee of a corporate grower) of oranges or grapefruit in the district for which selected. A person with such qualifications should be intimately acquainted with the problems of producing citrus fruits in such district and may be expected to present accurately the problems incident to the production of citrus fruits grown in that district.

The selection of producer members of the committee on the basis of district, as provided in the order, provides a practical and equitable apportionment of such membership. The division of the production area into three districts, each consisting of one of the three counties of such area, and the apportionment of the producer members to reflect the volume of production within said counties, appears to be as logical and equitable a basis as can be devised at this time. Similarly, the division of both producer and handler representation on the committee between "independent" and "cooperative" growers and handlers provides equitable representation for those who market their crops through these two types of marketing organizations. However, provision should be made in the order for the reestablishment of the districts and for the apportionment of the membership among districts and cooperative and independent marketing organizations so that, should it develop that the districts or representation now provided no longer is appropriate, such changes could be made by the committee with the approval of the Secretary. Any such changes should be made upon recommendation by the committee submitted at least six months prior to the expiration of any of the terms of office of the then current committee membership, and no such change should become effective less than 30 days prior to such time, in order that adequate time be provided for the industry to make appropriate nominations for the positions affected.

All members of the committee should be residents of the production area. Such a requirement is necessary to assure that committee members generally will be available to attend committee meetings and to carry out other duties of the committee. Otherwise, itinerant truckers and nonresident growers of citrus fruits would be eligible to serve on the committee.

The handler members and alternates should be selected from the production area at large. The evidence of record shows that the production area is relatively small in size and handler problems are generally the same throughout all districts. Most of the handlers handle citrus fruits in more than one district. Meetings of handlers representing the production area rather than district meetings are general. Therefore, each handler member and his alternate are likely to be as familiar with conditions throughout the production area as he is with the conditions in the district in which his packinghouse is located.

Handlers testified at the hearing that the membership of the committee should consist of 8 producer and 8 handler representatives, or equal representation on the committee between producers and handlers. It was advanced that handlers generally are better informed on market conditions and marketing problems than are producers and thus are in a better position to know what regulations should be made effective and when such regulations should be imposed or suspended. It was argued, therefore, that handlers should have an equal voice with producers in determining the recommendation for regulation to be submitted to the Secretary. All of the evidence of record supports the contention that handlers have access to current information on market demands and price trends which producers generally do not possess and that it is necessary that such information be available to the committee when it is considering the level of the regulations that should be imposed. It is for that reason that handler representation on the committee should be assured. However, there is no reason to believe, from the evidence of record, that 6 handler members of the committee would not be able to furnish the committee with the necessary market information as well as a larger number of such members.

It is the producer of citrus fruits to whom improvement in marketing conditions is most vital. The record shows that about 90 percent of the production of Texas citrus fruits currently is marketed by cash buyers—i.e., handlers who purchase fruit from growers at an agreed price per box or ton while the fruit is still on the tree. The price that the grower receives for his fruit reflects the level and trend of market prices. Thus it is apparent that the grower can recover his costs of production only when market prices are sufficiently in excess of harvesting and marketing costs to provide such returns.

There are now approximately 23 handlers and an estimated 4,000 growers of citrus fruits in the production area. Six handler members should be a sufficient number to present the views of handlers and to represent handlers on the committee. Moreover, with the committee membership including 6 handler members, and each member having an alternate, nearly one-half of all handlers in the area, on the basis of the current composition of the industry, would be eligible for service on the committee at the same time. It is concluded, therefore, that the composition of the committee should be as hereinafter set forth.

The term of office of committee members and alternates under the proposed program should be for three years beginning on the first day of August and continuing until July 31. This will establish an orderly procedure for changing the membership of the committee. The term of office should be for three years so that members and alternates will have adequate time to familiarize themselves with the operation of the program and thus be in a position to render the most effective service assisting the Secretary to carry out the declared policy of the act. The beginning of each term of office will occur during a period prior to the commencement of a marketing season and hence allow adequate time for the committee to organize and start operating.

Provision should be made in the order for staggered terms of office of committee members and alternates. Under this provision, one-third of the members of the committee in office on July 31 of each year would continue in office until the next year. The establishment of such staggered terms will tend to provide for more efficient administration of the program, in that members and alternates constituting the new portion of the committee membership will benefit from the guidance of experienced members who carry over. The experienced members will help insure continuity of the policies and procedures relating to the administration of the proposed order which should contribute materially to the successful administration of the marketing program. Hence, only one-third of the initial committee members and alternates should be appointed for the full 3-year term. One-half of the remaining members and alternates should serve from the time of appointment until the following July 31 and the other one-half from the time of appointment until the second following July 31. Committee members and alternates should serve during the term of office for which selected, and until their successors are selected and have qualified to insure continuity of committee operations.

A procedure for the election by growers and handlers of nominees for membership on the committee should be prescribed in the order to assist the Secretary in his selection of members and alternate members of the committee. It is recognized that the Secretary is vested with authority under the act to select the committee members; and the nomination of prospective members and alternate members at meetings of producers in the respective districts, and meeting of handlers representing the entire production area, as provided in the order, is a practical method of providing the Secretary with the names of the persons which the industry desires to serve on the committee.

Nomination meetings for the purpose of electing nominees for members of the committee and their alternates should be held, or caused to be held, by the committee prior to June 15 of each year. Such date is approximately 6 weeks prior to the end of the fiscal period. By having such nomination meetings before June 15 each year, the committee will be in a position to prepare and submit nomination lists to the Secretary in time for the Secretary to select the members and alternate members of the new committee prior to the expiration of the terms of office of the existing committee members. As the committee will not be in a position to act until after the selection by the Secretary of its initial members, the order should provide for the nomination of the initial members and alternate members at meetings sponsored by this Department or by any agency or group at the request of the Department.

The order should provide that only growers who are present at the nomination meetings, or corporate growers who are represented at such meetings by duly authorized agents, may participate in designating nominees for grower members and alternates, and only handlers present at nomination meetings or handlers represented at such meetings by duly authorized agents may participate in the nomination of handler members and alternates.

It was testified that each grower and handler should have a similar and equitable voice in the election of nominees. Hence, each grower and handler should be limited to one vote on behalf of himself, his partners, agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and representatives, in designating nominees for committee members and alternates regardless of the volume of citrus fruits which he produces or handles or number of districts in which he produces or handles citrus fruits. If a grower could cast more than one vote by reason of operating in more than one district, such grower would have an advantage in selecting nominees over growers operating in only one district. Also, if more than one vote was permitted, there is a possibility that large growers or handlers could dominate the elections by means of their partners, agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and representatives, and nominate growers and handlers not favored by a majority of growers or of handlers. An eligible grower's or handler's privilege of casting only one vote should be construed to mean that one vote may be cast for each appliable position to be filled.

A grower who produces oranges or grapefruit in more than one district should be permitted to select the district in which he will vote. He will thus be able to vote for nominees where he believes his best interest lies.

In order that there will be an administrative agency in existence at all times to administer the order, the Secretary should be authorized to select committee members and alternates without regard to nomination if, for any reason, nominations are not submitted to him in conformance with the procedure prescribed herein. Such selection should, of course, be on the basis of the representation provided in the order so that the composition of the committee will at all times continue as prescribed in the order.

Each person selected by the Secretary as a committee member or alternate should qualify by filing with the Secretary a written acceptance of his willingness and intention to serve in such capacity. This requirement is necessary so that the Secretary will know whether or not the position has been filled. Such acceptance should be filed within 10 days after the notification of appointment so that the composition of the committee will not be delayed unduly.

Provision should be made as set forth in the order for the filling of any vacancies on the committee, including selection by the Secretary without regard to nominations where such nominations are not made as prescribed, in order to provide for maintaining a full membership on the committee.

The committee should be given those specific powers which are set forth in section 8c(7)(C) of the Act. Such powers are necessary to enable an administrative agency of this character to function.

The committee's duties, as set forth in the order, are necessary for the discharge of its responsibilities. These duties are generally similar to those specified for administrative agencies under other programs of this character. It is intended that any activities undertaken by the members of the committee will be confined to those which reasonably are necessary for the committee to carry out its responsibilities as prescribed in the program. It should be recognized that these specified duties are not necessarily all inclusive, and that it may develop that there are other duties which the committee may need to perform.

At least 10 members of the committee, or alternates acting for members, should be present at any meeting of the committee in order for the committee to make any decisions; and decisions of the committee should require a minimum of 10 concurring votes. Also, not less than 6 of the members present at the meeting should be producer members. These provisions will assure that the actions of the committee will be considered by at least two-thirds of the producer members of the committee and will be approved by not less than two-thirds of the entire membership of the committee.

The order should provide for reimbursement of actual out-of-pocket reasonable expenses incurred by members and alternates in carying out assigned duties under the order. It would not be reasonable to require members and alternates to bear such expenses incurred in the interest of all of the industry.

(c) The committee should be authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary finds are reasonable and likely to be incurred by it for its maintenance and functioning and to enable it to exercise its power and perform its duties pursuant to the order. The funds to cover the expenses of the committee should be obtained through the levying of assessments on handlers. The act specifically authorizes the Secretary to approve the incurring of expenses by the administrative agency established under an order, and requires that each order of this nature contain provisions requiring handlers to pay, pro rata, the necessary expenses.

As his pro rata share of such expenses, each handler who first handles oranges or grapefruit during a fiscal period should pay assessments to the committee, at a rate fixed by the Secretary, on all fruit so handled. In this way, each handler's total payments of assessments during a fiscal period would be proportionate to the quantity of oranges and grapefruit handled by each such handler and assessments would be levied on the same fruit only once.

The committee should be required to prepare a budget at the beginning of each fiscal period, and as often as may be necessary thereafter, showing estimates of the income and expenditures necessary for the administration of the order during such period. Each such budget should be submitted to the Secretary with an analysis of its components. Such budget and report should also recommend to the Secretary the rate of assessment believed necessary to secure the income required for that period. The committee, because of its knowledge of the prospective crop, will be in a good position to ascertain the necessary assessment rate and make recommendations in this regard.

The rate of assessment to be applicable during a fiscal year should be fixed by the Secretary on the basis of the recommendations of the committee, or from other available information, so as to assure such assessments are consistent with the act. Such rate should be fixed on a fair and equitable unit basis and in an amount designed to secure sufficient funds to cover the expenses which may be incurred during the fiscal period and to accumulate and maintain an operating reserve.

The Secretary should have the authority, at any time during a fiscal period, or thereafter, to increase the rate of assessment when necessary to obtain sufficient funds to cover any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expenses of the committee applicable to such period. Since the act requires that administrative expenses shall be paid by all handlers pro rata, it is necessary that any increased rate apply retroactively against all fruit handled during the particular fiscal period.

Except as necessary to establish and maintain an operating reserve, as set forth in the order, handlers should be entitled to a proportionate refund of any excess assessments which remain at the end of a fiscal period. Such refund should be credited to each such handler against the operations of the following fiscal period or, if a handler should demand payment of any such credit, the proportionate refund should be paid to him.

If the committee should be required to liquidate its affairs, some expense will be involved. Should such liquidation occur after several years' operation, such expense should properly be shared. It would be appropriate, therefore, that all or a portion of any unexpended funds remaining at the end of a fiscal period be placed in a reserve to cover liquidation expense in the event of termination of the order. Further, it would be only good business practice to provide for unforeseen contingencies.

The production area is susceptible to freezes during the winter which may reduce the crop or even damage trees and reduce the crop in succeeding years. The assessment rates under the program are set at the beginning of the season for a crop of an estimated volume of shipments. Should crop failure or partial crop failure reduce the crop so that assessment income falls below expenses, it would be necessary for handlers in light of the reduced crop to cover the deficit. However, it would constitute an extra burden on the industry to increase the assessment rate after disasters such as these have occurred. It would be far less burdensome to handlers to contribute to the establishment of an operating reserve during years of normal production rather than to be required to pay a high rate of assessment occasioned by a deficit during a year when the crop is materially reduced. The reserve might also properly serve another purpose. At the beginning of each fiscal period there will be need for operating funds but there will be little income until shipments are being made in volume approximately 3 months later. Thus, unless an operating reserve is available, funds for such expenses would have to be borrowed or some other means of financing be employed.

The proposed reserve fund should be built up gradually over a period of years to the desirable amount. Discretion should be used so as not to impose excessively high assessments or delay the attainment of the full amount in the reserve too long, since a material reduction in the crop could occur at any time. In order that such reserve funds not be accumulated beyond a reasonable amount, it was proposed that a limit of approximately one fiscal period's expenses be provided. It was shown that such an amount should be sufficient to cover any foreseeable need since some income from assessment may be expected during any year. After the reserve has been built up to that amount, excess assessment income should thereafter be returned to the handlers entitled to refunds in accordance with the provisions of the order. However, in keeping with the need for the reserve fund, whenever any portion of it is used, the full amount withdrawn should be returned to the reserve as soon as assessment income is available for this purpose.

Upon termination of the order, any funds in the reserve which are not used to defray the necessary expenses of liquidation should, to the extent practicable, be returned to the handlers from whom such funds were collected. However, should the order be terminated after many years of operation, and there have been several withdrawals and redeposits in the reserve, the precise equities of handlers may be difficult to ascertain and any requirement that there be a precise accounting of the remaining funds could involve such costs as to nearly equal the monies to be distributed. Therefore, it may be desirable and necessary to permit the unexpended reserve funds to be disposed of in any manner that the Secretary may determine to be appropriate in such circumstances.

Funds received by the committee pursuant to the levying of assessments should be used solely for the purposes of the order. The committee should be required, as a matter of good business practice, to maintain books and records clearly reflecting the true, up-to-date operation of its affairs so that its administration could be subject to inspection at any time by the Secretary. The committee should provide the Secretary with periodic reports at times as may be necessary to enable him to maintain appropriate supervision and control over the committee's activities and operations. Each member and each alternate, as well as employees, agents, or other persons working for or on behalf of the committee, should be required to account for all receipts and disbursements, funds, property, and records for which they are responsible, should the Secretary at any time ask for such an accounting. Also, whenever any person ceases to be a member or alternate member of the committee, he should similarly be required to account for all funds, property, and other committee assets for which he is responsible and to deliver such funds, property, and other assets to such successor as the Secretary may designate. Such person should also be required to execute assignments and such other instruments which may be appropriate to vest in the successor the right to all such funds and property and all claims vested in such person. This is a matter of good business practice.

(d) The order should provide, as hereinafter set forth, authority for the establishment of marketing research and development projects designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of oranges and grapefruit.

Through the medium of research investigation, the committee should be able to develop information which would be of value to it and the Secretary in more accurate determinations of the effect of specific regulations on the market and thereby promote orderly marketing. Also, it was indicated that new and better products outlets for citrus fruits need to be developed and that information on the nutritional values of red varieties of grapefruit might be of assistance in expanding markets for such fruit. As the committee becomes more aware of the areas of research and development which may be profitably entered into, other projects will undoubtedly be initiated, the scope and character of which may not have been foreseen during the course of the hearing.

The committee should be empowered to engage in such projects (except advertising and sales and trade promotion projects which are not permitted by the act), to spend assessment funds for them, and to consult and cooperate with appropriate agencies, such as State universities; and public and private agencies, with regard to their establishment. Prior to engaging in any such activities, the committee should, of course, submit to the Secretary for his approval the plans for each project. Such plans should be set forth in detail, including the cost and the objectives to be accomplished, so as to insure, among other things, that the projects are within the purview of the act. The cost of any such project should be included in the budget for approval, and such costs should be defrayed by the use of assessment funds as authorized by the act.

It was proposed in the notice of hearing that expenditures during any fiscal period for marketing research and development projects be limited to not more than 25 percent of the funds collected. An estimate presented at the hearing in support of the proposal indicated that such a limitation would provide between $10,000 and $15,000 each year for such projects which, it was indicated, would not be excessive. Others testifying suggested that expenditures for research be limited to (1) not more than ¼ cent per ½-box carton, and (2) not more than 10 percent of the total assessments collected. Several of those testifying in support of the latter limitation appeared to be concerned primarily with the amount that might be spent for such research projects during the first year of operation of the program. It was indicated that possibly an increase in such expenditures might be desirable after the first year.

The evidence of record, while replete with opinions that a limitation should be placed on expenditures for research, demonstrates the difficulty of foreseeing future conditions and the needs for research with sufficient accuracy to place at the correct level the desired limitation on funds for research. All of those testifying supported the inclusion of some limitation on expenditures for research, however; and it is therefore concluded that the order should provide that such expenditures should not exceed 10 percent of the total expenses incurred during the initial fiscal year nor more than 25 percent of such expenses during any subsequent fiscal year. Of course, the actual amounts that may be spent for such purpose shall be determined, within such limitations, upon the recommendations of the committee and the supporting information as to the need for, and desirability of, undertaking the proposed research that may be submitted to the Secretary for approval.

(e) The declared policy of the act is to establish and maintain such orderly marketing conditions for citrus fruits, among other commodities, as will tend to establish parity prices therefor, and to establish and maintain such minimum standards of quality and maturity and such grading and inspection requirements as will be in the public interest. The regulation of shipments of oranges and grapefruit, as authorized in the order, provides a means of carrying out such policy.

In order to facilitate the operation of the program, the committee should each year, and prior to recommending regulation of shipments, prepare and adopt a marketing policy for the ensuing marketing season. A report on such policy should be submitted to the Secretary and made available to growers and handlers. The policy so established would serve to inform the Secretary and persons in the industry, in advance of the marketing of the crop, of the committee's plans for regulation and the basis therefor. Handlers and growers could then plan their operations in accordance therewith. The policy also would be useful to the committee and the Secretary when specific regulatory actions are being considered, since it would provide basic information necessary to the evaluation of such regulation.

In preparing its marketing policy, the committee should give consideration to the supply and demand factors, hereinafter set forth in the order, affecting marketing conditions for citrus fruits since consideration of such factors is essential to the development of an economically sound and practical marketing policy.

The committee should be permitted to revise its marketing policy so as to give appropriate recognition to the latest known conditions when changes in such conditions since the beginning of the season are sufficiently marked to warrant modification of the marketing policy previously adopted. Such action is necessary if the marketing policy is to appropriately reflect the probable regulatory proposals of the committee and be of maximum benefit to all persons concerned. A report of each revised marketing policy should be submitted to the Secretary and made available to growers and handlers, together with the data considered by the committee in making the revision.

The committee should, as the local administrative agency under the order, be authorized to recommend such regulations and amendments thereto authorized by the order, as will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. It is the key to successful operation of the order that the committee should have such responsibility. The Secretary should look to the committee, as the agency reflecting the thinking of the industry, for its views and recomendations for promoting more orderly marketing conditions and increased growers' returns for citrus fruits. The committee should, therefore, have authority to recommend such regulations as are authorized by the order whenever such regulations will, in the judgment of the committee, tend to promote more orderly marketing conditions and effectuate the declared policy of the act.

The order should authorize the Secretary, on the basis of committee recommendations or other available information, to issue various grade, size, quality, and other appropriate regulations authorized in the order, which tend to improve growers' returns and to establish more orderly marketing conditions for citrus fruits. The Secretary should not be precluded from using such information as he may have, and which may or may not be available to the committee for consideration, in issuing such regulations, or amendments or modifications thereof, as may be necessary to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Also, when he determines that any regulation does not tend to effectuate such policy, he should have authority to suspend or terminate the regulation, in accordance with the requirements of the act.

The grade, size, and quality of the oranges and grapefruit which are shipped at any particular time have a direct effect on returns to growers. The poorer grades, and less desirable sizes, marketed return lower prices than do better grades and sizes. A restriction, under the order, of the shipment of such fruit of low grade should result in higher returns for the better grades marketed by eliminating the price depressing effect of poor quality fruit.

Evidence presented at the hearing shows that citrus fruits of the poorer grades and quality and of undesirable size may be sold only at discounts, and the returns from such sales often do not cover the cash costs of harvesting and marketing. In addition, such sales tend to depress prices for the entire crop, for the particular year, below the level which otherwise would have existed if only fruit of suitable grade, size, and quality, considering the supply and demand conditions therefor, had been available in the markets.

The demand for citrus fruits of particular grades, sizes, and qualities varies depending upon the volume of supplies available, the grade, size, and quality composition of such supplies, the availability of competing commodities, and other factors such as the trend and level of consumer income. The supply conditions for citrus fruits are subject to substantial changes during a particular season as the result of weather conditions affecting the volume and quality of the crop.

The grade, size, and quality composition of the orange and grapefruit crops, and the volume of the available supply for the season as a whole and for any particular period during the season, are important factors which must be considered in establishing regulations. For example, supplies of the early and midseason varieties of oranges may be heavy while the Valencia or late type oranges may be in moderate supply; or it may be that the size composition of the crops of early and midseason oranges only would be predominately small sizes. A similar situation may exist at times with respect to the varieties of red seedless grapefruit as compared to other grapefruit. The application of the same regulations to all varieties of grapefruit or oranges may not, therefore, be practicable or desirable. The order should authorize such separate regulations according to variety or type of fruit as may be necessary under the particular supply and demand conditions existing during the marketing season for such fruit. Because of the similarity of certain varieties of oranges or grapefruit having the same marketing seasons, it is necessary, as heretofore discussed, that the same regulations apply to such varieties of fruit and authority for variety regulation, as provided in the order, should refer to the groupings or classifications set forth in the definition of the term "variety." Substantial processing outlets are available within the production area and fruit not meeting the requirements of regulations under the order may be disposed of in such outlets. Also, it is a general practice of handlers, particularly early in the season, to purchase only that portion of the crops that are larger than a specified size. The fruit left on the trees after harvest of the portion of the crop initially purchased should increase in size and be suitable for purchase and shipment at a later date.

Proper maturity is an important factor determining consumer acceptance. Therefore, the order should authorize the committee to recommend and the Secretary to issue regulations requiring all oranges and grapefruit handled to meet specified maturity requirements. However, as indicated heretofore, the maturity requirements established by State legislation and administered by the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture apparently have provided satisfactory control over the shipment of immature fruit and the authority in the order to regulate the maturity of citrus fruits handled should be construed to mean that such regulations may be undertaken in the event appropriate State requirements no longer are in effect.

Authority should be included in the order for the committee to recommend and the Secretary to fix the size, weight, capacity, dimensions, or pack of the containers which may be used in the packaging and handling of citrus fruits. The evidence of record does not indicate that there is any particular marketing problem at this time insofar as the containers used for citrus fruits are concerned. However, there has been substantial changes recently in the types and sizes of containers manufactured and in the materials used for such purpose. The use of a great number of type of containers, of differing materials, could create confusion and disorderly marketing conditions. The standardization of containers, should conditions develop to warrant such action, to those most suitable for the packing and handling of citrus fruits and prescribing the use of containers of sizes and capacities which can readily be distinguished from each other, would tend to establish more orderly marketing conditions and increase growers' returns.

The exercise of the authority to regulate containers, however, should not be used to close the door on experimenting with new containers or to prevent the commercial use of any new or superior containers which may be developed.

It is not in the public interest to cease regulation when the season average price of oranges or grapefruit exceeds parity. The committee should be authorized to recommend, and the Secretary to establish, such minimum standards of quality and maturity, in terms of grades or sizes, or both, and such grading and inspection requirements, during any and all periods when the season average price for such fruit may be above parity, as will be in the public interest. Some oranges and grapefruit do not give consumer satisfaction under any conditions. Fruit which is marred or bruised from high winds or other means, dry or mushy from freezing injury, or excessively small are examples of the type of fruit that does not represent a value to the consumer and should not be shipped. However, if no regulations were applicable and prices high, fruit of such poor quality undoubtedly would be shipped. Such fruit would not provide consumer satisfaction and would cause an adverse buyer reaction. It could result in dissipation of the benefits accruing from the prior operation of the order.

It was testified, without opposition, that the order should provide authorization to prohibit the handling of (1) any fruit in containers which are not appropriately marked to show the grade or which are improperly marked as to variety and (2) any grapefruit which has not been marked so as to indicate Texas origin. It was stated that required marking of containers as to grade and variety was needed to prevent misrepresentation and to assure buyers that the fruit they purchase meets the specifications of purchase. Containers of fruit have been marked to indicate that it was of a grade or variety having greater trade acceptance than that actually packed therein. Such practice is misleading to buyers and its elimination would tend to instill trade confidence and increased acceptance of Texas citrus fruits. With reference to the marking of individual grapefruit so as to indicate Texas origin, it was stated that retailers often mix grapefruit from different producing areas in the fruit bins in their stores. Since consumers generally cannot identify the origin of the grapefruit, the benefits from quality improvement through order regulations cannot be fully realized without such identification. Apparently this would be true of oranges also, but the mechanical problems of marking this smaller fruit are such that it would not be practical to require such marking. It is concluded, therefore, that the order should contain authority to establish the marking requirements hereinafter provided.

It was testified at the hearing that some citrus fruits produced in Mexico are brought into the production area and thereafter shipped to market. Such fruit may be packed before being brought into the production area or it may be prepared for marketing in the packinghouses in such area. Also, some citrus fruits from Dimmit County, and perhaps from some of the other counties outside the production area, is prepared for market in the production area. The record indicates most of such fruit is tangerines and would not present any problems since tangerines should not, as heretofore set forth, be subject to the provisions of the order. In the case of oranges and grapefruit, however, it is necessary to establish safeguards to assure that fruit subject to the order is not handled without regard to the regulations under the guise of fruit produced outside the production area. Thus, while oranges and grapefruit produced outside the production area would not be subject to the regulations under the order, the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, should establish such rules, regulations, and safeguards governing the physical handling of such fruit as may be necessary to prevent such fruit from losing its identity after being brought into the production area. If any handler should fail to comply with the safeguards so established or for any other reason any such oranges or grapefruit is not kept separate from those grown in the production area, such fruit should be required to conform to the provisions of the order and the regulations thereunder.

(f) The order should provide for the exemption from its provisions of such handling of oranges and grapefruit as it is not necessary to regulate in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Insofar as practicable, such exempted handling should be stated explicitly in the order so that handlers will have knowledge of such handling as is not subject to the provisions of the program.

Oranges and grapefruit handled by gift fruit shippers usually are handled in a different manner than fruit disposed of in other fresh fruit channels and would not appreciably affect fruit prices in such channels. Typical shipments by a gift fruit dealer are one or two packagon of mixed varieties and types of fruit that are individually addressed and move directly to the consumer. The record shows that such shipments, when made in quantities aggregating not more than 500 pounds to any one person and not for resale, would have little, if any, influence on the level of prices for fruit handled in the usual commercial fresh fruit channels and should not be subject to regulations under the order. However, in order to assure that the exemption of such gift fruit shipments does not open avenues of escape from regulation the committee should prescribe safeguards governing the handling of gift fruit shipments, and only those shipments made in the quantities and manner hereinafter set forth and which conform to such safeguards should be exempt from compliance with the order provisions.

The order should authorize the issuance of regulations, or the modification, suspension, or termination of regulations and other requirements with respect to the handling of oranges and grapefruit for purposes other than disposition in normal commercial fresh fruit channels. Oranges and grapefruit moving to, or sold in, certain outlets such as those specified in § 1031.42 of the order usually are handled in a different manner or utilize grades, sizes, or qualities different from those preferred by the commercial fresh fruit market. Disposition of fruit to such outlets generally has little influence on the level of prices for fresh fruit sold in regular commercial channels. Any returns for fruit disposed of in such outlets may supplement the income received for fruit shipped to the commercial fresh fruit market rather than depress prices received in such market.

In addition, provision should be made to authorize the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, to exempt the handling of oranges and grapefruit in such specified small quantities and for such specified purposes as it is not necessary to regulate in order to effectuate the declared purposes of the act. Such authorization is necessary to enable the exemption of such handling as may be determined necessary to facilitate the conduct of research, and handling which is found not feasible administratively to regulate and which does not materially affect marketing conditions in commercial channels. It would be impractical to set forth these exemptions in detail in the order, because to do so would destroy the flexibility which is necessary to reflect conditions affecting the handling of oranges and grapefruit from the production area. Therefore, it should be discretionary with the committee, subject to the approval of the Secretary, whether small quantity shipments, or shipments made for specified purposes, should be exempted from regulation, inspection, and assessments and the period during which such exemptions should be in effect.

The authority to modify, suspend, or terminate regulations and assessments and inspection requirements to facilitate special purpose shipments should be accompanied by additional administrative authority for the committee to prescribe with the approval of the Secretary, such rules, regulations, and safeguards as are necessary to prevent oranges and grapefruit handled for any of the exempted purposes from entering into regulated channels of trade and thereby tend to defeat the objective of the program. For example, should it be found that a portion of the oranges or grapefruit moving to commercial processors was being diverted to fresh fruit markets, it may be necessary for the committee to establish procedures to govern the movement of fruit for processing even though such fruit does not have to comply with grade, size, quality, and other requirements. These procedures might include such requirements as filing applications for authorization to move fruit in exempted channels and certification by the receiver that such fruit would be used only for the purpose indicated, if it is found that such requirements are necessary to the effective enforcement of the program regulations.

In order to maintain appropriate identification of shipments of fruit to special outlets the safeguards authorized herein should provide for the issuance of certificates of privilege to handlers desiring to handle exempted fruit and in addition require that such handlers shall obtain such certificates on all shipments by them to such special outlets.

Certificates of privilege would be issued by the committee as an indication of the authority for the handler to make such shipments, and as a means of identifying specific shipments. These certificates should be issued in accordance with the rules and regulations recommended by the committee so that the issuance thereof may be handled in an orderly and efficient manner which can be made known to all handlers.

The committee likewise should be authorized to deny or rescind certificates of privilege, when it is necessary to prevent abuse of the privileges conferred thereunder, upon satisfactory evidence that a handler to whom a certificate of privilege has been issued has handled fruit contrary to the provisions of the certificate previously issued to him. If the committee rescinds or denies a certificate of privilege to any handler, such action should be in the terms of a specified period of time; and any handler who might have a certificate of privilege rescinded should have the right of appeal to the committee for reconsideration. The order should specify that the Secretary may modify, change, alter, or rescind any safeguards prescribed or any certificates of privilege issued by the committee in order that he may at all times retain all rights necessary to carry out the purposes of the act. The Secretary of Agriculture should give prompt notice to the committee of any action taken by him in connection therewith, and the committee should promptly notify all persons affected by any such action.

The committee should keep complete records pertaining to all certificates of privilege and submit reports thereon to the Secretary when requested in order to supply pertinent information to enable him to discharge his duties under the act.

(g) Provision should be made in the order requiring all oranges and grapefruit handled, during any period when handling limitations are effective, to be inspected by the Federal or Federal-State Inspection Service and certified as meeting the requirements of the applicable regulation. Inspection and certification of all oranges and grapefruit handled during periods of regulation are essential to the effective supervision of the regulations. Evidence of compliance with regulations issued under the program can be ascertained only through inspection and certification of all fruit handled during the effective period of such regulations. As the handler of oranges or grapefruit is the person responsible for compliance with the applicable regulations, it is reasonable and necessary to require handlers to submit each lot of oranges and grapefruit handled for inspection and certification and to file a copy of the certificate of inspection with the committee. It was testified that handlers are familiar with the Federal and Federal-State Inspection Service and the certification of oranges and grapefruit in the production area, and the use of such inspection agency under this program is desired by the industry.

Responsibility for obtaining inspection and certification should fall on each person who handles oranges or grapefruit. In this way, not only will the handler who first ships or handles fruit be responsible for meeting this requirement but also no subsequent handler may handle such fruit unless a properly issued inspection certificate, valid pursuant to the terms of the order and the applicable regulations thereunder, applies to the shipment. Each handler must bear responsibility for determining that each of his shipments of oranges or grapefruit conforms to all requirements of the order if the regulations are to be of maximum benefit.

After the first handler of a lot of oranges or grapefruit has had such lot inspected and certified as meeting all applicable regulation, subsequent handlers should under ordinary circumstances, be permitted to handle such fruit without incurring the expense of another inspection. To facilitate the identification of lots that have been inspected prior to movement by motor vehicle to destinations outside the production area, the order should provide authority to require such shipments to be accompanied by a copy of the inspection certificate issued thereon. The bulk of the citrus fruits handled are moved to market by truck. All trucks leaving the production area are stopped at the road guard stations mentioned heretofore. Requiring each truck shipment of citrus fruits to be accompanied by the appropriate certificate of inspection provides a method of checking, at such stations, compliance with the established regulations and is necessary to enable the committee to perform its assigned duty of seeing that all shipments conform to the order provisions.

Oranges and grapefruit generally are marketed as soon as possible after harvest. However, some fruit may, at times, not have a ready market immediately after it is prepared for market. In such instances the handler may hold the fruit on the packinghouse floor awaiting a buyer. Such fruit, if held too long, tends to deteriorate to the point where it no longer meets the grade and quality requirements in effect and does not conform to the findings at the time of inspection shown on the inspection certificate. It is necessary, therefore, that the order provide authority to establish the period of time that an inspection certificate is valid under the order. The rapidity with which such deterioration occurs varies according to the weather conditions prevailing at different times of the year and the general condition of the fruit in the area. Hence, the time that an inspection certificate should be considered valid under the program will vary according to the period of the marketing season when the fruit is held on the packinghouse floor.

(h) The committee should have the authority, with the approval of the Secretary, to require that handlers submit to the committee such reports and information as may be needed to perform such agency's functions under the order. Handlers have such necessary information in their possession, and the requirement that they furnish such information to the committee in the form of reports would not constitute an undue burden. Moreover, since handlers are the persons subject to regulation under the program, they are the persons who should be required to furnish such information. It is anticipated that much of the information needed by the committee in order to carryout its functions can be obtained from copies of inspection certificates. However, it is difficult to anticipate every type of report or kind of information which the committee may find necessary in the conduct of its operations under the order. Therefore, the committee should have the authority to request, with approval of the Secretary, reports and information, as needed, of the type set forth in the order, and at such times and in such manner as may be necessary.

Any reports and records submitted for committee use by handlers should remain under protective classification and be disclosed to none other than the Secretary and persons authorized by the Secretary. Under certain circumstances, the release of information with respect to orange and grapefruit shipments may be helpful to the committee and the industry generally in planning for operations under the order during the marketing season. However, such reported information may not be released other than on a composite basis, and such release of information should disclose neither the identity of handlers nor their individual operations. This is necessary to prevent the disclosure of information which may affect detrimentally the trade or financial position, or the business operations of individual handlers.

Since it is possible that a question could arise with respect to compliance, handlers should be required to maintain complete records on their receipts, handling, and disposition of oranges and grapefruit for a period of not less than two years subsequent to the termination of each fiscal period.

(i) Except as provided in the order, no handler should be permitted to handle oranges or grapefruit, the handling of which is prohibited pursuant to the order; and no handler should be permitted to handle such fruit except in conformity with the order. If the program is to operate effectively, compliance therewith is essential; and, hence, no handler should be permitted to evade any of its provisions. Any such evasion on the part of even one handler could be demoralizing to the handlers who are in compliance and would tend, thereby, to impair the effective operation of the program.

(j) The provisions of §§ 1031.52 through 1031.62, as hereinafter set forth, are similar to those which are included in other marketing agreements and orders now operating. The provisions of §§ 1031.63 through 1031.65, as hereinafter set forth, also are included in other marketing agreements now operating. All such provisions are incidental to and not inconsistent with the act and are necessary to effectuate the other provisions of the recommended marketing agreement and order and to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Testimony at the hearing supports the inclusion of each such provision.

Those provisions which are applicable to both the proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order, identified by section number and heading, are as follows: § 1031.53 Right of the Secretary; § 1031.54 Effective time; § 1031.55 Termination; § 1031.56 Proceedings after termination; § 1031.57 Effect of termination or amendment; § 1031.58 Duration of immunities; § 1031.59 Agents; § 1031.60 Derogation; § 1031.61 Personal liability; and § 1031.62 Separability.

Those provisions which are applicable to the proposed marketing agreement only, identified by section number and heading, are as follows: § 1031.63 Counterparts; § 1031.64 Additional parties; and § 1031.65 Order with marketing agreement.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. June 15, 1960, was set by the Presiding Officer at the hearing as the latest date by which briefs would have to be filed by interested parties with respect to facts presented in evidence at the hearing and the conclusions which should be drawn therefrom. A brief was filed, within the prescribed time, by Mr. Sid L. Hardin, Attorney for TexaSweet Citrus, Inc., Edinburg, Texas.

The brief contains statements concerning the evidence presented at the hearing with respect to certain provisions of the proposed marketing agreement and order together with arguments and suggested findings and conclusions in regard thereto. Each point included in the brief was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and in reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that any of the suggested findings and conclusions contained in such brief is inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings, or reach such conclusions, is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions of this decision.

General findings. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing, and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The marketing agreement and order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said marketing agreement and order regulate the handling of oranges and grapefruit grown in the production area in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of commercial or industrial activity specified in, a proposed marketing agreement and order upon which a hearing has been held;

(3) The said marketing agreement and order are limited in their application to the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act, and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of the production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) There are no differences in the production and marketing of oranges or grapefruit grown in the production area which make necessary different terms and provisions applicable to different parts of such area;

(5) All handling of oranges and grapefruit grown in the production area as defined in said marketing agreement and order is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

COMMITTEE

§ 1031.18 Establishment and membership.

(a) The Texas Valley Citrus Committee, consisting of fifteen (15) members is hereby established. For each member of the committee there shall be an alternate who shall have the same qualifications as the member.

(b) Nine members shall be producers who produce fruit in the district which they represent and are residents of the production area. Two of the producer members shall be producers who market their fruit through cooperative marketing organizations, and seven of the producer members shall be independent producers. Producer members shall not have a proprietary interest in or be employees of a handler organization: Provided, That members of a cooperative marketing organization shall not be considered as having a proprietary interest in a handler organization because of such membership.

(c) Six members shall be handlers who are residents of the production area. One handler member shall represent cooperative marketing organizations; five handler members shall represent independent handlers.

§ 1031.19 Term of office.

(a) The term of office of committee members and their respective alternates shall be for three years beginning August 1 and ending July 31: Provided, That the term of office of one-third of the initial producer members and alternates and one-third of the initial handler members and alternates shall end July 31, 1961, and the term of office of an identical number of such committee members and alternates shall end July 31, 1962. No member or alternate member shall succeed himself.

(b) Members and alternates shall serve in that capacity during the portion of the term of office for which they are selected and have qualified, and until their respective successors are selected and have qualified.

§ 1031.20 Districts.

For the purpose of determining the basis for selecting producer committee members the following districts of the production area are hereby initially established:

District No. 1—The county of Cameron in the State of Texas;

District No. 2—The county of Hidalgo in the State of Texas; and District No. 3—The county of Willacy in the State of Texas.

§ 1031.21 Redistricting.

The committee may recommend, and pursuant thereto the Secretary may approve, the reapportionment of members among districts, the reapportionment of members between grower and handler members representing cooperative marketing organizations and independent grower and independent handler members, and the re-establishment of districts within the production area. In recommending such changes, the committee shall give consideration to: (a) Shifts in production; (b) the importance of new production in its relation to existing districts; (c) the equitable relationship of committee membership and districts; (d) changes in amount of fruit handled by cooperative marketing organizations in relation to fruit handled by independent handlers; and (e) other relevant factors. No changes in districting or in apportionment of members may become effective in less than 30 days prior to the date on which terms of office begin each year and no recommendations for such redistricting or reapportionment may be made less than six months prior to such date.

§ 1031.22 Selection.

(a) From District No. 1 the Secretary shall select initially two producer members and their alternates representing independent producers. From District No. 2 the Secretary shall select initially two producer members and their respective alternates representing producers who market their fruit through cooperative marketing organizations, and four producer members and their respective alternates representing independent producers. From District No. 3 the Secretary shall select initially one producer member and his alternate representing independent producers.

§ 1031.23 Nominations.

The Secretary may select the members of the committee and alternates from nominations which may be made in the following manner:

(a) A meeting of producers who are members of cooperative marketing organizations and a meeting of independent producers shall be held for each district having both cooperative and independent-producer members and alternates to elect nominees for such positions. For all other districts, meetings of all producers shall be held for such purpose. A meeting of handlers representing cooperative marketing organizations and a meeting of independent handlers shall be held in the production area to elect nominees for handler members and alternates. For nominations to the initial committee, the meetings may be sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture or by any agency or group requested to do so by such Department. For nominations for succeeding members and alternates on the committee, the committee shall hold such meetings or cause them to be held prior to June 15 of each year, after the effective date of this subpart.

(b) At each such meeting at least one nomination shall be designated for each position as member and alternate.

(c) Nominations for committee members and alternates following the initial committee shall be supplied to the Secretary not later than July 1 each year.

(d) In districts having both cooperative and independent producer members, only producers who market their fruit through cooperative marketing organizations may participate in designating nominees for members and alternates representing cooperative producers; and only independent producers may participate in designating nominees for members and alternates representing independent producers. In all other districts, all producers may participate in designating the nominees for producer members and alternates. Only handlers representing cooperative marketing organizations may participate in designating nominees for members and alternates representing cooperative handlers; and only independent handlers may participate in designating nominees for members and alternates representing independent handlers. In the event that a person is engaged in producing fruit in more than one district such person shall elect the district within which he may participate, as aforesaid, in designating nominees.

(e) Regardless of the amount of fruit handled by a handler or the number of districts in which a person produces fruit, each person is entitled to cast only one vote on behalf of himself, his agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and representatives in designating nominees for committee members and alternates. An eligible voter's privilege of casting only one vote shall be construed to permit a voter to cast one vote for each position to be filled. Votes must be cast in person at all nomination meetings.

§ 1031.24 Failure to nominate.

If nominations are not made within the time and in the manner specified in § 1031.23, the Secretary may, without regard to nominations, select the committee members and alternates, which selection shall be on the basis of the representation provided for in § 1031.20 through § 1031.22, inclusive.

§ 1031.25 Acceptance.

Any person selected as a committee member or alternate shall qualify by filing a written acceptance with the Secretary within ten days after being notified of such selection.

§ 1031.26 Vacancies.

To fill committee vacancies, the Secretary may select such members or alternates from unselected nominees on the current nominee list from the district and group involved, or from nominations made in the manner specified in § 1031.23. If the names of nominees to fill any such vacancy are not made available to the Secretary within 30 days after such vacancy occurs, such vacancy may be filled without regard to nominations, which selection shall be made on the basis of representation provided for in § 1031.20 through § 1031.22 inclusive.

§ 1031.27 Alternate members.

An alternate member of the committee shall act in the place and stead of the member for whom he is an alternate during such member's absence. In the event of the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of a member, his alternate shall act for him until a successor of such member is selected and has qualified.

§ 1031.28 Procedure.

Ten members of the committee shall be necessary to constitute a quorum, six of whom shall be producer members. Ten affirmative votes shall be required to pass any motion or approve any committee action. All votes shall be cast in person.

§ 1031.29 Expenses and compensation.

The members of the committee, and alternates, shall serve without compensation; but they may be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred by them in the performance of their duties and in the exercise of their powers under this subpart.

§ 1031.30 Powers.

The committee shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the provisions of this part in accordance with its terms;

(b) To make rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions of this part;

(c) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violation of the provisions of this part; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this part.

§ 1031.31 Duties.

It shall be, among other things, the duty of the committee:

(a) At the beginning of each term of office, to meet and organize, to select a chairman and such other officers as may be necessary, to select sub-committees, and to adopt such rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as it may deem advisable;

(b) To act as intermediary between the Secretary and any producer or handler;

(c) To furnish to the Secretary such available information as he may request;

(d) To appoint such employees, agents, and representatives as it may deem necessary and to determine the salaries and define the duties of each such person;

(e) To require adequate fidelity bonds for all persons handling funds;

(f) To investigate from time to time and to assemble data on the growing, harvesting, shipping, and marketing conditions with respect to fruit;

(g) To prepare a marketing policy;

(h) To recommend marketing regulations to the Secretary;

(i) To recommend rules and procedures for, and to make determinations in connection with, issuance of certificates of privilege;

(j) To keep minutes, books, and records which clearly reflect all of the acts and transactions of the committee; and such minutes, books, and records shall be subject to examination at any time by the Secretary or his authorized agent or representative; and minutes of each committee meeting shall be promptly submitted to the Secretary;

(k) At the beginning of each fiscal period, to prepare a budget of its expenses for such fiscal period, together with a report thereon;

(l) To cause the books of the committee to be audited by a competent accountant at least once each fiscal period, and at such other time as the committee may deem necessary or as the Secretary may request (the report of each such audit shall show the receipt and expenditure of funds collected pursuant to this part; a copy of each such report shall be furnished to the Secretary and a copy of each report shall be made available at the principal office of the committee for inspection by producers and handlers); and

(m) To consult, cooperate, and exchange information with other marketing agreement committees and other individuals or agencies in connection with all proper committee activities and objectives under this part.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 1031.32 Expenses.

The committee is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary may find are reasonable and likely to be incurred during each fiscal period for its maintenance and functioning, and for such purposes as the Secretary, pursuant to this subpart, determines to be appropriate. Each handler's share of such expense shall be proportionate to the ratio between the total quantity of fruit handled by him as the first handler thereof during a fiscal period and the total quantity of fruit handled by all handlers as first handlers thereof during such fiscal period.

§ 1031.33 Budget.

At the beginning of each fiscal period and as may be necessary thereafter, the committee shall prepare an estimated budget of income and expenditures necessary for the administration of this part. The committee shall recommend the rate of assessment calculated to provide adequate funds to defray its proposed expenditures. The committee shall present such budget to the Secretary with an accompanying report showing the basis for its estimates and recommendations.

§ 1031.34 Assessments.

(a) The funds to cover the committee's expenses shall be acquired by the levying of assessments upon handlers as provided in this sub-part. Each handler who first handles fruit shall, with respect to the fruit so handled by him, pay assessments to the committee upon demand, which assessments shall be in payment of such handler's pro rata share of the committee's expenses.

(b) Assessments shall be levied upon handlers at rates established by the Secretary. Such rates may be established upon the basis of the committee's recommendations and other available information. Such rates may be applied to specified containers used in the production area.

(c) The rate of assessment may be increased at any time by the Secretary if he finds such increase is necessary in order that the money collected shall be adequate to cover the committee's expenses during a given fiscal period. Such increase shall be applicable to all fruit handled during such fiscal period.

(d) The payment of assessments for the maintenance and functioning of the committee may be required under this part throughout the period it is in effect irrespective of whether particular provisions of this part are suspended or become inoperative.

§ 1031.35 Accounting.

(a) If, at the end of a fiscal period, the assessments collected are in excess of expenses incurred, such excess shall be accounted for in accordance with one of the following:

(1) If such excess is not retained in a reserve, as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, it shall be refunded proportionately to the persons from whom collected.

(2) The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may carry over such excess into subsequent fiscal periods as a reserve; Provided, That funds already in the reserve do not equal approximately one-fiscal period's expenses. Such reserve funds may be used (i) to defray expenses, during any fiscal period, prior to the time assessment income is sufficient to cover such expenses; (ii) to cover deficits incurred during any fiscal period when assessment income is less than expenses; (iii) to defray expenses incurred during any period when any or all provisions of this part are suspended or are inoperative; and (iv) to cover necessary expenses of liquidation in the event of termination of this part. Upon such termination, any funds not required to defray the necessary expenses of liquidation shall be disposed of in such manner as the Secretary may determine to be appropriate. To the extent practical, such funds shall be returned pro rata to the persons from whom such funds were collected.

(b) All funds received by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this part shall be used solely for the purpose specified in this part and shall be accounted for in the manner provided in this part. The Secretary may at any time require the committee and its members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

(c) Upon the removal or expiration of the terms of office of any member of the committee, such member shall account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property and funds in his possession to the committee, and shall execute such assignments and other instruments as may be necessary or appropriate to vest in the committee full title to all of the property, funds, and claims vested in such member pursuant to this part.

(d) The committee may make recommendations to the Secretary for one or more of the members thereof, or any other person, to act as a trustee for holding records, funds, or any other committee property during periods of suspension of this sub-part, or during any period or periods when regulations are not in effect, and if the Secretary determines such action appropriate, he may direct that such person or persons shall act as trustee or trustees for the committee.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

§ 1031.37 Research and development.

The committee, with the approval of the Secretary may establish or provide for the establishment of marketing research and development projects designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of fruit. The expenses of such projects shall be paid from funds collected pursuant to § 1031.34, and shall not exceed 10 percent of the total expenses of the committee during the initial fiscal period nor exceed 25 percent of such expenses during any subsequent fiscal period.

REGULATION

§ 1031.38 Marketing policy.

Prior to or at the same time as initial recommendations are made pursuant to § 1031.39, the committee shall submit to the Secretary a report setting forth the marketing policy it deems desirable for the industry to follow in shipping fruit from the production area during the ensuing season. Additional reports shall be submitted from time to time if it is deemed advisable by the committee to adopt a new or modified marketing policy because of changes in the demand and supply situation with respect to fruit. The committee shall publicly announce the submission of each marketing policy report and copies thereof shall be available at the committee's office for inspection by any producer or handler. In determining each such marketing policy the committee shall give due consideration to the following:

(a) Market prices of fruit, including prices by grade, size, and quality in different packs, and such prices by foreign competing areas;

(b) Supply of fruit, by grade, size, and quality in the production area, and in other production areas, including foreign production areas;

(c) Trend and level of consumer income;

(d) Marketing conditions affecting fruit prices; and

(e) Other relevant factors.

§ 1031.39 Recommendations for regulations.

The committee, upon complying with the requirements of § 1031.38, may recommend regulations to the Secretary whenever it finds that such regulations, as are provided for in this sub-part, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. The committee shall give notice to handlers of any such recommendation at the same time such recommendation is submitted to the Secretary.

§ 1031.40 Issuance of regulations.

The Secretary shall limit the handling of fruit whenever he finds from the recommendation and information submitted by the committee, or from other available information, that such regulation would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Such regulations may:

(a) Limit the handling of particular grades, sizes, qualities, maturities, or packs of any or all varieties of fruit during a specified period or periods.

(b) Limit the handling of particular grades, sizes, qualities, or packs of fruit differently for different varieties, for different containers, for different purposes specified in § 1031.42, or any combination of the foregoing, during any period.

(c) Limit the handling of fruit by establishing, in terms of grades, sizes, or both, minimum standards of quality and maturity.

(d) Fix the size, weight, capacity, dimensions, or pack of the container or containers which may be used in the packaging, transportation, sale, shipment, or other handling of fruit.

(e) Prohibit the handling (1) of any fruit which does not have marked on each container the grade or the registered grade label of the fruit contained therein; (2) of any grapefruit which does not have marked on each fruit the word "Texas" or other words implying Texas origin, except that the committee may recommend and the Secretary establish a tolerance for grapefruit in any container or lot not so marked; and (3) of any container fruit which is misbranded as to variety.

(f) No regulations may be issued under the provisions of this sub-part which allots to individual handlers the quantity of fruit which each handler may ship during any regulation period.

§ 1031.41 Gift fruit shipments.

The handling to any person of gift packages of fruit individually addressed to such person, in quantities aggregating not more than 500 pounds and not for resale, are exempt from the provisions of §§ 1031.34, 1031.40, and 1031.45, and the regulations issued thereunder, but shall conform to such safeguards as may be established pursuant to § 1031.43.

§ 1031.42 Shipments for special purposes.

Upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or other available information, the Secretary, whenever he finds that it will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, shall modify, suspend, or terminate regulations issued pursuant to §§ 1031.34, 1031.40, 1031.45, or any combination thereof, in order to facilitate the handling of fruit:

(a) For relief or for charity;

(b) For processing or for manufacture or conversion into specified products; and

(c) In such minimum quantities and for such other purposes as may be specified by the committee with the approval of the Secretary.

§ 1031.43 Notification of regulation.

The Secretary shall notify the committee of any regulations issued or of any modification, suspension, or termination thereof. The committee shall give reasonable notice thereof to handlers.

§ 1031.44 Safeguards.

(a) The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe adequate safeguards to prevent the handling of fruit pursuant to §§ 1031.41 or 1031.42 from entering channels of trade for other than the specific purpose authorized therefor, and rules governing the issuance and the contents of certificates of privilege if such certificates are prescribed as safeguards by the committee. Such safeguards may include requirements that:

(1) Handlers shall file applications with the committee to ship fruit pursuant to §§ 1031.41 and 1031.42.

(2) Handlers shall obtain inspection provided by § 1031.45, or pay the assessment levied pursuant to § 1031.34, or both, in connection with shipments made under § 1031.42: Provided, That such inspection and assessment requirements shall not apply to fruit handled for canning or freezing.

(3) Handlers shall obtain certificates of privilege from the committee to handle fruit affected or to be affected under the provisions of §§ 1031.41 and 1031.42.

(b) The committee may rescind or deny certificates of privilege to any handler if proof is obtained that fruit handled by him for the purposes stated in §§ 1031.41 and 1031.42 were handled contrary to the provisions of this part.

(c) The Secretary shall have the right to modify, change, alter, or rescind any safeguards prescribed and any certificates issued by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(d) The committee shall make reports to the Secretary, as requested, showing the number of applications for such certificates, the quantity of fruit covered by such applications, the number of such applications denied and certificates granted, the quantity of fruit handled under duly issued certificates, and such other information as may be requested.

INSPECTION

§ 1031.45 Inspection and certification.

(a) During any period in which handling of a variety of a type of fruit is regulated pursuant to §§ 1031.34, 1031.40, 1031.42, or any combination thereof, no handler shall handle any variety of such type of fruit which has not been inspected by an authorized representative of the Federal or Federal-State Inspection Service, unless such handling is relieved from such requirements pursuant to § 1031.41 or 1031.42, or both;

(b) Regrading, resorting, or repacking any lot of fruit shall invalidate any prior inspection insofar as the requirements of this section are concerned. No handler shall handle fruit after it has been regraded, resorted, repacked, or in any other way prepared for market, unless each lot of fruit is inspected by an authorized representative of the Federal or Federal-State Inspection Service: Provided, That the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may provide for waiving inspection requirements on any fruit in circumstances where it appears reasonably certain that, after regrading, resorting, or repacking, such fruit meets the applicable quality and other standards then in effect;

(c) Insofar as the requirements of this section are concerned, the length of time for which an inspection certificate is valid may be established by the committee with the approval of the Secretary;

(d) When fruit is inspected in accordance with the requirements of this section a copy of each inspection certificate issued shall be made available to the committee by the inspection service;

(e) The committee may recommend and the Secretary may require that any fruit handled or transported by motor vehicle shall be accompanied by a copy of the inspection certificate issued thereon, which certificate shall be surrendered to such authority as may be designated.

REPORTS

§ 1031.51 Reports.

Upon request of the committee, made with the approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish to the committee, in such manner and at such time as it may prescribe, such reports and other information as may be necessary for the committee to perform its duties under this part.

(a) Such reports may include, but are not necessarily limited to, the following:

(1) The quantities of fruit received by a handler;

(2) The quantities disposed of by him, segregated as to the respective quantities subject to regulation and not subject to regulation;

(3) The date of each such disposition and the identification of the carrier transporting such fruit;

(4) Identification of the inspection certificates, and the certificates of privilege, if any, pursuant to which the fruit was handled, together with the destination of each lot of fruit handled pursuant to § 1031.41.

(b) All such reports shall be held under appropriate protective classification and custody of the committee, or duly appointed employees thereof, so that the information contained therein which may adversely affect the competitive position of any handler in relation to other handlers will not be disclosed. Compilations of general reports from data submitted by handlers is authorised, subject to prohibition of disclosure of individual handlers identities or operations.

(c) Each handler shall maintain for at least two succeeding years such records of the fruit received and disposed of by such handler as may be necessary to verify the reports he submits to the committee pursuant to this section.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 1031.52 Compliance.

Except as provided in this subpart, no handler shall handle fruit, the handling of which has been prohibited by the Secretary in accordance with provisions of this subpart, or the rules and regulations issued thereunder, and no handler shall handle fruit except in conformity to the provisions of this part.

§ 1031.53 Right of the Secretary.

The members of the committee (including successors and alternates), and any agent or employee appointed or employed by the committee, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every order, regulation, decision, determination or other act of the committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time. Upon such disapproval, the disapproved action of the said committee shall be deemed null and void, except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary.

§ 1031.54 Effective time.

The provisions of this subpart, or any amendment thereto, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways specified in this subpart.

(b) The Secretary may terminate or suspend the operation of any or all of the provisions of this subpart whenever he finds that such provisions do not tend to effectuate the declared policy.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this subpart at the end of any fiscal period whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of producers who, during a representative period, have been engaged in the production of fruit for market: Provided, That such majority has, during such representative period, produced for market more than fifty percent of the volume of such fruit produced for market.

(d) The provisions of this subpart shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 1031.56 Proceedings after termination.

(a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this subpart the then functioning members of the committee shall, for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the committee continue as joint trustees of all the funds and property then in the possession of or under control of the committee, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination. Action by said trusteeship shall require the concurrence of a majority of the said trustees.

(b) The said trustees shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; shall, from time to time, account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property on hand, together with all books and records of the committee and of the trustees, to such person as the Secretary may direct; and shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title and right to all funds, property, and claims vested in the committee or the trustees pursuant to this subpart.

(c) Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been transferred or delivered by the committee or its members pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligations imposed upon the members of the committee and upon the said trustees.

§ 1031.57 Effect of termination or amendment.

Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this subpart or of any regulation issued pursuant to this subpart, or the issuance of any amendments to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this subpart or any regulation issued under this subpart, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this subpart or of any regulations issued under this subpart, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violations.

§ 1031.58 Duration of immunities.

The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this subpart shall cease upon the termination of this subpart, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this subpart.

§ 1031.59 Agents.

The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the United States, or name any agency in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 1031.60 Derogation.

Nothing contained in this subpart is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 1031.61 Personal liability.

No member or alternate of the committee or any employee or agent thereof, shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any handler or to any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate, agent, or employee, except for acts of dishonesty, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

§ 1031.62 Separability.

If any provision of this subpart is declared invalid, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this subpart, or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing, shall not be affected thereby.

§ 1031.63 Counterparts.

This agreement may be executed in multiple counterparts and when one counterpart is signed by the Secretary all such counterparts shall constitute, when taken together, one and the same instrument as if all signatures were contained in one original.* * *

§ 1031.64 Additional parties.

After the effective date hereof, any handler who has not previously executed this agreement may become a party hereto if a counterpart hereof is executed by him and delivered to the Secretary. This agreement shall take effect as to such new contracting party at the time such counterpart is delivered to the Secretary, and the benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred by this agreement shall then be effective as to such new contracting party.* * *

§ 1031.65 Order with marketing agreement.

Each signatory handler favors and approves the issuance of an order, by the Secretary, regulating the handling of fruit in the same manner as is provided for in this agreement; and each signatory handler hereby requests the Secretary to issue, pursuant to the act, such order.* * *

FEDERAL PLANT PEST REGULATIONS

Notice of Proposed Amendments

Notice is hereby given under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 1003) that the Administrator of the Agricultural Research Service, pursuant to sections 105 and 106 of the Federal Plant Pest Act of 1957 (7 U.S.C. 150dd, 150ee), is considering the amendment of Part 330, Chapter III, Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations, in the following respects:

§ 330.106 [Amendment]

1. Amend § 330.106 relating to Emergency Measures by adding a new paragraph (d) to read as follows:

(d) Khapra beetle infestations of means of conveyance, or cargo or stores thereof; other infestations. As a means of preventing the dissemination into the United States, or interstate, of the khapra beetle (Trogoderma granarium Everts), the following procedures will be applicable when that insect is found, or there is reason to believe it is present, in a means of conveyance within paragraph (a) of this section, or in any cargo or stores in such a means of conveyance, or in any cargo or stores unloaded or landed, or being unloaded or landed, in the United States therefrom. These procedures will also apply with respect to other plant pests when the inspector finds they are necessary and sufficient to prevent the spread of such pests.

(1) Infestation in storerooms and similar compartments of means of conveyance (except aircraft). (i) When infestation is found only in stores or storerooms, galleys, pantries, or similar noncargo compartments of a means of conveyance, except aircraft, the inspector shall prescribe and supervise the application of such remedial measures as, in his opinion, will be effective under conditions that will not spread the infestation to other parts of the means of conveyance, or to adjacent piers or other installations. If, in the opinion of the inspector, fumigation is the only available safeguard to eliminate the infestation, he shall order the owner to arrange for immediate fumigation of the infested stores and portions of the means of conveyance.

(ii) If the means of conveyance is to leave the territorial limits of the United States directly for a port in another country within 24 hours of such order, the inspector may suspend compliance with the fumigation requirement pending departure from the United States. Pending fumigation or departure, the inspector may seal the openings of infested compartments, packages, or articles, if in his opinion the action is necessary to prevent plant pest dissemination while the means of conveyance remains in the territorial limits of the United States, as authorized in § 330.110. The inspector may extend the 24-hour period of 48 hours, if, in his judgment, such extension is warranted by plans of the owner to remove the means of conveyance from the territorial limits of the United States within the extended period, the inability of the contractor to begin fumigation within the 24-hour period, or other reason deemed valid by the inspector. Further extension shall be given only under authority of the Director. Pending compliance with the requirement of fumigation, or the departure from the territorial limits of the United States directly for a port in another country, no stores, laundry, furnishings or equipment, or other articles or products whether in cargo or stores, shall be unloaded from the means of conveyance except as authorized by the inspector and under conditions prescribed by him. The owner of an infested means of conveyance under notice for fumigation which leaves the territorial limits of the United States without fumigation should arrange for the eradication of the infestation before returning to the same or another port in the United States. Upon return to a port in the United States and unless the infestation has been eliminated to the satisfaction of the inspector, the means of conveyance shall be subject to fumigation immediately upon arrival in the United States. Unloading or landing of any product or article shall not be permitted pending compliance with the fumigation requirement, except as authorized by the inspector and under conditions prescribed by him.

(iii) If the means of conveyance is to remain at the port where the infestation was found or is to be moved to another port in the United States, the inspector shall prescribe and supervise the application of the remedial measures at the port where the infestation is found, as provided in this paragraph; or he may authorize the means of conveyance to be moved to another port for fumigation or the application of other remedial measures under safeguards prescribed by him.

(iv) In all instances where the inspector prescribed procedures concerned with the application of remedial measures which involve (a) withholding permission to discharge articles or products; (b) permission to discharge after such permission has been withheld; (c) discontinuance of discharging; or (d) resumption of discharging after it has been discontinued, the appropriate Customs officer shall be immediately notified in writing. The inspector shall also inform the Customs officers at the port where the infestation is found and at such other ports as may be necessary of the requirement for fumigation and/or permission to move coastwise to another U.S. port for fumigation or other remedial measures.

(2) Infestation in cargo compartments of means of conveyance (except aircraft). When infestation is found in cargo compartments or in cargo of a means of conveyance, except aircraft, the inspector shall prescribe and supervise the application of such remedial measures as, in his opinion are necessary, with respect to the cargo and the portions of the means of conveyance which contain or contained or were contaminated by the infested cargo. If in the opinion of the inspector fumigation is the only available safeguard to eliminate the infestation, he shall order the owner to arrange for immediate fumigation of the infested portions of such means of conveyance and cargo. However, if such cargo compartments cannot be fumigated without fumigating the entire means of conveyance, the inspector may order the entire means of conveyance and cargo to be fumigated. The inspector shall notify the owner of the means of conveyance of such requirement and the owner shall arrange for immediate fumigation. Discharge of cargo shall be discontinued unless the inspector allows it to continue under safeguards to be prescribed by him. The provisions applicable to stores and storerooms in subparagraph (1) (ii) and (iii) of this paragraph shall apply to cargo and cargo areas of such means of conveyance. Customs officers shall be informed as required in subparagraph (1) (iv) of this paragraph.

(3) Infestation in an aircraft. If infestation is found in an aircraft, the inspector may apply seals as provided in § 330.110, and he may require such temporary safeguards as he deems necessary, including the discontinuance of further unloading or landing of any products or articles except as authorized by him. Upon finding such infestation in an aircraft the inspector shall promptly notify the Division of all circumstances and the temporary safeguards employed, and the Division will specify the measures for eliminating the infestation which will not be deleterious to the aircraft or its operating components. Any insecticidal application required shall be approved by the Director for use in aircraft. If the aircraft is to depart from the territorial limits of the United States within 24 hours after the infestation is found, the inspector shall permit such departure in lieu of the application of other measures and shall prior to departure break any seals that would prevent access to the aircraft or safe operation thereof. Other seals shall remain intact at time of departure and shall be broken by the aircraft commander or a crew member upon his order only after the aircraft is beyond the territorial limits of the United States. Extension of the 24-hour period shall be given only under authority of the Director. The owner of the aircraft under notice of khapra beetle infestation which leaves the territorial limits of the United States before the infestation has been eradicated should arrange for eradication before returning the aircraft to the United States. Upon return to the United States, if the infestation is not eliminated to the satisfaction of the inspector, the aircraft shall be subject to the same disinfestation requirements and other safeguards immediately upon arrival in the United States. Customs officers shall be notified as required in subparagraph (1) (iv) of this paragraph.

(4) Precautions. The owner of a means of conveyance required to be fumigated pursuant to this section shall arrange with a competent operator to apply the fumigant under the supervision of the inspector. The owner shall understand that if certain fumigants are used they may result in residues in or on foodstuffs which may render them unsafe for use as food items. He is hereby warned against such use unless he ascertains that the fumigated foodstuffs are fit for human consumption. It should also be understood by the owner that emergency measures prescribed by the inspector to safeguard against dissemination of infestation may have adverse effects on certain products and articles, and that the acceptance of fumigation as a requirement is an alternative to the immediate removal of the infested means of conveyance and any products and articles thereon, from the territorial limits of the United States. Products or articles in a means of conveyance, or compartments thereof, which may be exposed to methyl bromide or other remedial measures and may be adversely affected thereby, may be removed from the means of conveyance or compartments thereof prior to the application of the remedial measures if in the opinion of the inspector this can be done without danger of plant pest dissemination and under conditions authorized by him, for additional inspection and/or application of effective remedial measures.

2. Further amend § 330.106 by inserting in paragraph (a), before the phrase "the inspector", the following: "or reason to believe such a pest is present,".

3. Add a new § 330.110 to read as follows:

§ 330.110 Seals.

(a) Use authorized; form. Whenever, in the opinion of the inspector, it is necessary, as a safeguard in order to prevent the dissemination of plant pests into the United States, or interstate, seals may be applied to openings, packages, or articles requiring the security provided by such seals. The words "openings, packages, or articles" shall include any form of container, shelf, bin, compartment, or other opening, package, or article which the inspector may have occasion to seal in lieu of more drastic action or otherwise, as a safeguard against plant pest dissemination. The seals may be automatic metal seals or labels or tags and will be provided by the Division. When they consist of a label or tag, they will be printed in black ink on yellow paper and read substantially as follows: "Warning! The opening, package, or article to which this seal is affixed is sealed under authority of law. This seal is not to be broken while within the territorial limits of the United States except by, or under instructions of, an inspector."

(b) Breaking of seals. Seals may be broken: (1) By an inspector; (2) by a Customs officer for Customs purposes, in which case the opening, package, or article will be resealed with Customs seals; (3) by the owner or his agent when the means of conveyance, product, or article has left the territorial limits of the United States; (4) by any person authorized by the inspector or the Director under conditions specified by the inspector or Director. No person shall break seals applied under authority of this section except as provided in this paragraph. The movement into or through the United States, or interstate, of any means of conveyance or product or article on which a seal, applied under this paragraph, has been broken in violation of this paragraph is hereby prohibited, except as authorized by an inspector.

(c) Notice of sealing. When an inspector seals any opening, product or article, he shall explain the purpose of such action to the owner or his representative and shall present him with a written notice of the conditions under which the seal may be broken, if requested to do so.

The purpose of the amendments to § 330.106 is to specify the nature of the emergency action that may be taken when carriers are found or are reasonably believed upon arrival to contain khapra beetle or other plant pests in the non-cargo or cargo areas of the carrier or in the stores or cargo. Such infestations have been discovered in increasing numbers in the past year. Heretofore, emergency action has been taken on an individual basis as the location and circumstances of the infestation required. There is now a need to publicize procedures that will be adequate to meet any situation that may be encountered. Such procedures are detailed in the proposed amendment. They relate principally to the holding and fumigation of infested vessels, cargo, or stores; the administration of other remedial measures; the removal of the infested products or vessel from United States territory; or the discharge of cargo in accordance with safeguards that will prevent the spread of khapra beetle and other plant pests.

It is also proposed to include in the regulations specific directions for the use of seals to prevent the unloading of cargo or ships' stores infested or suspected of being contaminated with plant pests and for other safeguard measures. The proposed directions are contained in a new § 330.110.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with this matter should file the same with the Director of the Plant Quarantine Division, Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C., within 30 days after the date of the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

FEDERAL AIRWAY, CONTROL AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Designation

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Parts 600 and 601 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Federal Aviation Agency is considering the designation of Red Federal airway No. 1 and associated control areas from Port Alexander, Alaska (intersection of the southeast course of the Sitka, Alaska, radio range and the southwest course of the Petersburg, Alaska, radio range, which is to be realigned to a bearing of 055° True toward the station), via the Cape Decision, Alaska, radio beacon, to the Guard Islands, Alaska, radio beacon. The designation of this airway would provide an interconnecting route for air traffic operating between Sitka and Ketchikan, Alaska. In addition, the Port Alexander Intersection, Cape Decision radio beacon, and Guard Islands radio beacon would be designated as reporting points.

If these actions are taken, Red Federal airway No. 1 with associated control areas, would be designated from Port Alexander, Alaska, to Guard Islands, Alaska, via Cape Decision, Alaska. The Port Alexander Intersection, Cape Decision radio beacon and Guard Islands radio beacon would be designated as reporting points.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, P.O. Box 440, Anchorage, Alaska. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 20, 1960.

J. R. BAILEY,
Assistant Chief,
Airspace Utilization Division.

FEDERAL AIRWAY, CONTROL AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Modification

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to §§ 600.6440, 601.6440, and 601.7001 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

VOR Federal airway No. 440 presently extends from Skwentna, Alaska, to the Whittier, Alaska, intersection. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration the extension of Victor 440, southeasterly, from the Whittier intersection via the Middleton Island, Alaska, VOR to the Yakutat, Alaska, VOR, excluding the portion below 2,000 feet MSL outside the United States. Extension of this airway would provide a route for VOR equipped aircraft operating between the Anchorage, Alaska, terminal area and Yakutat. In addition, § 601.7001 relating to domestic VOR reporting points would be modified by adding the Middleton Island VOR and the Yakutat VOR as reporting points.

If this action is taken, VOR Federal airway No. 440 with associated control areas would be designated from Skwentna, Alaska, to Yakutat, Alaska, via Anchorage, Alaska, Whittier, Alaska, and Middleton Island, Alaska, excluding the portion below 2,000 feet MSL outside the United States. In addition, Middleton Island VOR and Yakutat VOR would be designated as VOR reporting points.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, P.O. Box 440, Anchorage, Alaska. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 19, 1960.

Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

CONTROL AREA

Modification of Extension

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 601.1052 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Atlanta, Ga., control area extension is presently designated within a 50-mile radius of the Atlanta radio range station including the airspace north of Atlanta bounded on the west by VOR Federal airway No. 5, on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 54 and on the east by VOR Federal airway No. 97, and the airspace east of Atlanta bounded on the northwest by VOR Federal airway No. 20, on the east by VOR Federal airway No. 35 and on the south by VOR Federal airway No. 18, including the airspace southwest of Atlanta bounded on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 18 and on the west by longitude 86° 00'00" W., and on the southeast by VOR Federal airway No. 20. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration modification of the Atlanta control area extension by enlarging it to encompass 5 small segments of uncontrolled airspace between airways northeast of Atlanta, including the airspace northeast of Toccoa, Ga. The additional control area would be within the surveillance coverage of air traffic control radar and the designation of this area as controlled airspace would facilitate the movement of aircraft to and from the Atlanta terminal area. The control area northeast of Toccoa VOR would be used for the protection of aircraft departing Greenville Municipal Airport, Greenville, S.C., and Donaldson AFB, Greenville, S.C., via the 315° True radial of the Greenwood VOR.

If this action is taken, the Atlanta, Ga., control area extension would be designated within a 50-mile radius of the Atlanta radio range including the airspace north of Atlanta bounded on the west by VOR Federal airway No. 5, on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 54 and on the east by VOR Federal airway No. 97; and the airspace northeast of Atlanta bounded on the northwest by VOR Federal airway No. 222, on the northeast by the Greenville, S.C., control area extension and the Greenwood, S.C., control area extension, on the southeast by a line parallel to and 5 miles northwest of the 063° True radial of the McDonough, Ga., VOR and including the airspace northeast of Toccoa, Ga., VOR bounded on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 54, on the southeast by Victor 222 and on the southwest by a line 5 miles southwest of and parallel to the 315° True radial of the Greenwood, S.C., VOR and including the airspace southwest of Atlanta bounded on the north by VOR Federal airway No. 18, on the west by longitude 86°00'00" W., and on the southeast by VOR Federal airway No. 20.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, P.O. Box 1689, Fort Worth 1, Tex. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

CONTROL ZONE

Revocation

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Part 601 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

Upolu Point, Hawaii, control zone is presently designated within a 5-mile radius of the Upolu Point Airport and within 2 miles either side of the 261° True radial of the Upolu Point VOR extending from the VOR to a point 10 miles west. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration the revocation of this control zone. This action is proposed because weather reporting service is not available on a continuous basis at the airport.

If this action is taken, the Upolu Point, Hawaii, control zone would be revoked.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, P.O. Box 4009, Honolulu 12, Hawaii. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

CODED JET ROUTE

Establishment

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Part 602 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Federal Aviation Agency is considering establishing a VOR/VORTAC jet route from Peck, Mich., via the Peck VOR 074° True radial to the United States/Canadian Border. The establishment of this jet route would be compatible with a Canadian high-level airway which will be established in the near future from Kleinberg, Ontario (Toronto, Ontario, Terminal Area), to the United States/Canadian Border. The establishment of this route would facilitate air traffic management and flight planning by providing an interconnecting high altitude route between the Chicago, Ill., and Toronto, Ontario, areas.

If this action is taken, VOR/VORTAC Jet Route No. 846 would be established from Peck, Mich., to the United States/Canadian Border, via the Peck VOR 074° True radial. (Direct route between the Peck VOR and the Kleinberg, Ontario, non-directional radio beacon.) This jet route number would be the same number proposed for the connecting Canadian high-level airway.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C.

This amendment is proposed under sections 307(a) and 313(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749, 752; 49 U.S.C. 1348, 1354).

CODED JET ROUTE

Modification

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (§ 409.13, 24 F.R. 3499), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 602.516 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 16 extends in part from Pendleton, Oreg., via Dillon, Mont., to Billings, Mont. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration modification of this jet route by realigning it from Pendleton via Whitehall, Mont., to Billings. This would provide a more direct route between Pendleton and Billings, reduce the route mileage and provide additional enroute radar coverage for the protection of civil jet aircraft.

If this action is taken, the segment of VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 16 under consideration would extend from the Pendleton, Oreg., VOR via the Whitehall, Mont., VOR to the Billings, Mont., VOR.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. RAYON STAPLE FIBER FROM NORWAY

Determination of No Sales at Less Than Fair Value

JULY 20, 1960.

A complaint was received that rayon staple fiber from Norway was being sold in the United States at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act of 1921.

I hereby determine that rayon staple fiber from Norway is not being, nor likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)).

Statement of reasons. Rayon staple fiber from Norway is purchased outright by the United States importer in arms-length negotiations. The quantity of rayon staple fiber, the same as or similar to the rayon staple fiber sold to the United States, sold for home consumption was inadequate to form a basis for fair value comparison. Accordingly, purchase price was compared to the price at which the rayon staple fiber was sold to countries other than the United States.

In the calculation of purchase price, deductions were made for the included ocean freight, insurance, duty, inland freight in the United States, and commission. In the calculation of the weighted-average third country price, deductions were made for the included ocean freight, insurance, and commission. Adjustment was also made for the moisture regain factor.

It was determined that the purchase price was not less than the price to countries other than the United States.

This determination and the statement of reasons therefor are published pursuant to section 201(c) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(c)).

Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

Notice of Proposed Withdrawal of Public Lands From Oil and Gas Leasing for Preservation and Development of Potash Deposits Belonging to the United States

JULY 15, 1960.

The Department of the Interior has under consideration a proposal that the public lands within the following-described areas be withdrawn from oil and gas leasing subject to valid existing rights for a period of 10 years or for such other period as the Secretary of the Interior may determine in aid of conservation and development of valuable potash deposits belonging to the United States:

SALT LAKE MERIDIAN

T. 26 S., R. 20 E.,
Secs. 22 to 27, inclusive;
Sec. 34, E½;
Secs. 35 and 36.
T. 27 S., R. 20 E.,
Sec. 1;
Sec. 2, lots 1, 2, 7, 8 and S½NE¼.
T. 26 S., R. 21 E.,
Secs. 30 to 32, inclusive.
T. 27 S., R. 21 E.,
Secs. 4 to 6, inclusive;
Sec. 7, lots 1 to 4, inclusive, and NE¼;
Sec. 8, N½;
Sec. 9, N½.

The areas described aggregate approximately 11,128 acres of which approximately 9,445 acres are public lands.

Present knowledge of the geology of the lands appears to support the conclusion that the value of the potash deposits may outweigh that of recoverable quantities of oil and gas, and that drilling for the latter might impair operations for the economic recovery of the potash.

For a period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice, all persons who wish to submit comments, suggestions, or objections in connection with the proposed withdrawal may present their views in writing to the State Supervisor, Bureau of Land Management, Third Floor, Darling Building, Salt Lake City, Utah.

If circumstances warrant it, a public hearing will be held at a convenient time and place, which will be announced.

The determination of the Secretary on the proposal will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and each interested party will be informed thereof.

EVAN L. RASMUSSEN,
Acting State Supervisor.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

CONTINENTAL BANK AND TRUST CO.

Order To Increase Capital

In the matter of The Continental Bank and Trust Company, Salt Lake City, Utah.

There has come before the Board of Governors, pursuant to notice of institution of a proceeding with formal hearing dated June 29, 1956 (21 F.R. 6524), the matter of the adequacy or inadequacy of the net capital and surplus funds of The Continental Bank and Trust Company, Salt Lake City, Utah (hereinafter called "the Bank"), in relation to the character and condition of its assets and its deposit liabilities and other corporate responsibilities. During the course of the aforesaid hearing, testimony and documentary evidence were introduced on behalf of the Bank and the Board, following which Counsel for the Bank and Special Counsel to the Board submitted proposed findings and conclusions with briefs thereon and replies thereto; the Trial Examiner filed with the Board his Report and Recommended Decision; Special Counsel to the Board filed exceptions, with supporting brief, and Counsel for the Bank filed a brief in opposition to such exceptions; and the matter was argued orally before the Board.

The Board has considered the evidence of record to the extent and in the degree set forth in the Statement[1] accompanying this Order; the arguments of Counsel on the issues of fact and law raised by motion and otherwise during this proceeding; the Trial Examiner's Report and Recommended Decision; the exceptions and briefs filed by Counsel; the oral arguments before the Board; and information, equally available to the Bank, derived before and after the date of such hearing from reports of examination of the Bank and from supervisory reports filed by the Bank.

On the basis of such deliberation and consideration, and for the reasons set forth in the Statement accompanying this Order, it is the judgment of the Board, and the Board has so determined, that the net capital and surplus funds of the Bank are inadequate in relation to the character and condition of its assets and to its deposit liabilities and other corporate responsibilities, and that such inadequacy in an amount of not less than $1,500,000 shows no likelihood of being corrected within a reasonable time by retained earnings.

Accordingly, it is hereby ordered, That within six months from the date of this Order, the Bank shall, by the sale of common stock for cash, effect an increase in its net capital and surplus funds in the amount of not less than $1,500,000.

Dated at Washington, D.C., this 18th day of July 1960.

By order of the Board of Governors.

[SEAL] MERRITT SHERMAN,
Secretary.

Cities Service Company ("Cities"), a registered holding company, having filed, pursuant to section 11(e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935

[1] Filed as part of the original document. Copies available upon request to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington 25, D.C., or to any Federal Reserve Bank.

("Act"), a plan for the elimination of the publicly-held stock interest in Arkansas Fuel Oil Corporation ("Arkansas"), a subsidiary company of Cities, by the issuance to such public stockholders of 1 share of the common stock of Cities for each 2.4 shares of the common stock of Arkansas; and

Certain public holders of the common stock of Arkansas having proposed, pursuant to section 11(d) of the Act, a plan for the elimination of the publicly-held stock interest in Arkansas by the payment of $40 per share in cash to all the stockholders of Arkansas, including Cities; and

Cities having filed with the Commission certain steps and transactions which it has requested the Commission to adopt in modification of the section 11(d) plan, as a consequence of which the public stockholders of Arkansas would receive $41 per share for their interests in Arkansas, including any rights they may have on the basis of any claims existing on behalf of Arkansas against Cities or any other subsidiary of Cities, and Cities having advised the Commission that, if such suggested modifications were adopted by the Commission, Cities would not object to the adoption by the Commission of the section 11(d) plan as so modified for the purpose of its enforcement pursuant to section 11(d) and section 18(f) of the Act; and

Public hearings having been held after appropriate notice, at which hearings all interested persons were afforded an opportunity to be heard; the filing of a recommended decision, of proposed findings and conclusions and briefs in support thereof, and oral argument having been waived; and

The Commission having considered the record and having this day issued its Findings and Opinion; on the basis of such Findings and Opinion:

It is ordered, That the plan filed by Cities pursuant to section 11(e) of the Act be, and it hereby is, disapproved.

It is further ordered, That the plan filed by certain holders of the common stock of Arkansas pursuant to section 11(d) of the Act, be, and it hereby is, modified in the manner suggested by Cities; and, as so modified (the terms and provisions of which plan, as modified, being set forth in full in Appendix A to the Findings and Opinion), is adopted by the Commission for the purpose of applying to a court of competent jurisdiction, in accordance with the provisions of section 11(d) and section 18(f) of the Act, for the enforcement of its terms and provisions.

It is furthere ordered, That jurisdiction be, and it hereby is, reserved with respect to the payment of all fees, expenses, and other remuneration paid or to be paid in connection with all the proceedings before the Commission and in any court concerning the relationship of Cities to Arkansas, including all proceedings relating to the section 11(d) and section 11(e) plans and all other plans and all proceedings consolidated therewith.

It is further ordered, That the order entered herein shall not be operative to authorize the consummation of the transactions proposed in the section 11(d) plan, as modified, until an appropriate United States District Court shall, upon application thereto, enter an order enforcing it, as so modified.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and hereby is, reserved to entertain such further proceedings, to make such supplemental findings, and to take such further action as may be deemed appropriate in connection with the section 11(d) plan, as modified, the transactions incident thereto and the consummation thereof, and, in the event that the section 11(d) plan, as modified, is not consummated with reasonable promptness, to take such further action as the Commission may deem appropriate under Section 11 of the Act.

It is further ordered and recited, And the Commission finds that (1) the declaration by Arkansas of a dividend payable to Cities (the sole stockholder of Arkansas on the record date) consisting of Arkansas' interest in its properties actually producing oil, gas and other hydrocarbons as of the date of such declaration (excluding, however, all physical plant, property and equipment, located on or used in the operation of said properties), subject to the reservation of a production payment (Production Payment) with respect to such properties in the principal amount of $70,000,000, and the payment by Arkansas of such dividend to Cities by transferring to Cities all the rights, title and interest of Arkansas in and to said properties actually producing oil, gas and other hydrocarbons, subject to the Production Payment, (2) the conveyance and distribution by Arkansas of the Production Payment and the sum of $5,577,186 in cash to a trustee for all the stockholders in Arkansas, other than Cities, for the account of such stockholders and in cancellation and redemption of all the shares of stock in Arkansas owned by such stockholders, and (3) the sale by such trustee for the account of such stockholders of the Production Payment to a purchaser for a cash price equal to the principal amount of the Production Payment, all as provided in Appendix A to the Findings and Opinion, are necessary and appropriate to the integration and simplification of the holding-company system of which Cities and Arkansas are members, and are necessary and appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11(b) of the Act within the meaning of sections 1081 to 1083, inclusive, and section 4382(b)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.
